omnensation for cochlear fail

Fin Hansen REPORT BY

FAMILIES impacted by faulty cochlear implants will be paid $50,000 each.

A review into the Women's and Children's Hospital Network's (Adelaide) Cochlear Implant Program has revealed systemic problems with the program which date back 17 years.

The independent review, commissioned by the state government, identified 208 children who received care through the program, yet the number of families impacted by potential mapping issues, which would mean their devices were incorrectly programmed is still unclear.

Cochlear implants aim to provide a sense of sound for people who are profoundly deaf or severely hard-ofhearing by bypassing damaged portions of the ear using electrodes to stimulate the auditory nerve.

The state government has announced a complete overhaul of the implant program and offered financial support to all families involved — $50,000 to those who experienced mapping issues and $5000 for those who have been correctly mapped, in recognition of the stress caused.

The $50,000 payment does not replace a family's full compensation rights, nor does it affect any decision to take legal action.

This comes after an independent review identified significant gaps in the program, including inadequate processes, policies, competency frameworks for staff and a lack of appropriate clinical training.

At least five Yorke Peninsula children have experienced potential implant mapping issues.

The program did not have clear and up-to-date procedures for CI (cochlear implant) mapping, there was no clinical audit process to review outcomes, and no defined program KPIs other than meeting occasions of service activity targets," a report from the review read

"There have been no additional resources added to the program to manage the demand through to 2022 despite this issue being flagged in 2018 by audiologists working within the program.

The lack of adequate resources, coupled with the ongoing increased demand evident in the numbers, was suggestive the service was often stretched beyond its capacity."

No help

I WRITE to you in response to the front page, indeed the first sentence in the YP Country Times (15-8-23), "Retired Seafarers all have found their feet thanks to the developer".

This could not be further from the truth, four out of the five residents had absolutely no help whatsoever from either the developer or Blights

The one mentioned in your story went into a nursing home but made mention if she won the lottery she would like to buy back her home.

This doesn't suggest she was happy to have to move. Several people and organisations helped my wife and me — the RSL, Copper Coast Council and the government social housing unit in Port Housing SA in Port Pirie were finally successful. We certainly received no help from the developer or Blights Real Estate who claimed a lower offer was accepted to allow us a further six months to relocate, when in fact this was to allow time for council approval to divide the units onto separate titles for the developer.

When Housing SA found us a new home we required an extra four days from the agent; however, this wasn't considered as we were taken to the Residential Tenancies Tribunal for the purpose of evicting us from our home.

As you can imagine, this was a cause of great stress to my unwell 87-year-old wife.

There has been quite a lot of talk around the town the highest offer was to allow the tenants to remain in the units.

However, this was not accepted.

There is another letter from a resident who had to vacate (YPCT 22-8-23).

I request the same consideration for my view to be on page 1 as you gave to the developer, who was given a pat on the back when in fact this story had so many false statements that were not verified by the other residents who were not helped at all.

The developer was quite happy to see us all be evicted once he had his council approval.

Shining light on strokes Re: Dismayed

I WOULD like to take this opportunity to thank the Australian communities who have once again embraced Stroke Week, August 7 to 13.

It was heartening to see survivors of stroke and their loved ones embrace this year's theme, Fighting Stroke Together.

The theme's aim was to bring people together to share knowledge, support and resources to help prevent strokes and to aid the recovery process for those who have experienced a stroke.

We heard heart-warming stories of a wife saving a husband's life after completing a first aid course only the day before his stroke, a man who had a lifechanging stroke just moments after crossing the finish line of parkrun in first place, and of a toddler who has survived multiple strokes and subsequent brain surgeries.

Their stories prove time and time again strokes can happen to anyone, at any time, and research tells us the number of working-aged people having strokes is increasing.

Behind these figures are people, including mums, dads and children.

Stroke is always a medical emergency, there is never time to waste. Every minute during a stroke results in 1.9 million brain cells dying, and we just cannot turn that time back.

Treatment can, however, mean a full recovery, or at least a significant reduction in the degree of

This year we saw more than 80 buildings including council offices, major bridges, libraries, clock towers and theatres light up in green and blue to help shine a light on this insidious condition.

With the support of major organisations located in every corner of the country, we're fighting stroke together and drawing attention to the ways stroke impacts communities.

I encourage the community to keep spreading the F. A. S. T. message all year round.

Knowing about F.A.S.T. and sharing it with your family and friends can be the first step in saving a life and avoiding ongoing disability.

The F.A.S.T message will help you recognise the most common signs of stroke: Face — Check their face. Has their mouth drooped? Arms — Can they lift both arms? Speech — Is their speech slurred? Do they understand you? Time — Time is critical.

If you see any of these signs, call triple zero (000) straight away.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped us share our information this Stroke Week. Your generosity, time and dedication has a genuine impact and is very much appreciated. We can fight stroke together!

I WRITE in response to the letter from Greg Joseph, headed Dismayed (YPCT 22-8-23).

I, too, have been increasingly frustrated in recent months by car parking requirements embedded in the state government's Planning Code (the "bible" for planning regulations) which appear to deter investment in our country towns instead of entice and encourage.

It is important to understand state government sets the rules, the council is the authority to enforce them, and conditions and requirements are generally inflexible when it comes to planning and development approvals and

That said, I am determined to right wrongs in this area of policy.

I completely agree with Mr Joseph (and am equally gobsmacked) entrepreneurs keen to invest in new businesses in the main streets of our small rural townships are being deterred (and most often put off entirely) by requirements to pay huge amounts of money to create new car parks for their customers in order to gain planning consent within Township Activity Zones (which are shopping precincts in commercial zones which already have off-street car parking in place for shoppers to use).

I am fully appraised of the Café Capella's example having met with Matt and Kirby.

Back in May on their behalf I sought advice from Minister of Planning Nick Champion imploring policy change, and last month followed up with letters to all Copper Coast Council elected members seeking their assistance and feedback.

Whilst it is not a quick process, I am pushing to amend the planning regulations and Transport, Access and Parking assessment provisions to provide appropriate flexibility (and/or exemptions) for future entrepreneurs looking to create new small businesses in main streets of townships in our rural electorate.

Such change is vital for our towns to survive

Devastation for cochlear implant families

NO amount of money is going to improve the situation for families affected by the Women's and Children's Hospital Network's cochlear implant bungle.

There appears to have been so many flaws in the system, from incorrect mapping to cancelled appointments, that the only correct course of action is a complete overhaul.

It makes you wonder how much effort and resources were invested by the WCHN to launch the program in 2006, and how much consideration has been given to maintaining a high level of care.

I recently found out a person I went to school with had experienced potential implant mapping issues, which would essentially mean they've been hearing below their full potential for about half their life.

I can't imagine what emotions parents of these children would be experiencing right

To think they've done the right thing by finding a possible solution to their child's hearing issues, only to find it hasn't worked as it should must be utterly devastating.

I'll be interested to hear how significant the impacts these mistakes have been on the children down the track and how much of their social and cognitive development they missed out on as a result.

I'm sure there are many more details to

To the government's credit, committing more than $2 million over four years for more staffing to the service and opting to implement all 59 recommendations of the independent review was undoubted the right course of action.

It's a start to ensure it doesn't happen again, but little comfort for those children affected, and their families.

For many, they've spent years advocating for services or not knowing why their children were still having issues.

It could mean many lost years of development and career pathways.

REPORT BY

COOBOWIE residents have raised concerns over Yorke Peninsula Council's preliminary discussions to install a coastal protection structure along the town's beach.

A community information session was attended by council staff, project consultants and many of the town's residents at the community hall on Thursday, August 10.

Community members questioned the need for a wall which they believe will stretch 12 metres from the front of foreshore properties onto the beach.

Conceding the town progress association has "a different agenda" to those frustrated by the potential structure, resident Peter Hooper established a new group, Friends of Coobowie Foreshore.

He said the group insisted some areas of the peninsula were in dire need of protection against rising sea waters, but Coobowie wasn't one of

"We don't agree with the one wall fits all policy which they seem to be applying," he said.

"They haven't taken into account the local conditions... the rock wall they're proposing is similar to say, the breakwater at Glenelg, but Adelaide gets hit by storms driven by south-westerlies; we

"Unfortunately, it's going obliterate

"We would expect the caravan park, the shop, the hotel will all be affected; the whole town will be affected."

Having done his own calculations, Mr Hooper said he believed it would be 128 years before the water level reached the top of the wall.

Group members have indicated their desire to work collaboratively with council, which has also explored installing structures at Pine Point, James Well, Port Clinton and Foul Bay.

YPC director assets and infrastructure and acting CEO Andre Kompler said the current steps should be the catalyst for future preparation.

He said no concepts, including the one at Coobowie, are locked in.

"Whilst council does not have to do anything to address sea level rise, nor fund any seawall structural protection of private property, staff have proactively sought professional marine consultant assistance to advise on sea level rise related inundation impact and possible concepts for mitigating the same for a number of its coastal settlements," Mr Kompler said.

"Recent community consultation on seawall concepts at most communities has largely been positive and constructive; however, disappointingly less so at Coobowie.

Whatever is done to mitigate inundation from the sea at Coobowie will need to include consideration of higher-than-normal rainfall removal behind any seawall.

"A report on the community consultation will ultimately go to council, and next steps discussed thereafter."

Council's work on the projects to date has been made possible due to funding from the Coast Protection Board.

HUSHED... Kadina 5-year-old Ryder Hilditch had his cochlear implant mapping issue corrected in December last year, only for his family to learn his settings had been falsely adjusted. Ryder is one of five Yorke Peninsula children caught up in the Women's and Children's Hospital Network implant program review.

Government offers support

THE state government has committed more than $2 million over four years for additional Women's and Children's Health Network Cochlear Implant Program staffing and announced it would implement all 59 recommendations of the independent review.

It has also pledged $1.3m for new equipment for the newborn hearing screening program.

In addition to financial assistance for families, the government is set to establish a Special Purpose Family Engagement Unit to provide assistance to families affected.

A clinical external review is also underway, with independent provider NextSense assessing the impacts on individual children.

All families affected have been offered the opportunity to have a full individual review.

Premier Peter Malinauskas said South Australian children had been failed by a hospital service with significant gaps in cochlear implant procedures dating back nearly two decades.

"My heart goes out to affected families and I want them to know we are adopting all 59 recommendations and putting additional funding in to overhaul the service and ensure severe errors like this are not repeated," Mr Malinauskas said.

"While no amount of money can fix the problems of the past, we recognise the immense stress this has caused families and that's why we are offering initial upfront payments.

"We will also help them every step of the way with full compensation claims."

Women's and Children's Hospital Network Governing Board chairperson Associate Professor Christine Dennis said she was very concerned to learn of the longstanding failures.

"I will do everything in my power to ensure the required changes and improvements are made," Ms Dennis said.

"Action has already been taken following initial observations from the reviewers, including engaging external clinical experts to upskill clinicians, recruiting additional staff including a speech therapist, and strengthened monitoring of the program's performance."

If your family has been involved in the cochlear implant program and is in need of support, phone 8155 5635.

Families left frustrated by failures

Kadina 5-year-old Ryder Hilditch received a cochlear implant in 2020, and his family was informed of the mapping issues in early 2022.

Ryder's mother Tina Costello said she fought for 10 months to get an appointment with an ENT to have the mapping issues corrected in December last year.

'We just found out his (cochlear implant) settings are still out, so we've got to go down there every six weeks until they fix it," Ms Costello said.

"We thought it was fixed but we still don't know what he is and isn't hearing.

"He's seen one ENT after (cochlear implant) surgery and 10 appointments have now been cancelled which is a joke, including just last week."

Ryder, who also has ASD, hopes to start school next year.

Ms Costello said she wasn't at all satisfied to learn she would receive $50,000.

"I'm glad they (the state government) are acknowledging they've done something wrong, but to throw $50,000 at people and say 'we're sorry' doesn't make up for what they've done," she said.

"Ryder's had three years so far where he hasn't been able to hear properly which is going to affect him for the rest of his life.

"These were the crucial years when most kids are like sponges.

"I don't know where he'd be in his development now (if it wasn't for the mapping issue).

"He deserves the same education as everyone else despite his learning difficulties."

Casual work set to be redefined

Will Hunter REPORT BY

CASUAL employees who work a regular pattern of hours may soon have the right to request a permanent position sooner in their employment, under proposed federal government reform.

The definition of what it means to be a casual employee is set to be redefined to allow eligible workers a stronger pathway to secure permanent employment.

The proposal will offer casuals who work regular and systematic hours — as they would if they were in a part-time or full-time position — the ability to convert to a permanent position after six months of employment.

The current National Employment Standards currently requires businesses to offer casual employees the same pathway after 12 months on the job.

Minister for Employment and Workplace Relations Tony Burke said there were many casual employees trying to support households and could benefit from the job security a permanent position provides.

"They're being used as though they're permanent workers and the employer is double dipping taking all the advantages of a reliable workforce and not providing any of the job security in return,"

Mr Burke said.

"That loophole needs to close."

The majority of Jo Gibbons' staff at Taste the Yorke, Moonta, are casual employees and she said the current employment standards have been successful in providing her employees with a transitional pathway.

"A lot of current staff, who are in a position where they've just left school, are taking a gap year or are studying over a period of time and aren't looking to commit to a permanent part-time or full-time role," she said.

'They prefer the flexibility of a casual role and, more importantly, the cash from the casual loading up front, most of my staff are casual because they choose to be."

Ms Gibbons said she would not expect a huge uptick in the number of casuals converting to permanent roles as it is entirely voluntary.

"I do understand there are instances where you want to develop someone further or put them into more of a management role, so you might encourage them to convert to a permanent role, I think the existing framework is already in place for that," she said.

'We should be investing in our casual employees anyway, we pay them a loading but, as an employer, I believe I should be providing training and skills to my staff regardless of their employment status."

CASUAL RIGHTS... Taste the Yorke, Moonta, owner Jo Gibbons says she does not expect a huge number of casual employees converting to permanent positions as they like the flexibility which comes with their roles.

Landscape board defends its work

Michelle Daw JOURNALIST

NORTHERN and Yorke Landscape Board has defended its services in the Barunga West Council area, following sustained criticism by council.

In June, BWC chief executive Maree Wauchope wrote to Environment Minister Susan Close, calling for the state government to review its approach to managing landscape boards after concerns about the level of spending within the region.

Ratepayers will contribute $252,447 this financial year to the NYLB, which covers 15 council

NYLB chief executive Tony Fox and board chairperson Geoff White presented to council's elected members at an information session in the Port Broughton council chambers in on Tuesday, August 22.

Mr White, who farms at Kapunda, said NYLB had five staff based in Kadina including three landscape officers.

Each officer is allocated to one of the three councils on Yorke Peninsula — Barunga West, Yorke Peninsula and Copper Coast.

Mr Fox said NYLB was working with BWC to control declared weeds in roadside reserves, including African boxthorn, silver leaf nightshade, wheel cactus, buffel grass, African love grass, and khaki weed.

He said landscape officers worked to deliver an annual $20,000 weed control project and each district had a weed action plan, based on state priorities.

"If there is a weed, such as khaki weed or noogoora burr, which are not prevalent at all, those plants are the highest priority and they are immediately eradicated when they appear," he said.

"For things like boxthorn and olives, they are so widespread, there is no reasonable prospect of finding enough resources and energy to get rid of them out of the landscape.

"Population suppression and asset protection are the key to managing those."

Mr Fox said board officers cultivated and applied biological control agents, such as fungal rusts and moths, to weeds including bridal veil, African boxthorn and horehound.

Work done by officers in other council areas helped to protect the BWC area from major animal and plant pests, including buffel grass and feral deer, he said.

The BWC area is also included in the Djulda-wawa Badja Coastal Project, which aims to protect biodiversity on Yorke Peninsula's coastline, including development of a visitor access strategy and installation of an osprey nesting platform at Port Broughton in June 2022.

NYLB staff also distributed fox baits to landholders, participated in events such as the Yorke Peninsula Field Days and the recent Copper Coast Show in Kadina and held workshops about topics such as weed control and coastal gardens.

"We are disappointed the council feels they are not being appropriately serviced through the landscape levy," Mr Fox said.

"There is every intent by the board and the staff to make sure we are working appropriately with all our partners and all of our councils."

Mr Fox agreed to provide sixmonthly district reports to council and offered to find better ways to work with the council.

Mayor Leonie Kerley said much more work needed to be done by NYLB in council's area, particularly to conserve native vegetation and keep vehicles off the coast.

"Over the past six years, our ratepayers have paid a total of $1,371,490 in landscape levies and I would doubt we whether we have had $371,000 worth of work done here, so a million dollars has gone into the ether," she said.

BWC will also raise the issue at the Local Government Association's ordinary general meeting on October 26.

Cracking down on dodgy vehicle sales

THE state government is cracking down on dodgy used car sales from private homes.

In the past financial year, inspectors from South Australia's consumer watchdog inspected nearly 170 licensed used car dealers operating both from home and in car yards.

Consumer and Business Services investigated numerous licensed dealers selling from home under the guise of being a private seller to avoid their legal obligations such as providing a statutory warranty, failing to disclose whether a car was a repairable write-off and not disclosing they are a licensed dealer.

Second-hand vehicle dealers must have a licence if they buy, sell or offer for sale four or more vehicles in 12 months.

As a result of proactive monitoring, CBS also identified a significant number of unlicensed dealers selling from home via sites such as Facebook Marketplace.

Over the past financial year, six people were convicted of tampering with odometers, resulting in more than $35,000 in fines and compensation

One of the six was also handed a suspended jail sentence for falsifying logbook records.

Commissioner for Consumer Affairs Dini Soulio said consumers buying from licensed dealers have certain rights and

Crime Stoppers eyes council partnership

CRIME Stoppers SA is seeking to partner with local government to better service the community.

Community manager Rebecca Abley expressed her hopes in a presentation to Copper Coast Council recently. Ms Abley detailed several examples of how previous targeted campaigns by councils and Crime Stoppers had

"We ran a campaign with the City of Onkaparinga to limit vandalism and it was so successful they asked us to come back," Ms Abley said.

"We've also run drug campaigns like Dob in a Dealer, which have made people realise they are able to report their neighbour over the back fence rather than just cold case murders.

"Lots of people don't think Crime Stoppers is something they can relate too."

Ms Abley said the connection between local government and communities was something Crime Stoppers hoped to utilise

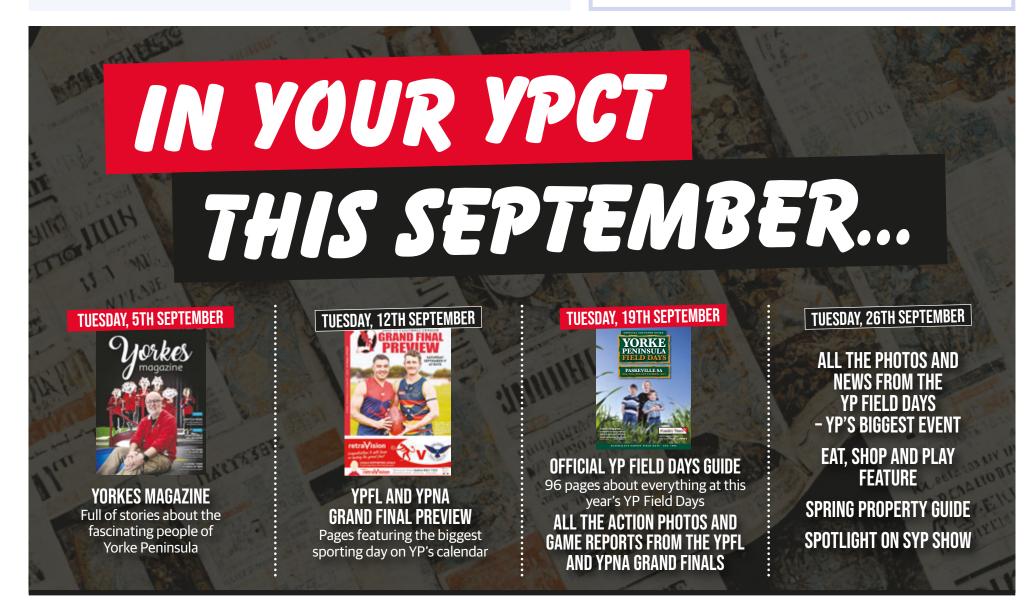

'Campaigns can be gentle, non-invasive reminders which aim to cap crime issues before they really snowball." she said.

"Local information obtained can often be the last piece of the puzzle police need to close a case out." Mayor Roslyn Talbot thanked Crime Stoppers for the presentation

"We look forward to exploring some different avenues to combat crime which may involve a potential partnership (with Crime Stoppers SA)," she said.

Council chips in to build

FOUR new retirement homes in Kadina are closer to becoming a reality, in part thanks to financial assistance from the Copper Coast Council.

Kadina Community Hospital has attained a $300,000 12-month council loan, through the Local Government Finance Authority, to bring forward construction of the units.

Wahlstedt Quality Homes, Moonta, has commenced building on a three-bedroom and a two-bedroom home on the corner of Digby and Christie Streets, with two more twobedroom units to be built on the same parcel of land.

Hospital board member, Councillor Peter Oswald said the development was a result of the board identifying a need to open up more housing.

"Four elderly couples moving here will free up four other homes for local families," Mr Oswald said.

"It's important not-for-profit groups lead the way in improving the health of the community.

"It (pursuing this develop-

Mayor Roslyn Talbot said the project would allow retired couples to obtain a better lifestyle with more manageable homes.

"Large family homes will become available (which is important because) there is a shortage of all housing on the Copper Coast," she said.

SMALL STEPS... Copper Coast Council elected member Neil Sawley and Kadina Community Hospital board member, Councillor Peter Oswald are hopeful four new retirement units will open up much needed housing for Copper Coast families.

Financial support program to be offered

THE state government will roll out a new $4.8 million Financial Wellbeing and Resilience Program across the state in a bid to help those struggling with cost-of-living challenges.

It will partner with Uniting Country SA to deliver the program on Yorke Peninsula, offering a range of services including financial counselling, debt management and renegotiation, support to access no-interest loans and emergency financial assistance.

The Department for Human Services reviewed its existing financial support programs in 2022, resulting in the implementation of new systems, however all elements of previous offerings will still be available.

Uniting Country SA won the tender process to establish a local service provider, in January.

Uniting Country SA executive manager services Anne Crouch said the program would be added seamlessly to its suite of services already on

"Uniting Country SA developed a service model tailored to meet the needs of our various regions and this was included as part of our tender proposal; we meet regularly with the department to discuss our program," she said.

"We offer one on one financial counselling, emergency financial assistance and community education.

"The one-on-one client work can range from money planning, (and) utility advocacy right through to negotiating with financial institutions and other creditors.

"As with all of our programs, we will refer clients to other support services that would assist them to achieve their personal wellbeing goals."

Ms Crouch said people on Yorke Peninsula faced new and different challenges every day.

"Inflation has driven up the cost of our day-to-day consumables and this is hurting many people in our community," she said.

"Some of the main stresses are rent, mortgages, food, utilities, transport and medical costs.

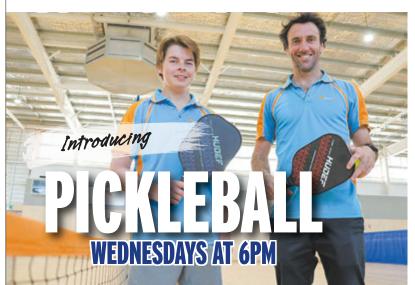

"Determining spending priorities from one pay to the next is all consuming and very stressing, and it can lead to increases in anxiety and depression and strain relationships, so seeking support early is important."

Minister for Human Services Nat Cook said the services were available to anyone who needed them.

"This new program is about supporting financially vulnerable South Australians at a time when many people are doing it tough or finding it harder to make ends meet," she said.

"It's important to provide people with immediate help now but also make available the ongoing skills to self-manage income and prevent future crisis situations."

Childcare sector searching for answers

Jess Liddy JOURNALIST

CHILDCARE staff waivers have reached record levels as demand for educators is still not being met by supply across the country.

Seventeen per cent of all long day care services have at least one staff waiver (exemption) in place, as at June 2023, a new record level according to the latest Australian Children's Education and Care Quality Authority.

Kadina Child Care Centre director Caren Hammerstein said she understood this was a huge issue for many

"We have been very fortunate at the centre in fulfilling staffing requirements and the waiver the centre has is to operate without an early childhood teacher," she said.

"However, we are very fortunate in being able to have Kerry Richardson as our early childhood teacher four days

Mrs Hammerstein said they continued to support secondary students to fulfil their placements at the centre, enabling them to gain experience and insight into being an educator, and increase attraction to working in the

"This year we have employed a school-based trainee, after school hours, as a starting foundation of a program we hope to continue on at a new centre, encouraging younger students to consider a career in early childhood," she said.

"To attract more educators, consideration may need to be given to the incentives for employees to have trainees, to support wage subsidies and for the wages for educators and employees.

We are very aware of the shortages across the sector, and this makes it even more difficult with the growing demand for early childhood education and care centres to supply more long day care places."

Royal Commission findings released

THE Royal Commission into Early Childhood Education and Care released its findings on Sunday, August 27.

The government will start by adopting the very first recommendation in the report and set an ambitious target to reduce the rate of South Australian children entering school developmentally vulnerable.

Work will immediately begin on expanding preschool and Out of School Hours Care in SA, starting with an initial investment of $70 million, with more to come.

The state government will begin engaging with the federal government regarding a further six recommendations which require dialogue with the Commonwealth.

They will also start implementing a further 12 recommendations,

- Commence the rollout of universal three-year-old preschool in 2026 to be completed by 2032
- Prioritising the 1000 most vulnerable children in the state
- Become the first Australian state to provide up to 30 hours of preschool per week for the most vulnerable 3 and 4 year olds
- Start a trial of out of hours care in government-run preschools in 2024
- Centralise management of OSHC in government schools under the Department for Education. improving quality and access, and modernise OSHC qualification requirements
- Expand child development checks to achieve maximum possible participation.
- Establish an Early Childhood Workforce Fund
- Legislate a new Office for Early Childhood Development as a steward for the early childhood development system and to coordinate the implementation of the Royal Commission's recommendations, reporting directly to the education minister

Mallets making a mark on inclusivity

Will Hunter REPORT BY

MEMBERS of Kadina Croquet Club have recently developed an inclusive pilot program for Kadina Memorial School's Kapyong students.

The five-week program aims to introduce the non-contact sport to the secondary-school aged teenagers with the hopes of promoting inclusivity and community values to those who require extra support.

More than 20 students are currently involved in a weekly lesson with volunteer croquet teachers who are passionate about promoting the long-term benefits the sport can have on social, physical and cognitive develop-

KMS Kapyong teacher Sandra Hawes, a self-proclaimed croquet apprentice, said her students had engaged well in the pilot program and were keen to get out onto the greens each week.

"The Kadina Croquet Club teachers have helped everyone to participate at differing levels," Ms Hawes said.

"It has taught the students game skills, such as turn taking and being good winners or losers, control of hits and co-ordination, along with how to respect other players and equipment."

The program is supported by

Yorke Peninsula which has allocated future funds to ensure the pilot can progress to include a broader audience.

"I hope over time the program grows to include other students from Kadina Memorial School and also schools further afield," Kadina Croquet Club president Dean Rodda said.

Rotary club president Andrew Woolford said it was a project the organisation was passionate to "Our community service arm of Rotary is always trying to find ways to improve the quality of life and serve the public interest for people in our community," Mr Woolford said.

"This program fits really well within those criteria — the people teaching these students are enthusiastic about the program, they are the real heroes of this whole scheme and are doing a great job."

Rotary Club of NYP presidentelect Sue Liebelt said it was important everyone was given an opportunity to be involved in

"Traditional sports aren't necessarily suited to everyone — the ability to get involved with something like croquet where all can participate and feel accepted is something Rotary certainly sup-

Uni centre shifts into new phase

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

COPPER Coast University Centre, Kadina, is planning to offer the same service under new management.

Uni Hub Spencer Gulf has assumed the provision of the centre from Copper Coast Council following the federal government's announcement to continue its funding until June 2027.

Council received a federal grant to establish the centre and employ staff two years ago, but the new agreement will bring it into line with Uni Hub's four other centres.

Uni Hub Spencer Gulf CEO Anita Kuss said each of the five university centres have maintained strong partnerships with local councils.

"Each partnership works slightly different and we regularly review the arrangements to make sure we can best support our students," Ms Kuss said.

"For Copper Coast (University Centre), staff have been managed by council and working under our brand with our student support and services.

"Now we've got continuity funding (from the federal government), we're shifting the arrangement so the Uni Hub Spencer Gulf CEO Anita staff become employees of Uni Hub iss said each of the five university to make it a bit more seamless.

"It means we've got some great opportunities to keep growing more broadly across Yorke Peninsula.

"Nothing will actually change in the service provided or students' experience."

Ms Kuss said there was a growing need for regional university centres in South Australia.

"We know there's massive job shortages, so for us it's all about expanding the career development we're doing in schools," she said.

"There's been some really good engagement further down the peninsula, and this (new agreement) means we can build on that with our other support staff.

"It's about learning how we can showcase what's available in the region, and for kids in the region, showcasing the study options available to get to those careers.

"A lot of kids in primary school will be in jobs which don't even exist now, so we're preparing them for that transition."

Copper Coast University Centre student and campus coordinator Sue Barry said the only reason for the new agreement was to streamline the centre's operational mechanisms.

"Council has been fully supportive — without them we wouldn't have established the centre," she said.

"We're entering a new phase with a new grant so now it's time to tweak what we had to be more successful."

Council CEO Russell Peate said the initial partnership between council and the university centre had been excellent.

"The success of the centre is evidenced by the number of students in the region using the centre," Mr Peate said.

"I expect the service offered won't change and students will see no difference in its delivery."

Advocating for medical cannabis

MORE than 950 delegates attended United in Compassion's fifth Australian Medical Cannabis Symposium in Brisbane.

The three-day event offered education, science and advocacy, and was attended by Moonta Bay medical cannabis advocate Dianah Walter and Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis, who is a member of the SA Parliament's joint committee on the legalisation of medicinal cannabis.

Keynote speakers and industry experts from Israel, the United States, Canada, Germany, the Netherlands, Colombia, the United Kingdom and Australia spoke about developments, challenges and opportunities in areas such as research and the health care sector.

Ms Walter said the industryfocused program comprised aspects of cultivation, manufacture, research and best practice.

'There were more than 90 industry participants — including from clinics, cultivators, manufacturers, suppliers, importers and exporters — on hand to engage with delegates," she said.

Ms Walter said medical cannabis had been legal in Australia since 2016 but there was still stigma around the use of cannabis as a medicine.

"Regrettably, some of misinformation and stigma arises from the healthcare sector," she said.

"With the creation of Cannabis Clinicians Australia and the Care Practitioner Health Association of the Australian Medicinal Cannabis Association, Australia is truly best placed to provide global stewardship by designing and implementing a robust platform of best practice.

"I call on our legislators to support ongoing efforts with fair and equitable laws, from prescribing and dispensing to driving; and I was encouraged to see members of the South Australian Parliament's joint committee in attendance."

Mr Ellis said it was fascinating to attend the three-day symposium.

"There were a lot of great learnings - especially with regard to the assistance these treatments can provide and also some of the challenges beneficiaries of this treatment face," Mr Ellis said.

"Of particular interest to me was the difference in treatment people with prescriptions of medicinal cannabis face as compared to other prescription medications when it comes to law enforcement.

"I look forward to being a part of the committee which delivers recommendations to the parliament in due course."

Yorketown men's shed keen to find new members

CLEM'S Shed, Yorketown will be one of more than 2500 community men's sheds across the world celebrating the 30th anniversary of the first shed opened in Goolwa, South Australia.

The group is also on the lookout for another five to 10 members for the shed, which is open from 9am every Tuesday and Thursday.

Chairperson Tony Berends said the group would be hosting a celebration, with men encouraged to come along for a sausage sizzle and a cup of coffee from 11am to 1pm, on Tuesday, September 5.

"The shed and its history are important because we offer a laidback place for men to be social and get out of the house," he said.

"They can come in and build whatever they like with all the tools and supplies we have here, or they can just have a cuppa and a chat."

Mr Berends said there were no expectations on anyone involved in the group to go

"We have a TV, a pool table, a kitchen with everything you could need, and of course we offer other little things to the community, which no one else offers, as well," he said.

There are similar men's sheds in Bute, Moonta, Ardrossan and Maitland.

"The 30th anniversary of the birth of men's sheds is truly significant for thousands of men and their communities," Australian Men's Shed Association CEO David Helmers said.

CLEAN UP... Big Blue Crew founder and event organiser Chloe Williams alongside a buoy which had washed up at Pondalowie Bay, Dhilba Guuranda-Innes National Park.

THE Big Blue Crew has had a successful day cleaning rubbish from Pondalowie Bay in Dhilba Guuranda-Innes National Park on Saturday, August 12.

The group, based in Adelaide, regularly travels to parts of South Australia to keep areas which may have been forgotten, refreshed by collecting rubbish.

They collected more than 300 microplastics, 82 bottle caps, 46 pieces of rope and 29 large plastic pieces, amongst other things during their Yorke Peninsula trip.

Group founder and event organiser Chloe Williams said the day went amazing.

"I NEVER

"It was very cold, wet and windy,

but it was a fantastic day," she said.

"We had 10 volunteers from our group, with a lot staying overnight and camping nearby, along with the assistance of national park staff,

"Hopefully events like these can raise the awareness for people just to try and pick up a handful of rubbish..."

- Chloe Williams, event organiser who did a fantastic job, so there was a great vibe about the day.

"Despite the rain, everyone was very keen to be involved; we had a few cancellations, but that's got a lot to do with the distance people needed to travel from Adelaide to be involved.

"We feel as though we did a really good job."

Ms Williams said most of the rubbish they found had floated in from the sea, rather than being dropped by visitors.

found was a buoy which had floated all the way from Eyre Peninsula but, other than that, it was pretty much all generic," she said.

Ms Williams heaped praise on the the national park staff, who they worked alongside for the day.

"The national park staff are doing a fantastic job as well; they were very accommodating and put a lot of effort into doing this work day in, day out, beyond when we are there for just one day," she said.

Guuranda-Innes "Dhilba National Park is such a beautiful place, we are so lucky we have it on Yorke Peninsula and it should be looked after appropriately.

"Hopefully events like these can raise the awareness for people just to try and pick up a handful of rubbish next time — and every time they go to the beach."

John Oswald Baker

JOHN Oswald Baker, born on March 2, 1930, was a man of many facets and qualities.

From his early years in Port Wakefield to his active involvement in the central Yorke Peninsula community, John left a lasting impact on the people around him.

Throughout his life, he pursued his passions for machines, sports and community service, always putting his family at the centre of everything he did.

Iohn was the sixth of seven children of Henry and Olive Baker, Port Wakefield, and his early childhood revolved around family gatherings with many uncles, aunts, and cousins from around the region.

After completing his schooling at Port Wakefield, he decided to take a job as a baker, a baker's baker so to speak, at the local bakery.

He soon found out his passion was not with food but rather machines.

He then joined forces with two uncles, Tim and Ron Baker, who were both involved with heavy earth-moving equipment, building dams and salt ponds, clearing mallee scrubs and constructing roads.

After some years, Tim and John decided to engage in heavy earthmoving opportunities in the central Yorke Peninsula district, making Maitland their home.

Working tirelessly with Tim, David and Brad Baker, John spent his entire career in earthmoving before retiring in 1995.

In the early days at Maitland, John's love of machines led him to the Maitland Motorcycle Club, traveling to many South Australia and Victoria racetracks, rachis beloved ing Matchless and Indian motorcycles.

A young lass, Enid Clasohm, caught his eye at a local dance, and romance developed.

Their marriage was blessed with four children, Robert, Jennifer, Graeme and Jeffrey.

He also loved to travel, taking road trips, caravanning, camping, bus tours, and train throughout tours Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

This was all done with his best friend and life partner, Enid.

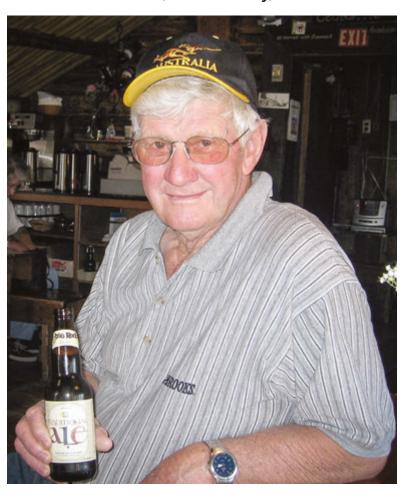

He was absolutely devastated in every way at her sudden passing some three years ago.

It took a very heavy toll on him from which he never recovered.

John "Bake" "Stag" was many things to many people.

A family man. A community man. A man's man with a tough exterior and a soft core. A man of common sense and practicality.

Arty fun at Port Vincent

PORT Vincent hosted come and try art classes on the final day of the GROUNDED YP Art Festival, Sunday, August 20.

The festival spanned 10 days, with activities far and wide across Yorke Peninsula.

Port Vincent Progress Association accepted the invitation to host an event, which comprised five 50-minute kids' come and try sessions.

An enthusiastic group of volunteers from the Port Vincent Visitor Information Office set up the event and capably assisted with cleaning tables, providing fresh water, and spraying varnish on creations.

Sonya Rankine and Jasmine Swales provided the technical and artistic expertise, and worked tirelessly arranging the sessions, and during the day.

The feedback from the children and parents was it was an amazing day, and they were overwhelmed by the craft and art projects available.

These included boat building with corks, painting a wooden boat, rock and plaster painting, wand making, and a novel activity called roll the dice and paint a Picasso.

The Port Vincent Institute Hall was an amazing venue, and the walls resounded with laughter.

Overall, the day was full of fun, the families were enthusiastic, and all participants left with smiles on their faces, carrying their precious creations.

Shorebird signage unveiled at Price

PRICE Progress Association unveiled its educational shorebird signage at the local boat ramp on Tuesday, July 25.

The new signage is designed to lift visitors' awareness of shorebirds and their habitats.

PPA member and signage project coordinator Kylie Correll welcomed the 30 or so local birding and kayaking enthusiasts who attended.

SA Shorebird Foundation R & D chair Dr Keith Jones spoke about the need to protect migratory and resident beach-nesting shorebirds, and their habitats.

Wills Creek Conservation Park has safeguarded the coastal environment around Price (comprising mangroves, samphire beds and tidal flats) since the 2000s.

More than 100 bird species have been recorded within the park.

Some of the migratory shorebirds are designated as critically endangered or vulnerable, including the Eastern Curlew, Red and Great Knots, and the Bar-tailed Godwit.

Resident beach-nesting birds, such as the Australian Pied and Sooty Oystercatchers and Red-capped Plovers, are also considered vulnerable during their spring and summer breeding seasons due to human disturbances and storms.

Photos of these species are displayed on the park's new welcome signage.

Also, signs have been installed to educate fishers about the need to improve their fishing practices, and visitors thinking about taking up bird watching as a hobby.

Those attending the launch were able to pick up Shorebird Identification Guides, produced by Birdlife Australia.

PPA thanks the SA Shorebirds Foundation, Craig Greer Photography and the Price Men's Shed for their contributions towards the signs' installation.

Looking ahead with Specsavers

THE ownership of Specsavers Kadina is changing for the first time in 26 years.

Peter Oswald is stepping back from the optometry practice and handing over the reins to optometrist Brooke Daws and store manager Rebecca Rich on Friday, September 1.

Peter will continue to work a couple of days a week but said he is looking forward to the freedom.

"Jan and I have quite a few friends who have caravans and they're always telling me where I should go," he said.

"Coral Bay gets quite a few mentions, so we're excited to explore Australia.

"But we know how lucky we are here on Yorke Peninsula, we're not moving away, we're very connected to the community and it's been a wonderful place to bring up our children.

"I'm grateful for all the lovely patients we have had over the years, I've had a lot of fun with quite a lot of them.

staff members too, many of whom have been here for years — including Rozanne Naylor, who has been here for 20 years."

Peter said he was disappointed Specsavers had made the decision to close the Minlaton practice.

"They've had a lot of trouble securing an optometrist but I don't imagine it will be closed for long," he said.

"Since Flinders started offering an optometry course, we've hosted plenty of students and I've been passionate about giving them the opportunities to learn here."

Peter said he was excited for Rebecca and Brooke, and looked forward to working with them in the future.

"I am very confident they're going to take the store to the next level and ensure optimal eyecare and value for money," he said.

"Jan retired last year, so she's been compiling a list of jobs around the house for me to do, so I need to start them before it gets any longer."

As well as continuing the quality service and treatment, Rebecca and Brooke are keen to continue the same community engagement Peter has demonstrated.

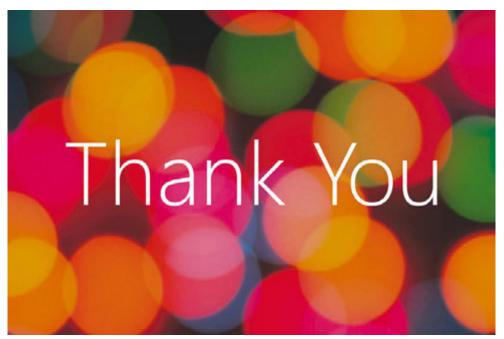

"Brooke plays nethall for Kadina and my kids are part of the Harvest Christian College community, the Paskeville Sporting group and Cunliffe Tennis Club. I have also recently become apart of the Kadina Women's and Children's Auxiliary and the Kadina Show Society," Rebecca said.

Rebecca joined the Specsavers team 15 years ago and Brooke has been part of the team for three and

"Although we have very big shoes to fill I'm excited to continue the high level of patient care and continue to support our local community I have got to know so well over my years here at Specsavers Kadina," Rebecca said.

Brooke said she was drawn to country practice as she grew up in Port Pirie and appreciates the good work-life balance Kadina has to offer.

"Working in the country exposes you to a more diverse range of cases, which makes the most of your clinical skills and its nice to have familiarity with

Peter and Jan say 'THANK YOU' to friends, clients and businesses for all the support they have received over the past 26 years at their Kadina and Minlaton practices.

Wishing Rebecca and Brooke every happiness, success and blessings for their future.

ALL Saints Anglican Church, Moonta, will reach its 150th anniversary next month - a feat worthy of a big celebration.

Parishioners invite anyone who has been affiliated with the church at any time, as well as visitors, to help mark the milestone on Sunday, September 10.

His Excellency, Anthony Musgrave (later Sir), South Australian Governor of the day, laid the church's foundation stone on September 11,

The church was designed to seat 400 people — how wonderful would it be to see 400 people at the 150th celebration!

Former Organ Historical Trust of Australia research officer, the late John Stiller, said the All Saints pipe organ was one of the most ornately decorated in Australia.

The organ has had some restoration over the years and current organists Michele Giesecke, Brenda March and Graham Ferris love nothing better than to make the organ perform at its best.

Cast in 1874 at the Moonta Mines Foundry under the direction of Mr T. Horwood, the All Saints bell weighs 220lb (99.79kg) and was the largest on Yorke Peninsula at that time.

The copper for its manufacture came from the Wallaroo Smelting Company.

During World War I, parishioners had four sons serving in the same regiment, and all four were lost in action.

A plaque in memory of these soldiers, as well as many of their comrades, can be seen at All Saints, along with beautiful stained glass windows commemorating those lost in battle.

The church's magnificent boatshaped ceiling adds to its grandeur.

Today, the historical church has an op shop and an amazing community

The brainchild of former parish priest, the Rev. David McDougall, the garden has brightened a dull corner of the churchyard and is a quiet, reflective spot for the community to enjoy.

It was lovingly tended by the late Ron Shipard and is now in the safe hands of Shaun Crowley and Tim Fowler.

After the 150th anniversary service at 11am, there will be a finger food lunch. Rev. Sarah Wiles will lead the service accompanied by Willochra Bishop Jeremy James.

For more information, see this week's YP Country Times Community Calendar advert or contact Meredith Francis (0400 874 327) or Rev. Wiles (0458 192 528).

Crafting quilts to care for locals in need

MOONTA Bay Lifestyle Estate's craft group has donated more quilts for people in need.

Members Joan Zilm, Yvonne Wolf, Elsie Sauerwald and Sue Barke have been hard at work creating patchwork and handknitted quilts for homeless people across the Copper Coast.

The group recently donated more than 20 blankets to Uniting Country SA's Kadina branch which will distribute them to people most in need of warmth.

This brings the total number of quilts made by the group to more than 60 since the initiative started three years ago.

"The quilts are a gift of love, and it has given the ladies much pleasure to make them," Sue said.

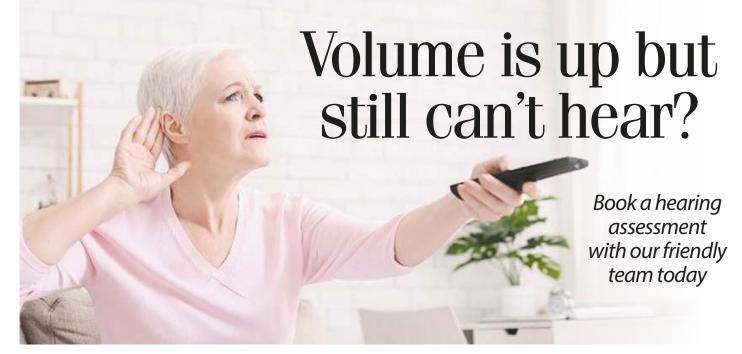

"Mel Maynard and Layla Vivian from Uniting Country SA were very grateful to receive our very bright and colourful quilts."

The group has already started making quilts for next year.

Anyone who would like to donate materials to the cause can contact Moonta Bay Lifestyle Estate on 8825 3716.

Celebrating dads and father-figures

WHETHER this is your first Father's Day or 31st, whether you are a dad, dadto-be, grandpa, uncle or friend, Father's Day is a time to celebrate and acknowledge all the important father figures in our lives.

The day gives thanks to all dads do for us every day.

It celebrates the diversity of what it means to be a father and gives Dad a reason to kick back and relax. But how did it all come

The history of Father's Day is barely 100 years old.

The origins of the movement can be traced back to

The tradition of celebrating Father's Day was initiated in the United States by Sonora Smart Dodd to honour her widowed father William Smart, a Civil War veteran —who had raised six children on his

It gained immense popularity in the USA, but Australians took their time to jump on board with the day and didn't acknowledge it until much later.

However, it is now estimated a combined $761 million will be spent on dads in Australia, making it one of the most lucrative days of the year!

Despite these figures, it doesn't mean you need to break the bank to spoil

Many dads simply want some time to themselves while others want power tools, technology, or a nice home-cooked meal.

The main thing dads would want is their families' love and appreciation.

Yorkes Classic 2023 champions were crowned amidst powerful, clean waves at the iconic Chinaman's surf break in Dhilba Guuranda-Innes National Park on Saturday, August 19.

This year's 40th-anniversary celebrations did not disappoint, as light onshore wind combined with a southwesterly groundswell to provide perfect three-foot slabby surf all day long.

The event showcased a high standard of surfing across all divisions.

One of the highlights of the event was witnessing legendary Yorke Peninsula surfer, Brian 'Squizzy" Taylor make it to the final and surf against his son Corey along with Matt Shorten. Local surfer Luke Sykora from Marion Bay clinched the men's title.

"I first attended a Yorkes Classic when I was 10 years old, and since then, it has been my goal to win this event," Sykora said.

"After many close attempts, I have finally achieved it, and I am stoked!"

Poppy Sweetman from Middleton secured the women's title for the second time.

Both Sweetman and Sykora are now the South Australian state title winners for 2023 and have secured a spot to compete at the Australian Surfing Championships in 2024.

Indi DeBono from Middleton claimed the junior title in a closely contested final.

Leo Torok from Middleton took second place, with King Cairns from Port Noarlunga third and Bailey Torok, Middleton, fourth.

The presentations and 40th celebrations were held at the Stenhouse Bay Hall as part of the Grounded YP Art Festival, supported by YP Council. Local band, The Swamp Donkeys, kept the 150-plus crowd entertained late into the evening.

Ready, steady, go for 2023 AFLW season

AFLW... Chelsea Biddell, in action for the Adelaide Crows in 2022 against Brisbane, is ready for the start of this year's season.

Peter Argent REPORT BY

Four Yorke Peninsula exports are ready to go for AFLW season 2023 (season 8), which starts this Friday, September 1.

They are Chelsea Biddell (Port Victoria) and Rachelle Martin (Stansbury/Yorketown) at Adelaide, Tait Mackrill (Port Broughton) with Greater Western Sydney and Jessica Sedunary (Minlaton) at West Coast.

Adelaide picked up Biddell in the 2019 AFLW Draft, primarily as a key forward with a booming kick and strong mark.

She was moved to defence in 2022 and, as part of Adelaide's strong backline, she claimed All-Australian honours in season 7, after being a member of the season 6 flag against Melbourne.

Biddell, 25, now has 35 AFLW games to

We are keen for the campaign to start, after a strong preseason," Biddell said.

'There is a rivalry building with Port Adelaide in the AFLW as well and it's a good way to start the season.

The corresponding match last year was one of the (season's) most enjoyable games.

"I'm not the type who sets personal goals, they are more team oriented around winning.

"While Hannah (Button, nee Martin) is sidelined this season with her knee (Hannah's sister) Rachelle has been looking strong on the track so expect a big year from her."

Martin was drafted by the Crows after several dominant years in the SANFLW with West Adelaide, culminating in being crowned joint SANFLW best and fairest winner in

She debuted for Adelaide in round 1 of the 2020 season as an injury replacement player and currently has 33 AFLW games under her

She has played as a forward for the majority of her 22 AFLW games across the past four

Coming into season 7, Mackrill made the move to the midfield where she impressed with her strength on the inside and her kicking skills, despite a longer-term injury.

It has been a journey for Sedunary, 32, who as played 20 games and kicked eight goals across her AFLW career.

Sedunary played in Adelaide's inaugural flag-winning side in 2017 and finished fourth in the Crows' club champion award before crossing to St Kilda for a season in 2020.

She rejoined Crows after a year away and was inactive for AFLW season 6 while she chased an Olympics berth with the Australian cycling team.

After moving west before season 7, she brought much-needed experience to the young West Coast outfit.

Prominently a midfielder in her early career, Sedunary has played mostly down back in her seven games with West Coast.

Adelaide's opening game is Showdown II against Port Adelaide at Norwood Oval on Saturday afternoon, and GWS takes on Sydney and West Coast faces Fremantle on Sunday afternoon.

Pointon plays firsts rugby

Peter Argent REPORT BY

In just his first season of rugby union, Will Pointon has lined up for Prince Alfred College at intercollegiate level.

PAC took on St Peter's at PAC Main Oval and lost 19-29 last Thursday, August 24.

Pointon has adapted to the game quickly, collecting telling possessions after coming off the interchange bench during the second half of the 36th First XV Rugby annual Intercol.

"Considering he is just eight games into his school rugby career, Will has adapted to the game really quickly," coach Paul Brown said.

"He has quickly shown an aptitude for the game.

When he came on the second half, he certainly didn't look out of place in the cut and thrust of the action.

"A couple of his touches were quite creative."

After conceding the first two tries of the game, PAC staged a valiant second half comeback.

But the Saints managed to hold their ground and win.

Currently in year 11, Pointon has another year of intercollegiate rugby in 2024.

Intercollegiate sport is a family affair for the Pointon siblings, as Will's older brother Lachie played First XVIII Aussie Rules football and was captain of the First XI cricket

Goody is All-Australian again

Peter Argent REPORT BY

Edithburgh football talent Shineah Goody has been named in the All-Australian Team for a second time after a strong performance across the 2023 AFL National Championships — Under 18 Girls.

She was also named in the 2022 All-Australian Team, after being named MVP in that season's national championships.

Selected in the centre of the star-studded 2023 side, the Woodville-West Torrens midfielder travels from Yorke Peninsula to train and play in Adelaide.

Goody was a prolific ball winner in this year's tournament, averaging 24.3 disposals (12.7 contested) at an elite 78 per cent efficiency, and 5.7

After winning the 2022 tournament's best and fairest award as a bottom-ager, she came runner-up this time around with 15 votes, three behind winner, Queenslander Havana Harris.

Showing the strength of SA's underage programs, there were eight South Australians in the 2023 AAT, along with first-year coach Jason Rivett.

Despite completing her junior career, Goody will not play in AFLW season 8, which starts this weekend, because the AFLW Draft is not expected until December.

Local pair excel in SSSA grand final

Peter Argent REPORT BY

Yorke Peninsula talents Jordan Tilbrook and Kade Herbert excelled for Henley High in the School Sports South Australia Division I Statewide Cup grand final on Tuesday, August 22.

Henley was dominant from the outset and defeated Adelaide High by more than 15 goals.

Tilbrook (Southern Eagles) was regarded as best on ground by the coaching staff, while Hebert (Bute) was also an elite performer.

"Battling injury issues, especially with his back earlier in the year, Tilbrook has still managed to play very good football for the school and the Woodville-West Torrens under 18s," Henley High football academy teacher Ben Kane said.

"He's fit and ready to go for the upcoming SANFL finals series.

"All Jordan's teachers speak very highly of him and he has a bright future."

It has been a huge year for Herbert since relocating to Adelaide.

"Kade has managed all the challenges which come with moving away from home extremely well with good friend Lachie Lucas, who unfortunately experienced a shoulder injury during the year," Kane said.

"Kade has been able to achieve academic success while representing the state at the under 18 national carnivals and making his league debut at Woodville-West Torrens.

"Kade is an extremely hard worker and respectful young man who is highly motivated to succeed.

"He's set himself up well for his draft year in 2024."

Kadina advances to face Moonta

"B. Dog" REPORT BY

More than 800 tickets were sold at the Wallaroo Oval gate, which was a solid crowd on what turned out to be a good day.

Kadina and the Southern Eagles were vying to be the team to challenge Moonta in the second semi next week.

So far Kadina had been the second-best team of the competition, just behind the first-placed Demons, while the Eagles were not too far behind but were the only team to beat Moonta in the minor round.

With a full side, the Eagles are a smoky for the premiership.

On paper, the Eagles appeared to be undermanned as they were missing Jarrad Redden, amongst others, while Kadina looked at full strength.

Angus Poole and Henry Bruce battled Jackson Hooper and Nathan Allen in the middle while, down forward, Luke Hoare was a candidate to stand on Jack von Bertouch.

Kadina locked the ball in its forward half and collected the rewards, going three goals up before the Eagles broke through and scored their first.

Both sides moved the ball quickly and the skills were a good quality for the crowd to watch.

Eagles were unlucky in front of goal and chances went begging.

Kadina had no such misfortune, and was very much on top of the game, taking it away from the Eagles.

Von Bertouch and the Kadina forwards had it too easy, but the Eagles midfield of Jamie Wegener, Nathan Allen and Hooper were playing well.

Little changed in the third quarter; the Eagles kicked their second goal for the day, and Kadina continued to outscore and outplay them.

Missing Redden hurt the Eagles' structure, even though Max Sanderson had a good battle with Ryley Hansen, the missing big man still hurt.

The Eagles scored twice in the last quarter but inaccuracy and turnovers continued to hurt them.

Kadina remained in control until the end, running out winners by 49 points.

Eagles had plenty of possession but just couldn't get it going; luckily they get another chance and get some players back for their next crack. Meanwhile Kadina goes through to face the Demons in what many consider a grand final preview.

Cougars crush Crows' season

Patrick Goldsmith REPORT BY

Central Yorke Cougars live to fight another day after making light work of CMS Crows, running out winners by 63 points.

In a tight tussle early, Cougars, who finished the regular season fourth, flexed their muscles across the middle two quarters and weren't required to raise a sweat in the last.

The Crows were the underdogs going into the clash, finishing the minor round with just seven wins, four fewer than their opponents, and found themselves wanting through the middle and up for-

They did, however, come out with a bang, with Adam Jolly kicking the first goal after good work in the middle.

Cougars got their first not long after via trusty playing coach Luke Trenorden but, by the time Crows had a third — a simple Lachlan Pointon finish — it felt they wouldn't stop.

Jake Beinke had already seen plenty of the ball across the middle of the ground for Central Yorke and when he delivered to Steven Clark with poise inside 50, Cougars had arrested momentum

Zac Bates provided some money-can't-buy magic deep in the pocket, funnelling a ball out to Kane Karpany who obliged by kicking the goal.

Alex Greenslade dobbed the first major of the second quarter, a set shot from 40 metres out.

Crows took the ball to the other end and, following a free kick, Jacob Hickman got a much needed major to have the margin at 15 points.

With tall defenders at their disposal, Cougars thwarted many of the Crows' attacks and when Trenorden placed the ball on the head of Charlie Hay inside 50 and Greenslade got on the end of a crumb, the resulting goal was never in doubt.

Joel Ambjerg-Pedersen was the next to step up for Central Yorke, with the ball falling perfectly for him to roam into an open goal and Trenorden kicked his second goal after a terrific contested mark

Cougars dominated until their opponents moved the ball quick enough to catch them off guard; Lachlan Varricchio hit up Jake Cook who kicked the set

The halftime lead of 28 points felt like a mountain the Crows didn't quite have the energy for; their season had so far been one of ups and downs and nowhere near the heights of recent years.

It took seven minutes for the first major of the second half to sail through, but, when it did, it consolidated the Cougars' lead as it was Greenslade who was again saluted.

His effort was quickly matched at the other end thanks to a Jolly set shot and when Cook did the same five minutes later, Crows were still 25 points behind.

Almost as soon as it sailed through, Karpany was on the end of a clever tap down from Ash Williams to restore a larger lead.

When Bates danced around the side of a pack 23 minutes into the third quarter and put his side up by 45 points, it was all she wrote.

Magpies' flag dream lives on

Patrick Goldsmith REPORT BY

Paskeville's hopes of a first senior premiership in eight years live on after easily accounting for CMS Crows by 74 points.

With a nine-goal lead at threequarter time, the Magpies would've been forgiven for taking the foot off the pedal, but simply weren't in the mood, as their second half tally equalled their first.

Magpies forward Ayden Smith kicked the first goal for the game, a set shot from the top of the goal square.

Paskeville had most of the ball in its forward 50 during the opening five minutes, until Charles Parsons got the Crows' first from their first inside 50.

When it went in again five minutes later, Harrison Alafaci was left alone in 30 metres of space to take an uncontested mark and kick another Crows goal.

The Magpies moved the ball skilfully from halfback, beginning with Glen Mulders, including two masterful bumps from Smith and finished with a Jono Price goal.

It wasn't long before Price got his second, with the ball eventually falling to him following a clever build up instigated by Lleyton Roberts and featuring Ben Davies in the centre square.

Brodie Millward was influential in the middle for the Magpies.

This was evident at the first bounce for the second term, which he kicked inside forward 50 with ferocity. Nick Perry

Strong first quarter earns win for Dogs

"B. Dog" REPORT BY

The sun emerged for the senior colts clash between Wallaroo and Moonta.

Both sides had some close games this year and Moonta proved to be a tough opposition for the Dogs.

Wallaroo started the game strongly, and looked switched on.

Dom Bagnato continued his good form and ran around like he had all the time in the world.

By halftime Moonta had only registered a single goal to Wallaroo's 11.

Unlike their last encounters, the Demons provided little resistance.

The Dogs moved the ball too easily for Moonta to keep up, despite the efforts of their defenders.

Hunter Wellgreen kicked a bag and the home crowd was enjoying it. The defensive efforts of Adam

Dempster and Jack Mumford repelled any attacks, and Bagnato moved the ball smoothly.

Moonta's Leon Fry and Byron Bugg tried hard for no reward.

Wallaroo's coach moved some magnets around which let Moonta sneak in a few goals, but it was too little, too late and a comeback from there would have been miraculous.

The game was won in the first quarter, and by the end everyone was going through the motions, except Wellgreen, who was aiming to kick 10 goals.

A serious leg injury to a Moonta player only made the day worse for the visitors.

Fry and Brock Pollard played well for the Demons, and Wellgreen and Bagnato were best for the home side.

Eight goal haul sends Roosters packing

Patrick Goldsmith REPORT BY

An eight-goal haul from forward Cooper Jarrett was more than enough to send Bute packing as Central Yorke Cougars cruised to a 77-point win on Sunday.

Truth be told, there were more strings to the Maitland side's bow than just Jarrett, all of which combined for a performance worthy of finals footy.

After opening a four-goal lead in the first quarter, Cougars kept the Roosters at arms-length thereafter before bringing the scoreboard agony in the last quar-

Bute was well set up behind the ball early, but came undone when Jarrett gathered just inside 50 and scored a goal on the run for the first of the morning.

The Roosters' defence was the first to fall under significant pressure, as they struggled to find a passage to safety.

Turnovers proved costly, as shown when Hamish Vandepeer snapped around his body for the Cougar's second.

It felt as though, wherever the ball went, there was a Cougar already waiting for it.

Repeat Bute inside 50s needed to be capitalised on but weren't.

Instead, Cougars slingshot from their defensive 50 multiple times, featuring delightful dashes down the wing by Isaiah Rigney and eventually a third goal to Jack Southwood, who had been dominant in the middle.

After a goalless first term, it did not get much easier for Bute in the second, conceding a goal in the Roosters finally got their first when Will Trengove goaled on the run from 40 metres out, eight minutes into the second term.

Bailey Rice had been good across the middle of the ground sending the ball inside 50 often, but as soon as they were within four goals, the Cougars nabbed another one, a set shot to Jude Howarth.

It had certainly been the Roosters' quarter and Josh Bull eased the pain on the scoreboard by calmly slotting one on the run.

The halftime margin of 24 points should've been less, if not for the stoic nature of Central Yorke's defence, which repelled 80 per cent of forward 50 entries.

There was a good feeling around the Bute side at the opening of the second half, especially when Jaykob Paterson found Jhett Price on a lead inside 50 to score the first goal.

The Roosters' midfield was suddenly the dominant force, but couldn't stop a speedy transition from defence for the Cougars, ending in another Jarrett goal.

It seemed as though it was going to be a step too far when Vandepeer got a second following a kicking-in-danger free kick in the goal square.

Dogs prove reigning premier status

Patrick Goldsmith REPORT BY

Wallaroo has made its way into the first semifinal against Ardrossan with a barnstorming 89-point win over Kadina at Yorketown on Sunday, August 27.

Last year's premiers have by no means set the tone or reached the heights of minor premiers Moonta this season, but proved themselves capable of causing much dilemma to opposition sides in the coming weeks.

The win was set up by unrelenting forward pressure and supreme midfield work, with the much physically stronger Bulldogs bullying their opponents.

The highlight of the first term was when Brodie Steer muscled his way onto a loose ball in the pocket before snapping and receiving a helpful bounce to go through for a major.

Hunter Mumford teamed up with Steer across the middle to provide meaningful penetrations inside forward 50.

Kadina got its first chance at goal when Josh Turley caught his opponent holding the ball, but it couldn't capitalise.

The onslaught continued in the second quarter, with Isaac Freeman first to score from a tight angle, before Zack Finch kicked a goal straight in front.

The Bloods had trouble exiting their defensive 50, although Archie Faulkner, Strath Bettess and Blake Holman stood out under pressure.

Frank Mind was gifted an easy chance on goal — which he made

About 15 seconds later Kadina had its first goal, as Faulkner took it upon himself to get things going and kicked inside 50 from the centre circle where Angus Petherick was waiting to pounce.

An error in the goal square was all it took for Wallaroo to grab that goal back minutes later, Rilev Phelan soccering one through.

Kadina again couldn't find its way out of a stacked defensive 50, so Mind helped himself to another major, this time on the run.

However, first half highlights didn't come any better than when Elijah Penhall ran down Kolbi Weight in the middle of the ground just before halftime.

The last quarter was rather academic; Wallaroo bagged the first following a scrap on the outer-side wing, with Brodie Hines kicking on the run and letting out a big "come on Dogs" immediately after.

This encapsulated the spirit of the side, perhaps more so than the result itself.

Eagles cling on in finals preview

"Eagle Eye" REPORT BY

Broughton-Mundoora Eagles travelled to Orroroo for the final minor round match of the season and a preview of this week's elimination final.

The Eagles started well in the first quarter and held a three-goal lead at quarter time, but Orroroo hit back, banging on seven goals to take control of the match with Luke Bowman looming as the big danger.

Eagles coach Thomas Wheelen made a few changes, and this fired his side back into the Alby Price and Wheelen controlled the back half, whilst Kallis Freer and Lachie Dolling provided plenty of intensity and won several key contests around the ball.

Young ruckman Sam Meschede followed his best-on-ground performance in the senior colts, competing very well against much bigger opposition, while young forward Luke Fowler played his best A grade game for the club, snaring two goals.

Full forward Sam Dyer sealed the Northern Areas Football Association leading goal kicker award by adding two more goals to his season tally and Will Hewett kicked two of his own, including the one to reclaim the lead.

The highlight of the day was an outstanding mark taken by Hewett, flying high on the wing, much to the delight of the young Eagles who were packed into the nearby grandstand. This week is the start of the NAFA finals

In the A grade, Broughton-Mundoora will take on Orroroo in the first semifinal at Melrose on Sunday, September 3. The B grade will play BMW, and the senior colts will take on Southern Flinders in second semifinals at Jamestown on Saturday, September 2.

NAFA B GRADE... Mackenzie Inglis, Broughton-Mundoora, runs the boundary line as he looks down the field for options.

NAFA A GRADE... Will Hewett, Broughton-Mundoora, takes a spectacular mark on the shoulders of Orroroo players.

NAFA A GRADE... Ben Price, Broughton-Mundoora, gets his handball away before being swamped by Roo opponents.

Huge second round awaits

"First Aid Kit" REPORT BY

It was a massive first week of finals on the Wallaroo courts, but I come to expect a show at this time of year.

Central Yorke Cougars landed an upset win against Bute to advance, while it was heartbreak for the Roosters who were eliminated in the first week for a second straight year.

Now, we turn our heads to a massive second week of finals when we find out which team is the first to advance to the big dance.

Second semifinal at Maitland

CMS Crows v Paskeville

For once, the mighty Crows were beatable at the back end of the minor Yorke Peninsula Netball Association season. Paskeville shocked the local netball world by edging them out by two goals in round 14 and boy would it be special if it pulled off the same result this time around. However, the Crows will be out for revenge and I think their last month of the season will be enough to kick them into gear. At the final whistle... CMS Crows by a goal.

YPNA scores and reports

Bute v CY Cougars

Bute had the centre pass and scored a speedy goal; Cougars were quick to reply. Cougars' defence made Bute's offence work to get the ball into the circle. Scoring was goal for goal; both teams worked hard, fighting for possession. Cougars made a much-needed turnover near the end of the quarter. Quarter time: CY Cougars 14,

Bute moved Marissa Hewett to GA, and defenders Hannah Cock and Charlotte Rose swapped. Bute scored but Cougars quickly responded. Cougars C Laura Trenorden and WA Prue Brind skilfully fed GS Alanna Barrand and GA Lana Bagshaw, who shot accurately. Bute GS Montana Briggs was a strong presence. Cougars held a nine-goal lead at halftime, 30-21.

Bute brought Alex Wehr into C. A strong start to the quarter led to one-for-one scoring. A Bute held ball rewarded Cougars with a goal. Both teams continued to fight but Cougars' strong defensive pressure caused another Bute held ball. Pinpoint shooting featured at both ends but Cougars had extended their lead to 13, 47-34, by three-quarter time.

Bute brought Lahni Smith back into C and Wehr moved to WD. Cougars were unchanged all game. Bute scored a couple of quick goals with Hewett and Briggs working well together. Both teams continued to work hard. Bute's defence put the pressure on but there were not many rebounds to be had. Cougars were strong through the centre, and Barrand and Bagshaw shot exceptionally well. Cougars powered ahead to win 57-44 and claim a preliminary final berth.

B grade

Paskeville v CMS Crows

Players had a nervous start, each side having early turnovers. Crows C Tyla Cook worked hard to create solid drives through the court. Paskeville GK Leanne Pridham took multiple strong rebounds, sending the ball on its way to her goalies. Quarter time: Paskeville 9, Crows 5.

Line-ups were unchanged. Crows GK Amy Lennerth defended all over the goal third. Paskeville's goalies worked hard to get the ball into shooting positions and, whilst the shortest in the circle, GA Jade Daniel used her smarts to position well for multiple rebounds. Crows GS Jessica Farrow found her rhythm. Halftime: Paskeville 15, Crows 11.

Paskeville moved Abbey Price to C, Sophie Maxwell to WA, and introduced Renee Drewett to the game at WD. Crows moved Liliana Alafaci from WD to C, Cook to WA, Sophie Newell into GA and brought Lana Bennett on at WD.

Crows GD Melissa McSkimming defended hard, driving the ball well down the court after turnovers. Crows soon settled, gaining momentum, but Pasky GD Aleisha Michael's tight circle defence and GS Leanne Wait's lovely long shots helped steady their side. Three-quarter time: Paskeville 24, Crows 18.

Hannah Short came into GS for Crows and Farrow went to GA. Short brought composure and gave great direction to Crows' front end, helping counteract Paskeville's tight circle-edge defending which was making feeding goalies challenging. Pasky WD Drewett took a beautiful long ball intercept. Farrow continued to shoot well when the opportunity arose but Paskeville's goalies worked hard to finish their team's efforts. Final scores: Paskeville 34, Crows 28.

C grade

CY Cougars v Paskeville

Scoring was goal for goal in a strong start. Cougars WD Brianna Schwartz intercepted but a goal didn't result. Both teams led well through the centre. Paskeville GS Leonie Ey held fast in the goal circle and put up some shots to help Paskeville to a quarter-time lead, 12-6.

The wind picked up and lots of passes swirled around. Quick throws between Cougars GS Latoya Humes and GA Maddison Briggs allowed Cougars to score a couple of goals. Paskeville displayed strong defensive pressure, Leanne Toogood getting some touches through the midcourt. Paskeville had injury time, Layla Wilksch replacing GS Ey. Paskeville maintained its smooth transition down the court. Paskeville won the quarter, and led 25-14 at halftime.

Strong defensive pressure continued at both ends. Cougars GD Shayla Graham rebounded and drove the ball down the court. Paskeville put on similar defensive pressure at the other end with Jane Bussenschutt getting touches in the circle. Cougars won the low-scoring quarter 5-4, but Paskeville still had the lead at three-quarter time,

Both teams came out fighting. Ey returned to the court at GS for Paskeville and worked well with GA Nicole Burgan, capitalising on any turnovers as well as their team's centre passes. Paskeville C Annabelle Pearce and Cougars counterpart Nikayah Zilm Smith had a good tussle. Paskeville kept pushing hard to take the win, and claim a spot in the preliminary final, 36-23.

D grade

Moonta v Wallaroo

Wallaroo's defenders looked relaxed with a pregame TikTok. Wallaroo started strongly and scored quickly through GA Joanne Dawkins. Moonta began nervously, missing its first few shots. Wallaroo's midcourt pressured Moonta into a held ball, and Wallaroo surged ahead 9-3. Moonta GA Kate Pettman and Wallaroo GD Ebonee Thomas had some physical contests. Moonta pegged back a couple. Wallaroo's goalie combination appeared unbreakable. Wallaroo led 15-9 at quarter time.

Moonta's line-up tweaks made an immediate impact. WA Hayley Durdin-Dodman opened up Moonta's attack, providing great drives onto the circle. Moonta GK Chloe Elliott gave great oneon-one defence to create turnovers, helping Moonta to narrow its deficit. Wallaroo GK Ella Levi intercepted but Moonta WD Jasmine Crocker returned the favour and Moonta trailed by one. Wallaroo GS Bel Geidel used the post for a backline throw-in and scored; her team's defence caused confusion, creating a turnover, and Wallaroo led 24-21 at halftime.

Wallaroo made changes, Moonta did not. Play went goal for goal. Wallaroo WA Emarli Raymond broke but showed great determination to create an intercept. Moonta WD Crocker made a turnover and found GA Pettman under the post. Moonta drew level. Wallaroo intercepted to lead 35-32 at the last break.

Moonta tried a new combination, hoping for an edge, but a determined Wallaroo surged ahead by six. Moonta's midcourt created turnovers and it looked like a comeback was on the cards. Then Wallaroo GD Natalia Bagnato made an important intercept which pushed her team's lead back out to six. Moonta responded but Wallaroo absorbed the added pressure to win by four, 45-41.

D2 grade

Southern Eagles v Moonta

Eagles had the centre pass but a quick turnover gave Moonta the first goal. Tight defence across the court hampered either team from producing an easy flow. Eagles GS Ashleigh Abbott and Moonta GS Rebecca Norton shot accurately. Quarter time: Eagles 12, Moonta 7.

Moonta C Kate Maitland and WD Isobelle Pridham provided strong defensive pressure throughout the court but their team struggled to capitalise against the tight defence of Eagles GD Charlize Bunney and GK Anissa Thompson. Halftime: Eagles 24, Moonta 11.

Moonta created many turnovers and GS Norton and GA Amanda Formosa capitalised on Eagles' mistakes. Each team scored seven goals for the quarter, giving Eagles a 31-18 three-quar-

Moonta WA Millie Jarvis and WD Pridham, along with Eagles WA Brianna Hayes, returned to the court. Both teams worked hard, putting together a great last quarter, but Eagles came away with a 36-34 win to put them in the preliminary

E grade

Ardrossan v Kadina

Ardrossan began strongly, efficiently converting its opening centre pass. Despite stalwart defence from Kadina GD Mackenzie Wood and GK Sophie May, Ardrossan GA Alexa Simmons' clear leads and GS Matilda Teakle's good movement around the circle helped the Roos to a three-goal quarter-time lead.

Kadina found its rhythm, making the most of any turnovers. GS Sienna Rawlinson held steady, shooting accurately against Ardrossan GK Ashlee Clifford's resolute defence and height. Ardrossan GD Stella Clifford also fought hard, assisting her team beautifully through the midcourt. However, Kadina's strong, steady play facilitated an eightgoal lead at three-quarter time.

Ardrossan came out valiantly; C Amelia Moloney found space all over the court, ably matched by Kadina C Madi Flowers. The teams shot goal for goal but Kadina's consistency earlier in the game gave it the win by seven, 46-39.

Congratulations to all players for executing an excellent, high-standard game.

F grade

Moonta v CMS Crows

Players arrived in a thick fog at Wallaroo and, as it lifted, Moonta had the first centre pass, taking minimal time to secure the first goal. Moonta had sunk five before Crows GS Brianna Warrior shot her team's first. Georgina Hickman and Annabelle Cook worked incredibly hard in defence for Crows but Moonta shooters Summer Koch and Sienna Madigan used their natural moves to stack goals. Moonta led 13-4 at the first Jorja Bennett (Crows) and Jayme Koch (Moonta) tussled through the midcourt. Moving the ball down the court with ease, Moonta looked relaxed, its composure resulting in easy conversions and it led by 14 at halftime.

Crows made wholesale line-up changes for the third quarter to give their reserve players a taste of finals action. Unchanged, Moonta continued to thrive. Its smaller midcourt players Mikalah Zwar and Sadie Tutthill held their positions well, creating space and making clear leads. Warrior took control of Crows' forward line with increasing confidence and lifted her team with a couple of 'super" goals. Three-quarter time scores were 33-13 in Moonta's favour.

Moonta remained with its starting seven. Crows brought on their 11th player, also swapping Amelie Hickman and A Cook; the latter settled the Crows' forward line and added a couple of goals. Moonta finished strongly, final scores 51-17 in its favour.

With their two eldest eligible players having been promoted to E grade, and with 11 team members rotating throughout the season, the CMS F graders were proud to reach finals.

Moonta's pinpoint accuracy, effortless moving in the circle, strong passes and great positioning down the court will make it a huge threat in the preliminary final.

G grade

Moonta v Paskeville

Paskeville GD Lara Philbey turned Moonta's centre pass and the ball seesawed before Paskeville scored. Finals nerves showed in panicked passes. Moonta scored through GA Amani Summerton after a good feed from C Sophia Marchetto. Defensive pressure caused a Moonta held ball and Paskeville GA Ruby Mildwaters scored. Paskeville GK Edie Winter rebounded and Paskeville extended its lead to be 6-3 up at the first break.

Both teams made changes. Moonta had the pass, but Paskeville C Holly Gardner intercepted and was rewarded with a goal. Play was even and pressure caused many held balls; both teams had difficulty smoothly transitioning the ball to their goalies. Moonta GA Na'delle Matz's good movement and accurate shooting brought the margin closer. Moonta GD Summerton made Paskeville's goalies work hard for every goal but GS Indi Gardner scored after an intercept on a Moonta backline pass. Moonta goaled on the halftime whistle, reducing Paskeville's lead to one, 11-10.

Scores went with centre passes, with good match-ups stifling both teams' efforts to get ahead. Paskeville GD Philbey intercepted and, with good feeding from C H Gardner and WA Harper Evans, a score resulted. Paskeville made many turnovers, inching ahead to a five-goal lead. Moonta GK Ava Penna pounced on a wayward pass and the ball was worked down the court for GS Isabelle Crawford to score. Moonta goaled from its next centre pass and the scores were back to within two, 19-17 in Paskeville's favour, at three-quarter time.

Further line-up changes were made. Moonta scored the next three; unsettled, Paskeville couldn't keep possession. Moonta was pressured into a held ball. Paskeville worked the ball into its goal circle and GA Mildwaters scored. Scores went with centre passes until Paskeville C H Gardner intercepted. Moonta turned the ball at Paskeville's centre pass and GA Matz shot accurately. Paskeville C H Gardner intercepted Moonta's centre pass helping her team to a three-goal buffer. After continued even play, Paskeville was ahead 29-26 at the final whistle.

SHOOTING

Maitland Rifle Club: Results 26-8-23 Eleven members gathered to set up the range for the Jim B Francis Memorial Trophy starting at 700 yards. Bill Gillis (F open) posted a nice 59.4 for his efforts in the first round, with Lynton Wakefield (F open) close behind with 59.1 in the gentle but twitchy early conditions. Michael Dayman (target rifle) got up with 48.4 against his name while Jeff Dayman (target rifle) was close behind on 47.4. Father and son duo Barry and Chris Tucker (F standard B) battled it out with Barry a smidgen ahead of Chris, 55.3 to 55.2. We shifted the scoring tables, chairs, monitors and receiver from 700 down to 500 yards and retired to the club hut for a barbecue lunch, which we seem to do very well. Once we had tidied up from lunch we headed down to 500 vards, and with the flags seemingly in holiday mode, the shooting commenced. First down on target three was Roger Francis (F open) who finished on 60.6 with Bill Gillis just behind on 60.5. Jeff Dayman edged out Michael Dayman 49.5 to 49.4. Back in F dard B, Barry Tucker's best score the day, 58.3 put him ahead of Chris Tucker on 56.1. Moving back to 600 yards for the final round, the great scores continued. Bill Gillis stormed home with 60.6ahead of Lynton Wakefield on 59.5.

Michael Dayman finally got the 50.3 possible we knew he was capable of, with Andrew Dayman producing a fine effort on 49.4. Chris Tucker waited until the end of the afternoon to put down his best score for the day, 57.3. The JB Francis Memorial Trophy was won by Roger Francis on 100.12 with Bill Gillis runnerup on 99.15. YP hockey scores

Semifinal results and reports 26-8-23 MEN

Moonta Lions 3 d Moonta Demons 0. Best: Mark Boakes, Stewart Redding, Jason Button; Rhys Flowers, Matt Treloar, Charlie Mieglich. Goals: Tim Linke 2, Mark Boakes. Report: The first half was a tense affair as both teams worked hard to get some sort of momentum. Neither team was able to get the break they were looking for, although Lions were getting more short corners. Mark Boakes presented himself in the forward lines and offered a target for Lions midfielders and defenders. Stewart Redding worked hard in the midfield for Lions while Jason Button was outstanding with strong defensive skills, which meant he dominated the centre of the hockey pitch. If Demons wanted to score, they had to go around Button. He also coordinated the defensive action of Lions defence, which featured Alex Oakley and Jacob Grinter. Rhys Flowers played his usual strong running game but found the Lions' halfbacks restricted his usual penetration. Matt Treloar was his usual efficient self as he gave Flowers strong support but had trouble breaking through Lions' defence. Charlie Mieglich did his best to carry the ball into the D but also found his runs stopped. Kurt Daddow, Declan Newton and Braden Frost were all busy in the midfield and had difficulty getting into their attacking D. Demons defence was also working well — especially early in the game. Many Lions attacks foundered against Flynn Cockshell's long reach and his ability to read the play. Boakes managed to sneak a goal in the second quarter to give Lions breathing space. Demons responded strongly but Lions' defence held. Lions controlled enough ball so Tim Linke was able to score twice in the second half to put the game out of Demons' grasp.

Kadina Rebels 4 d Kadina Spartans 1. Best: Tom Trumper, Oliver Garfield, Matt Crosby; Aidan Stock, Tim Millard, Hudson Duka. Goals: Lachlan Harkness 2, Ash Pridham, Matt Crosby; Aidan Stock. Report: Rebels had a comfortable win, despite a slow start. Spartans went into attack early in the first quarter to force a short corner, and Aidan Stock scored. It looked as if the Spartans may have Rebels in a bit of trouble. Rebels steadied and late in the quarter forced a series of short corners where Matt Crosby scored. The second quarter belonged to Rebels. Lachlan Harkness drifted deep into the left side of the field and Tom Trumper lifted the ball long so it landed close to the edge of the D, allowing Harkness to take the ball inside to score twice. Spartans tightened their defence in the second half, allowing only one goal. Tim

Millard, Hudson Duka, Brad Westbrook and Ben Murphy, who has been a regular player for Spartans all year, were all in the play but were unable to turn the tide. Joe Stock came from the ground for some time with a sore ankle, which did not help Spartans' team balance. Ash Pridham scored Rebels' fourth goal during the third quarter. Ollie Garfield was creative through the forward lines with his excellent skills. In defence, Reece Dayman and Tim Garfield were solid while Keiran Miller always seemed to stop goals at important moments.

WOMEN Blue Devils 2 d Kadina Spartans 0. Best: Chloe Whittaker, Georgia McCauley, Gabrielle Whittaker; Hannah Pridham, Caroline Roennfeldt, Rebecca Smith. Goals: Tamara Gates, Georgia McCauley.

Kadina Bears 2 d YP Tigers 0. Best: Amelia Pedler, Emily Armstrong, Lucy Daniel; Pria Sandercock, Sean Blieschke, Chloe Paddick. Goals: Caitlyn Ingham, Amelia Pedler. UNDER 15

Subsoil moisture helping to keep grain season on track

Michelle Daw JOURNALIST

YORKE Peninsula's upcoming grain and legume harvest is expected to reach 1,593,800 tonnes, only slightly below the region's five-year average of 1,594,400t.

The prediction is included in the latest Primary Industries and Regions South Australia Crop and Pastures Report, based on seeding figures collected in May.

PIRSA has predicted grain production for the entire state will be close to 8.8 million tonnes, based on the assumption yields will be close to the 10-year average.

PIRSA industry partnerships and intelligence general manager Matthew Palmer said concerns about the impact of El Niño were being offset by good subsoil moisture levels.

"The steady start to the season and average winter rainfall has meant early cautious optimism has been justified," he said.

"Rootzone moisture remains adequate for most districts, due to May and June rainfall maintaining moisture levels as crops estab-

"Carryover moisture from the wet spring in 2022 provides a level of confidence for achieving successful crops in many districts despite the forecast for drier conditions."

The report states that 523,900 hectares of grains were planted this season, slightly above the five year average of 521,840ha and the 2023 total of 523,600ha.

Mr Palmer said, while there had been no substantial change to the state's crop mix for the 2023-24 season, there was a continuing gradual reduction in the area sown to barley, mainly replaced by wheat along with an increase in the lentil area.

These trends are illustrated in the figures for YP, which show 159,000ha of barley was planted, compared with 224,000ha in 2005.

This year's barley crop on YP is expected to yield 3.71t/ha and produce 590,000 tonnes, below the five-year average of 610,300 tonnes.

Lentils continue to gain favour with YP producers, who sowed an estimated 133,000ha this year, almost double the area sown 10 years ago and above the 10-year average of 110,850ha.

YP has the largest area of lentils sown in the state, ahead of the Mid North, where 20,000ha of lentils have been sown.

PIRSA has predicted the peninsula will produce 252,500 tonnes of lentils in the coming harvest at a yield of 1.9 t/ha, compared with a five-year average of 242,000t.

Wheat remains YP's largest crop, with 170,000ha sown this season, above the five-year average of

This is expected to yield an average 3.65t/ha to produce 620,000 tonnes of wheat, which would be more than the five-year average of 597,500 tonnes.

YP is expected to produce 61,700t of hay from 13,700ha in the coming harvest, at a yield of Grain Producers SA CEO Brad Perry said grain producers in most regions remained optimistic about the season's prospects.

"While the report estimates total production at just under nine million tonnes, there is a very real chance that total could eclipse the 2020-21 production figure if we get finishing rains," he said.

"Global factors are again likely to play a significant role in the price paid for South Australian grain following a record season, where the industry reached the highest farm gate value on record of over $4 billion which was a great result for the South Australian economy."

Mr Palmer said autumn pasture growth had been strong with good feed levels into the winter months and stock were in good condition.

"Concerns over beef and lamb price outlooks are influencing forward planning with scaling back of livestock enterprises a likely outcome," he said.

Schools compete at Copper Coast Show

Will Hunter REPORT BY

SCHOOLS across the region came together to compete at the Copper Coast Show's schools livestock competition on Friday, August 18.

Kadina Memorial, Central Yorke, Port Broughton Area and Balaklava High Schools as well as St Mark's College, Port Pirie, showcased the best of their respective livestock programs.

Students were also judged on their handling abilities, with feedback used to improve their performances in the lead-up to the Royal Adelaide Show next month.

Copper Coast Show junior vice-president Natasha Westbrook said the competition was about providing students with an opportunity to showcase the work they have done within their relevant school agricultural programs.

"I am passionate about agricultural education, given my farming background, and think this competition is important in exposing children from farming and non-farming backgrounds to the industry," Ms Westbrook said.

"Overall, kids working with animals is great therapy and it teaches them life skills which are transferrable, even if they have no intent of continuing in the industry after school.

"The judges provided students with good feedback which will hopefully ease the nerves of those who are competiting at the Royal Adelaide Show, and family who may not be able to travel down to see their children compete were able to see their work on display here which was brilliant."

The competition was supported by community sponsors — AllTech Leinerts, Laucke Mills, Ashvelle Murray Greys, Elders Maitland, Rod's Livestock Nutrition, AW Vater & Co and Westbrook Family Farms — with the prize money reinvested into the schools to help them maintain and further their agricultural pro-

Techgrow celebrates 20 years in business

Advertising promotion

TWENTY years ago, Mid North broadacre farmer Colin Mitchell brought the first Bogballe M-Line linkage fertiliser spreader into South Australia.

The motivation behind the purchase was to have the ability to accurately apply fertiliser as and when required late in the growing period, as opposed to putting higher rates out at the time of seeding.

As the benefits of this practice become more widely known, interest in the Bogballe product grew throughout the Mid North and Yorke Peninsula.

It wasn't long before the then Bogballe importer from Victoria suggested Colin try to sell a few of the machines, given he had inadvertently become well versed in the field.

Dozens of Bogballe spreaders were sold over the proceeding years out of the small family farmyard.

Techgrow moved to larger premises in Clare in 2007, and again expanded to the 408 Main North Road Clare site in 2021.

In 2012, Techgrow took over the national importership of the Bogballe spreaders, which it now distributes through more than 45 dealerships.

Further imported products have been added to the product line since then, with more in the pipeline for the future.

Colin and wife Kathy's farming background has played a pivotal role in shaping Techgrow over the years, as they have a deep understanding of customers'

In practice, this has led to the business focusing first and foremost on quality backup service and support, as well as being highly selective with the products it chooses to represent.

This philosophy has shaped an impressive product offering including Bogballe spreaders, Hardi sprayers, Boss air seeders, SenseSpray spot-spray technology, HE-VA tillage equipment, Hustler mowers and Spitwater pressure cleaners.

The expanded range has meant Techgrow has been able to engage with the wider community's needs.

The Spitwater pressure cleaners and Hustler mowers in particular are suited to many industries and applications, including wineries, sporting bodies, councils and general property maintenance.

"Due to the quality, longevity and precision of our product lines, investing in equipment with Techgrow is an investment in the future of your operation," Techgrow regional sales manager Jacob Kain said.

"We believe strongly in adding value to and improving customers' operations, rather than just providing something to

Backing up the product range is Techgrow's friendly service and spare parts team, which has grown in numbers and experience over the years in business.

"We have a really good team together with a diverse range of skills and experience, meaning customers can expect a professional, quality service experience," service manager Chris Braisher said.

"Given we focus on several key brands, we consider ourselves specialists in what we sell, meaning the customer is very well supported."

With the 20-year milestone reached, Techgrow thanks the SA farming community for all its support over the years, and the team looks forward to looking after their valued customer base for many more to come.

THE TEAM... Techgrow's team, including service technician Joel Jenner, service technician Nathan Noble, spare parts and site manager Braden Henbest, chief financial officer Brett Mitchell, managing director Colin Mitchell, director Kathy Mitchell, national technical support Derek Upton, national sales manager Nick Pearce, regional sales manager Jacob Kain and service manager Chris Braisher are excited to celebrate 20 years of business.

Support growing for Paskeville progress

Michelle Daw JOURNALIST

SUPPORT for community projects in Paskeville is growing, thanks to sponsorship of a local barley crop.

A 26 hectare paddock of Cyclops barley being grown by the Paskeville Progress Association is sponsored by BASF Agricultural Solutions as part of its Community Paddocks program, with the company providing all chemicals and agronomic advice to help achieve maximum yields.

The paddock is part of a 70ha parcel of cropping land leased by the association from the Copper Coast Council to raise money for its pro-

PPA president Grant Pontifex said the sponsorship would save the association about $3000 in costs.

The money saved would go towards projects including artwork for the town's silos and upgrading the kitchen facilities at the local sports clubrooms, which covers football, netball, tennis, basketball and cricket.

Mr Pontifex said the PPA had received a $65,000 grant from the Council towards the artwork project but needed to raise a further $50,000.

He said the artwork would depict the history of the Paskeville district and could help encourage visitors to spend more time in the town.

"If we can attract people to stop here and look at the silos, they might also look at what other facilities we have here and perhaps join our sports club," he said.

"We are struggling to fill our football and netball teams."

Mr Pontifex said a major upgrade of the 40-year-old kitchen at the clubrooms would cost about $200,000 and would include a new coolroom, major appliances and benchtops.

To launch the project, BASF hosted a recent community dinner at the Paskeville sports clubrooms, attended by 180 people.

The barley paddock is located on the Copper Coast Highway, northeast of the Field Days site, and will be signposted so members of the public can visit it during this year's field days, September 26-28.

The PPA will run four canteens and three drink stalls at the field days, as part of its fundraising efforts.

BASF Australia head of broadacre Andrew Gourlay said he was delighted to extend the community paddock project to Paskeville.

"BASF takes great pride in supporting growers, and also giving back to local groups that are the heart and soul of our communities," he said.

"Now well into the growing cycle, the crop has been carefully treated with BASF products such as Systiva®, Voraxor®, Frequency®, Opus® and Opera® to ensure an optimal level of weed control, and delivery of highquality yield."

Balancing risk and reward on-farm is something most farmers do regu-

Whether they stop to think about it or not, it is most likely underpinning most decisions they make every day.

Hart Field Site group executive officer Sandy Kimber said the group would challenge farmers to consider their own decision-making strategies this year.

"Farmers are balancing risk and reward all the time, sometimes without even realising it," Ms Kimber

"Weighing downside risk with upside reward can be quite straight forward, but sometimes it's complex, particularly as the number of variables or unknowns increase.

"At this year's event, we're encouraging farmers to consider their own risky decision-making strategies at all of our session topics, whether it be variety selection, time of sowing decisions, nitrogen and chemical applications and timing, or others."

The 2023 field day's focus comes on the back of the group's involvement with the new five-year GRDC national RiskWi$e project, enabling Hart to look more closely at the risk and reward balancing act.

"From a practical sense, we're gathering tools and resources to help farmers arm themselves with the right data to help make decisions, and then testing them in real life applications," Ms Kimber said.

"From a behavioural science perspective, we want to help farmers better understand their own attitudes to risk by exploring some of the psychology behind it.

"Are you a risk seeker, risk averse or more neutral? And how does it influence your decision making, and your level of comfort with the outcome — will you feel regret or relief?

"It's quite fascinating."

The Hart Field Day opens at 9am and the official opening is at 10am; first sessions start at 10.30am sharp.

The Hart trial site is 10 kilometres north of Blyth, just off the Blyth to Brinkworth road.

For tickets, or for more information, www.hartfieldsite.org.au, contact Sandy Kimber on 0427 423 154, or email admin@hartfieldsite.org.au.

HART FIELD DAY... Hart Field Site group executive officer Sandy Kimber says the theme of this year's Hart Field Day is risk and reward, and organisers will challenge farmers to consider their own risk and reward decision making at this year's event on Tuesday, September 19.

Making maintenance safer and easier

Advertising promotion

THE benefits of a custom-built machinery workshop and shed are significant, and Action Steel can help you create the best set-up for your needs.

A well-designed machinery workshop shed makes maintenance easier, reduces maintenance costs and minimises downtime.

"Not only does a workshop make maintaining and operating machinery easier and less stressful, but it also makes it safer," an Action Steel spokesperson said.

'This is true whether you are running a cropping enterprise or contract harvesting.

"If you are looking to take advantage of these benefits, and are considering a new workshop shed build, then the workshop built for Monk & Son Ag Services will provide plenty of inspiration."

The workshop, in Cobrico, Victoria, measures 126 metres long and 27m wide, and was carefully planned.

'The design incorporates several functional features that can also be a good fit for smaller scale workshop and maintenance sheds," the spokesperson said.

"Firstly, the configuration takes advantage of the versatility of an open-front shed to achieve an open workshop or storage area which can easily be repurposed in the future.

"Several bays have been enclosed with sliding doors to create a sheltered and secure lockup workshop area.

'This allows the design and configuration to provide the best of both worlds.

"The eight metre cantilevered canopy provides sheltered access to the workshop and provides an area where vehicles and machinery can be parked for quick and easily accessible shelter.

"This is beneficial at harvest and in unexpected weather events.'

A concrete slab through the shed, in the storage and workshop area, and a concrete apron along the front of the shed bring a lot of advantages including improving access to the shed.

"Concrete slabs also make moving and maintaining the machinery easier," the spokesperson said.

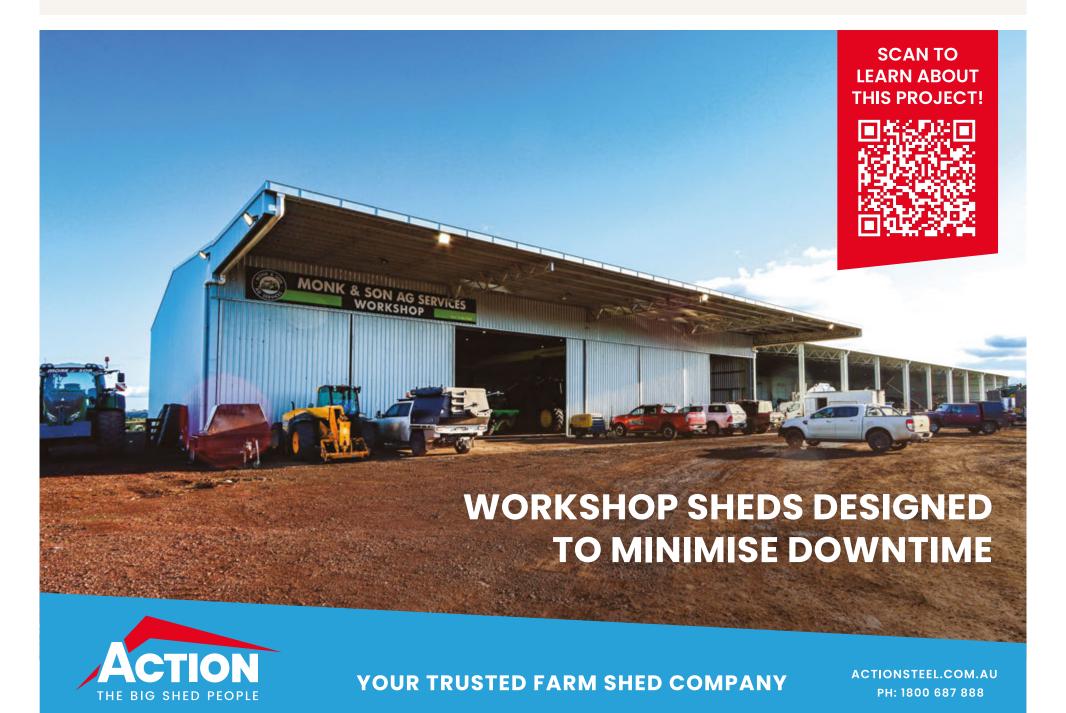

"Other features and considerations of the project included good access and site planning to work in with the existing infrastructure.

"One of Action Steel's standard size spans and bay spacings have been used to help create a cost-effective design."

For more ideas for your workshop shed project or next farm shed build, visit actionsteel.com.au, or call 1800 687 888.

CUSTOM BUILD... A gantry crane designed and built by Action Steel is a must-have inclusion for a workshop of this size.

Paving the way for future connectivity

A PILOT project is paving the way for future connectivity through a collaboration between Grain Producers SA and AgriFutures Australia.

Following a successful wireless network extension project, GPSA has been awarded funding through AgriFutures Australia's Producer Technology Uptake Program for a project delivered by tailored agricultural connectivity specialist, Connected Farms.

GPSA CEO Brad Perry said the project would showcase a large noncontiguous Eyre Peninsula grain property with a fully integrated connectivity system.

"After completing the Zetifi wi-fi project through funding support from AgriFutures Australia, the Connected Farms pilot takes farm connectivity to the next level," Mr Perry said.

"All too often our grain producers, who contribute more than $4 billion to the state's economy (each year), are left without reliable mobile phone coverage or internet connection when their business relies on it.

"Working with Connected Farms and our grain producer members is an example of what can be done to address fence-to-fence connectivity blackspots, and we believe this project could be a game-changer in South Australia.

"By utilising a cutting-edge Low Earth Orbit satellite-based solution, the project aims to facilitate safe, secure, and reliable data transmission."

Connected Farms CEO Tom Andrews said he looked forward to collaborating with GPSA and implementing connectivity solutions to benefit grain producers in SA.

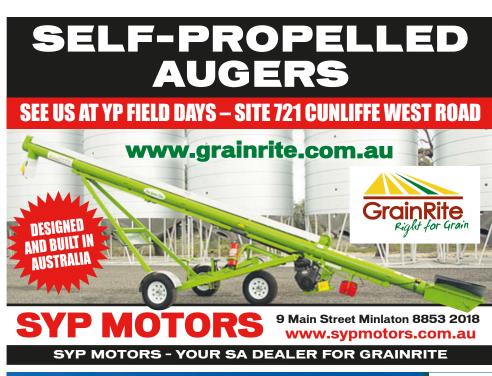

'The Connected Farms Starlink Mobility for Agriculture solution allows producers to connect anywhere, anytime, across their entire farm by taking the connectivity equipment with them, mounted on their vehicle, tractor, and machinery," Mr Andrews said.

"This enables voice, mobile, and data connectivity for data-intensive robotics, automation, and more intensive precision-farming functions."

Discovery to improve resistance in canola

AUSTRALIAN researchers have discovered three genes associated with resistance to sclerotinia stem rot, marking a major step towards developing improved diseaseresistant canola varieties.

The genes have links to sclerotinia stem rot susceptibility and resistance.

Sclerotinia stem rot is a fungal disease which can significantly reduce the productivity of canola crops and the discovery could arm breeders with information about how to develop varieties with improved resistance.

Researchers from the Centre for Crop and Disease Management, in collaboration with the New South Wales Department of Primary Industries and Agriculture and Agrifood Canada, identified the genes.

CCDM researcher and lead author Dr Toby Newman said the finding represent a major step in the development of genes that canola breeders can use to produce varieties with much improved resistance to sclerotinia stem rot.

"It's tricky to breed resistance to sclerotinia stem rot in canola because a broad range of genes contribute to susceptibility and resistance," Dr Newman said.

"As far as we know, no single gene will provide a good level of resistance against sclerotinia stem rot, and unfortunately, we are unlikely to achieve complete resistance to this disease, but we can put together smaller puzzle pieces to create a strong partial resis-

"We must develop varieties with numerous genes, each with small effects that together create crops strong enough to reduce the severity of sclerotinia stem rot for the industry, and this is exactly what we are on the path to achieving with this discovery."

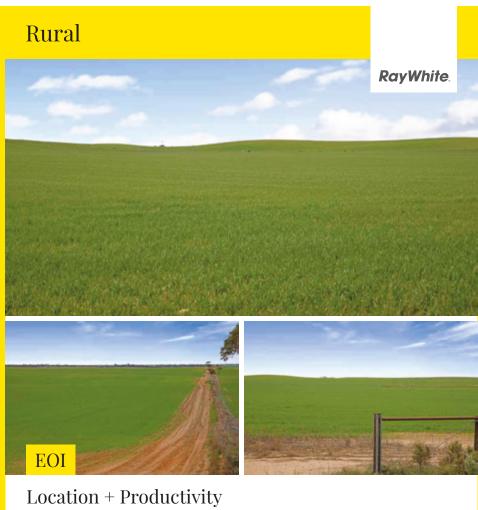

Dr Newman said their research used the model species Arabidopsis thaliana, which is in the same family of plants (Brassicaceae) as canola (Brassica napus).

"We found two genes which make Arabidopsis more susceptible to the disease and one gene which increases resistance to it," he said.

"Identifying these genes means we can infer the corresponding genes in canola are likely to react similarly, working to make the plant more susceptible or resistant, but this resistance is yet to be proven in this crop."

IMPROVING RESISTANCE... Centre for Crop and Disease Management Dr Toby Newman, working with model plant species Arabidopsis thaliana, says his research represents a major step in the development of resistance to sclerotinia stem rot in canola.

Test and evaluation activities involving static firings and/or firings of naval and artillery weapons are conducted at the Proof and Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield throughout the year. The Proof and Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield is a vital Defence test and evaluation capability that has supported Defence since 1929.

These firings may require specific tidal or weather conditions, and are critical for the safety of current and new Defence capabilities. Members of the public may notice noise, vibration, flashes and/or smoke during the testing. There is no risk to the public outside of the gazetted Defence Practice Areas.

For reasons of public safety, there is a permanent exclusion zone covering land, sea and air around the Port Wakefield Establishment. Specific details on the Port Wakefield Prohibited Area can be obtained from Commonwealth of Australia Gazette No GN 26, 4 July 1990, and is shown on the diagram below. Trespassing in this Area is strictly prohibited and very dangerous due to the presence of unexploded bombs. Any person found within the Prohibited Area or on Defence land will be subject to prosecution.

Specific test and evaluation activities may also require restricting public access to the Port Wakefield Defence Practice Areas over specific periods with these areas articulated in the Commonwealth of Australia Gazette No. GN 40, 7 October 1992, and also identified on the diagram below. This may affect access to the Gulf of St Vincent at Port Wakefield and Port Parham.

If any member of the public has inquiries in relation to these activities please contact Proof & Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield - Range Control on (08) 8867 0270 between 8.00am and 4.30pm weekdays or the Proof & Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield - Security Office on (08) 8867 0299 outside these

TIU leaves us in stitches once again

SOCIAL media stars The Inspired Unemployed are making waves yet again with their new Paramount+ series. The Inspired Unemployed Impractical Jokers.

Self-proclaimed Aussie battler tradesmen, Matt Ford and Jack Steele decided to ditch the tools in 2019 for a new career and never set foot on a jobsite again, at least not to work.

The duo has been uploading hilarious skits to their socials ever since, racking up a combined 3.5 million combined followers across Instagram and TikTok

Some of their best humour has included reenacting stereotypical tradies, gym junkies, cyclists or just taking the mickey out of themselves with stupid dance moves.

Along the way, TIU has released a podcast series, which I must admit can be quite repetitive, as well as their own beer brand, Better Beer.

The duo, now joined by lifelong mates Liam Moore and Dom Littrich, have captivated audiences with a series that I have caught myself laughing out loud at several times.

One at a time, the boys are deployed into a

HOT FISHING TIPS

with Greg James www.gregjamesfishing.com.au

Welcome to the column with all the hot tips for fishing around Yorke Peninsula; contact Greg by email at

Wallaroo: Garfish and tommy ruff

(Australian herring) were caught from Point Riley and just south of Tickera in the ideal fishing weather over the weekend. The jetty has a few tommies and squid.

Moonta Bay/Port Hughes: Saturday morning was calm but there was a fairly thick fog as boat crews launched for King George whiting and garfish from Tipara Reef and West Light grounds. Squid are in the bay and the jetties are worth a try for tommies and gar in the late-afternoon breezes.

Point Turton: Although tides were slowish on Saturday, gar, tommies and squid came from Point Souttar and The Pines. There was an unconfirmed report of vellowfin whiting from the boat ramp breakwater on Sunday and squid at the jetty. Marion Bay/Stenhouse Bay: Tommy ruff and squid are again on the menu as jettybased anglers did well over the weekend, while shore-based fishers reported mullet and salmon trout from Gym Beach and th Dust Bowl. Large ocean swells have made it somewhat of a challenge to run out, but squid, KG whiting, big snook and flathead are here when the conditions permit.

Edithburgh: Jetty fishers caught big snook well after dusk at both jetties last week and tommies during the day. There are a few blue crabs at the Stansbury jetty. Boat crews went out to Tapley Shoals and the Orontes Bank for KG whiting and big snook.

Ardrossan: Garfish and squid were the main reports for boat crews fishing here and up to Point Clinton on the afternoon incoming tides. The broken ground in the shallows at James Well should soon hold blueys for rakers, while the jetty has tommies and snook.

Tight lines and see you next week!

Spectator suspended from local football

A spectator who entered the field during a Yorke Peninsula Football League under 14s match has been suspended from local football for 12 matches

SANFL Yorke and Mid North football operations coordinator Simon Purdue said the person became involved in an altercation with players while the game between Wallaroo and Moonta was in progress at Wallaroo on Saturday, August 12.

"A club report was made against this spectator from one of the competing clubs, prompting an investigation into this incident by myself on behalf of the YPFL," Purdue said.

"At the conclusion of the investigation, a 12-week ban from attending any YPFL matches was imposed on the spectator."

The first four matches of the ban are set to be served throughout the 2023 finals series and two others at the start of the 2024 season.

"Six weeks of the ban has been suspended for 24 months, on the condition the individual does not breach this order, nor any condition of the YPFL Code of Conduct for spectators, parents and officials, upon their return," Purdue said.

Purdue said the incident was not isolated, with numerous reports of spectators approaching the field of play across the zone.

NORTHERN

3.5 30 PACKS

"The risk of physical assault to players and spectators by entering the field cannot be understated," he said.

"Any further occurrences, like the one in the YPFL, will attract equal or greater suspension from attending football within the region."

YPFL secretary Phil Brand said the female spectator is the mother of a Wallaroo under 14s player.

"The spectator had concerns over how her son was being treated (during play) and so decided to enter the field," Brand said.

"She's not a member of the Wallaroo Football Club.

"A number of events have happened at various grounds over the past few weeks which clubs need to address.

"The amount of umpire abuse we've seen this year is out of control.

"We (the league) control as much as we can, but it's often up to the clubs to discipline their members."
