Call to improve funding, training for country GPs

Michelle Daw
JOURNALIST

RURAL Doctors Association of Australia is calling for a new approach to funding and training to sustain general practice services in rural and regional areas.

The call comes against the backdrop of a continuing decline of GPs utilising Medicare bulk billing and an ongoing shortage of junior doctors choosing general practice or rural generalist training in rural locations.

Federal Health Minister Mark Butler announced yesterday (Monday, January 23) a major review of Medicare would be released in the next few weeks to help ease the shortage of GP services and growing gap fees.

He said the review would focus on the needs of older people and those with chronic diseases, moving from a purely fee-for-service model to blended, wraparound care.

It would also look at broadening the range of health professionals who can provide services under the Medical Benefits Scheme.

“At a time of skyrocketing demand for health care, and workforce shortages, it doesn't make sense not to have every single one of our health-care professionals working to the top of their scope of practice, whether that's doctors, nurses, allied health professionals, pharmacists, and others,” he said.

Re: Dowling Drive

REGARDING your report on Dowling Drive at Port Hughes and accompanying letter raising various issues (YPCT 6-12-22).

These again highlight infrastructure challenges facing Copper Coast Council which, like others, would struggle to afford excruciating costs associated with roads, stormwater, et cetera.

Rates income (not including grants) would likely feature an amenities wish list, very important in a tourist region.

So, council battles on with limited funding but always must perform financial balancing acts when confronting needs of communities and those holidaying here rightly expecting bang for their rates buck with things like clear boating water at ramps, improved beach access and safer places to swim.

Bluntly, many others apart from those making valid criticisms of Dowling Drive, certainly a sought-after location, have equally concerning lifestyle issues.

Drive down gutterless Narangga Terrace, or along those dusty/muddy, streets northwards.

Infrastructure also is limited in many other areas, meaning costly, agonisingly slow fixes.

Some might disagree, but isn't it time many still-so-apparent 1960-70s fishing hamlet haphazard outcomes were washed away like that zinc cream on your nose?

Team CCC needs courage and compassion but not complacency.

Agendas, reports and master plans show a promising future. Workloads listed in projects and programs are massive. But the patience of locals rightfully wears thin.

The ABS Census revealed about 15,000 residents in the area. Postcodes declare 5389 people in 5554; 5214 in 5558 and 4426 in 5556.

Compare Port Augusta's 13,829 people and the agapanthus capital of the world, Victor Harbor, claiming 16,139 residents, with many retired (we also rival them for aggies and retirees).

Due to populations, larger areas rate when government grant funding is distributed.

But before local state and federal MPs can poke Mali and Albo in the ribs, council needs proposed projects (like Wallaroo's foreshore) shovel ready.

Yet more consultancy costs to prove viability.

But given recent elections, how to jump queues?

We must rattle the chain more often to help council access increased grant funding to improve our home and region.

Have a go. Talk to your local councillor or progress association.

Remember, it's our Lifestyle Location of Choice.

Name change

THE Copper Coast Council is to be commended on its proposal to change its name to the City of Copper Coast to reflect a city status (YPCT 17-1-23).

That is positive progressive thinking and will accomplish everything which has been indicated in the reasons for suggesting the name change.

More importantly, it opens up a new concept for marketing the region.

A good example of what a name change can achieve for regional towns can be seen in the naming of regional towns on the River Murray in the Renmark, Berri, Barmera, Loxton and Waikerie areas many years ago which introduced the name, Riverland.

This name combined all of these River Murray towns and from a marketing perspective, took tourism to another level, bringing in increased revenue to each town. It still does today.

Changes in the way we live today are inevitable as we expand, especially the young ones who want to establish themselves, and their families, into the future where they have always lived.

In my opinion, Yorke Peninsula is South Australia's best kept secret.

Visiting here for more than 35 years and now a permanent resident, I know the opportunities to develop YP as a go-to destination on a national basis are unlimited.

A good start to promote widespread tourism and attract many returns on investment dollars, as well as create many local jobs, would be to encourage an investor (I would try SA Premier Peter Malinauskas and his government first) to complete The Dunes Copperclub golf course at Port Hughes, which would attract national and international tourists to play on this superb course designed by legendary Australian golfer Greg Norman and put YP firmly on the tourism map.

My suggestion. Go with the positive name change being proposed as it can only be a progressive approach for all YP, its towns and residents, especially businesses, as they will financially boom with the influx of people to the region.

OUR VIEW

Building a bridge

LET'S not jump to conclusions, just because Copper Coast Council is considering the possibility of a potential bridge across the Copper Cove Marina, Wallaroo, doesn't mean it's definitely going to happen.

We have been down this road before, albeit in a different time, with different leadership and different conditions.

Some concept of the idea was raised during strategic planning and budget submissions at least eight years ago, maybe even earlier.

Councils review their strategic plans every four years, taking the time to consider future wants and needs for the community.

This latest review is in its early stages, with councillors briefed on some possibilities, including the bridge.

The briefing also included a focus on housing, proving the plan covers a wide range of community needs and wants.

Last time the bridge was brought up, discussions went on for about two years, before community feedback and comments essentially brought the idea tumbling down.

It is quite the process before an idea even makes it into the final strategic plan, with consultation to be held, elected members to have their say, some more consultation and then a final plan adopted.

It's a big-picture ideal of what our community could be in the future.

Even if the bridge makes it to the final plan, it won't be constructed immediately.

If and when the project is selected as priority, there'll likely be a whole range of consultation, quotes and designs.

Our communities need blue-sky thinking and big ideas to continue to grow and encourage people to live and work here.

There are complexities to the project but, at this point, it's just an idea of an idea.

If you feel strongly, have a say during the consultation, that's what it is for.

But just don't judge ideas too harshly straight out the gate.

Gateway to peninsula project finally finished

Patrick Goldsmith
REPORT BY

WORKS on the $124.5 million Port Wakefield overpass and highway duplication project have officially concluded, marking the beginning of a long-sought-after vision for safer travel.

Minister for Regional Roads Geoff Brock, Member for Grey Rowan Ramsey, Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis and Department for Infrastructure and Transport CEO Jon Whelan unveiled a plaque commemorating the completion of the project at Port Wakefield oval on Saturday, January 21.

The project, announced in 2018, included the creation of two lanes in each direction through Port Wakefield, an overpass connecting Yorke Peninsula with the highway, the removal of dangerous intersections and new bridges over the Wakefield River.

Jointly funded by the federal and state governments at an 80:20 split, Mr Ramsey said the completion of the project had been a long time coming.

"I was actually committed to this when I first got elected in 2007, as was the Howard government; we didn't win and it's basically taken a dozen years to get it back on the table," he said.

"Everyone who travels north and west of here will benefit but, in particular, a lot of people zip to and from Adelaide and Yorke Peninsula and what a great thing for a family to do; this will make it safer."

Mr Fraser Ellis said visitors to and from Yorke Peninsula have already reaped the rewards after the overpass was first opened in December 2021.

"It's really pleasing to finally see the finished product and I commend the wider community for its patience with works ongoing," he said.

"Importantly it provides a safer trip for motorists as they no longer need to worry about crash corner and if the easier access entices people to stay in our region longer, it will mean more investment in our local economy.

"The project was talked about for years and years and it was really pleasing to be a part of a government which finally put its money where its mouth is to finally get the project up and going."

Works will continue on the next section of the Augusta highway from Port Wakefield to Lochiel.

What's being said now it's finished

"The project has improved traffic flow, reduced congestion and bolstered safety by removing the dangerous intersection of the Port Wakefield, Copper Coast and Augusta Highways."

- Federal Minister for Infrastructure, Transport and Regional Development Catherine King

"This has been a long-awaited project, and we're thankful to both the local community and drivers passing through for their patience."

- State Minister for Regional Roads Geoff Brock

"I want to thank the community for their patience while we built this amazing project through Port Wakefield and remove the most dangerous intersections with the Copper Coast Highway; it's a great outcome."

- Department for Infrastructure and Transport CEO Jon Whelan

"With minimal distraction to the community and to travellers we get to the point today where we have moving traffic even on long weekends through the town."

- Wakefield Regional Council mayor Rodney Reid

"I'm very pleased to see these upgrades completed; this now allows our travellers a much safer access to Yorke Peninsula and will reduce the bottleneck effect during peak travel times."

- Yorke Peninsula Council mayor Darren Braund

Heartache over Seafarers sale

Patrick Goldsmith
REPORT BY

THE Moorings Retired Seafarers Units on Jetty Road, Wallaroo, have been sold, with six retired seafarers given six months to find new living arrangements.

Tenants were made aware the Sailors' Society in the United Kingdom intended to sell the property in November, with the sale finalised on Tuesday, December 20.

“My (late) husband was a war veteran and went to some rotten places, he thought he was leaving me settled... We were here for life, that's what we were told.”

- Pat Nicholson, resident

The purchaser has indicated they plan to utilise the units as holiday rentals, with settlement in June.

Blights Real Estate property consultant Neville Hibbard said the sale result was the best possible outcome for everyone involved.

“The property was sold for an offer which was $150,000 less than the highest offer, but allowed for six months until settlement,” he said.

“The other option which the Sailors' Society elected not to go with was a settlement within 30 days and would've resulted in there being less time for the tenants to find alternate living arrangements.

“(We're) very happy with the sale from an all-round point of view, but especially with the settlement conditions, allowing for an extended period for the tenants.”

He said he had no fears about relocating any of the current tenants.

Pat Nicholson, 88, has lived in one of the units for 19 years and said she doesn't blame anyone locally for the outcome, but feels betrayed by the Sailors' Society.

“I'm very gracious to the purchaser who is letting us stay until June, and it's just so very unfortunate they (the Sailors' Society) thought they needed to sell it at all,” she said.

“They didn't consider the aims of their charity; does that only apply to the United Kingdom and not to other people?”

“My (late) husband was a war veteran and went to some rotten places, he thought he was leaving me settled.”

She said she doesn't know whether she'll be able to find a place to live by June, but has already investigated many options.

“I've made so many phone calls (to find somewhere else to live) and you get on the phone, wait half an hour or so to be told 'this isn't the right department, ring this number' and it takes all day trying to get someone to talk to,” she said.

“I can't see any positives out of it, certainly none of us wanted to move, this was supposed to be my forever home.”

“We were here for life, that's what we were told.”

GONE... The Moorings Retired Seafarers unit Pat Nicholson has lived in for almost two decades has recently been sold, leaving her six months to find somewhere to live before the sale settles in June.

Primary care shake up needed today

GENERAL practices and the Rural Doctors Workforce Agency are working with eight candidates to fill GP vacancies on Yorke Peninsula.

RDWA general manager Mandy McCulloch said there were 38 GPs and nine registrars working in general practices and hospitals throughout YP, including Ardrossan, Kadina, Maitland, Minlaton, Moonta, Port Broughton, Wallaroo and Yorketown, in December 2022.

She said, although the number of GPs and training positions for registrars on YP had remained stable over the past 10 years, there had been considerable population growth on northern YP in that time and much of the growth had been among older age groups.

The 2021 Census found the combined population for the Barunga West, Copper Coast and Yorke Peninsula local government areas was 29,267, compared with 27,739 in 2016.

Further, people over 50 years comprised a combined average of 59 per cent of the population in these council areas, compared with a South Australian state-wide average of 39 per cent and a national average of 35 per cent.

Rural Doctors Association of Australia president Dr Megan Belot said there was a real opportunity in 2023 to reshape the current funding model for primary care in Australia and to move away from the federal-state blame game which had dogged health care for decades.

"While undoubtedly there is an overall shortage of junior doctors wanting to go into general practice across the board, it is the rural GP training places which are not being taken up by junior doctors and are consistently under-subscribed," she said.

RDAA state general manager Peta Rutherford said, in SA, only 18 intern positions for medical students were outside Adelaide, while there were 200 in the metropolitan area.

She said many young doctors get pulled into working in city hospitals.

"When they make career decisions, rural just isn't on their radar," she said.

Ms Rutherford said the recent expansion of the federal government's Distribution Priority Areas program to address GP shortages in outer metropolitan areas had led to a drop in applicants for the many GP vacancies across rural and remote Australia.

FRESH TAKE... Rural Doctors Association of Australia president Dr Megan Belot is calling for a new approach to funding and training doctors in rural areas.

Pedestrian bridge amongst Council's strategic discussions

A PEDESTRIAN bridge linking the Wallaroo marina to the township could be back on the Copper Coast Council's agenda.

Council is considering its future directions, including projects, as part of a review of its 10-year strategic plan.

Councillors were briefed on the process at an informal gathering last week, with a range of potential considerations raised.

Other focus points could include housing requirements in the area, an expansion of the Copper Coast Sport and Leisure Centre, Kadina, the establishment of a youth council, future cruise ship opportunities and the proposed Wallaroo aquatic facility.

Mayor Roslyn Talbot said the potential bridge had remained a topic of discussion years after it first went to council.

"There's more people in the marina and at North Beach who now want to access Wallaroo's shops and jetty without having to travel all the way around (the marina)," Mrs Talbot said.

"The community has become more physically active, so I think people should be able to walk straight there if they choose."

Mrs Talbot said the strategic plan review, which happens every four years, was an opportunity to discover the different services and infrastructure required in the future.

"The Copper Coast has changed a lot in four years and we expect to have a population close to 18,000 people by 2026, so how can we cope with this?" she said.

"We're looking to have greater involvement with our youth as this is a demographic we don't have great input from.

"Elected members will start thinking about these developments and we'll seek the community's input after that."

Scammers continue to evolve

Jarryd Rowley
JOURNALIST

AS technology evolves, so are the techniques of scammers and hackers, leaving people increasingly vulnerable to cybercrimes.

Pit Stop Technologies cyber security technician Brennan Snodgrass said scamming had come a long way from strange work emails to target social media and text messages and even to bots which monitor calls.

"A current one for SMS, you'll receive a text saying 'hi mum, hi dad, I've broken my phone, can you send me money?'"

"The best way to check if you are unsure is to call your family member's number and check first.

"The same goes with things like Telstra or the ATO, they normally won't text you asking for money.

"If you are unsure, log into your Telstra, ATO or MyGov account and check through the website.

"If people are asking for money on apps like PayPal, it's almost always a definite red flag."

Internet users are also being encouraged to not store their password information on their computer, phone or tablet, instead signing in manually for each log in.

"If I am a hacker, and I do manage to log into your computer digitally, all I would need to do is to go to your digital password manager, and in up

Sextortion warning following local scam

YORKE Mid North Police has warned members of the public to be vigilant after a young man fell victim to an online sexual extortion scam recently.

The Yorke Mid North man, aged in his 20s, was targeted through social media friend requests.

A series of messages was then exchanged which resulted in a request for intimate images or videos from the victim.

The scammer threatened to distribute the images to the victim's family and friends unless further intimate photos were sent and/or a payment was made.

Police said another known extortion tactic can be through emails where scammers may claim the recipient has been filmed visiting adult websites or performing intimate acts whilst online.

"To give some legitimacy to the (scammer's) claim, the email can contain an old password or username of the victim which has been previously compromised," a police spokesperson said.

"The victim may believe the filming exists, although this is almost never true.

"South Australia Police encourages members of the public to stay safe online — if things don't feel right, proceed with caution.

"Scammers are often very believable and convincing — always be suspicious and do your research.

"Avoid sending intimate images/videos online. Speak to a trusted friend or family member for support or advice."

Speeding driver fined in Port Broughton

A man has received a hefty fine after being caught travelling more than 45 kilometres per hour over the speed limit at Port Broughton on Saturday night, January 21.

Police were operating a mobile speed camera when they detected a Holden sedan travelling at 147km/h in a 100km/h zone on Upper Yorke Road at about 10.15pm.

The driver, a 25-year-old man from Salisbury Downs, was consequently stopped by police.

He was issued with a traffic infringement notice, totalling $1850, for excessive speed and accrued nine demerit points.

Unlicensed driver sent to court

Port Broughton police reported a man for driving without a licence in Bute on Friday evening, January 20.

Police detected a vehicle, of which they believed the driver to be unlicensed, travelling on Upper Yorke Road at about 5pm.

Further checks revealed the driver, a 42-year-old Bute man, was driving without a licence.

He was reported and will appear in the Kadina Magistrates Court at a later date.

Ute caught with children in tray

A woman has been fined after being caught driving with two children in the tray of a ute near Point Turton on Friday, January 13.

The driver, a 38-year-old woman, was issued with a $497 fine and accrued three demerit points.

Reckless rider fined

Edithburgh police have fined a man for riding an unregistered motorbike without a licence along Flaherty Beach, east of Point Turton, on Monday, January 16.

The rider, a 47-year-old Elizabeth Downs man, was issued a $2051 fine for riding an unregistered, uninsured motor vehicle without a licence.

New vehicle locators for emergency services

EMERGENCY service vehicle locators have been introduced for appliances across South Australia.

The Automatic Vehicle Location platform provides real time vehicle location data to enhance the safety and response of firefighters and emergency services personnel in the event of burn overs and other emergencies.

Overall incident and emergency response is improved by using location data to track where crews are and support vehicle allocation.

The application of these improvements from AVL was witnessed during the Riverland flood response and at the recent Montacute fire.

The initial installation of tracking hardware and software includes 1400 CFS, SES, Volunteer Marine Rescue, MFS and Forestry SA vehicles.

Minister for Police, Emergency Services and Correctional Services Joe Szakacs said AVL would be lifesaving technology for emergency services personnel.

"Strategically, AVL will allow emergency services to map, plan and execute how to attack bushfires and other natural disasters where multiple crews are involved," Mr Szakacs said.

"This new technology bolsters safety of crews to levels we've never seen before."

SA CFS chief officer Brett Loughlin said the safety and wellbeing of CFS members is of utmost importance.

ENHANCEMENT... SA CFS chief officer Brett Loughlin is optimistic the new Automatic Vehicle Location platform will help ensure his personnel's safety and response in times of emergency.

"The SOS button acts as a lifeline for our crews in distress, such as during a burn over — with just one four second press, they can receive help faster," Mr Loughlin said.

"The ability to quickly and visually track where our resources are will also positively impact the way we approach bushfires, resulting in improved community safety outcomes."

Mosquito vigilance needed

Jarryd Rowley
JOURNALIST

BARUNGA West Council is urging the community to stay vigilant against mosquitos following the detection of Murray Valley and Japanese encephalitis variants in the Riverland.

Council monitors and responds to mosquito activity within the region from September to April each year, regularly baiting and poisoning mosquitoes as part of SA Health's mosquito surveillance and arbovirus prevention subsidy program.

"Every year, we urge our community to stay vigilant and take the necessary precautions against mosquito bites," CEO Maree Wauchope said.

"The Japanese encephalitis virus is a real concern among the many other viruses mosquitoes can carry."

Council's larval control program in Port Broughton and Fisherman Bay helps to control mosquito numbers while providing information to staff about potential risks.

SA Health chief public health officer Professor Nicola Spurrier said there had been an explosion in mosquito populations across South Australia.

"The best protection from these serious and, in some cases, life-threatening mosquito borne diseases, is to not get bitten in the first place," Professor Spurrier said.

"Remain vigilant, wear long-sleeved and light-coloured clothes and apply an insect repellent containing DEET, picaridin or oil of lemon eucalyptus if you are outside.

"This will help reduce your exposure."

Landscape Board members appointed

PRIMARY producers, conservationists and local councillors are among the 25 new members and 40 current members appointed to South Australia's landscape boards.

A total of 95 applications were received from across the state for the eight regional boards responsible for managing landscapes.

Suzanne Scarman, Bruce Michael, Erika Lawley, Jenny Loftes, Adrian Shackley and Russell Johnstone were appointed to the Northern and Yorke Landscape Board for the first time, while presiding member Geoffrey White, Peter Angus and Sam Germein continue their terms.

Landscape board elections were scheduled for November 2022 but were cancelled after several organisations approached the government with concerns.

The Local Government Association and the Electoral Commission of South Australia, along with primary producer and environmental groups and the boards themselves, all raised concerns about the timing of the elections.

Instead, a robust and transparent process, which included a call for nominations, was held between August and September, with the minister directly appointing board members based on their skills, knowledge and experience.

"South Australia's landscape boards are vital in helping manage and protect our productive and natural landscapes," Minister for Climate, Environment and Water Susan Close said.

"I welcome new members and existing members who have shown a genuine commitment to landscape management in their respective regions.

"I would also like to thank outgoing members for their valuable contributions and wish them well for the future."

Dog waste forces golf club change

Jarryd Rowley
JOURNALIST

DOGS are no longer allowed on the Port Broughton golf course whilst games are being played.

Barunga West Council has also banned dogs without a lead from the course, even if no one is playing, in its revised Animal Management Plan.

owners allowing their pets to defecate on the course, but believed the changes should prevent any further occurrences.

"I believe the decision is a good one, too many times we would find waste on the course or biodegradable bags in the club's recycling bins," she said.

"We would normally recycle bottles from our bins, but the risk of injury to an animal or person."

Council CEO Maree Wauchope urged dog owners to be considerate of golfers and to pick up after themselves if they use the course in quiet periods.

"Keep your dog on-leash, and pick up your dog's poo with a plastic bag, the same way you always would, and dispose of it in general waste bins or take it with you," she said.

"Golf courses are beautiful open spaces and it can be hard not to want to run around on them and, for dogs, to do their business.

"But our golf course is well maintained and takes a lot of work and financial resources to upkeep.

"The golf course remains dog friendly, as long as dogs remain on a leash.

"Dog walkers may want to take their dogs for a long walk before going on the golf course to help get rid of any extra energy.

"And it may help them on the golf course too."

The amended Animal Management Plan will be submitted to the Dog and Cat Management Board for final approval.

"I believe the decision is a good one, too many times would we find waste on the course... We would normally recycle bottles from our bins, but because people aren't responsible, they have been covered in faeces."

- Helen Thornton, Port Broughton Golf Club president

The changes come after members of the Port Broughton Golf Club raised their concerns about animal waste found on the course.

Port Broughton Golf Club president Helen Thornton said she was disappointed by dog because people aren't responsible, they have been covered in faeces.

"I also believe the decision is one of safety as well; there are a lot of blind spots on the course and by not having dogs on the course during play, it prevents

BWC launches bin reforms

Jarryd Rowley
JOURNALIST

PUBLIC bins in Alford, Bute, Fisherman Bay, Kulpara, Port Broughton and Tickera will be removed by Barunga West Council in a bid to combat increased dumping of household and business waste.

Kulpara, Bute and Tickera are amongst the locations worst hit by the trash, with reports people from outside of the district are disposing of their waste while driving through the townships.

Baling twine, car mats, engine oil, personal belongings, concrete, blankets, pillows, syringes, tyres, mattresses, timber and even a box of kittens have been reported at public bins in the past few months.

Council staff have been required to manually empty the bins up to four times a week in the worst affected areas.

CEO Maree Wauchope said of disposing of the illegal waste properly has come at great cost for council and ratepayers.

“Education stickers on bins, warning people of the risk of prosecution have not been a deterrent,” she said.

“Council spends a significant amount of time, effort and money cleaning up and disposing of waste illegally dumped in public bins or on the sides of the roads.

“Public bins that are constantly used for household and business waste in locations like car parks where it is easy to abuse the bins, will now be removed.

“Council will continue to closely monitor any illegal dumping.”

ILLEGAL DUMPING... Barunga West Council acting manager for assets and infrastructure Daniel Rowley implores residents and visitors to dispose of their waste properly.

Barunga West Council will remove the following bins:

- Alford: a bin located by the RV park and post office
- Bute: bins near the hotel and skate park
- Fisherman Bay: a bin near the eastern playground

Yorke Peninsula pushes forward FOGO plans

YORKE Peninsula Council will continue to investigate the possible implementation of a food organics/green organics waste management service (FOGO).

As part of the next stage of consideration, council will be investigating costings, contract arrangements and a policy review.

Council received funding from Green Industries SA to complete a feasibility study of FOGO waste management options in 2020.

YPC currently has a green organic only collection available to residential properties which pay the three-bin service charge.

Mayor Darren Braund said the feasibility study considered the three main treatment options for organic waste — combustion, composting, and anaerobic digestion — all requiring a kerbside collection for transport to a treatment facility.

“In South Australia, the closest composting facility is at Dublin; however, other treatment options that could be established within the council area were also investigated,” he said.

“Additionally, council completed market research into its community views on food organics collection and the associated in-house management required, which demonstrated community willingness for the introduction of a FOGO service.”

The study provided indicative capital works costs associated with a new process facility and other associated costs, with the most cost-effective option being kerbside collection for transport to the nearest composting facility.

Council has approached Copper Coast and Barunga West Councils for advice from the roll-out of their FOGO implementations, with the key points made being to implement quickly, engage in education programs and to tolerate an increase in disposal to public bins during holiday periods.

Mr Braund said food waste contributes significant amounts of greenhouse gas emissions when disposed of to landfill.

“Both the state and federal governments have set targets to divert FOGO from landfill,” he said.

“Composting FOGO contributes to the circular economy, with SA the leader in the nation for use of the resultant composted material in landscaping, garden and horticultural products, particularly catering for SA’s broadacre vineyards and vegetable growers.”

New parking limit for Ellen Street

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

TIME limits have been imposed for two car parking bays on Ellen Street, Moonta.

Parking will now be limited to 15 minutes in these bays, as well as the two already signposted on Ryan Street, all adjacent the Moonta Post Office.

The time limit is set to free up access for daily mail and parcel deliveries, as well as for elderly customers who have difficulties finding a park close to the post office.

Copper Coast Council director development services Muller Mentz said the two existing bays on Ryan Street were not adequate to the needs of the community.

"Delivery trucks need to get access to the post office via Ellen Street," Mr Mentz said.

"This further supports the need for the bays on Ellen Street to be turned into limited parking.

"When the outdoor dining area for the Cornwall Hotel was approved, it was a requirement the 16 parks at the back of the hotel be made available to the public.

"From aerial photography, it appears this parking area is under-utilised and would easily be able to accommodate long-stay visitors of the hotel.

"Limited parking will still allow the general public to use the bays for short stops during normal working days and for longer stays over weekends."

Mayor Roslyn Talbot said it was important to have short-term parking options on the busy corner.

"I think we will now see people getting what they need before moving on from the parks," Mrs Talbot said.

"This will also keep traffic flowing and ensure the important post office service is accessible."

BETTER FLOW... Copper Coast Council mayor Roslyn Talbot said a 15-minute parking limit for a pair of bays along Ellen Street, Moonta, would help to keep traffic flowing.

Capella Street walking track scrapped

BARUNGA West Council has scrapped plans for a walking track along the Capella Street reserve, Port Broughton, amid concerns for walkers' safety.

The track was proposed to run through the reserve, which sits adjacent to the Port Broughton Golf Club, from Nelcebee Court through to Fisherman Bay Road.

Council CEO Maree Wauchope said local golfers expressed concerns people using the track might be injured by wayward balls.

"We understand the reserve is used relatively often by golfers who can't quite keep to the course," Ms Wauchope said.

"The plans for a walking track were part of the newly adopted Community Land Management Plan which will mean several locations, including Port Broughton's Parma Reserve, receive weeding, vegetation removal and general cleaning.

"Community feedback received during public consultation late last year has been considered in the recommendations to council for future works."

CAUTION... Barunga West Council administration officer Kelly Glenton at the Capella Street reserve, Port Broughton.

Residential rezoning proposed for east Kadina site

A PARCEL of land in the east of Kadina could be rezoned for residential housing.

State Minister for Planning Nick Champion initiated a Code Amendment which proposes to rezone 28 hectares of privately owned land, adjacent to Abbott Drive and Daddow Court, from deferred urban to neighbourhood.

Proponent of the amendment Lasopail Pty Ltd said the rezoning would support the logical expansion of residential development in the Kadina township.

"The town is experiencing demand for housing with the adjacent residential development nearing completion and only a few allotments remaining," Lasopail's proposal said.

"Extending the neighbourhood zone over the affected area is a logical and envisaged outcome for the continued expansion of Kadina.

"As a Deferred Urban Zone, the land has been identified as the next logical development stage.

"Deferred Urban limits land division which restricts the ability for residential development."

State gov to decide on final village expansion

EXPANSION... Copper Coast Lifestyle Village, Moonta, manager Jennifer Hennessy and Copper Coast Council elected member Brent Walker discuss the village's proposed 11-unit expansion proposal.

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

A REVISED expansion of the Copper Coast Lifestyle Village, Moonta, has been proposed and is awaiting state government approval.

Auscare, which owns the village, hopes to purchase less than 50 per cent of an allotment on Hills Road. The development would encompass about 6600 square metres of undeveloped Crown land.

The potential development includes 11 additional retirement units to support the growing demand for local housing.

Auscare has also agreed to contribute $3000 to help develop the allotment's remaining 9600sqm as a green space.

Various proposals for the expansion have been before Copper Coast Council for almost a year. CEO Russell Peate said extending the village had been a lengthy process.

"Copper Coast Lifestyle Village initially requested 1000sqm and subsequently requested the whole of the land be developed," Mr Peate said.

"This was advertised and there were 26 submissions in relation to the revocation of community land for the whole of the land.

"Council decided to not progress the proposal because of this."

A facilitator was engaged to progress an agreed outcome for the community and, as a result, a proposal accepted by all parties went out for consultation.

"In my view, the new proposal takes into account issues relating to Maria Court and surrounding residents, as well as the balance of the land being better developed for use by the community," Mr Peate said.

Mr Peate said council could

“In my view, the new proposal takes into account issues relating to Maria Court and surrounding residents, as well as the balance of the land being better developed for use by the community.”

– Russell Peate, Copper Coast Council CEO

match Auscare's $3000 contribution towards the green space.

Councillor Brent Walker said nearby residents, particularly along Maria Court, were firmly opposed to the potential development.

"We've brought the (proposed) fence line in 10 metres from Maria Court to give residents space to walk," Mr Walker said.

"Council will be left to develop the remaining Crown land which could include seating, paths and trees for shade."

If approved by the state government, the development will go out for tender, village manager Jennifer Hennessy said.

"We want to make it (the extension) look aesthetically pleasing as well as more user friendly," she said.

Shear success

A 24-HOUR shearing event has raised close to $50,000 for cancer research.

Organisers Dylan Hancock and Shawn Barnett shored a total 1677 sheep during the event, which was held at Stansbury on Friday, January 20.

The event exceeded fundraising aims set, with the funding set to be split between the McGrath Foundation and Prostate Cancer Foundation of Australia.

"The boys were hoping to get at least $10,000," Dylan's wife and event co-organiser Laura Hancock said.

"But we ended up with so much more than we thought."

Dylan and Shawn shored in two-hour intervals, shearing a sheep every 38.6 seconds, with others having to crutch extra sheep as they went to keep the event going.

BEST MEGA MURAL...Bute's silo mural is a shortlisted finalist in the Best Mega Mural and Best Rural Art categories at the Australian Street Art Awards.

YP silos named finalists for Street Art Awards

ARTISTIC endeavours on the Bute and Wallaroo silos are in line for major awards.

Bute's "Beaut" mural is shortlisted in the Best Mega Mural and Best Rural Art Awards at the Australian Street Art Awards.

Illuminart's silo light show Constellation, which was held at several rural South Australian locations, including Wallaroo, has been shortlisted for Best Street Art Festival or Event.

Barunga West Council mayor Leonie Kerley said she was excited the Bute silo had received the recognition, believing it had enticed more people to visit the area.

"The silo art project was 10 years in the making with the Bute 2000 Onwards Progress Association working tirelessly to make it happen," Mrs Kerley said.

"Council and the progress association successfully applied for a grant through the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal Tackling Tough Times Together program in 2021 to help fund the project.

"The Bute silo art project is unique to our region and has helped to attract visitors to the stunning Top of the Yorke since its completion last year."

Illuminart engagement officer Samantha Ray said she believed 'Constellation's listing served as an indication of all the hard work put in to make the light show possible.

"We had teams at each of the five locations and they are all super stoked to hear we have been shortlisted," Mrs Ray said. "It is such an outstanding project which really demonstrates the passions and artistry of our regional creators."

Australian Street Art Award winners will be announced on Friday, February 10.

Brian still getting kicks on harvest 66

Michelle Daw
JOURNALIST

WHEN 16-year-old Brian Cross carted his first load of grain from the family farm at Tickera in 1956, Robert Menzies was the Australian Prime Minister, the River Murray was experiencing its biggest floods to date and the end of an era neared for growers who delivered to the Wallaroo silos.

That summer, Brian worked with his 76-year-old grandfather, William Cross to bring in a bumper harvest, averaging 15 bags to the acre of barley (2.5 tonnes per hectare), and 12 bags/acre of wheat (2.4 t/ha).

The family also harvested a record oat crop of 89 bushels per acre or 6t/ha.

"It was the last year of bagged grain before bulk handling came in at Wallaroo in 1957-58 and we had to lump (carry) it all," Brian, now 82, said.

"Bags of wheat weighed about 180 pounds or 82 kilograms, barley was 150lb (68kg) and oats were about 120lb (54kg).

"At seeding time, the bags of fertiliser weighed about 187lb (85kg).

"In those days, everyone was fit.

"We had to bale hay, look after livestock, you were always doing something.

"I would lose a stone and a half (9.5 kilograms) over harvest.

"Nowadays it's all pulling levers and working on screens."

Brian and his wife Brenda moved to Wallaroo in 2006 and the property, Ely Farm, is run by their son-in-law and daughter, Michael and Judith Barker, and grandson, Henry.

Brian said his family had been on the property for 102 years and Henry was the fifth generation to work it.

The Cross family emigrated from England in 1863 and first took up farming land at Cunliffe in 1873.

In 1908, Brian's grandfather took up the property at Tickera which Brian named after the Cross ancestral hometown in East Cambridgeshire, England.

Brian said he always wanted to follow in the family's footsteps on the farm.

"Farming was my first love and the truck was my second love," he said.

Brian said he found carting the grain enormously satisfying as the culmination of a year of hard work and the calculated gambles on weather, rainfall, commodity prices and input costs which are part and parcel of farming.

Although there are still people he knows at the silos, he said the old days were more social as hundreds of trucks waited in line.

"I can remember when the grain testers used to put a ladder up against your truck and climb up and take a sample," he says.

"It would be nothing to wait five or six hours to unload.

"The service is so good now you don't get as much chance to speak people, only the people in front of you and the people behind you."

Brian has to pass a medical test to keep driving the truck, so thinks this harvest may well be his last behind the wheel of his trusty Dodge 361, built in 1980 and likely to be the last and only petrol-powered truck delivering to Wallaroo 2022.

He said other members of the family were not so keen on driving the "old girl" because of its lack of mod cons, including air conditioning.

This season is the first Brian has not been involved in reaping since he started working on the farm as a teenager.

But he is not ready to hang up his elastic-sided boots just yet.

"Now I'm mainly a gofer, I pick things up and tidy up around the place. I just come out here to be a nuisance," he said, with a twinkle in his eye.

KEEP ON TRUCKING... Henry Barker, Alec Loveridge, Max Loveridge and Brenda Cross celebrate Brian Cross's 66 years of grain carting.

Santa helps Violet Day fundraising

FATHER Christmas was again seated out front of Enfield Furnishers, Kadina, in the lead-up to the festive season.

Children and their families stopped to talk to him about their Christmas wishes, and have their photos taken with him.

Father Christmas also asked anyone who stopped by to make a gold coin donation to the Paige Weatherspoon Foundation, which raises awareness of meningococcal disease.

Generously, more than $700 was raised.

Father Christmas and helpers Len Munchenberg, Bev Prestwich, Paul Smith, Nicky Weatherspoon and Annette Smith said they were thrilled by the community's generosity and thank them for their kindness and support.

Stansbury CFS station cools down with climate control

LIONS Club of Stansbury Dalrymple has donated an air conditioner for the Stansbury CFS station control room.

“This has enabled the CFS volunteers to work in a more comfortable situation during the heat of summer, as well as providing a temperature controlled area for training throughout the year,” Lions president Jeff Brundell said.

“The unit has been in place for a while and volunteers have given it their seal of approval.”

Friends of the 1928 building

WOW, the Friends of the 1928 Building have taken a huge leap of faith.

Locals, and recently visitors to the SYP Show at Minlaton, received flyers telling them about the urgent need of funds to enable repairs and rehabilitation of the heritage-listed show building to be completed, ready for its centenary in 2028.

So, want to join the growing number of volunteers who are working hard to both raise the money and do much of the hands-on work to get this fascinating building ready for its return to its former glory?

All donations big or small are very welcome.

Contact a friends member to become an active volunteer – we need help with the popular sausage sizzles, cleaning up the building and some shovel work.

Thanks to Bank SA Minlaton, where donations may be left made in person, or by direct debit.

The friends are also immensely grateful to Michelle Hawthorne from Minlaton History Group for her expertise and willing support in devising the leaflet.

Lions help train dogs

FOR more than 40 years, the Australian Lions Hearing Dogs program has been providing deaf or hard of hearing Australians a set of furry ears free of charge.

ALHD, based in the Adelaide Hills, has now delivered professionally trained Hearing Assistance Dogs to more than 650 Australians.

Funds raised from Lions clubs across Australia support the training program, which costs up to $40,000 per dog.

"Hearing loss hurts more than just the individuals inflicted as it flows onto their friends and families," an ALHD spokesperson said.

"This is where Australian Lions Hearing Dogs makes a real difference.

"The use of hearing aid devices and Hearing Assistance Dogs is providing significant quality of life improvements, in particular, improved interpersonal relationships, improved mental and physical health, extended social activity and community interaction, reduction in discrimination against the person with the hearing loss and improved safety and security.

"At Verdun, the dogs complete intensive training to alert their owner to at least 10 common household sounds, including phone rings, smoke alarms, doorbell rings, baby cries, alarm clocks and oven timers."

The dogs also complete public access training, involving teaching the dogs to assist their owners to access public spaces safely and confidently.

"When dogs are placed with recipients, members of the sponsoring club spend up to three months assessing the dog in the home setting," the spokesperson said.

"Some Lions members even board newly born puppies for up to 10 months, until they are ready to go into the intensive training program."

Copper Coast Probus childhood stories

COPPER Coast Probus Club, Moonta, president Joan Zilm welcomed those present at the club's January meeting.

She led a minute of silence for members Jeanette Graham and Charles Mines, who had recently passed away.

Joan's quote for the day was from Mother Theresa, "Joy is very infectious, therefore always be joyful".

She welcomed new member Trevor Burris who will be inducted at the February meeting.

"Guest" speakers were members Ray Walker and John "Jock" McAllister.

Ray spoke about his childhood growing up near London, England, during World War II.

At age 6, children from his school were evacuated to various camps; one was near the French coast.

When a bomb was dropped close by, they moved on to a castle in Cheshire, then again to Worsley Green, High Wickham.

In all, Ray was away from his parents for nearly five years.

Jock explained the experiences of his family as £10 poms immigrating to Australia aboard the HMAS Gorgic.

The ship's crew had been recruited from around Liverpool, and most were pretty rough.

Jock and his brother were in separate cabins with other boys, his father was in another all-men cabin and his mother in an all-women cabin. They met for meals.

He related how the crew threw most of the dining chairs, crockery, et cetera, overboard.

A policeman was stabbed at Aden, and the head steward was attacked as they left the Suez Canal and it was a rush to get him to Fremantle for treatment.

Disembarking at Melbourne, the family travelled on the Overland train to Adelaide, settling into Finsbury Hostel.

Joan thanked Ray and Jock for their interesting talks.

Next meeting is at the Senior Citizens clubrooms on Monday, February 20; anyone interested in finding out about Probus is welcome to join us there.

Gabby's bookshop dream comes to life

Advertising Promotion

WHEN Gabby Morby opened the doors to her Kadina bookshop One More Page in early December, it was the realisation of a lifelong dream to share her love of books.

The light and airy shop on Hallett Street is just the place to indulge your own love of reading, to encourage young readers, or to find the perfect gift.

Gabby stocks a range of books for all ages, along with T2 specialty tea products, board games, and bookish giftware from candles to lapel pins, socks to notebooks, and bookmarks to tote bags.

"I'm an avid reader and have loved reading for as long as I can remember," she said.

"It wouldn't matter if it was 2am or if I was already 10 minutes late somewhere, I just couldn't put a good book down.

"I have been saying 'one more page!' ever since I started reading, so it's the perfect name for my shop.

"When people walk into One More Page, they will find a calm space, where they can take a break from the busy world outside and enjoy a moment to themselves around books which inspire, motivate, educate, and help them escape for a little while."

Gabby said the local community had already been so supportive and welcoming to her venture.

"I'm just so happy to be here, and the fact many others are happy the shop is here, brings me an incredible amount of joy," she said. "I don't think I've stopped smiling since I opened!

"I love hearing about the books other people have loved and why, and enjoy helping people find their next favorite read.

"It has been so heart-warming to reach other book lovers like myself and give them an easy and local option for buying books.

"I look forward to being open a very long time and to seeing more and more book lovers discovering One More Page."

Gabby said she was beyond grateful to her fiancé Sam Angove and family for their invaluable support of her new venture.

Schott strong in NTFL rep game

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

Tom Schott, who played with CMS Crows last season, is currently playing for the PINT Football Club in the Northern Territory Football League in Darwin.

Schott lined up for the NTFL state side alongside the likes of Steven Motlop and Harley Bennell against South Fremantle at TIO Stadium on Saturday, January 21.

Part of the midfield rotations, Schott had a strong impact on the contest, especially in the second half.

The NTFL Buffaloes were three points down after a free-flowing first half, with the South Bulldogs up 6.6 (42) to 6.3 (39), after a post-siren goal from Bennell.

The Buffaloes flexed their muscle in the second half, kicking four unanswered goals in the third quarter, to run out 12-point winners, 12.9 (81) to 10.9 (69).

"It was a really great experience," Schott said.

"I'm enjoying my footy up here.

"It is certainly different than football down south, and you need to adjust to the humidity."

Schott has played 10 games for PINT this season and has been amongst their best players on seven occasions.

NTFL REPRESENTATIVE... Tom Schott (right), CMS Crows, played for the NTFL against South Fremantle.

Outbacks record three wins

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

Minlaton's Angus Glazbrook has returned from his inaugural appearance with the SA Outbacks at the Australian Country Cricket Championships in Canberra.

The tournament ran from January 13 to 20, with SA finding form in its middle matches to finish strongly.

SA was bowled out for 187 in its first match against New South Wales, with NSW chasing down the total in 34.5 overs.

In day two's clash against eventual title winner Victoria Country, SA made 108 with Victoria making quick work in its chase.

Glazbrook made his debut in this match, batting in the lower middle order, and making four runs from nine balls; he also took 1/21 off four overs.

SA tried to chase down Western Australia's total of 7/222 in the third match of the championships, but finished with 9/130.

Glazbrook remained 16 not out in this innings and finished with 1/43 from 10 overs.

The Outbacks' fortunes changed in round four against the Australian Capital Territory.

Batting first, the side made 237 with Glazbrook chipping in with 14 runs.

SA bowled the ACT out for 227, giving the Outbacks a 10-run triumph.

Glazbrook was also important with ball in hand, claiming 1/38 from nine overs.

The round five clash was the Outbacks' best win of the tournament.

Queensland batted first and produced a highly competitive total of 266.

Glazbrook sent down six overs for 1/32 and helped the side secure a one-wicket victory.

The Outbacks played the Philippines in their final game, bowling out their opponents for 138.

While the run chase was a little shaky for a period, with SA losing four wickets for six runs to be 5/62, they eventually won by four wickets.

SA Outbacks coach Paul Pasculli said Glazbrook bowled with good control and changes of pace.

"The first trip away is certainly a big learning curve," Glazbrook said.

"I took a wicket every day I played which I was happy with.

"Most of the decks (pitches) were pretty modest for a national championships event.

"I bowled in tandem with our number one spinner Dave Golder a fair bit during the tournament.

"I'm keen to have another crack next summer if I'm asked back"

Indi steps up on state's stage

SECOND PLACE... Curramulka bowler Indi Vass was runner-up at the BowlsSA under 18 singles championship at Holdfast Bay, Adelaide on Friday, January 20. She topped her section, going undefeated with 31 shots up, before winning her semifinal and booking a place in the gold medal match. Playing against Evie Exton from Marion, Indi was down by just three shots after 17 ends, but couldn't capture a lead by match's end. Indi is a fierce competitor for Curramulka in the SYP competition along with her sister Ava, who also competed in the championships. The duo just missed out on making the final four of the pairs competition.

The Eagles quicks ripped through the Seahorses' top order to have the hosts 6/81, before being bundled out for 134, with West Torrens recording a huge 252-run win.

Reuther grabbed the two key wickets of Redbacks squad member Liam Scott and Ben Bullimore, to finish with 2/22 off five overs; he also took the final catch of the match to seal victory.

Short finished with 0/10 off five overs.

SACA women's first grade

McCauley made seven runs, including a four, and took 0/39 for the match.

SACA men's second grade

West Torrens fell 26 runs short of Glenelg's total of 9/208 on Saturday, January 21.

"The Finger Roll"

REPORT BY

A shock draw between the two top teams was the story of the round in the Yorke Valley A Men.

Arthurton and Paskeville slogged it out, neither triumphing on Friday night, January 20. Tyrese Wanganeen and Kye McDonald combined for 31 points including seven three-pointers, while Sam Jacobs was at his dominant best, finishing with 24 to nearly pull his Tigers over the line. Pasky still sits a game behind Arthurton and 2.5 wins ahead of Kadina.

In the A Women, Pasky landed a huge upset against ladder leader Bute to bring up its fourth win and hand the Roosters their second loss of the season.

Abby Whitaker led the way for the red and white with three triples, yet an even scoring effort helped Pasky secure a gritty one-point victory.

Yorke Valley Basketball Association will now have a week off for Australia Day, but do not fear — I will be back for your round 13 tips next week.

Moonta and Wallaroo in control of season

Joan Hill
REPORT BY

Moonta and Wallaroo continue to dominate the 2022-23 Northern Yorke Peninsula Bowling Association season in all three competitions, open (Saturday), women (Thursday) and men (Wednesday).

In Saturday division I, Kadina has always made life hard for Moonta and Wallaroo, especially come finals.

Moonta div I didn't start the season well in this competition but it's now in the top four.

Paskeville and Arthurton have been the big improvers in 2022-23; it will be interesting to see if either or both feature in finals.

They play each other in the last minor round game and that could be the decider.

Saturday competition

DIVISION I

All home sides had big wins; the closest game was at Bute which defeated Arthurton 103-89.

Moonta defeated Maitland 106-71, Kadina won against Ardrossan 125-60 and Wallaroo 107 defeated Port Broughton 60.

Moonta's win put it into third, equal on premiership points with, but six shots up from, fourth-placed Paskeville.

Fifth-placed Arthurton is two points behind, but 131 shots down from, Paskeville.

Moonta's run home should help it hold onto third.

DIVISION II

All home sides also had wins in this division.

Closest game was Port Broughton versus Bute 104-90.

Kadina 104 (three teams up) defeated Moonta Blue 104-79 and top side Moonta Red defeated Alford 118-82.

Fourth-placed Wallaroo Mines defeated Ardrossan 109-79 and Arthurton, with all teams up, defeated Paskeville 110-76.

DIVISION III

There were two home and two away wins in div III.

Port Broughton travelled to Maitland and won the closest match of the day in all divisions, 68-59.

Wallaroo White travelled to Ardrossan and won 93-47.

Other wins came from Moonta Blue 66 to Wallaroo Mines 57, and Wallaroo Blue defeated Kadina 72-48.

This Saturday

DIVISION I

When Wallaroo and Paskeville played earlier in the season, Paskeville had a good win; this week they meet at Wallaroo where the home side will win easily.

The closest game could be Port Broughton versus Kadina; when these two sides met in Kadina it was close and it likely will be again.

Bute travels to Maitland and should win. Now it's back the four, Moonta will want to win at Ardrossan.

DIVISION II

Kadina hosts Wallaroo White. Can they win this one?

Alford, at home, would love to have a win against Arthurton.

Wallaroo Mines travels to Paskeville where I can see the visitors having a win.

Top side Moonta Red plays at Bute and should have a win.

Moonta Blue is at home against Port Broughton and should win, and Wallaroo Blue will be looking for a win at Ardrossan.

DIVISION III

Likely winners are Moonta Blue, Maitland and Port Broughton.

The closest game should be Wallaroo White at home against top side Moonta Red.

Thursday competition

DIVISION I

Ardrossan had a three-shot win, with one team up, at Kadina; this was the closest margin of the day.

Carrying their side were Barbara Lee-Archer, Charmaine Simmons, Cheryl Rudiger and Meg Brown, 36-7.

Arthurton again proved it is the side to beat when it is playing at home, defeating Bute 88-56.

Maitland, playing at home, had two teams up and lost to top side Moonta by only 10 shots.

DIVISION II

Moonta Blue remained at the top of the ladder after defeating Wallaroo by 17 shots; Moonta had three teams up.

Fourth-placed Wallaroo Mines won 86-62 at Alford.

Paskeville, playing at home, won 94-64 against Ardrossan.

Paskeville is at home for its next two games, against Moonta Blue and Ardrossan.

The Australia Day public holiday means there will be no Thursday competition games this week.

Ardrossan Wednesday: With the closest possible successful finish, Blue slipped home against Port Vincent Gold 39-38. The marginally better rink I Roberts, G Covino and M Shaw (sk) scrambled in the run home to be two up entering the final end, and just hung on for a 20-19 victory. White won against Port Vincent Black 43-33. Best rink F Paroczy, S Grimes and N Marsh (sk) fell behind in a close game before breaking the shackles to dominate the second half for a 23-13 win. Ardrossan Thursday: Division II travelled to Paskeville and lost by 30 shots, 64-94. Even though Paskeville outscored Ardrossan, one team managed a draw. Maxine Stennett, Heather Cowen, Kath Lea and Frank Paroczy had a 14-4 lead earlier in the game, but Pasky slowly gained shots to finish the match 26-41. Trish Burman, Marlene Houghton, Ray Jackson and Margie Tonkin also started strongly and drew level at the 14th end, 12-all. However, their opponents continued to apply pressure and won 19-13. Similarly, Denise Anderson, Irene Greig, Keith Stanner and Mark Quinn were even at the 15th end only to let Pasky sneak ahead to finish 12-19. The remaining team struggled going down by 17 shots. Travelling to Kadina, div I squeaked in a win 78-75. After a substantial loss the week before, Barb Lee-Archer, Charmaine Simmons, Cheryl Rudiger and Meg Brown were a force to be reckoned with, winning 36-7. They led from the onset and never looked in doubt. What a difference a week makes! Pat Coombe, Belinda Meredith, Kath Bradke and Jackie Errington battled against the wind, chasing their opponents all day. They did a great job to not allow the scores to blow out further, finishing 14-19. Coming within two shots on the 16th end proved disheartening for Annette Rowntree, Rosie Stern, Lorraine Linke and Cheryl Werner. Unable to score further, Ardrossan finished 14-22. It was a day they would rather forget for the remaining team. CS

Ardrossan Saturday: Division I lost soundly to Kadina 60-125. Best rink B Hicks, F Stern, P McCarthy and L Rich (sk) jumped to an early lead which, by midgame, had eroded, leaving a neck and neck combat for a lean 22-23 loss. Jumping to the lead early, D Adcock's rink then struggled to score against its dominant opponent. C Vargas's team was in difficulty all game, but did win the final three ends. Div II went down to Wallaroo Mines 79-109. Best rink G David, J Burgess, R Stern and G Cook (sk) shot out of the blocks for a good lead, answering the challenge of a strong comeback with a slim 24-22 victory. D Johnson's team passed its opponent midgame, but ended with scores even before faltering in the final ends for a 22-28 defeat. T Pritchard's rink had a good start but was overrun in the later ends for a 20-33 loss. C Simmons's team struggled early but was competitive in the second half in its 13-26 loss. After a sound start, D Anderson's team was overpowered and suffered large scores by its opponent for a 20-33 defeat. I Robert's rink also shot to the lead early before its awakened opponent dominated the remainder of the game. LBB

SHOOTING

Maitland Rifle Club: Results 21-1-23 — After a four-week break from competing in our favourite sport, nine members and two visitors enjoyed a mild day with a moderately stiff south-easterly wind across the range. Shooters gathered early for a wonderful barbecue lunch supplied by Dave Hindmarsh, ably prepared by Barry "master barbecuer" Tucker. To help catch up on a few lost shoots, the final stage of the Maitland Crash Trophy and the first stage of the Francis Trophy from 500 yards were contested. First round honours in F standard A grade went to Bill Gillis with the best round of the day, 57.05, and Lynton Wakefield, the only competitor in F open, scored 55.03. Greg Klopp shot a 54.01 in the F standard B grade, second round top scores F standard A grade Roger Francis 56.02, Lynton 51.02 and Dave Hindmarsh in F standard B grade a handy 55.01. The scores indicate it was not an easy day by any means and although the wind appeared to be fairly constant, it certainly wasn't, with very quick drop offs and at times swinging, changing direction. This week is the second stage of the Francis Trophy from 900 yards. Results: F standard, A grade: Roger Francis 55.02, 56.02, 111.04, 7, 118.04; Bill Gillis 57.05, 54.02, 111.07, 4, 115.07. B grade: Barry Tucker 52.03, 51.01, 103.04, 14, 117.04; Greg Klopp 54.01, 52.00, 104.01, 10, 116.01; Chris Tucker 51.00, 52.01, 103.01, 9, 112.01; David Hindmarsh 53.02, 55.01, 108.03, 2, 110.03; Chris Bavistock 50.00, 46.00, 96.00, 13, 109.00. F target rifle: Lynton Wakefield 55.03, 51.02, 106.05, 0, 106.05. Handicap points: Roger Francis 3, Barry Tucker 2, Greg Klopp 1. RF

Wallaroo Sailing Club

You couldn't have asked for a better day for sailing as blue sky, sunshine and a gentle breeze moved young sailors across the water on Sunday, January 22.

We had a wonderful group of enthusiastic trainees, some with sailing experience and others just beginning their sailing careers.

With such a mixed bag, instructors were kept busy, giving instruction on rigging boats, sailing with trainees or standing and giving directions.

It was a busy but fun and enjoyable morning of sailing.

The afternoon sailors found the winds becoming very fickle, making sailing hard work. Some were becalmed while others sailed straight past.

As always, crews were competitive and there were brilliant tales of some great sailing told on the deck at the end of the day.

The wooden paddle was awarded to the Fireball for a spectacular capsize which left the spinnaker and sheets wrapped around the spars and the mast, leading to a prolonged recovery, and a lot of good-humoured sledging on the deck after racing.

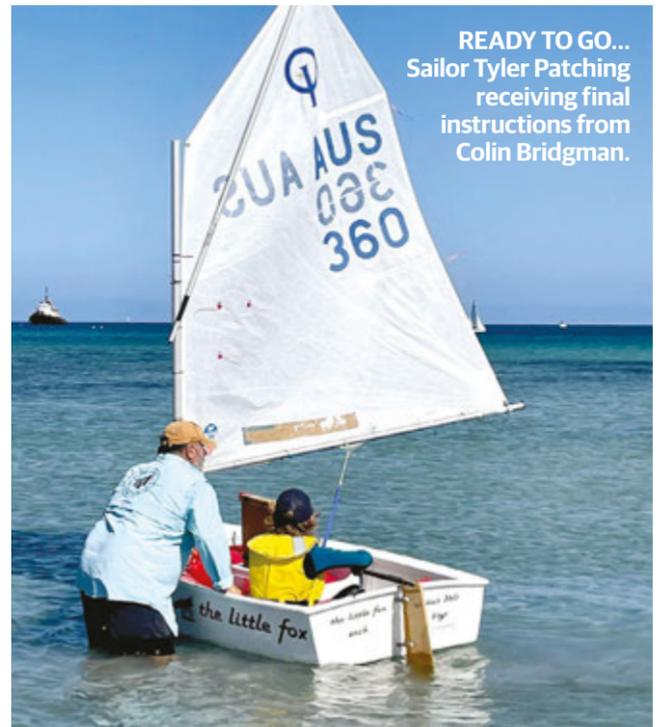

It was a great day on the water.

The sailing club is open to the public for meals on Friday nights and Sundays; please book to avoid disappointment by ringing Margaret on 0419 178 988.

If you would like to try sailing, drop in and have a chat or simply come along to watch the fun on the water, have a drink and enjoy the great vibe.

If radio control sailing is your thing, we can help you with that too.

Stunning waterfront home

THIS is a stunning home with more features than most, according to Blights Real Estate property consultant Neville Hibbard.

"It offers a low maintenance and energy efficient (including solar panels) three-bedroom, two-bathroom home to give you more time to enjoy the important things in life like relaxing, fishing and entertaining," Neville says.

"The kitchen is spacious and well appointed, overlooking the large lounge/dining area.

"This leads to a versatile indoor/outdoor area (7m x 3m), which can be opened to suit the weather, and a covered 15m x 3.6m entertaining deck to enjoy life on the marina.

"This area has fencing with a lockable gate at the bottom of the garden to ensure young ones don't go onto the pontoon unsupervised.

"The master bedroom has a walk-in robe and stylish ensuite while the bathroom features a bath.

"The home has porcelain tiles throughout and custom-built commercial grade sliding doors.

"There is also a double garage under the main roof, plus a single pergola with extra length for the boat. On the side is a vegie garden in raised beds, which can be easily removed if not needed.

"This is a stunning home and, as it's not located on the island, you have easy access to all Wallaroo has to offer."

Location, location

WITH character by the bucket-load, this 1880s stone home is sure to impress, according to Ray White Yorke Peninsula sales principal David Bussenschutt.

“Recently renovated and situated in the heart of Kadina, just a short walk away from the brand-new K hub, this is perfect for first home buyers, retirees, and potential investors,” David says.

“Right from the front door, you’ll notice a stunning stained glass entryway and high ornate ceilings which continue throughout the home.

“Both bedrooms have ceiling fans and original fireplaces, the master also has a split-system air conditioner.

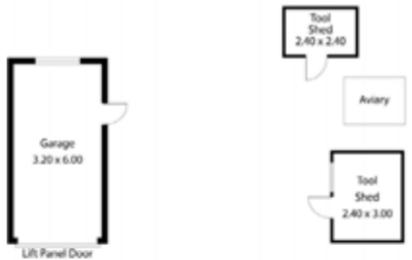

“The kitchen/dining room has had a major facelift with brand new cabinetry, benchtops and stainless steel fixtures.

“There is another air conditioner in the front lounge which, like the bedrooms, features a fireplace, carpet and big windows.

“At the rear of the home is the bathroom and separate laundry room.

“Outdoors is easy to maintain with just pavers, grass and a big shady bottle-brush tree and your choice of garden sheds, plus a lock-up garage accessible via the gravel driveway down the side of the home.

“As for gorgeous street appeal, you can’t go wrong with a red roof and picket fence.”

Pulling the profit levers for tackling sandy soils

A PROFIT and risk analysis of various techniques to tackle constraints in sandy soils will feature at a Grains Research and Development Corporation update at Bute on Thursday, February 9.

It is part of a sandy soils project led by CSIRO Agriculture and Food research team leader Dr Therese McBeath, based on six years of research and field trials on farms across South Australia and Victoria, including sites at Bute.

Dr McBeath said productivity on sandy soils was commonly limited by soil constraints that reduced root growth, tillering and grain number.

"Constraints can include a compacted or hard layer preventing root proliferation, a water repellent surface layer causing poor crop establishment, soil pH issues of both acidity and alkalinity, and/or poor nutrient supply," Dr McBeath said.

Recent work has focused on consolidating knowledge of constraints, optimising machinery set-up and selection, predicting crop responses to treatments such as ripping and deep spading, and analysing profit and risk implications.

Dr McBeath said there was recognition across the grain growing industry that successful use of amelioration techniques required understanding the constraints and how to best tackle them through engineering.

She said knowing how to integrate amelioration techniques into whole-farm management was also critical, including managing post amelioration traffic, seeding and crop sequences.

"Recent surveys of growers in southern region landscapes indicate 50 per cent of growers have ameliorated some sand in the past five years and they plan to double the amount of sand ameliorated in the next five," Dr McBeath said.

"A profit-risk analysis can help

RIP IT UP... Growers get an in depth look at techniques to tackle sandy soils at a roadshow at Bute in September 2022.

growers and advisers think through the relevant components of the costs, the expected response and financial risks associated with amelioration of deep sands."

Dr McBeath's presentation at Bute will focus on high soil disturbance interventions, such as deep ripping and spading which requires specialised machinery to break up compacted or hard-setting layers and/or mixing of repellent layers.

The update will also feature presentations from agronomists Sam Trengove and Jordan Bruce, both of Trengove Consulting in Bute.

Mr Trengove will provide key insights from local trials on managing powdery mildew and stripe rust in wheat, while Mr Bruce will present on developing strong foundations for lentil agronomy, based on local trial work.

Dr Navneet Aggarwal of the South Australian Research and Development Institute will present on broad leaf weed control in lentils and Dr Kenton Porker of CSIRO will outline key strategies to unlock the potential of cereal crops in higher rainfall years.

Tickets are available for $30 and include morning tea and lunch; to book a seat, visit grdc.com.au/events.

Lentil processing plant in the works

Michelle Daw
JOURNALIST

LENTIL growers on Yorke Peninsula will soon have a new option for selling their produce, with work underway on a splitting and cleaning plant at Dublin to process pulses.

Australian Grain Export is building the plant, which will also process lentils which do not meet quality parameters for bulk exports, to complement its existing bulk packing facilities.

The new plant, which is due for completion in April, will grade, skin and split peas and beans for wholesale in 25 kilogram or 50kg bags and there are plans to expand this in the future to bags for retail.

AGE pulse trader Will Alexander said the splitting and cleaning plant would enable value-adding of locally grown pulses for export markets.

"It will give growers more options, because we can deal with minor quality issues for peas or beans which otherwise would have had to go into the feed market for a lower price," he said.

"It will also give us more options for trade because we can access more markets with a wider range of products."

Mr Alexander said SA lentil growers had produced excellent yields and quality for the 2022-23 harvest.

"Yorke Peninsula is one of the best areas in Australia for lentils," he said. "Acreage under lentils in Australia has been steady but this year some more areas could go into lentils."

AGE, which started in Maitland in 1996, exports grain and pulses directly to countries including India, Sri Lanka, Indonesia, Pakistan, Bangladesh, China, Japan, Egypt, the United Arab Emirates and Gulf states.

AGE's Dublin site has upright silos, sheds and bunkers and packs shipping containers to be delivered to Port Adelaide for export.

Discovery to improve lentil choices

AUSTRALIAN researchers have discovered a gene in the fungal pathogen causing ascochyta blight which triggers disease resistance in lentils, helping researchers to advise growers on lentil varieties with strong genetic resistance.

The discovery by researchers from the Centre for Crop and Disease Management in collaboration with the South Australian Research and Development Institute, was published in the scientific journal Molecular Plant Pathology in October.

Researchers found some lentil varieties carried a gene which was able to recognise a key fungal protein normally responsible for disease development, which instead triggered a defence response, leaving certain lentil varieties asymptomatic.

CCDM researcher and co-author Dr Bernadette Henares said this was quite different to their usual approach to genetic improvement of crops where they try to breed out the genes involved in response to toxic proteins from the pathogen.

“Furthermore, in Australia the pathogen population can be one of two forms, and the form type will determine whether it triggers the defence response or not,” Dr Henares said.

“This is exciting news as it has led to the development of a laboratory test — similar to the PCR-based Covid-19 test — that has potential to inform growers which variety of lentil to grow for maximum resistance, based on the fungal gene present in the paddock.

“The laboratory test has potential, with a little further work, to be deployed as an in-field test, and is showing promise in becoming an essential decision-support tool for growers to use when selecting their lentil varieties.”

Dr Henares said the research revealed two types of ascochyta pathogen — pathotype 1 which doesn't cause disease on PBA Hurricane XT, PBA Hallmark XT, PBA Bolt and other varieties which carry the same resistance, but does cause disease on Nipper.

The other type, pathotype 2, is damaging to PBA Hurricane XT, PBA Hallmark XT and PBA Bolt, but not Nipper.

“If we can diagnose which pathotype of ascochyta is in the grower's paddock or stubble, then we can let them know, for example, if PBA Hurricane XT might be susceptible to the ascochyta pathotype that is present in their paddock, and suggest they choose a different variety,” Dr Henares said.

SARDI pulse pathologist and co-author Sara Blake said knowing which pathotype was present in the paddock would be useful, but would need to be added to other tools in the toolkit.

“If used in conjunction with disease resistance ratings, along with rotation history, knowing about the presence of volunteer inoculum, along with knowing more about neighbouring properties as spores can travel up to 100m, this test could be quite helpful,” she said.

“Growers could use it to determine their disease risk and work out how proactive they need to be with monitoring and it could also help them plan their fungicide strategy.”

GRDC invests to unify trade, market services

GRAINS Research and Development Corporation has committed more than $17.5 million over four years to Grains Australia Limited to bolster the competitiveness and profitability of the nation's grain sector across the value chain in domestic and international markets.

Grains Australia was established by GRDC in 2020 and delivers services and functions on behalf of the sector, classification, trade and market access, market information and education with the aim of ensuring Australia has a collaborative and unified approach.

The Australian grains sector is worth $16.7 billion on average each year with grain growers producing around 46.8 million tonnes of grain annually, according to the latest figures from the Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics and Sciences.

GRDC chairperson and grain grower John Woods said the decision to invest in Grains Australia on behalf of the nation's grain growers was a critical, considered move to support the sector's long-term competitiveness and profitability.

"During the most recent season we faced harvest challenges and crop downgrades in eastern Australian and supply chain issues in the west, so it is more apparent than ever consolidating industry functions and services is critical for our industry," Mr Woods said.

"Marketplace dynamics are changing, and national and international markets and supply chain logistics continue to be volatile and challenging and are likely to remain that way into the future.

"There has never been a more important time to have a collaborative and unified approach.

"Grains Australia is leading the way for the industry and playing a core role in managing variety classification, market access, market information and education."

Grains Australia chairperson Terry Enright said the funding of the organisation was an important investment in the future for the nation's grain growers.

"Now GRDC's decision to continue investing in the work of Grains Australia means we can continue to deliver the critical functions required to support the Australian grains industry's development and profitability," he said.

"We service the connection between what the market wants and what the industry can provide, enabling a value exchange between Australian growers and our end-users around the world."

Grains Australia will focus on key programs in the future, including the industry's first pulse classification framework.

Fleishman Is in Trouble

THE eight-part FX series Fleishman Is in Trouble, based on the 2019 book of the same name and streaming on Disney+, is well worth a watch.

I knew very little about the source material before I started watching, only deciding to give it a go after hearing about it on a podcast ad.

Toby Fleishman (Jesse Eisenberg) is a 40-something-year-old hepatologist, a career looked down upon by his Upper East Side acquaintances in pharmaceuticals and finance.

When Toby's 15 year marriage ends, it sends him into a world he doesn't understand, a world where he is a wanted quantity.

He starts to feel stability, even trying online dating, but then one night Rachel (Claire Danes) leaves their 11- and 9-year-olds at his door without warning.

She disappears and is totally uncontactable, with Toby trying to pull together the pieces of how he got to his current situation, with some unexpected outcomes.

The casting is something else, and was a conscious decision to use Eisenberg, Danes, Adam Brody and Lizzy Caplan as key characters, as the target audience would have seen them act in roles in their prime.

While the series stalls slightly in the middle, the downfall of having a rich universe and backstory to create, it never made me want to stop watching.

A huge reason for that is the casting, and the acting, particularly by Danes in the penultimate episode Me Time.

The key to this adaptation, I think, is that the book's writer Taffy Brodesser-Akner also created the TV show, writing all but one episode.

She lives and breathes the material, conceived during her time as a writer at The New York Times, and uses it to delve into divorce and all facets of it.

The series is self-reflective, and does make you wonder how your choices will shape your life, about lost connections and missed moments of time.

It's a guttural feeling in some places, you can't quite shake it.

And for that reason, you don't want to.

You want the moments to stick, in the hope you learn something, that you don't become something you've seen on the screen.

#Throwback

This day in history

January 24, 1931: Russian prima ballerina Anna Pavlova died of pneumonia at age 49.

January 24, 1984: Apple Computer Inc unveiled the Macintosh personal computer.

January 24, 2018: Former US Olympic team doctor Larry Nassar was found guilty of molesting more than 150 girls and was sentenced up to 175 years in prison.

What's been Trending

Netflix Curse? All players who participated in the Netflix series Break Point have been knocked out of the Australian Open, leading some to believe the series was bad luck to those who participated, as had previously happened in the F1 format of the show, Drive to Survive.

Pup fined: Former Australian men's cricket captain Michael Clarke and partner Jade Yarbrough have been fined by Queensland Police over an altercation in Noosa earlier this month. The pair were filmed fighting and shouting expletives in a park, and received expiations for being public nuisances.

Starscopes

♈ ARIES—March 21-April 20
Work mates are inconsistent and a loved one is surprisingly dramatic. Be alert to a financial opportunity in the domestic environment. Your will power is low, particularly regarding diet.

♉ TAURUS—April 21-May 22
Emotional strain eases up during this social week, with activities ranging from the very earthy to the glittering and glamorous. By the weekend you stumble on a solution to a domestic dilemma.

♊ GEMINI—May 23-June 21
Every rule has an exception, as you see throughout the week. Someone you love may need a health hint - issue it by Friday. A favourable financial announcement arrives when least expected.

♋ CANCER—June 22-July 22
Don't feel obligated to defend a point of view to a critical friend. The weekend accents nostalgia. A loving gesture puts you in a sentimental mood. Status at the workplace increases.

♌ LEO—July 23-August 22
Your memory plays games with you so double check your facts. You bring a touch of class to a weekend happening. A romantic debate is settled by Friday. Selling is favoured all week.

♍ VIRGO—August 23-September 22
You could find yourself purchasing a new wardrobe by the end of the week, taking on the role of consultant, writer or artist. Opt for more spontaneity on the weekend. Contact out-of-town relatives, even if its not your turn.

♎ LIBRA—September 23-October 22
This is a mystery week. Among the offerings a sullen acquaintance turns into charm personified. A missing object is found in the unlikely place and a trip becomes more surprising with each twist.

♏ SCORPIO—October 23-November 21
Remember those recent ventures? Well, this is the week to realize substantial gains. It's also a week that favours house hunting, expanding educational horizons and avoiding gossip types.

♐ SAGITTARIUS—November 22-December 22
If possible, tackle whole jobs rather than single sections. A loved one may be cynical, but don't press. Intuitive gifts are especially strong after the weekend.

♑ CAPRICORN—December 23-January 20
Your ideas are valuable things, so guard them closely. On the other hand, express love more freely - to your romance partner and especially to youngsters. News of an upcoming visit brightens the weekend.

♒ AQUARIUS—January 21-February 19
Every old saying has a new meaning, from beauty is in the eye of the beholder, to haste is to waste. An expected payment may be slow in coming. Healthwise, don't laugh off aches and pains.

♓ PISCES—February 20-March 20
Your taste is impeccable - but also leans towards the expensive. Your parties, intimate dinners or grand buffets are memorable. Spend more time encouraging loved ones to realize their potential.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Your approach to life and above all, to romance is one of optimism. You are rarely at a loss of words, which in your case is both a positive and negative trait. Imagination will be your best friend this year so use it to develop personal and professional relationships.

Australia Day recipe, seafood pizza –

Ingredients: Shelled and deveined SA prawns, scallops, crabmeat, anchovies, sardines, mozzarella cheese, olives, oregano, basil, tomato paste, chillies, chorizo.

Preparation: Spread the pizza base with the tomato and chilli sauce/paste. Dry seafood with a paper towel, chop chorizo and add across entire pizza. Halve the sardines and add with the anchovies, olives and herbs. Finally add thinly sliced mozzarella cheese and cook in a pizza oven for 25 mins.

Wallaroo: Boat crews launched early to avoid the strong afternoon southerly winds and fished off the edge of the ferry channel and at Myponie Point late last week for gar, squid and a few blue swimmer crabs. The jetty had tommy ruff (Australian herring) and a few squid.

Moonta Bay/Port Hughes: Gar and small squid were in Moonta Bay in the late afternoons and again down off Coopers and Rifle Butts Beaches. Blueys have been out from Cape Elizabeth and from the two jetties, and rat kingfish in the steamer channel.

Point Turton: Squid and small King George whiting were caught off Point Souttar and on the drift in Hardwicke Bay, but large on-water boating traffic was a contention. Jetty anglers landed a few squid and garfish after dark.

Marion Bay/Stenhouse Bay: Strong southerlies continued to belt in along many parts of the southern end of The Leg as boat crews picked their runs out for red nannygai, squid, snook and even 10 kilo tuna. Garfish and tommyies have been in closer to shore at Foul Bay, Mozzie Flat and Black Rock.

Edithburgh/Stansbury: Blue crabs were raked at The Hut and the beaches either side of Stansbury on the low tides. KG whiting have been in the deep water drops just south of Tapley Shoals, with gar and squid off the town beach at Edithburgh and just north of the main oyster lease at Stansbury.

Ardrossan/Black Point: Gar, squid, blueys and KG whiting were the main targets for boat crews fishing far and wide from the bay between Pine Point and Black Point, and north to Price and Ardrossan. Yellowfin whiting have been worth a try on the high tide at the Pine Point wharf and the Ardrossan jetty.

Tight lines and see you next week!
