Outage outrage

Patrick Goldsmith
REPORT BY

SOUTHERN Yorke Peninsula residents are concerned about their phone coverage after being hit with a 12-day outage.

Angela Schmidt, who operates Charles Street Hair and Beauty, Yorketown, was without phone reception from Saturday, June 10 until Wednesday, June 21.

The unplanned outage, which lasted the first six days, preceded a planned outage to upgrade the local 4G system for the next five days, as Telstra looks to phase out the 3G system.

"All the businesses around here were affected and contacted Telstra but would just be given the run around," she said.

"They couldn't tell us when our services would be re-established; they were just hard to deal with."

As a result, Ms Schmidt was unable to contact clients to remind them of their appointments or accept payments via EFTPOS.

Ms Schmidt said the problem caused great confusion and frustration.

"My booking system is through an app on my iPad but I couldn't get into that, so I had no idea who was coming and going, hoping my clients would turn up," she said.

"They couldn't ring us because they had no phone signal to say they were cancelling so last week was just a nightmare."

She said she had made three attempts to gain further information from Telstra, as well as from federal Member for Grey Rowan Ramsey's office.

"I'd just get the run around from Telstra each time; 'we're sorry for the inconvenience this has caused, we understand'," she said.

"The ordeal meant I lost revenue and, while I was told I would be compensated for the days it occurred, that's not really enough because it has more of a lasting effect than that."

Telstra regional general manager for South Australia Michael Patterson acknowledged the issue and said fixed line services, NBN internet connectivity and calls to 000 weren't impacted by the outage.

Alternate options

THE peoples' intense feelings toward The Voice have reached the point of bitter division.

If we accept the world order is significantly changing in many ways, then an alternate approach to The Voice may be indicated.

I am suggesting a compromise in that The Voice, as a vehicle, be tried and tested before committing to it, i.e., before enshrining it in the Constitution.

Common sense requires the testing of the prototype design of any vehicle before carrying passengers.

Likewise, a prototype Voice should be tried and tested, without obligation, before it is imposed upon the nation.

Having waited for years for this vehicle, surely a few more allowing serious testing is acceptable.

I submit that The Voice be tried and tested, in full working order as proposed, for four years.

Then, if most of its aims are demonstrably met, let us conduct the referendum.

Clearer picture needed

THE article Searching for an answer (YPCT 20-6-23) aptly describes what a large number of Copper Coast Council ratepayers are asking, along with the Wallaroo Community Development Association.

Most interested ratepayers are aware of the issues as presented in the media of the Felmeri Group's collapse and the involvement of site developer Copper Coast Investments (Monopoly Property Group). What is unknown is council's exposure to this project.

It's now time to bite the bullet and reveal the true figures.

This is not by any means looking for blame, as in 2017-18 when the then council signed off on Wallaroo Shores, no one signed off on expecting a problem such as this.

It was, I'm sure, a genuine expectation the finished project was to put Wallaroo on the holiday/tourist trail.

What is now required of council is to quell the rumours which are circulating regarding its expenditure and money owed through planning fees, deferred rates on properties, infrastructure costs et cetera.

We can all raise criticism on project management, design issues, et cetera; as the saying goes, hindsight is a wonderful thing.

Closing roads?

CAN we still go fishing after Wednesday's council meeting?

Yorke Peninsula Council's elected members will decide the fate of 34 public roads on Wednesday, June 28.

As this decision could mean 34 public roads are closed to the public for the next five years, council completed a public consultation which ended on June 6.

Information provided by council during the public consultation was inadequate as the location of the roads could not be identified by the community.

In response to several requests put forward to council's administration, council was unable to provide more detailed information, like Google Maps or maps out of council's record system.

During the consultation process, the public was not able to determine if any of these 34 public road closures for five years will affect their daily lives.

The community is left in the dark if from Wednesday onward locked gates across public tracks could prevent access to fishing spots or other favourite places.

The community will not be opposed to the issuing of permits for public roads that have been planned in the past but never been built and that are used for cropping.

However, the community has the right of unrestricted access to public roads and tracks that are already there.

Still the agenda for Wednesday's meeting is recommending the authorisation of permits that will exclude the public from the use of 34 public roads for five years.

Wednesday night will show if the majority of elected members care for the interests of the wider community.

Support The Salvos

IT'S that time of year when many of us seek to hit the reset button as the new financial year rolls around — a fresh start.

But for The Salvation Army and the thousands of people we support, it means something very different, particularly this year.

We are extremely worried about those who are most vulnerable in our community, who are presenting to our services across the country, some for the first time.

Not only is it the coldest time of year in many parts, we are also facing one of the most severe economic challenges we have seen in years; the cost-of-living crisis and soaring utility bills are leaving everyday Aussies facing devastating and impossible choices.

One mother, 42, told us she wears multiple layers of clothing to keep warm, avoids turning on the heater and tries not to waste or use excessive amounts of water.

With this in mind, we simply want to say thank you.

Thank you to the Australian public, who have already given so generously to the Red Shield Appeal to make sure families and individuals can access our services wherever they are in Australia.

Thank you for thinking of others when it would be so easy to just think of yourselves.

One of the greatest traits of Australians is when the going gets tough, Aussies reach into their pockets and help someone in need.

I love that about Australia.

But it isn't over yet.

The Salvos are hoping to raise $37 million by June 30 to ensure our services and programs across the nation can continue, so nobody struggles alone.

This end of financial year, please consider making a tax-deductible donation to The Salvation Army's Red Shield Appeal by visiting salvationarmy.org.au or calling 13 SALVOS.

Major David Collinson, The Salvation Army

OUR VIEW

Dangling the carrot

LOOKS like Barunga West Council elected members are big fans of the movie Field of Dreams, adopting an "If you build it, they will come" strategy when it comes to housing.

The council is seeking to capitalise on changes announced in the state budget to remove stamp duty for first time buyers of new homes or blocks of land to certain values.

This move is hoped to make property ownership more accessible to young people, and BWC's $500 rate rebate aims to incentivise moving to the region.

There is no doubt about it, the area is growing, with plans in place for the release of about 300 new blocks in the coming years.

They are dangling a nice carrot in front of young families particularly, and hoping they take a bite.

While the potential rebates won't decrease the income council currently receives, I would imagine it slightly lessens future earnings.

And in a world where the costs of living are increasing, and councils are also being forced to increase their budgets to care for assets, I wonder what the other side of this rebate looks like.

Will rates continue to increase to cover the costs of repairing assets and infrastructure, which may wear out more quickly et cetera, because of an increased use?

I'm not an expert, I never profess to be.

While I have questions about the future implications of this scheme, one thing I know is true — councils need to be creative to retain and attract young people to our region permanently.

This could definitely be one such way, and if other infrastructure like child care, et cetera, is increased, it definitely could bring a lot of growth.

For now, we'll just have to see — if they have to opportunity to build it, will they come?

Locals lament lost connection

TELSTRA had scheduled a 4G upgrade to its Yorketown base station in the second half of June.

“We had planned to send out a text message notification to residents of this work on June 11,” regional general manager for South Australia Michael Patterson said.

“Unfortunately, the day before we suffered an unrelated transmission issue, meaning the site couldn’t connect to the broader Telstra network and went off air, meaning calls could not connect and messages could not be sent.

“Our techs combined the repair to the transmission issue and the upgrade into one activity and full services were restored on Wednesday, June 21.

“While Telstra worked to get the work done as quickly as we could, we know this extended outage had an impact on the community and for that we are sorry.”

Member for Grey Rowan Ramsey said the outage was a complicated problem.

“Modern technology is a complicated thing, and everything breaks down at some point... these things do happen,” he said.

“Most businesses should have alternative communication lines and the mobile phone being out doesn’t take the landline or internet service out usually.

“We (electorate of Grey) got two towers from the last round of the Mobile Black Spot Program, which went almost exclusively to Labor electorates around Australia.

“There’s another round open at the moment, round seven, and there’s the Regional Connectivity Program as well which keeps allowing people to follow up and put better technology in place.”

Point Turton getting an upgrade

TELSTRA has also announced it has completed a community consultation process for an upgrade to its tower at Point Turton.

Telstra regional general manager for South Australia Michael Patterson said if any works go ahead, they would occur within the next year.

“Demand on our mobile network is continually rising and nationally each day we have about 60 million calls and 40 million SMS (messages) travelling across our network,” he said.

“As a result, we need to upgrade our mobile base stations on a regular basis, including this one at Point Turton.

“We are proposing to reconfigure the existing antennas and also add some new technology into our equipment hut, including the ability to deliver 5G services to the local area in the future.”

TAP AND NO... Yorketown hair and beauty salon owner and operator Angela Schmidt was without mobile phone reception, rendering her previously established customer communication lines and EFTPOS machine unusable.

Moonta Bay mum turned millionaire

A MOONTA Bay woman is $1 million richer after winning in the Monday and Wednesday X Lotto, drawn yesterday (Monday, June 26).

The woman, who purchased her winning 18-game QuickPick online, held one of two division one winning entries in the draw.

“This is life-changing,” she said.

“I wondered who was calling me at seven o’clock in the morning, I thought it was a hoax!

“I’ve been playing for ages and ages and I thought for so long that I would never win division one!”

The woman said her automated QuickPick runs every week.

“I’m going to fix my children up with some houses. Oh my god, they’re not going to believe this,” she said.

“I’m retired too, so this will really be a boost to retirement.”

The Lott’s division one winning tally has now reached 209 so far in 2023, including 15 won by SA Lotteries customers.

Last financial year, Australia’s official lotteries contributed more than $1.6 billion via state lottery taxes and donations to help community initiatives, such as hospitals, health research, disaster relief and education.

Rates honeymoon to attract young families to the region

Michelle Daw
JOURNALIST

FIRST home buyers will be offered a honeymoon deal on their rates in the Barunga West Council region, in a move aimed at attracting more young families to the area.

Council voted to offer first home buyers a $500 rebate on their first two years of rates during a special meeting on Monday, June 19.

Councillor Grant Rowlands proposed the motion and said it followed the state government's decision to scrap stamp duty for first home buyers purchasing new homes up to $650,000 or vacant land up to $400,000.

He said this would save first home buyers between $18,000 and $30,000 in stamp duty.

"This council has strongly advocated for the total removal of stamp duty as an incentive to encourage housing development and to make the purchasing of homes and land more affordable, particularly for first home buyers," he said.

Mr Rowlands said up to 300 new affordable housing blocks in the region would go on the market in the next few years and a rates rebate would act as an extra attraction for young people.

"Last year, this council achieved a dramatic 2.5 per cent growth in new ratepayers and, based on our long-term financial plan, we are expecting growth of at least two per cent a year," Mr Rowlands said.

"If half of this growth is first home buyers, we could be looking at 30 properties a year, which, at a rebate of $500, would amount to $15,000 in rates rebated.

"That amount is insignificant compared to the commercial and social benefits gained of having 30 young families move into the district to live, work and play."

Council chief executive Maree Wauchope said the rebate was unlikely to have an impact on council's rate revenue until the 2023-24 financial year, as most would apply to new homes to be built.

She said the influx of 69 new ratepayers in the 2022-23 financial year validated the council's growth strategy.

"The council is confident this growth trajectory will continue, with new subdivisions planned for Port Broughton, Bute, Tickera, and Fisherman Bay," she said.

She said council had received proposals for developments which could provide an additional 100 blocks of vacant land within the next year and the growth would help reduce financial pressure on ratepayers.

Rebate will add buyer appeal

PORT Broughton Realty director Bonnie Stringer said the rates rebate on offer from Barunga West Council will add to the region's appeal for first home buyers.

"Anything that can help with finances is fantastic because everything has gotten so expensive," she said.

"Rates and insurance are among the biggest bills you pay each year, after your mortgage, so every little bit counts."

Mrs Stringer said her office had already received enquiries about the rebate since it was voted on last week.

She said the demographics of Port Broughton had changed since she started in the business 14 years ago.

"Before, it was just farmers retiring here – now it's a lifestyle choice. People see Port Broughton as a safe, relaxed environment for young families, older families and retirees," she said.

"Demand was crazy through Covid and we are certainly not slowing down."

HOME SWEET HOME...
Port Broughton Realty director Bonnie Stringer, Barunga West Council mayor Leonie Kerley and councillor Grant Rowlands discuss the impact of rates rebates on first home buyers in the area.

MORE UPGRADES... Moonta and District Progress Association president Matthew Stock and Copper Coast Council director infrastructure services Tim Neumann will soon be crossing George Street, Moonta, with added safety thanks to a pair of pedestrian crossings.

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

MOONTA'S streets will feature two new pedestrian crossings if the next stage of the Moonta Urban Design Framework is approved.

The flat crossings would be established on George Street, between Podiatry Central and Stylish Bird Boutique, and Ellen Street, from the commercial carpark.

Planned works also include upgrading footpaths and kerbing on Robert Street, as well as the installation of an electric barbecue, additional seating, shelters and bins in Queen Square.

Copper Coast Council will investigate potential off-street parking on William, Robert and Henry Streets around Queen Square, with consideration for angle parking on Henry Street.

Director infrastructure services Tim Neumann said council decided on central crossings rather than one at each intersection, like Kadina.

"Having only two crossings should be less restrictive on traffic, but make the town more pedestrian friendly with equal access from both ends of the streets," Mr Neumann said.

"Council will be formulating a carpark design around Queen Square which will then allow us to progress footpaths, kerb and channelling on Robert Street.

"We're now deciding where to install the seating, bins and barbecue, and also considering umbrella shade on the civic corner of Queen Square (the corner of Henry and George Streets)."

Moonta and District Progress Association president Matthew Stock said the projects completed so far had helped improve the whole precinct.

"The pedestrian crossing outside Drakes Moonta (on George Street) has worked well, so I'm sure the next two will be similar," Mr Stock said.

"I looking forward to seeing these projects rolled out to continue enhancing the town."

All upgrades are set to be funded through council's capital works program.

Projects completed through the Moonta Urban Design Framework so far:

- Left in, left out intersection at Drakes Moonta
- Pedestrian crossing on George Street
- Upgrade of Ellen Street carpark
- New toilet facilities and access paths at Queen Square
- George Street stormwater drainage works

A BUS driver has been arrested after running off the Augusta Highway on Friday morning, June 23.

Police and emergency services were called to an area about eight kilometres north of Port Wakefield after reports a bus from a Victorian school had driven into a paddock before becoming bogged at about 6.40am.

The bus was carrying 42 children and five staff members, but no one was injured.

The driver, a 53-year-old man from Victoria, was arrested and charged with driving without due care and driving a heavy vehicle while fatigued.

He was bailed to appear in the Kadina Magistrates Court on August 21.

Port Victoria drink driver

A man was caught drink driving in Port Victoria on Friday night, June 23.

Patrols stopped a grey utility for a mobile driver breath test on Wauralte Road just after 9.30am.

The driver, a 65-year-old local man, returned a positive result of 0.095.

He was reported for drink driving and issued with a six-month immediate loss of licence.

He will appear in the Maitland Magistrates Court at a later date.

Gov initiatives to reduce Aboriginal incarceration

THE state government is allocating $25 million over four years to reduce Aboriginal incarceration rates.

Funding will be allocated to a range of programs to assist incarcerated Aboriginal people to apply for bail and address their treatment needs, give access to supported housing and rehabilitation, and provide intensive drug and alcohol treatment.

The investment will also develop an Aboriginal Justice Agreement between the state government and Aboriginal communities, continue the child diversion program which diverts Aboriginal children aged 10 to 13 who have been charged with a minor offence, and a Youth Aboriginal Community Court, Adelaide, which aims to disrupt escalation points in a young person's offending.

In South Australia, Aboriginal people are 12 times more likely to be imprisoned than the general population and over 60 per cent of Aboriginal prisoners are on remand.

This package has aimed to respond directly to recommendations made by the Advisory Commission into the Incarceration Rates of Aboriginal Peoples in South Australia.

Commission members highlighted justice agreements as an important mechanism to reduce incarceration rates and deliver improved outcomes.

Minister for Aboriginal Affairs Kyam Maher said the rates at which Aboriginal people were being imprisoned was unacceptable.

"This needs to be addressed urgently," Mr Maher said.

"Providing a significant investment and concentrated effort will work to achieve the transformative change that is required."

STEPS FORWARD... Minister for Aboriginal Affairs Kyam Maher says hopes a range of new measures will contribute to reducing Aboriginal incarceration rates in SA.

Council fixes road flooding issues

THREE Copper Coast roads susceptible to excessive flooding have been fixed.

Two new side entry pits have been installed on Haven Road, Moonta Bay, while infiltration pits on Wandana and Spencer Streets, North Beach, will ensure decreased pooling at the streets' low sections.

Copper Coast Council director infrastructure services Tim Neumann said existing stormwater infrastructure in the area was undersized, causing flooding.

"Larger pits and pipes have been installed to allow for better water flows," Mr Neumann said. "New junction boxes have also been put in place to allow for future upgrades in the area."

"Now that we've upgraded the stormwater system on Bay Road, we can tie these side roads in (to the central system)."

"It also means we can formalise the kerbing and paths and potentially seal these side roads."

"This gives ratepayers an improved kerb-to-kerb product which is what they should expect."

Mr Neumann said the infiltration pits on Wandana and Spencer Streets had been installed to collect and manage stormwater.

"The pits will allow water to flow away from the surface of the road," he said.

"Storm sacks have been used to assist in removing debris from the stormwater run-off."

"In the past, there's been nowhere for the water to go and it used to pool on the side of the streets, which led to deterioration of the seal."

"With better underground water storage, the water will soak into the ground instead."

RECTIFIED... Copper Coast Council director infrastructure services Tim Neumann says upgrades to three local roads will help bring them up to a standard that ratepayers expect.

Riding for the Disabled program enters recess

Will Hunter
REPORT BY

RIDING for the Disabled's Yorke Peninsula centre has entered recess after calls to find a qualified coach to deliver the program were unsuccessful.

The program, which has been operating on the Copper Coast for more than 18 years, has been wholly operated by volunteers.

RDA state president Linda Taylor said the organisation had faced challenges surrounding the recruitment and retention of volunteers in an environment where individuals are balancing the time they can offer with the need for paid employment.

"The role of an RDA coach in particular brings with it a higher level of training, compliance and responsibility and can take a significant amount of time for full coach certification to be achieved," Ms Taylor said.

"This time is taken to ensure skill set alongside the ability to deliver high quality, safe riding programs for people with disability are consistently achieved."

"At the present time we do not have a qualified coach who can consistently deliver our program on Yorke Peninsula."

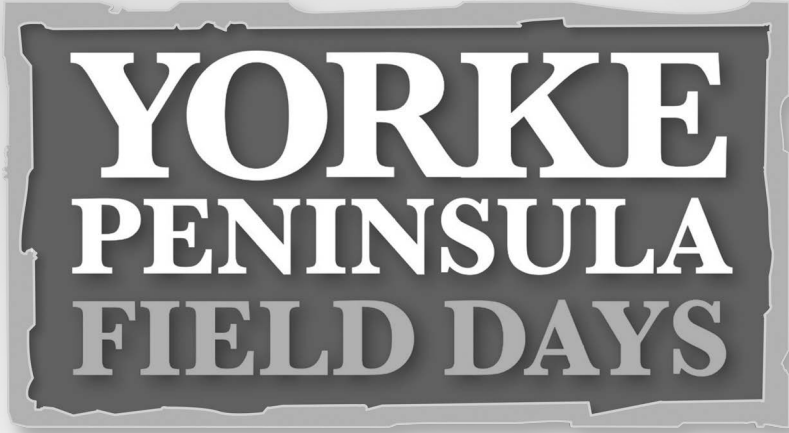

"Thank you to the previous YP centre coaches who are no longer available to regularly and consistently contribute the same level of time they have so generously given in the past."

Ms Taylor said the organisation was working through a process to resource the centre with a qualified coach.

"Whilst this process is worked through, the beloved equine team from Yorke Peninsula has been relocated to other centres within the state so they can continue being ridden by people with disability and maintain their accreditation as RDA program horses," Ms Taylor said.

"We emphasise this is a recess of session delivery for the centre, not a closure of the centre, and it is RDASA's intent to continue to service our regional Copper Coast community."

"While sessions are not offered on Yorke Peninsula in the short term, other options to access our programs may be available through our centres at Port Pirie and Northern Area (Globe Derby)."

Pelvic Pain Clinic brings relief for local women and girls

WOMEN and girls on Yorke Peninsula are signing up for the region's Pelvic Pain Clinic, with 30 patients already enrolled since it started offering services on June 7.

The clinic provides multidisciplinary care for sufferers of period pain, endometriosis and chronic pelvic pain and is led by Kadina Medical Associates' GP and obstetrician Dr Anna Kearney.

It is the only clinic of its kind in South Australia and will receive more than $700,000 in federal government funding over four years.

"The positive response from patients and practitioners alike has been overwhelming," Dr Kearney said.

"Pre-existing clients who have completed our pelvic pain management techniques reported a reduction in pain scores and improved quality of life.

"Whilst we are cognisant a perfect, pain-free outcome is not always attainable, we are honest and realistic in goal setting with our patients and value their personal pelvic pain journey.

"The historical societal norm that women should have to suffer in silence needs to change.

"In particular, this should be reinforced to women earlier in their menstrual life.

"At the Yorke Peninsula Pelvic Pain Clinic, we will continue to educate health professionals and community members alike.

"We are keen to supplement local knowledge and engage local GPs to make use of the services available."

Endometriosis affects at least one in nine Australians assigned female at birth and sufferers wait an average of seven years before diagnosis.

The aim of the clinics is to reduce diagnostic delays and promote early access to multidisciplinary care and treatment with care provided by special interest GPs, pelvic floor physiotherapist Carlin Macro and a dietician at various centres on YP.

The funding fully subsidises clinic appointments, including allied health visits.

Ms Macro said many women and girls did not realise exercises and brain training could help them to manage their pain so they could go about their lives as normal.

"They have had pain since they first got their periods, so they are in a chronic pain state," she said.

To help promote its services, the YP Pelvic Pain Clinic will have a display at the YP Field Days, Paskeville, on September 26 to 28.

Potential reforms for food provision

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

ALL local hotels could soon be forced to serve meals, pending a review into the Liquor Licensing Act.

Moonta Hotel has been the only licensed venue serving regular meals since the Black Rhino Group purchased all three hotels in Moonta last year.

“To have such a large, prominent tourism town with limited food options is unacceptable.”

– Fraser Ellis,
Member for Narungga

Consumer Affairs and Liquor and Gambling Commissioner Dini Soulio said the holders of a general and hotel liquor licence were not currently required to serve meals as a condition of their licence.

“A number of amendments to the Liquor Licensing Act are currently being considered and this will be one area that will be reviewed,” Mr Soulio said.

Copper Coast Council CEO Russell Peate has sent multiple emails to the Black Rhino Group since December 2022 enquiring about the lack of food provision, but is yet to receive a response.

“Council has been diligent in obtaining information regarding the conditions of (the group’s) licensing,” Mr Peate said.

“We will be liaising with the necessary parties to get a legislative reform in place as quickly as possible.”

Councillor Brent Walker said it was incredibly disappointing the group hadn’t corresponded appropriately with council.

“This is a town that’s been crowned SA Top Tourism Town (2021) and they (Black Rhino Group) can’t even take the time to explain why they aren’t serving meals,” Mr Walker said.

“The town spirit has just not been the same since they took over. I hope this reform is pushed through as quickly as possible.”

Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis said the lack of meal service was an issue that needed addressing.

“To have such a large, prominent tourism town with limited food options is unacceptable,” Mr Ellis said.

“I’ll be intrigued to see what the (Liquor Licensing Act) review recommends and I’ll be open to exploring any avenues worthwhile.”

SERVING UP CHANGES... Copper Coast Council elected member Brent Walker says he is incredibly disappointed in the lack of communication from Black Rhino Group, which owns all three Moonta hotels.

Riding out the winter chills

WET AND WILD... Wallaroo's Trae Wellgreen gets out and about around North Shores, exploring puddles left by the wintry weather last week.

Jess Liddy
JOURNALIST

YORKE Peninsula shivered through a record-breaking cold snap last week.

Temperatures plummeted to below-average right across Australia including YP last Wednesday and Thursday (June 21-22) when heavy rain and strong winds developed.

Despite the wintry weather, the Bureau of Meteorology is still predicting a warmer-than-average winter with the chill set to lift due to an El Nino event.

During El Nino, there is a higher chance of drier weather in eastern Australia and it is more likely to be warmer than usual for the southern two-thirds of Australia.

Weatherzone senior meteorologist Brett Dutschke said Thursday (June 22) was the coldest June day in 11 years at Edithburgh, which reached a top of 11.5 degrees, as did Warooka.

"Wednesday and Thursday were the coldest pair of days in 18 years in Maitland (10.2 degrees maximum and 10.6 degrees) maximum respectively," Mr Dutschke said.

"They were also the coldest in 16 years for Edithburgh (12.3 and 11.5), eight years in Kadina (11.5 and 12.9) and two years in other centres."

Mr Dutschke said they were also the coldest pair of June days in 34 years in Maitland and Warooka, with respective maximums of 10.2 degrees and 10.6 degrees.

Mr Dutschke said YP had also received record breaking rainfall.

"Wednesday and Thursday were the wettest pair of days in 12 years in Stenhouse Bay (51mm combined)," he said.

"Both days were the wettest for Moonta in 17 months (35mm), Kadina (35mm), Stansbury (55mm), and Yorketown (51mm).

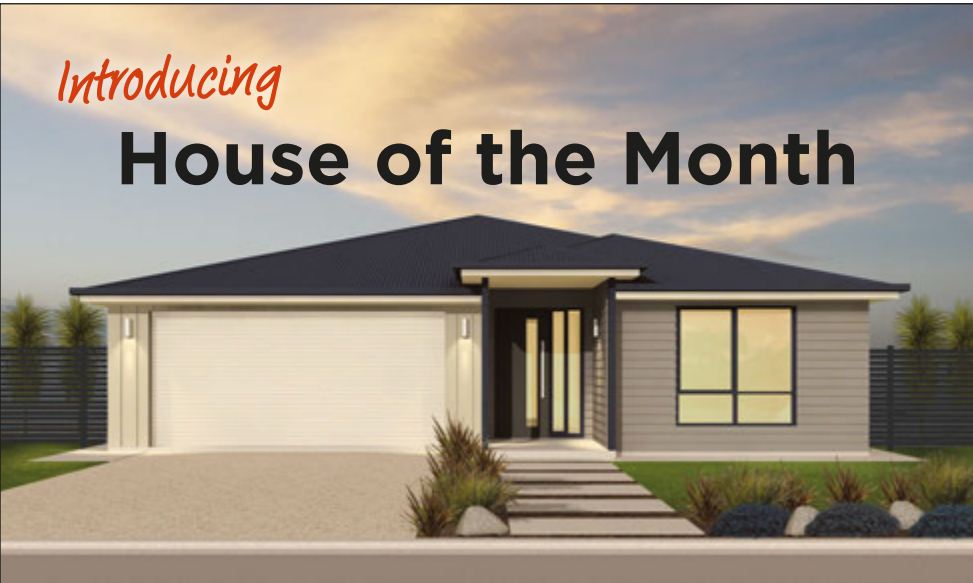

"It was the wettest in 13 months in Minlaton (38mm) and Port Victoria (27mm), 10 months in Port Clinton (28mm), seven months in Edithburgh (40mm) and about five months for most other centres."

Wednesday and Thursday were the wettest pair of June days in 100 years for Stansbury (55mm).

"Yorketown had its wettest pair of June days in 29 years (51mm)," Mr Dutschke said.

"Minlaton (38mm) broke a 21-year record, as did Moonta (35mm) and Wallaroo (38mm) while it had been 10 years in Kadina (35mm), Warooka (44mm) and Paskeville (37mm)."

The rest of the week is forecast to have maximum temperatures in the low teens, mostly sunny, with possible scattered showers.

INCREASED digital literacy training could soon be available on the Copper Coast.

Copper Coast Council is investigating funding opportunities to expand its Digital Literacy Program, which has been operating as a trial from the Copper Coast University Centre, Kadina, since March.

The program has provided face-to-face digital technology support with topics like cyber security, password safety, internet, transferring photos, cloud access, and linking to government services.

Every fortnightly support session has been fully booked since the program launched.

Copper Coast University Centre campus coordinator Sue Barry said local university students and the wider community had found the program useful.

"The program is designed so people can bring in their device(s) and have Ben from Ben's IT Communications show them how to transfer files, upload photos, access additional storage, make sure passwords are safe, etcetera," she said.

"The support is consumer driven with no agenda — we just help where needed.

"(We're aiming) to bring people together in a social context while supporting people to increase their digital literacy."

Council CEO Russell Peate said additional funding was required to increase the service to three hours every week.

"The (expanded) program will seek funding to establish digital literacy training in all three towns on a flexible basis," Mr Peate said.

"At a recent Council on the Ageing meeting, the number one issue raised at the meeting was digital literacy.

"I believe it is one of the largest issues in Australia and will continue to increase."

To book a digital literacy session at Kadina, contact Sue Barry on 0419 198 951.

High demand for library services

Copper Coast Council library and tourism coordinator Lynn Spurling said she had noticed an increasing number of people requesting digital help.

"Technology can be challenging for many people and there are a wide range of services people struggle with," Mrs Spurling said.

"Lots of people either have no online access or not enough skills. "It would be nice to have the capacity to help in more different ways."

Regular Kadina Community Library user Cherry Hall said she had learned how to use a range of different online systems on the fly.

"I've used the library computers to send out emails, do online banking and take a university course," Ms Hall said.

"A lot of people like me are trying to get a handle on online technology because they weren't schooled in it.

"I quite like the challenge and don't like being beaten by technology!"

TECH DEMAND... Copper Coast Council library and tourism coordinator Lynn Spurling (right) and library staff are supporting an increasing number of community members, like Cherry Hall, who regularly require the library's digital services.

YP Art Festival gets federal funding boost

YORKE Peninsula Council's GROUNDED YP Art Festival has received a boost from the federal government.

Council was awarded $22,615 through the first round of the Regional Arts Fund Project Grants.

The fund, which is managed by Country Arts SA, supports artists, organisations and workers to increase the number of cultural activities and experiences in local communities.

Yorke Peninsula Council Arts and Culture Working Group recently announced the rebranded 10-day GROUNDED event, building on the former YP Art Exhibition, which will feature the original exhibitions plus artist panels, workshops, live music and more.

The festival will be held across the peninsula from Friday to Sunday, August 11 to 20.

"The Yorke Peninsula Art Exhibition was held biennially for several years until it was forcibly shelved due to Covid-19," Mayor Darren Braund said.

"Rather than simply bring the event back, we intend to reimagine it as a week-long festival featuring the traditional exhibitions plus artist panels, workshops, live music and more, all focused entirely on showcasing Narungga and Yorke Peninsula artists.

"Our aim is for the new festival to be a premier regional event on the SALA calendar, creating widespread social and economic benefits for Yorke Peninsula and South Australia.

"The successful elements of the former YP Art Exhibition will remain, namely three art displays open to artists throughout Australia held at three venues across Yorke Peninsula and covering painting, sculpture and photography."

Council's arts and cultural facilitator Sonya Rankine said the success of rebranding GROUNDED was made possible by the skills, talent and connections of the YPC Arts and Culture Working Group.

"Members of the working group are each championing an event or element of the GROUNDED YP Art Festival to bring it all together," Ms Rankine said.

"The grant from Country Arts SA's Regional Arts Fund makes it possible to engage local Yorke Peninsula and Narungga artists to deliver a wide variety of art workshops.

"It will enable us to offer free and subsidised art workshops for the community to engage richly in the arts on the YP.

"Come on artists, get your entry in and be a part of the inaugural GROUNDED YP Art Festival, we also welcome any volunteer support from our community."

Local career opportunities on show to students

WOODWORK... Kadina Memorial School student Cassidy Smith practising in using a handsaw during TAFE's woodworking demonstration.

ARDROSSAN Area School brimmed with opportunity as it hosted a Resources and Infrastructure Immersion Day on Friday, June 23.

More than 200 students from seven Yorke Peninsula public schools had the chance to explore potential career pathways.

This included an onsite tour of Rex Minerals' Hillside Mine site along with heavy machinery displays, simulations, a surveying workshop and numerous employer presentations.

AAS principal Margaret Roads said the response from students about the event had been fantastic.

"Students were highly engaged throughout the day and asked some great questions," Mrs Roads said.

"The tours to the Hillside Mine site and the simulators were highlights for many students but it was also a good chance to talk directly to the people working in each industry about potential roles and opportunities.

"We are extremely grateful to Rex Minerals, SIMEC, Cheetham Salt, Mosel Surveyors, Yorke Peninsula Council, Resources and Engineering Skills Alliance and TAFE for their support of the day and we look forward to continuing this collaboration."

Mrs Roads said the event was a great opportunity for students to discover career options they may not have heard of before.

"The aim of the day was to provide our local students with the opportunity to learn from the industry and education representatives about the many job and career pathways across the resource sector," Mrs Roads said.

"Many students and staff commented they learned a lot about these local companies and were not fully aware of the extent of opportunities available in our area."

NEW WHEELS... Wallaroo Primary School student Blayde Miller recently received a new mobility scooter through a Variety SA – the Children’s Charity grant to help manage Duchenne muscular dystrophy.

New wheels helping to drive Blayde’s schooling

Will Hunter
REPORT BY

BLAYDE Miller has been given a new set of wheels.

The Wallaroo Primary School student received an Invacare Colibri mobility scooter to help manage his neuromuscular condition, Duchenne muscular systrophy, while at school.

The terminal disorder, which causes muscle weakness, fatigue and gross motor delay, often makes Blayde tired when playing outside and transitioning between the yard and the classroom.

It is hoped the scooter will enable Blayde to move around the school more easily, helping to conserve his energy levels throughout the day and allowing him to remain on site for longer.

The scooter was funded through a Variety SA – the Children’s Charity grant program aimed at supporting children who are sick, disadvantaged or living with disability.

“We’ve already seen the impact the scooter has had for Blayde.”

– Dominica Thomson, principal Wallaroo PS

Principal Dominica Thomson said the mobility scooter had already impacted positively on Blayde’s ability to get involved with activities and interact with other students.

“We worked closely with Blayde’s family to write the grant, working together as a team to ensure the right support was requested,” Ms Thomson said.

“Variety SA and NT worked together to determine which branch was in the best position to meet the grant request — they were amazing to work with.

“We’ve already seen the impact the scooter has had for Blayde.

“He looks forward to coming to school and is more easily able to join in with other students, especially in games which involve a lot of movement.”

Variety SA CEO Mark McGill said the organisation was inspired every day by the stories of the children they help.

“Through our grants program, families such as Blayde’s are able to apply for funding for a range of items which help with mobility, communication and social skills to increase self-esteem and to help them enjoy the freedom of being a kid,” Mr McGill said.

“Knowing we have helped Blayde continue to be a part of his school community is humbling and through the generous support of sponsors, donations and fundraisers, we can continue to help even more.”

FRASER ELLIS MP
STATE MEMBER FOR NARUNGA

Narunga update June 2023

This week’s Estimates questioning and further follow up with Ministers in coming weeks will serve to provide more details about the state budget announcements and how they will impact all who live and work here in Narunga.

Under health, one welcome line in the budget papers was “increased cancer services at Wallaroo Hospital” which was great news I flagged back in February.

This funding means this four-chair chemotherapy unit is to increase its operation from one day to two days a week.

Other positives include the investment in nine new firefighting aircraft from which regions such as ours will benefit, the abolishing of stamp duty for first home buyers purchasing a new home valued up to $650,000 (this price point being particularly beneficial in regional areas), the establishment of the Office for Regional Housing within Renewal SA and the new Regional Skills Development Fund and the $2.4 million snapper licence fee relief for fishermen impacted by the ongoing snapper closure.

The $100.2m over four years for upgrades at government schools and preschools includes allocations to Wallaroo Primary and Moonta Area Schools (more details to come), and I also welcome the energy rebates for low-income households announced last month.

It was a city-centric budget overall, with little regard for the economic value of our powerhouse agricultural industry, with its harvest farm gate in 2022-23 of $4.4 billion.

With great frustration, the blow out alone of $55m for the new $135m Adelaide Aquatic Centre could have repaired one or two jetties at least, or built amazing swimming facilities in multiple regions, including in the Narunga electorate.

With last month’s announced local sporting club funding of $266,000 and a further $220,000 for local coastal projects, I was hopeful the good news would continue with further allocations for roads and health in our patch.

Whilst there is not much known yet about what sits under the broad heading of “$406.2m for regional roads upgrades and maintenance”, it does appear road safety initiatives this time around are more about new speed cameras and audio tactile line marking than shoulder repairs or overtaking lanes.

On the topic of security at Wallaroo Hospital, last sitting week in the chamber I questioned when the entrance doors smashed in February would finally be repaired and, pleasingly, these glass panels were replaced the next day.

However, re any additional security measures for staff, we continue to await the outcome of an underway task force review.

Clements Gap fund open for community projects

COMMUNITY groups in Port Broughton and Mundooro can apply for up to $10,000 per project through Pacific Blue's 2023 Clements Gap Sustainable Communities Fund.

The fund is offering a total $55,000 in benefits from the Clements Gap Wind Farm and is open to eligible community groups and not-for-profit organisations from Port Broughton, Mundooro, Clements Gap, Crystal Brook, Red Hill and Wandearah.

The fund supports projects that provide lasting benefits to local communities in at least one of six funding areas — education and training, health and welfare, sport and recreation, the arts and culture, the environment, and supporting the health and wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Pacific Blue CEO Domenic Capomolla said the fund had been running since 2010 and provided more than $700,000 for 168 local sustainable projects.

"We're proud of our commitment to working closely with communities in South Australia through the community fund and as the principal sponsor of the Crystal Brook Classic (running event) for the past two years," he said.

"Later this year, we'll be engaging with the community on our Clements Gap battery, as we work towards providing more renewable energy and energy security for South Australia."

Mr Capomolla said the battery project was in the planning phase and would support the longevity and sustainability of Clements Gap Wind Farm and associated community benefits, as well as creating jobs and procurement opportunities for the local community.

To apply, visit the Clements Gap Wind Farm Community Fund page at www.pacificblue.com.au Applications close Sunday, July 16.

More bettongs land at Innes

ALMOST 80 endangered brush-tailed bettongs were relocated to Dhillba Guuranda-Innes National Park from Western Australia last Wednesday, June 14.

The marsupials came across the border on seven commercial flights and follow previous retrievals as part of the Marna Banggara project, in a bid to restore local extinct species to Yorke Peninsula.

Representatives from Narungga Nation and a translocation team from Zoos SA, Northern and Yorke Landscape Board, Department for Environment and Water, WWF-Australia and the WA Department of Biodiversity Conservation and Attractions travelled to retrieve 49 male and 24 female bettongs.

It is the fourth and largest group of the marsupials to be released into the national park within three years.

Marna Banggara project manager Max Barr said the bettongs' previous habitat was slightly different to the park.

"The brush-tailed bettongs we're releasing... come from an area in south-west Western Australia, the Dryandra woodland area on Noongar Country," he said.

"The journey is multi-faceted, there are lots of people involved and the end result of seeing those animals released out of the bag onto Narungga Country, (makes it) worthwhile to be a part of that journey."

"The bettongs are surviving, they're breeding, they're putting on condition and the monitoring going on about how they're using the environment is really important to illustrate that story."

"It's a new space for them; they have to find shelter and we know the habitat is right for them, so once they settle... we'll go back and monitor them."

Marna Banggara is jointly funded through the Northern and Yorke

NEW HOME... Max Barr and Hayley Humes release one of the 76 recently transferred bettongs into Dhillba Guuranda-Innes National Park.

Landscape Board, the Australian Government National Landcare Program, the SA Department for Environment and Water, WWF-Australia, and Foundation for National Parks and Wildlife, in partnership with the Narungga Nation Aboriginal Corporation.

The bettongs were given health checks and many were fitted with tracking devices before travelling to Adelaide and YP.

Narungga Elder and park management board member Cyril Kartinyeri said bettongs played an important role in the local ecosystems.

"Same as every other animal, bird or reptile, they've got a purpose and that's to look after country," he said.

"Once you have a healthy country, you'll have a healthy community."

Zoos SA manager of conservation, research and welfare Mark Smith said the process of relocation was rewarding for many reasons.

"It was quite emotional seeing these little animals leaping away into a landscape where they haven't been found for generations," he said.

"The winter months are an important breeding time for bettongs, so we're excited to see how these new animals engage with the existing population on Yorke Peninsula."

Baking awareness for bowel cancer

FOR DAD... Donna Larcombe and Ben Wilkinson raised about $1000 for Bowel Cancer Australia following their cinna-bun fundraiser.

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

SIBLINGS Donna Larcombe and Ben Wilkinson have baked 600 cinnamon scrolls for a cause close to their hearts.

The pair sold packs of four cinna-buns for $6, and donated $5 from each packet to Bowel Cancer Australia, raising about $1000 with the help of additional donations.

Mrs Larcombe, of Kadina, and Mr Wilkinson, Adelaide, were touched by bowel cancer when their father Jamie lost his battle with the disease, aged 55, in May 2019.

"We were originally looking at getting a tattoo (as a) tribute (to) Dad and looked at some (Bowel Cancer Awareness) ribbon designs and so we found out a bit more about Bowel Cancer Australia," the siblings said.

June is Bowel Cancer Awareness Month and Red Apple Day, held last Wednesday, June 21, encourages Australians to support BCA through fundraising initiatives.

Mrs Larcombe, owner of Our Cake Room, Kadina, and Mr Wilkinson, a baker at Bakers Delight, said the special occasion made for an ideal time to put their skills to good work.

"The tragedy of Dad passing really brought us closer together, and this (fundraiser) gave us another chance to bond," they said.

"Dad had stage 4 bowel cancer when he was diagnosed.

"He was constipated for a few weeks and when he got checked, the doctors said there was nothing wrong and he was just blocked up.

"But after testing, they found a tumour the size of an apple core and said his life expectancy was five years... which turned out to be 18 months.

"They put a stent in him to open up his bowel and he started chemotherapy, but the stent perforated his bowel and he was given a few days to live."

Mrs Larcombe and Mr Wilkinson stressed the importance of checking for cancer.

"It (bowel cancer) can hit anyone at any time, no matter your age," they said.

"It also pays to get multiple opinions if the first doctor says there's nothing wrong.

"When Dad got constipated, we told him 'we always said you were full of shit', but when he was diagnosed it was a massive shock."

The siblings said they planned to do a larger fundraiser to mark five years since Jamie's passing in 2024.

Bowel cancer screening rates drop

THE latest National Bowel Cancer Screening Program Report reveals screening participation has continued to linger at about 40 per cent.

The report also found colonoscopy wait times have exceeded the recommended 30 days.

Latest participation rates, recorded in 2020-21, were the same as in 2015-16, despite almost $20 million invested by the federal government since 2019.

The wait time between a positive screening result and colonoscopy has increased in every state and territory.

Only 15.6 per cent of participants received a colonoscopy within the recommended 30-day timeframe following a positive result.

Bowel Cancer Australia CEO Julien Wiggins said the opportunity for early detection was lost if not promptly followed by a colonoscopy.

"As so few participants are receiving colonoscopies within the clinically recommended time frame, questions need to be asked," Mr Wiggins added.

Medical guidelines acknowledged wait times exceeding 120 days between the first healthcare presentation (for symptoms or a positive screening result) and colonoscopy were associated with poorer clinical outcomes.

"We need to ensure participants are not left waiting for long periods after receiving a positive screening result, not knowing if cancer is present," Mr Wiggins said.

More than 15,600 people are diagnosed with bowel cancer in Australia each year.

One in 10 new bowel cancer cases occur in people under the age of 50, who are currently ineligible to participate in the NBCSP.

Bowel cancer is Australia's second deadliest cancer, claiming more than 5300 lives each year.

Regional Skills Advisory Committee meets

TAFE SA's new Yorke Peninsula and Mid North Regional Skills Advisory Committee met for the first time in Port Pirie recently.

The committee consists of local industry, school, student and community organisation representatives, along with an employment services provider and Aboriginal community representative.

It aims to identify skills needs and will work with TAFE SA to ensure training offered in the region is sustainable, viable and relevant to local employers and industry.

TAFE SA chief executive David Coltman said the response to the callout for committee members had been very encouraging.

"We are delighted with the depth of knowledge, skills and experience that these local community members will bring to the committee and assist in identifying local skill needs," Mr Coltman said.

"The committee members are all very passionate about local education and training, and ensuring we are all focused on developing a skilled local workforce now and into the future."

"The first meeting covered a broad range of areas including activity at the local campus, increasing engagement with industry and promoting training relevant to the Yorke Peninsula and Mid North community."

The committee will develop and implement a Regional Skills Action Plan and follow-up projects.

TAFE SA manager education partnerships Kym Cox said there was significant value in bringing the representatives together from across the local community.

"It is evident the insights of the committee members will be really valuable, already we have had very fruitful discussions around the types of qualifications being delivered locally," Mr Cox said.

"We are determined to strengthen regional engagement with industry and the community."

"These Regional Skills Advisory Committees will be a regular point of contact for consultation, and I would also encourage local residents to reach out to myself for any local education and training matters."

Coobowie home for eastern osprey

HELICOPTER...

COOBOWIE is home to the newest nesting place for native eastern osprey birds.

A new platform and artificial nest, the seventh on Yorke Peninsula, was lifted into place with the assistance of a helicopter on Monday, June 19.

Within hours of the structure being erected, it had already been visited by an eastern osprey pair, who had previously been nesting on a phone tower in Edithburgh.

The initiative is led by the Southern Yorke Peninsula Landcare Group. With the help of local volunteer organisations, the group hopes to provide the species with a safe spaces to raise their young.

Northern Yorke and Landscape Board Djulda-wawa Badja project manager Janet Moore said it had been extraordinary to see the project come to fruition.

"Back in 2014 to 2016, there was no osprey breeding on the mainland of Yorke Peninsula as they had all moved to off-shore islands," Ms Moore said.

"The birds were declining in numbers and the reason they weren't having breeding success was because there aren't many suitable places for them to breed.

"When they were attempting to nest on the mainland they were nesting on the ground, making them vulnerable to predators like foxes, or they were nesting on structures like channel markers or phone towers."

Ms Moore said she hoped the platforms would remove barriers to breeding success and lead to sightings of baby osprey in the future.

"This has certainly been the case at some of the other platforms we've put up," Ms Moore said.

Community collaboration forefront of nest construction

STUDENTS at Yorketown Area School flew into action to help build artificial nests for the eastern osprey nest project.

Workshops were delivered to more than 30 year 7 students who learned about the best way to support the growth of the osprey population while helping to construct new homes for the birds.

Northern Yorke and Landscape Board Djulda-wawa Badja project manager Janet Moore said the school's involvement came from the proximity of the Yorketown nesting location.

"I knew it was going to be quite a visible nest and thought it would be great to get YAS students involved," Ms Moore said.

"We wanted to provide a tangible way to connect the school groups with the nests, as they'll grow up in the area, potentially ride past the site and be able to see the nests they helped to construct."

School principal Michael Beelitz said students learned much about sustainability and environmental awareness as part of the sessions.

"While the students engaged in learning and the practical building of nests, they have also been able to track the progress of the nests since," Mr Beelitz said.

"Everyone is excited about the potential of seeing some chicks hatch in the near future."

NESTING... SYP Landcare Group president Rick Hawthorne and Yorketown Area School students Rick Hawthorne, Lily Thompson, Bella Witt, Jacob Webb and Ryley Evans help to construct a nest for the native eastern osprey bird.

Dev's lights to shine brighter

Patrick Goldsmith
JOURNALIST

SOS Yorke's free Dev Lights Up event in Edithburgh will feature double the fun this year, with the addition of a daytime session to hopefully help exceed attendance of 2000 people.

This year's event has been aided by significant grant funding, allowing for live music, dancing, more marquees and food trucks, as well as a nature play element, on Saturday, July 15.

The light display will also be bigger and brighter, with the 800 metre track through Dev Patterson Reserve to feature 10 different displays.

SOS Yorke's treasurer and event coordinator Bronnie Searle said the group was really pleased with how the first event went last year.

"We didn't realise how successful it was going to be and we certainly achieved the criteria we set out for which was community involvement, community connection and people coming together for a fun event," she said.

"I think the best thing last year was the number of people walking around saying 'this is the best form of mental health awareness without talking about it'.

"People came out from their homes like they've not done before, because they could do it in the dark, in a safe environment."

Organisers were hoping for just 200 people to attend last year, but ended up hosting more than 600.

Ms Searle said, while it is an event centred around mental health awareness, there's no expectation for people to talk about it if they don't wish to.

"We talk about mental health all the time and quite often it's someone sat in a room talking, which is fine, but this way people can just come out in their own space without any expectations to even talk," she said.

"There's real symbolism there about there being light within the darkness, I think, because mental health comes in many forms and you can't put everyone in the same box."

SYP Community Hub's Kate Martin said the hub had supported SOS Yorke for several years.

"It has significant value just from the aspect of the community being brought together," she said.

"A lot of our community resilience program is aimed at bringing the community together and rather than us doing all of the events ourselves... to be able to partner with community groups is very important."

BRIGHT FUN... SYP Community Hub's Kate Martin and SOS Yorke's treasurer Bronnie Searle are excited about Dev Lights Up returning in 2023.

Kristy and Travis back in Moonta

BLUE GRASSER...
Kristy Cox has won six Golden Guitars, her most recent title win coming earlier this year.

NEW TRADITIONALIST...
Travis List's new traditionalist style of country music is thoroughly contemporary yet completely country.

TRAVIS List reckons he hasn't performed at the Moonta Town Hall since he was about 8 years old, but he and wife Kristy Cox will be playing there on Sunday, July 2.

Now living in Nashville, USA, Kristy and Travis both hail from South Australia and are temporarily back on home soil for a string of country music performances across the nation.

Their Moonta concert is in aid of the Moonta Women's and Children's Hospital Auxiliary, and will start at 2pm on Sunday, July 2.

From a young age, Kristy captured attention with her distinctive singing style and positive outlook, going on to open shows for major acts and appearing on television and at major festivals across Australia, Europe and the USA.

Her third album, Shades of Blue, was released last year, and was a follow-up to No Headlights (2020) and Ricochet (2017).

As well as topping the billboards, Kristy has received six Bluegrass Recording of the Year titles in Australia's CMA Awards (Golden Guitars), her latest in 2023 for song Good Morning Moon.

Praised for her performance and song-writing capabilities, Kristy has been shortlisted in Emerging Artist of the Year and Female Vocalist of the Year categories at the International Bluegrass Music Awards for the past five years, and was a finalist in the 2019 IBMA Momentum Awards for Vocalist of the Year.

Travis's style is described as new traditionalist, and he is known as one of Australia's premier male country artists.

His songs resonate with authenticity, his voice holds its own with the best of them, and his live shows leave fans remembering why they first fell in love with country music.

Travis demonstrates what modern country music ought to sound like, thoroughly contemporary yet completely country.

See Community Calendar advert last issue for information about Kirsty and Travis's Moonta gig. To book, call 0475 122 677; tickets cost $22 or $20.

Rollicking good time for Copper Coast Probus clubs

A GROUP of 24 Moonta and District Probus Club members travelled to the Keith Michell Theatre in the Northern Festival Centre, Port Pirie, on June 16.

Along with Probians from the Copper Coast and Kadina clubs, they enjoyed a Gilbert, Sullivan and the Great Composers production.

An appreciative audience enjoyed the outstanding performance of popular opera solos and duets, brilliant piano playing and rollicking songs and choruses from Gilbert and Sullivan musical comedies.

Lunch at Sporties Club followed and special thanks were offered to Richard Bastian for organising the occasion.

The guest speaker scheduled for the club's Monday, June 6, meeting was unable to attend.

Instead, in her unique fashion, Marg Bastian convened a "members' identity" program with many folk revealing their origins, birthplaces, family connections and present circumstances.

Most were South Australian born and bred, but Bruce Oxley had emigrated from Yorkshire, Penny Richter from Kent and Rosina Gould from Essex.

It was a lot of fun and said a lot about why people choose Moonta and Yorke Peninsula for retirement.

President Richard Herbert offered birthday greetings to Ian Archibald and congratulations to Wendy and Gregory Gerblisch on their June 5 wedding anniversary.

Dulcie Barker spoke about the club visit to a local garden, and Phil Woodward, Peter Hall, Joy Trezise and Judy Warmington were lucky number winners.

Gordon Woods reported briefly on the visit to Port Pirie's Stories from the Road Museum, a splendid and extensive display of memorabilia relating to trucking and transport in outback Australia.

A retired Adelaide metro firefighter is guest speaker at next meeting in the Moonta Golf Clubrooms on Monday, July 3.

Retirees find much to enjoy and learn at Probus club meetings; contact secretary Marg Bastian on 0417 826 703 for information.

Copper Coast Garden Club news

THANK YOU... Guest speaker David Sloper accepts a thank you gift from Copper Coast Garden Club president Denise Poole.

GUEST speaker at the Copper Coast Garden Club May meeting was David Sloper from the Australian Plants Society Northern Yorke Peninsula group, Kadina.

David gave an interesting presentation about the group's acquisition and growth of its nursery at Lot 1866 South Terrace, Kadina.

He showed photos of the progress the group members have made and outlined their future objectives.

David also shared some of the work they do in the area of revegetating regions with native plants.

The nursery is open every Thursday for anyone interested in native plants, to view or buy.

Early in June, three carloads of CCGC members journeyed to Warooka to help the Warooka and Districts Garden Club celebrate its 43rd anniversary.

After a short and interesting meeting where our members nearly scooped the pool of raffle prizes, we adjourned to the Warooka Hotel for lunch.

We then returned to the hall for a lively plant auction and rounded the day off with a cake cutting ceremony and a scrumptious afternoon tea; everyone attending had a good time.

David Gray from Buka Honey is the guest speaker at CCGC's next meeting at the Wallaroo Town Hall, 2pm, on Wednesday, June 28 (see last week's Community Calendar advert for details).

Tele-support line empowers country aged care access

COTA SA's regional tele-support service is simplifying aged care support.

The service, funded by the Country SA Primary Health Network, supports older people living in country areas to explore and understand the complex aged care system, as well as assisting them to become aware of relevant, accessible health, wellbeing and social support systems within their community.

COTA SA country ageing well coordinator John Moran provides independent advice which simplifies the aged care system and offers guidance based on individual situations.

"Our regional tele-support service is designed to help South Aussies living alone in regional or rural environments to become aware of what is available to them as they enter their older years," John said.

"We have made it easy for people in regional communities to make informed choices for their future, and also have access to resources that will help them continue to be independent for as long as possible.

"With the complexities of the aged care system, it is vitally important an independent organisation is available for people to access accurate and easy to understand advice."

Pets allowed in rentals

RESIDENTIAL tenants will have the right to own a pet under reforms proposed by the state government.

As part of changes to the Residential Tenancies Act, the government will seek to include a presumption a tenant who applies to keep a pet in a rental property cannot have their request unreasonably refused, provided they comply with any reasonable conditions imposed by the landlord.

Reasonable conditions include requiring a pet to be kept outside of the rental property if it is not a type ordinarily kept inside and requiring carpets to be professionally cleaned at the end of the tenancy.

There will also be an option for the tenant to apply to South Australian Civil and Administrative Tribunal if they are not satisfied conditions imposed by the landlord are reasonable or if they believe their request for a pet was unreasonably refused.

Current estimates suggest 68 per cent of South Australians have pets, but fewer than 20 per cent of rental properties are advertised as allowing pets.

According to the RSPCA, one in every five animals it receives have been surrendered because their owners are unable to find a rental property that allows pets.

Renters must still seek permission from the landlord to keep a pet and they are liable if the pet causes damage.

"The number of pets being surrendered to us, because of rental stress, has tripled in the past three years," RSPCA chief executive Marcus Gehrig said.

"The impact of surrender of a much-loved family pet is tragic — for the family having to give them up, for the animal who suffers from the separation and anxiety and even for our frontline staff who are daily faced with very distressed humans and animals being separated through no fault of their own.

"Residential tenancy laws have not kept up in SA in the way they have in other states.

"Victoria, Queensland, the Northern Territory and the Australian Capital Territory have amended their rental regulations to help more pet owning renters find a home.

"In these states, renters must still seek permission from the landlord to have a pet and remain liable if the pet causes damage — but blanket 'no pets' clauses are prohibited."

Plan ahead before getting a pet

SO, you're thinking of getting a pet?

While having an animal as a member of your family can be rewarding, it is also a huge responsibility.

Before you welcome your new family member, the RSPCA Australia recommends you take the time to research the species or breed you are bringing home so you are positive your companion will be appropriate for your lifestyle and you are well prepared.

"Adding a companion animal to your family should never be an impulsive decision," an RSPCA spokesperson said.

"RSPCA shelters receive thousands of unwanted and abandoned animals each year and these may be the result of an ill-considered decision.

"Before you make the decision to bring an animal into your family, ask yourself if you are prepared to care for the animal for its whole life, can you afford a pet, do you understand how to care for it, do you have time, is your accommodation suitable and if it will fit into your lifestyle and priorities."

There are many costs involved with having a pet, from vaccination, micro-chipping and desexing, to ongoing costs like food, worming, health checks, vet bills, training and toys.

"The costs associated with your companion animal will vary depending on the type of animal and breed you choose," the spokesperson said.

"Remember, animals can be an expensive addition to the family.

"When you are considering adding a companion animal to your family, it is your responsibility to thoroughly research the basic requirements of your chosen animal.

"You should do this before considering adopting/purchasing your animal and prior to bringing them home so you are well informed about the species-specific needs of your companion animal and so you're ready to take good care of them.

"If you are considering adoption, talk to the relevant adoption organisation and ask for information or if you are purchasing from a breeder, ask the breeder for more information such as what health problems the breed can have, breed-specific requirements and how much space and exercise is needed for the breed."

Working hours, a busy social life and taking regular trips away are all factors which need to be considered.

"Companion animals thrive on human company and will always depend on you," the spokesperson said.

"You must be sure your lifestyle will accommodate them.

"Before you adopt or purchase an animal consider their specific requirements.

"Are you prepared to walk your dog every day?

"Are you home often enough to keep your cat or dog company and give them attention?

"Do you have time to give your puppy or kitten the basic reward-based training it needs?

"Who will care for your animal when you are away from home?"

New loyalty program for Pets Domain

Advertising Promotion

PETS Domain, Australia's third largest bricks and mortar pet retailer, is changing its loyalty program.

The +Plus Club Membership Program has evolved from a points-based system with savings on selected products to a paid membership model which offers savings daily, and is the first in the pet retail space in Australia.

The new model consists of three tiers – gold, silver and blue.

Gold membership customers save 30 per cent on all products in-store every day at a cost of $50 for six months.

Silver membership costs $20 for six months and saves customers 20 per cent on all purchases in store.

Gold and silver discounts are in addition to all other promotional discounts in-store.

Blue members accrue points on purchases with $1 equalling one point; collect 500 points to receive a $10 voucher.

"With the cost-of-living pressures and increases in interest rates starting to impact households, we wanted to ensure our loyalty program was offering real value to our customers," Pets Domain chief operating officer Matthew Fechner said.

"Offering great value is the cornerstone of everything we do at Pets Domain; the changes we've made to our +Plus Club Membership enable our customers to save significantly on their pet shop.

"We are pleased that the community has received the changes so well."

WINNER... Hugo Taheny, of Point Turton, showing off his two gold medals won at the 2023 Virtus Global Games in Vichy, France.

Taheny conquers France, the world

Patrick Goldsmith
REPORT BY

Point Turton's Hugo Taheny has brought home an impressive medal haul after representing Australia at the 2023 Virtus Global Games in Vichy, France.

The first time he has competed overseas, Taheny claimed a gold medal in shot-put and broke his own world record twice, finishing with 11.98 metres.

He also broke his own world record in discus with 32.95m to claim another gold.

The Virtus Global Games is the world's largest elite sports event for athletes with an intellectual impairment.

Taheny took home four gold medals from the Virtus Oceania Asia Games in Brisbane in November, claiming victory in the javelin, shot-put, discus and 4x100m relay.

Taheny and his mum Louise spent three weeks in Europe, first at the games before taking in the sights of France and England.

Louise said first and foremost, she and husband John were in awe of their son's determination in competition.

"I think it was with his third throw (of the shot-put), he broke his world record, so there was great excitement," she said.

"He knew it was a good throw but, because he can't read or write and understand the measurement side of it, he just knew it was good.

"His previous record was about 11.45m and with this throw he got 11.62m and then with his second to last throw, he threw the 11.98m.

"On a high, he then had to race to the next event without any time off in between, also changing outfits to throw discus in his suit, similar to that worn by his hero Matt Denny.

"His previous best in discus was 32.93m and, after getting the crowd clapping and then throwing one into the net, he ended up beating his record by 2cm."

Taheny collapsed with heatstroke at the end, but fronted up the following day for the 4x100 relay, competing with two runners and a swimmer, finishing fourth.

Having given his all to that point so far, javelin was his final event, finishing fifth, with a throw of 19.74m.

Taheny was one of 130 athletes representing Australia, with Louise quick to point out how well he flourishes making new friends in that environment.

"Staying with the team and watching how Hugo has blossomed and the way he conducts himself was fantastic," she said.

"I had team doctors, team managers and other parents all come up to me and say 'I've fallen a bit in love with him'.

"He absolutely embraces those opportunities to make friendships with kids from all over the country and they're all so proud of each other."

The travellers were greeted by supporters upon return to Adelaide Airport, and banners at home in Point Turton.

"We are so grateful for the love and support shown by our friends, family and community," Louise said.

"People rallied and put together an amazing raffle to raise the money to send Hugo to France so that was incredible also.

"Everyone is just always behind him and the comments online prove that; I could spend two days responding to all of those, they're just terrific."

Louise said the remainder of the trip was brilliant, including a stop at Australia House in London, meeting with Agent General for South Australia David Ridgway and Deputy High Commissioner Elisabeth Bowes.

"We made the decision to stay on an extra couple of weeks because it's not like we're going to pop back there again soon... but we made the most of it and it was incredible," she said.

"We arrived in Paris after the games and the travel agent had booked a Paris by Night tour and... it was just breathtaking and Hugo leaned over and said 'Mum, thank you for bringing me here', and it was incredible."

Taheny was also a finalist for the Virtus Male Athlete of the Year award, of a Local Para Champions Australian Sports Commission grant recipient, and Athletics SA Para Athlete of the Year.

Klau gets ready for national duty

■ From page 56

Sarah Klau said she was excited to be sharing the journey with her Swifts teammate Paige Hadley.

“We want to bring the World Cup back to Australia and do our families, friends, and the entire netball community across the nation proud,” she said.

Origin Australian Diamonds head coach Stacey Marinkovich said selection was incredibly tight.

“We have incredible strength and depth in our squad, which is a credit to each player’s ability to perform in both the Diamonds program and the Suncorp Super Netball League,” Marinkovich said.

“We are confident we have the versatility across our combinations, and I’m excited by the variations we can put out on the court in Cape Town.

“We have been building towards the 2023 Netball World Cup and we look forward to the challenge of taking on the world’s best.”

The Diamonds will start their 2023 Netball World Cup campaign against Zimbabwe on Friday, July 28.

The 10-day competition concludes with finals on Sunday, August 6.

AFL Masters to play at Kadina Oval

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

Australian rules football masters will display their talents during an annual visit to the Yorke Peninsula on Saturday, July 1.

AFL Masters SA clubs West Brumbies and Athelstone Raggies will face off under lights at Kadina from about 5.15pm, after Kadina hosts Bute in the Yorke Peninsula Football League.

The match comes after Moonta hosted a masters fixture last year.

“We are aiming to create some interest for a YP team to compete in our league,” AFL Masters SA president Brenton Wortley said.

“There’s a team from the Riverland competing and they play every second game at home.

“Last year we had some players from Moonta join in and they were surprised by the level of competition.

“It’s fair dinkum footy — we don’t play for premiership points but the players take it pretty seriously.”

Wortley said the league had given many people who would have otherwise retired the opportunity to keep playing.

“It’s not only great for our physical health, but mental health as well,” he said.

“There’s a good feeling of camaraderie — we all usually have a beer with the opposition after the game.”

Anyone aged 35 or over who wishes to join or form an AFL Masters SA team can contact Brenton Wortley on 0412 822 777 or president@aflmasterssa.com.au.

STILL KICKING... Gavin O'Reilly and the West Brumbies will take on the Athelstone Raggies in an AFL Masters SA match at Kadina on Saturday night, July 1.

Yorkers duo to shoot for a national championship

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

Yorke Valley basketballers Nate Mercer and Jack Christian are preparing to suit up in the Under 14 Club Championships.

The championships invite the best 48 club teams, 24 male and 24 female, from across Australia.

Having recently won the Eltham Dandenong Junior Basketball Tournament with their Adelaide club Forestville Eagles, Mercer and Christian qualified for the national championships played in Victoria this September.

Christian said he was excited to participate at the national level in only his first season with Forestville.

“Playing at Forestville has helped me move faster and get better both offensively and defensively,” he said.

“We have a really good team. Everyone brings something different... there’s no selfish players and we all help each other out.

“I love playing against really big, tall players and my defence is probably my biggest strength.

“It would be good to win club champs and bring home a medal.”

Mercer said he had enjoyed the competition and making new friends in his time with the Eagles.

“We all really enjoy playing together and have become great friends off the court,” he said.

“Playing in Adelaide has helped me become a better defender and with my basketball decision making.

“With this team, we definitely have a good chance (of winning the championships) — we’ve beaten the top Vic teams this year and finished sixth in the recent National Junior Classic tournament.

“We just need to keep playing our team basketball.”

In order to participate in the championships, the boys are seeking donations of raffle and auction items.

“Participating in these championships involves significant expenses,” they said.

“All money raised will be used to help cover costs such as transport, court hire, fitness and nutritional needs, et cetera.

“We thank the Copper Coast Council, Copy King, Copper Trails Bike Hire and the Port Hughes General Store for their generous donations so far.”

To make a tax detectable donation, visit asf.org.au/projects/forestville-eagles-basketball-club.

To donate items for raffles or auctions, contact Jade Christian on 0457 008 062.

CHAMPS... Yorke Valley basketball duo Jack Christian and Nate Mercer have their sights set on the national Under 14 Club Championships in Victoria, where they’ll represent Forestville later this year.

SA boys winless in the west

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

Yorke Peninsula’s Thomas Luck and Kade Herbert played their final match in the AFL National Football Championships U18 Boys on Saturday, June 24.

Luck (CY Cougars), Herbert (Bute) and the South Australian side played Western Australia in match four of the championships at Optus Stadium, Perth.

Less than a goal separated the teams at halftime, but the Sandgropers went on to win by 28 points, 10.10 (70) to 6.6 (42).

Herbert was a solid performer in the contest, winning 14 disposals (seven kicks and seven handballs), five tackles, a pair of marks and a clearance.

Luck played as a second ruck option and won seven hit-outs to go with four possessions in general play, along with two marks, a pair of tackles and a clearance.

Both Herbert and Luck played three of the four games in the 2023 championships and are still eligible to play next year.

Jim Kelly (of Bute connections) was also in WA playing for SA in the AFL National Football Championships U16 Boys.

The under 16 side went down to WA by five points, 7.18 (60) to 9.11 (65) at Mineral Resources Park, Perth.

Despite having five more shots at goal, the Croweaters were unable to place the Sandgropers under enough scoreboard pressure after kicking an inefficient 1.9 in the third quarter.

Trailing by just eight points at the final change, SA outscored the hosts in the fourth term but it was not enough to steal the victory.

Kelly was a solid contributor with 16 disposals (seven kicks and nine handballs), three marks, three tackles and a pair of clearances.

The under 16 side has two more matches against Victoria Country and Victoria Metro on the Gold Coast next month.

West Coast Fever's dream of back-to-back titles is still alive, after defeating the Melbourne Vixens by seven goals, 64-57, in the minor semifinal on Sunday, June 25.

Sasha Glasgow (Moonta) was a strong foil for superstar Jhaniele Fowler, shooting three from four from normal range, and recording three goals from seven attempts from super shot two-goal range.

Glasgow was also credited with 20 goal assists, 10 centre pass receives and 23 feeds.

In the major semifinal at the Qudos Bank Arena, Sarah Klau and the NSW Swifts played out a thriller against the Adelaide Thunderbirds.

The scores were locked away at 56-all at full time, before the Thunderbirds got up 6-4 in extra time.

Yorke's Klau played at goal keeper for the Swifts and collected a rebound and an intercept, with five gains for the game.

Klau's Swifts will take on Glasgow's Fever in the penultimate game of the season on Saturday, July 1.

Demons do it for Blair

“Dee Lover”
REPORT BY

In a crushing display, all four Moonta teams defeated Paskeville in a show of strength and out of respect for their much-loved patron and club legend Blair Cross who passed away last week.

Footballers, netballers, umpires and spectators stood for a minute’s silence prior to the A grade match. Moonta needed little motivation to win this one for Blair, and Paskeville was going to have to work hard.

It wouldn’t have mattered who the Demons were playing, they were emotionally charged and on a mission.

From the beginning, it was obvious Moonta had stronger, more skilled players all over the ground, and started well with Matt Altmann scoring the first goal for the Dees.

Inside 50s for the term were in the Dees’ favour 10-6, with Moonta’s accurate kicks to forward leads being a major difference between the sides.

Tyson Goldsack set up a lot of play up forward for the Dees, while Brock Thomson took a ripper mark for Pasky in the centre to drive them forward.

Moonta was sometimes caught overdoing the handball.

Patrick Keane kicked the first and only goal for the Magpies in the quarter, giving the Dees a 27-point lead at the first break.

Within the first minute and a half of the second term, Moonta had put itself on the board again through Altmann.

Kieran Yakkas dominated in the centre and around the ground at hit-outs for the Dees. Goldsack kicked three goals for the quarter and Aidan Turner started to get a lot of the ball.

Brodie Paige put in a strong effort for the Magpies around the ground.

The breeze picked up and favoured the Dees’ scoring end, with Moonta kicking 11 second-quarter goals.

Conor Linhart scored his first of four goals for Paskeville and was taking some good grabs.

The Magpies had their best quarter for the game in the third, equalling Moonta’s score.

Their pressure around the packs was stronger, and they seemed to get out by themselves a bit more into space.

Glen Mulders continued to contribute strongly for the Pies.

Jayga Warmington cleverly intercepted a short pass in the Pasky backlines and converted.

Kynen Adams read a ball well off the pack and kicked Pasky’s sixth goal while Brodie Paige barrellled a huge kick forward from the centre to score a great goal for the Magpies.

Moonta hadn’t capitalised on its forward entries, and Pasky had competed a lot better in what was a fairly even affair.

The first goal in the final quarter for Moonta was from a great snap by Turner.

Defender Jack Cooper also kicked a goal for the Dees.

The Demons kicked 10 goals to Paskeville’s one in the last quarter.

Moonta had winners all over the ground.

Their scoring options were phenomenal with five players kicking 27 of 30 goals.

Tyler Andrews bagged another seven goals, keeping him up with the league’s leading goal kickers.

Ryley Maitland played his usual strong, reliable game through the midfield for Moonta with Dylan Aldridge and Alex Elsworthy also contributing strongly.

Other players of note for Paskeville were Jedd Thomson and Jacob Nelson.

A special moment was shared in the Moonta changerooms after the game with Blair’s family continuing his tradition of shouting the winning team a beer.

He would have been proud of the Moonta performances on the field, and humbled by activities centred around him.

Thanks to the Paskeville Football Club for their participation and understanding on the day.

YPFL UNDER 11... Moonta’s Dale Leicester about to drop the ball onto his boot against Paskeville.

Second quarter blitz secures win

“B Dog”

REPORT BY

CMS Crows made the trip up to Wallaroo for what could be a close game of football.

Rain wet the grass moments before the first bounce but, apart from that, it stayed away.

After the rain, a tight contest ensued. Crows entered their forward line with ease only to be repelled by the Dogs’ defence led by Hayden Ingram.

A series of attacks put the home side up at the end of the first quarter.

The Crows liked to get the ball off the back of a pack and run it on the outside as sweepers, a tactic which had proved effective during their last meeting with Wallaroo.

The second quarter started poorly for the Dogs, with the Crows firing early and putting the defence under siege.

Crows’ midfield, led by Murphy Short, ran rampant and gave their forwards first look.

By the end of the quarter, the Dogs had hit back with three goals, including Jonte Hunter-Price kicking a bag, but the Crows had piled on nine and the damage was done.

Going into the long break, best for Wallaroo were Hunter-Price, Ingram and Nick Westhoff. Best for CMS were ruckman Ryley Newbold, along with Short and Angus Glazbrook.

With a mountain to climb, the Dogs won the third and clawed back at the scoreboard.

Westhoff moved into the ruck to combat the leap of the Crows’ ruck which seemed to work but their midfield continued to dominate.

Little could be done to curb the influence of Short.

Around the ground the young Dogs tried hard, but their own errors often let them down.

Instead of giving up, the Dogs fought it out in the last quarter and pushed the Crows until the end of the game.

A nice mark from Chase Martin led to a goal to rally the Dogs, who very much remained in the game.

All the Crows needed to do was hold onto their lead as the pressure built against them.

In the end, the big second quarter proved to be the decisive period of the game and the Dogs couldn’t come back.

Some poor disposals by hand didn’t help with generating momentum moving forward.

For the victorious tourists, Short was unsurprisingly best on, well supported by his ruckman Newbold.

Best on for the home team was Westhoff followed by Jaydan Trott, and Dylan Westlake.

Bloods make it four straight

Kadina scribe
REPORT BY

Yet another dominant opening term set Kadina up for a comfortable 10-goal win against Ardrossan on Saturday, June 24. Bloods onballers Henry Bruce, Angus Poole and Jayson Manners got on top at stoppages early and stamped their authority with ample inside 50 entries on which Jake von Bertouch and company capitalised. Like it often tends to, Kadina took its foot off the pedal in the second quarter and allowed the Kangaroos to pile on four goals to three. Despite missing a couple of its key cogs, Ardrossan battled hard all day, led by best player Jaden Grosser who finished with three goals. But Kadina coach Gregg Clarke's halftime message must have stuck with the Bloods as they came out firing in the third, stacking on six majors to one, which well and truly sealed the result. Daniel McDonald, three goals, had his best performance for the Bloods this season while Roos Ben Parsons and Sam Pfeiffer led from the front all day. My personal highlight was seeing debutant Brayden Phillips kick a classy left-foot goal and every Kadina player on the ground congratulate him.

Tight contests tipped

“McDonald-Tipstawuti”
REPORT BY

Round 11 made for another week of big wins and heavy losses across the Yorke Peninsula. It was none other than the rampaging Moonta Demons who demolished Paskeville by a whopping 140 points thanks to six goals each from Tyson Goldsack and Matt Altmann, and seven majors by Tyler Andrews to hang onto the leading goal kicker tally, just one goal ahead of Kadina's Jake von Bertouch. With a few sides in similar ladder spots clashing this week, I'm tipping these high stakes games will make for good viewing.

Round 12 tips

Wallaroo v Paskeville

Wallaroo could get itself off the bottom of the ladder with a win against the struggling Paskeville this week. Steven Clay and Dylan Westlake have led their young side from the front every week and I anticipate the talented Dogs have what it takes to rally for their second win.

At the final siren... Wallaroo by a goal.

Central Yorke Cougars v Southern Eagles

Coming off a 98-point thrashing of Bute, the Cougars look to be hitting their straps at the right time of the season. This is a perfect chance for them to pinch a win and leap into the top three. But it will all come down to the midfield battle where I think Nathan Allen and company could have the advantage.

At the final siren... Southern Eagles by a goal.

CMS Crows v Ardrossan

With Murphy Short back for a week, the Crows found another gear to pull off a hard-fought win against Wallaroo. But, with the dual-Mail Medallist likely to return to the SANFL, the weight will fall back on Crows' experience to get the job done.

At the final siren... CMS Crows by three goals.

Kadina v Bute

The Bloods struggled again to put their opposition away early in the piece last week, a habit they'll need to snap out of as they approach finals. Von Bertouch has hit his straps at the right time, as has Kadina's midfield. This old rivalry always brings the best out of both sides, but I think the Bloods will come home with the chocolates.

At the final siren... Kadina by eight goals.

Roosters pip BM at the post

REPORT BY

This was a home game at Port Broughton for the Broughton-Mundoora Eagles, but the day had a different structure due to it being Sponsors’ Day.

The A and B grade time slots were swapped, with the A grade boys taking on the top-placed Crystal Brook Roosters at 1pm.

After a disappointing second half last week, the team was keen to bounce back, and they started well to stay in touch despite kicking into a stiff breeze.

Kane Bowley and Kallis Freer showed their class around the contest and Lachie Dolling provided lots of energy and drive along his wing.

A one-goal lead was a good reward for effort at the main break.

Crystal Brook looked dangerous up forward with Aaron Fielke, five goals, and Tosh Kunoth, four goals, putting lots of pressure on the score-board.

The Roosters used the strong breeze effectively and looked in control with a four-goal lead at the final break.

The Eagles threw everything at the game in the final term and dominated possession.

Dylan Hewett moved forward and bagged a couple of goals and full forward Sam Dyer rounded his total up to a handy five goals.

With only a few minutes to go, the Eagles were two points up, but the Brook had one last attacking thrust and snagged a goal in the dying seconds.

The siren sounded at the centre bounce and Crystal Brook had taken the victory by four points.

Broughton-Mundoora Football Club wishes ruckman Thomas Klingberg all the best with his recovery from a serious injury in the last contest of the game.

The team will certainly miss his influence in clearances and around the ground in the coming rounds.

NAFA A GRADE... Ryan Perkins, Crystal Brook, and Thomas Klingberg, Broughton-Mundoora, with eyes on the ball at a centre throw-up.

NAFA A GRADE... The ball flies past Oscar Pedler, Crystal Brook, and former Bute player Ben Price, Broughton-Mundoora, in a marking contest.

NAFA A GRADE... Broughton-Mundoora coach Thomas Whelan addresses his players at quarter time.

Wallaroo v CMS Crows

Players and spectators were met with frigid conditions at the exposed Wallaroo courts, although the wind remained relatively benign and didn't hamper play.

Crows had the first opportunity to score, converting through GS Jess Farrow. Wallaroo GK Demi Jenner pounced upon a wayward second shot and the ball transitioned to GS Alex Walker, who evened the scores; she and GA Isabelle Glasgow shot accurately to take the early lead. The ball was heavily contested across the court; Crows GK Georgina Farrow made a strong defensive rebound, WD Rebecca Harris followed up with an intercept and the tide began to turn. When the timer stood to call time Crows were ahead by one.

Crows swapped Bree McNeilly into WD and Harris into GD. A brief shower made the ball and court slippery. Wallaroo again began strongly, WA Talia Nadich and C Macayla Marner working hard to feed the ball to their goalies. Crows' goalies J Farrow and Tasmyn Biddell found it tough going against the strong bodywork of Wallaroo GK Jenner and GD Adele Biancardi. Wallaroo pulled away early but Crows rallied, their midcourt players WA Felicity Kemp and C Tegan Goldsworthy combining well to transition the ball down the court. Crows GD Harris pounced on a miss by Wallaroo GS Walker and the ball soon landed in the hands of Crows GS Biddell, who helped her team to a halftime lead.

Crows brought Melissa McSkimming on at WD. Scoring aligned with centre passes for the first 10 minutes before Wallaroo GS Walker pulled in an offensive rebound to score, followed by two quick goals by GA Glasgow to reduce the margin to one at three-quarter time.

Crows scored the first goal of the last quarter from their centre pass. Wallaroo worked the ball into its attacking circle, but the quick hands of GK G Farrow deflected a pass and her team converted. Wallaroo worked hard to get the ball into Glasgow, who made her own offensive rebound to score. Crows amassed eight unanswered goals, before the ball seasawed up and down the court in the final minutes. Crows won by 11 goals, 47-35.

Kadina v Ardrossan

Ardrossan was strong from the start, scoring the first five goals. Kadina fought back but many skilful lobbs into Ardrossan GS Kimberley Langley helped the visiting team go into quarter time five goals ahead: Ardrossan 14, Kadina 9.

Kadina's GD and GK swapped bibs. All goalies shot accurately and scoring was goal-for-goal for the first five or so minutes of the second quarter. Every pass was strongly contested. Ardrossan effected turnovers across the court and led by 11 goals at halftime, 28-17.

Jacqueline Smith came on at GS for Kadina and Lainey Charlton into WA. Lots of energy and skill resulted in many intercepts and the ball travelled up and down the court multiple times before a goal was scored. The quarter had a quiet end with little voice heard on the court, although Kadina defenders Nikkita Aldridge and Teesha Angus shared many smiles. Three-quarter time: Ardrossan 40, Kadina 23.

Ardrossan moved Alexa Simmons into GS, Ebony Wheare to centre and Chelsea Hogarth to WA. Kadina repositioned Charlton back into goals at GA, and Kayla Russel into WA. Ardrossan's accurate shooting made it hard for Kadina and tough defence by Kate Pfeiffer and Elizabeth Cane kept Kadina to a low-scoring quarter. Final scores: Ardrossan 55, Kadina 26.

Bute v CY Cougars

Solid defensive pressure across the court continued throughout the game. Bute's Lahni Smith and Cougars' Laura Trenorden created strong drives to their respective goal circles. As the whistle blew at quarter time, Cougars led 14-13.

Cougars extended their lead as the second quarter progressed, to be 33-22 ahead at halftime.

Bute stepped up in the third quarter with goalies Montana Briggs and Marissa Hewett getting some much-needed goals to bring the three-quarter time scores to 40-49, Cougars' way.

Cougars' goalies Alanna Barrand and Lana Bagshaw continued to shoot accurately to win Cougars the game, 69-52.

Moonta v Paskeville

Moonta had the first centre pass in wintry weather and slippery conditions, and GS Kara Rendell shot the first goal after several gives from the circle edge. Paskeville made a swift reply with good team flow and a little feed to GS Lucy Bussenschutt. Moonta responded, using multiple swings and feeds; young gun GA Ella Aldridge drove baseline to shoot, Pasky GK Fiona Bussenschutt rebounded and the ball travelled smoothly to Pasky's goalies. With lots of great voice from both teams, it was hard to tell the scores without looking at the scoreboard. A couple of slips, especially near lines, made the game intense and cautious. Quarter time: Paskeville 16, Moonta 8.

Moonta GD Carlin Macro went down with an unfortunate ankle injury not long after the second quarter began, resulting in Bella Congdon moving to GD, Ella Gunning to GK and Claudia Hatcher on at WD. Moonta defenders started to double team the Pasky GS, creating a few loose balls and turnovers. Pasky GA Chloe Cook moved well, generating multiple scores. Halftime: Paskeville 29, Moonta 15.

There was an extended break to allow all to join with the footballers to observe a minute's silence for the passing of Moonta sporting stalwart Blair Cross.

Moonta swapped its WA and WD, and Charlotte Keleher made her A grade debut at GS, where she performed well. Pasky moved Elise Burnell to WD, Taitlyn Tilbrook to centre and Amie Price to WA. The game continued to be fairly clean and well contested. Moonta's goalies worked the circle well but Pasky replied every time. Three-quarter time: Paskeville 41, Moonta 26.

Scoring was mostly even in the last term, the ball moving up and back due to many turnovers at both ends. The result was never challenged, but Moonta's team shows a lot of promise for the years to come. Final scores: Paskeville 48, Moonta 34.

C grade

Moonta v Paskeville

Paskeville had the first centre pass, but a turnover gave Moonta the first score through GA Mackenzie Jones. Paskeville struggled to get the ball into its goal circle and Jones shot accurately to give Moonta the next couple of goals. Paskeville settled and was rewarded by GA Layla Wilksch. Paskeville circle defenders Jane Bussenschutt and Leanne Toogood worked hard to make opportunities for their team. An intercept by WA Annabelle Pearce resulted in another goal, giving Paskeville the lead. Facing strong defence, Moonta was called for consecutive held balls and Paskeville extended its lead. Quarter time: Paskeville 11, Moonta 4.

Moonta put Olivia Elsworthy into GS and the move had an immediate impact. Both teams scored off their centre passes and play was even. Paskeville GK Toogood intercepted and, with accurate shooting from GA Wilksch, the visitors retained their lead. Rain made for scrappy play and players made unforced errors. The ball seasawed from end to end but Paskeville settled first to extend its lead. Halftime: Paskeville 24, Moonta 10.

Both teams made changes. The rain continued, Moonta was first to adjust, scoring four in a row. Moonta WD Aleisha Mann worked hard, making it difficult for WA Pearce to get a clear lead. Play was messy and many passes were wayward. Neither team scored easily, only 12 goals recorded for the quarter. Three-quarter time: Paskeville 31, Moonta 15.

Moonta restarted strongly, notching up the first five goals; Paskeville eventually scored after an intercept by C Caroline Kennett. Moonta GK Michelle Hatcher and Paskeville GS Leonie Ey had a good contest, working hard for their respective teams. Pasky GK Toogood rebounded strongly, but a lovely long shot by Moonta GS Elsworthy kept her team in the game. Scores were even for the remainder of the game, giving Paskeville the win 37-25.

D grade

Bute v CY Cougars

When Bute and Central Yorke last met, it was the Roosters' first game of the season and they won by 16.

Cougars came out firing, with great drives from WA Amie-lee Harris, but Bute's Beck Crosby made plenty of intercepts at GD to help her team to a seven-goal lead at quarter time.

Olivia Northeast, CYC, came off with an injury early in the second quarter and Layla Heinrich took to the court. Cougars adjusted quickly to the change but Bute's defensive pressure forced turnovers in the midcourt, extending the home team's lead to 18 at halftime.

CYC goalies Heinrich and Sarah Browning remained composed coming into the second half, despite Bute's lead and the gusty weather. Cougars' offence opened up with some smooth passages of play, scoring nine goals for the quarter and keeping Bute to 12.

Determined to bring the scores closer, CYC looked to dominate at the start of the final quarter. Both teams fought hard for loose balls and forced turnovers but Bute managed to hold out, winning 54-31.

F grade

Kadina v Ardrossan

Ardrossan started with the first centre pass and goalies Caitlyn Wheare and Sienna Lawrie quickly converted a goal. The ball flowed up and down the court with centres Eleanor Francis (Kadina) and Isabelle Dayman having a good tussle. Ardrossan defenders Shayla Brind and Grace Davey kept Kadina to a low-scoring term, and Ardrossan led 10 goals to three at quarter time.

Ardrossan had the centre pass and again its offence worked beautifully, easily driving the ball down the court to their goalies. GA Wheare dominated her court space and displayed some great passing into GS Lawrie; both shot accurately. Ardrossan pulled away, scoring 16 goals for the quarter to Kadina's three; halftime: Ardrossan 26, Kadina 6.

Both teams changed their line-ups. Jemma Mattschoss joined Brind in defence for Ardrossan and Kadina swapped goalies with Ruby Phillips going into GS from centre. There was a bit more up-and-down-the-court play in the third quarter, and fewer goals were recorded (Kadina 2, Ardrossan 7) for three-quarter time scores to be 33-8 in Ardrossan's favour.

Ardrossan brought Lawrie back to the court at GS, joined by Mattschoss, and Wheare tried her hand at defence with Carly Whittaker. Kadina had the pass to start the final quarter but didn't convert. Lawrie sustained her accurate shooting for the visitors, and Phillips continued to play well at GS for Kadina, making some great shots. Centres Phillips and Dayman (Kadina and Ardrossan respectively) tussled along the court. Kadina kept fighting to the end but Ardrossan proved too strong; final scores: Ardrossan 50, Kadina 12.

A pivotal time to win games

“First Aid Kit”
REPORT BY

A clean-sweep in last week's tips really boosts the ego and that's what I assume the winning teams feel as well — good about themselves. What a pivotal time in the season to win games. Overall, there were no real surprises — besides some bursts of foul weather across the peninsula, but it is a winter sport, I guess. Here's hoping the sun comes out to play just like the competitors. Good luck everyone.

Kadina v Bute

Luckily for these players, they are playing inside even if the weather gods don't cooperate. With any luck, this would provide Kadina a homecourt advantage — but Kadina has a new team which hasn't quite jelled like the old one. Bute, on the other hand, has worked hard to build this team up during the past few years and is now reaping the rewards.

At the final whistle... Bute by 20 goals.

Wallaroo v Paskeville

Four goals separated these teams when they met in the first round, with Paskeville taking the win at home. Can Wallaroo win on its home courts? I would like to say the Dogs can, and I'm sure it will be a competitive game, but Paskeville has continued to climb the ladder round after round. The Magpies are definitely flying towards finals. But I will say, I think Wallaroo is on track to make finals come 2024.

At the final whistle... Paskeville by 12 goals.

CY Cougars v Southern Eagles

The Eagles' wings have been clipped this year as they still try to put a win on the board. All teams have been there so we know how they would be feeling. The Cougars are sitting third on the ladder and would be hoping to prove they are finals contenders yet again. Sorry, I think this will be a white-wash.

At the final whistle... CY Cougars by 35 goals.

CMS Crows v Ardrossan

How long have Crows been the team to beat? A lot of years is all I can say. I have so many questions about how they do it, but I assume it's hard work, dedication, and a heck of a lot of talent. They really have set the bar for a long time, but Ardrossan has started to sneak up the ladder and show us what the side is capable of. I think Ardrossan will close the gap this time, but Crows will still run away with the win.

At the final whistle... Crows by 15 goals.

Results 24-6-23
MEN
Kadina Rebels 6 d Moonta Demons 0. Best: Nick Larwood, Tom Trumper, Reece Dayman; Rhys Flowers, Charlie Mieglich, Kym Duckford. Goals: Lachlan Harkness 2, Tim Garfield, Tom Trumper, Matthew Crosby, Nick Larwood. Report: This was an entertaining and intense game of hockey with a touch of intrigue. The game opened with Rebels going straight into their D, where Nick Larwood square cut a great goal. There was some concern this was going to be a repeat of 2022 when the Rebels consistently defeated Demons by huge scores. This was not to be, as both sides went hard in an open and fast game of hockey. Demons probably had more scoring opportunities than Rebels but were unable to convert. Demons paid a price for their first-half inefficiency in the third quarter. Rebels took advantage of Demons losing some concentration as Lachlan Harkness, Tom Trumper and Matt Crosby rammed home three goals without an answer. Demons tightened up in the final quarter but still gave up goals to Harkness and Tim Garfield. Best players for Rebels were Larwood who was outstanding in his first game for the season. Trumper controlled centre half back while Reece Dayman was solid at half back as usual. Rhys Flowers was everywhere for Demons and ran his heart out, Charlie Mieglich is developing into a serious forward while Kym Duckford did a fantastic job in goals. Flynn Cockshell and Brendan and Blake Bowden were also solid in defence. The intriguing question for Demons is they know they are able to match up well on Rebels, but what do they need to do to prevent their lapses of concentration and application, or is it fitness?

Moonta Lions 4 d Kadina Spartans 2. Best: Alex Oakley, Ryley Paulson, Gary Cooper; Aidan Stock, Connor Tudhope, Craig Shean. Goals: Tim Linke 2, Stewart Redding, Gary Cooper; Declan McCauley 2. Report: Lions played well to defeat a depleted Spartans side. Spartans were missing at least half a dozen players while Lions were close to full strength. Lions had most of the play in their forward half for the first two quarters, but were unable to take full advantage of their dominance. Spartans scored against the flow in the first quarter through Declan McCauley and looked as though they might upset the Lions. Stewart Redding rectified the situation to even the scores in the second quarter and send the teams to the long break with a goal each. Lions took advantage of a tiring Spartans team in the third and fourth quarters to run out winners 4-2. Tim Linke hit two goals and Gary Cooper one goal in the second half while McCauley scored again in the second half. Alex Oakley has been in great form over recent weeks and once again showed his class. Ryley Paulson is a machine as he is consistently in the play while some of Cooper's passing in the forward lines was sublime. Spartans' best player was Aidan Stock, who is an absolute workhorse. He runs from D to D and it is worth going to hockey just to watch his skills. He was forced to get the ball deep in Spartans' defensive half and the effort of carrying the ball and beating numerous tackles meant he wasn't as potent as normal. Connor Tudhope and Joe Stock were outstanding in the backlines and along with goalie Nigel Westbrook, were responsible for restricting Lions' scoring. Craig Shean made the best players in his third or fourth game for Spartans which was a great effort.

WOMEN
Blue Devils 3 d Kadina Spartans 2. Best: Georgia McCauley, Amber Isgar, Chloe Whittaker; Tegan Mengersen, Tayla Mengersen, Asha Wegener. Goals: Georgia McCauley, Chloe Whittaker, Aries Isgar; Tegan Mengersen 2.

Kadina Bears 3 d Moonta Flames 1. Best: Emily Armstrong, Susannah Stock, Laura Trumper; Tia Johnstone, Amy Sparks, Lesley Ferguson. Goals: Jami Weinel, Emily Armstrong, Laura Trumper; Piper Bowden. Report: Bears had to fight hard for their win against Moonta. Bears were the dominant team, and most of the game was played in their forward half. Moonta's defence was on fire with Tia Johnstone playing a blinder at fullback. She was backed up by Lesley Ferguson and Stef Treloar. Emma Gloyn was outstanding in goals and, what the fullbacks and half backs missed, Gloyn tidied up. Bears' forwards were busy all game as they constantly attacked Moonta's goals. Sheer weight of numbers meant they broke through three times. Emily Armstrong and Jami Weinel were busy through the midfield and pushed hard into Moonta's forward lines. Laura Trumper showed great skills as she carried the ball consistently into Bears' attacking D, but had trouble getting the ball past Johnstone, Treloar and Gloyn. Moonta's only goal came from Piper Bowden, who made good position to deflect a goal, her first in women's hockey. Overall, the game was an entertaining spectacle with a smooth flow of play which allowed players room to use their skills.

UNDER 18
Moonta 14 d Kadina 1. Best: Declan Newton, Kiala Andrews, Blake Bowden; Ellise Harmer, Novak Duka, Tayla Mengersen. Goals: Declan Newton 5, Blake Bowden 3, Lachlan Mill 2, Isobel Meyer, Kiala Andrews, Eric Warren, Jesse Mills; Tayla Mengersen.

Warooka winter bowls: Results 22-6-23 — There was a smaller turnout than usual, no doubt due to the almost 40mm of rain. However, those who did play had a great time. Game 1: Jan and Dennis Larcombe, Glenys Pieck; Game 2: Glenys Pieck, Allan Knight, Peter Drury, Kathy Scott; Game 3: Peter and Heather Drury, Glenys Pieck, Dennis Larcombe. Lucky door prize Jan Larcombe. Results 24-6-23 — Unfortunately winter bowls has been hampered by very poor weather during the past few weeks. The few brave souls who did manage to get outdoors were blessed with difficult bowling conditions that really tested everyone. The club is committed to playing every Saturday until the end of August and we would love to see a few beginners come and give this very social bowling atmosphere a try. Bowls can be borrowed for the day. Let’s hope the weather improves for the next couple of months, at least on Saturday afternoons. Keep an eye on our Facebook page for any updates. “Wensie”

With just two rounds to go, match points are at a premium with most teams hunting for that elusive semi-finals spot.

After round 8, Blues remain top with 45 points, followed by Team 5 36, Beauties and the Beast 35, Katrina and the Waves 34, and Joels Power Rangers 23.

Len Brennan, Blues, continued his undefeated season with a three games to nil win against Grant Donovan, Beauties and the Beast, on Tuesday, June 20.

Ruth Vogelsang evened the scores with the same result against Bob Helmers.

In the decider, Luke Kretschmer, Blues, won a hard-fought match against Lisa Caffyn, three games to one.

Only one match was completed on court one where Blake Pedler continued his winning season, defeating Phil Charles 3-0.

Results 20-6-23

Blues 2 rubbers, 6 games, 136 points d Beauties and the Beast 1, 4, 117. Len Brennan 3 games, 45 pts d Grant Donovan 0, 29; Bob Helmers 0, 35 lost to Ruth Vogelsang 3, 46; Luke Kretschmer 3, 56 d Lisa Caffyn 1, 43.

Joels Power Rangers d Team 5. Blake Pedler 3, 45 d Phil Charles 0, 23.

This week

Joels Power Rangers has the bye so it will be left up to the top four to scramble for those precious points up for grabs.

Main interest will be centred around the top two teams, Blues and Team 5.

Len Brennan should continue undefeated, so it will be up to Bob Helmers against Phil Charles and Nate Spencer against Chris Cook to decide the issue.

On the other court, third versus fourth, will have some interesting matches as well. Blake Pedler won't have it all his own way against Ruth Vogelsang, as Grant Donovan won't against Katrina Jones, who is coming off a good win against Dave Russack. Lisa Caffyn will have to be at her best to defeat Rhys Flowers.

COPPER COAST SQUASH... Blake Pedler pirouettes as part of his service action.

Operation K9 golf challenge held at Port Vincent

Port Vincent Golf Club hosted the Operation K9 fundraising golf challenge on Monday, June 12.

It was a lovely morning with a lazy wind and the dark clouds were not present until the day had been completed.

We had many more players and guests than last year.

Play began at around 10am and most participants finished by about 1pm.

Whilst the last golfers were coming in, the barbecue lunch was being cooked and serving preparations were underway. The meal consisted of chicken steaks, sausages and patties with a variety of salads. Pea and ham soup was available for those who wanted it.

Dessert was a variety of delicious cakes and specialties with tea and coffee.

The golf was played seriously with the traditional port and sampler glasses at two locations on the way around.

Following lunch, trophies were presented, raffles were drawn and people slowly drifted home to beat the forecasted heavy rains, which arrived as predicted.

The raffle winners were: 1, T Stock; 2, K Holds; 3, K Saint; 4, B Cocking; 5, Allison. The golf winners were, best net: John Gilgen; teams award: John, Tom, Ben, TOP PLACE... Barry Tozer presents John Gilgen with his award for best net score.

Robbie; encouragement award: Perry Woodward.

Congratulations and thanks go to the sellers of the tickets, the chefs, those who bought tickets in Minlaton and Port Vincent, and participants.

Without everyone involved, we would not have raised $1759.35 to go to the breeding, training and matching of dogs with eligible recipients.

If you ask any of them, the answer is invariably, without my dog, I would not be here.

As the cost of the dogs and the training of both the dog and receiver is around $40,000, we thank you for your donations and efforts.

We look forward to your company when we next year have our OPK9 fundraising golf challenge.

WINNERS... The Operation K9 fundraising golf challenge team winners were John, Tom, Ben and Robbie.

First ship on the horizon

REPORT BY

T-PORTS Wallaroo is on track to ship its first load of grain by late July.

The $70 million facility received about 100,000 tonnes of grain from 165 growers across Yorke Peninsula and the Mid North in the 2022-23 harvest, marking a successful soft launch for the terminal.

As a shallow water port, T-Ports will have the ability to load grain for exporters via its transshipment vessel, a practice which general manager of construction Mark Antushka said was not otherwise seen in Australian grain ports.

"We load our transshipment vessel when it comes into the port, then it goes out to an anchorage point where the exporter's ship sits," Mr Antushka said.

"By loading grain in shallow water, we've been able to bring the port to the product through much lower build costs than a deep water port.

"We're about to load our first Panamax vessel for Hartree Partners, which holds about 60,000 tonnes (of grain), in late July.

"We've already got six grain exporters who've agreed to ship from our network, including three of the four biggest global grain traders in the world."

Mr Antushka said there were three major winners from the project.

"Local growers will enjoy an increase in grain pricing by $10 to $20 per tonne due to the increased market competition and service levels, which translates to about $10m more for growers (within our catchment) per annum," he said.

"We've generated 200 local jobs during construction and there will be a further 50 once the facility is fully operational.

"Grain exporters will enjoy an additional 500,000t of shipping capacity and a new export pathway.

"T-Ports is very appreciative of Copper Coast Council's recognition of the importance of this large-scale investment in the region — it embraced the project from day one and has been fully supportive during the journey."

Mayor Roslyn Talbot said the first shipment from the new facility would be worth celebrating.

"It's been very impressive to see this significant scale of infrastructure built in a short amount of time," Mrs Talbot said.

"I'm glad the project has had little disruption on the foreshore."

The Wallaroo facility, featuring two 20,000t silos, a 500t hospital bin, 240,000t bunker site and 500-metre rock causeway, is set to be completed in the coming weeks.

T-Ports has also lodged a planning application to expand its bunker site by 100,000t.

MILESTONE... T-Ports general manager of construction Mark Antushka (middle), Copper Coast Council mayor Roslyn Talbot and CEO Russell Peate are looking forward to seeing the T-Ports transshipment vessel dock at Wallaroo next month. Resistant ryegrass challenges disc seeding systems DISC seeding equipment is gaining popularity for its ability to handle crop residue, improved precision, faster sowing speeds, suitability for narrow row spacing and tendency to produce fewer clods when dry sowing.

These systems have an important downside, though, as very few pre-emergence herbicides are registered for use in conjunction with disc seeders where annual ryegrass (and other weeds) have resistance to in-crop herbicides.

University of Adelaide weed management professor Dr Chris Preston said it was essential to follow the WeedSmart Big 6 tactic of mixing and rotating double knock herbicide modes of action when adding pre-emergence herbicides to a weed control program.

“Unfortunately, it is difficult to properly implement this strategy in a disc seeding system when there are so few pre-emergence herbicide options available,” Dr Preston said.

“There is also a very real risk of crop damage when using pre-emergence herbicides in a disc seeding system, and this has a knock-on effect on the crop’s ability to compete with weeds like annual ryegrass.

“Crop safety is the number one priority, the next is to avoid using single-molecule applications.”

The crop safety risk arises in disc seeding systems because herbicide remains in the soil above the crop seed in a minimal disturbance environment.

In particular, single disc seeders tend to throw minimal soil from the crop seed row, increasing the risk of herbicide damage.

Modifications such as wavy coulters can increase the amount of soil throw and make registered herbicide use safer.

Another option is to use a rate from the lower end of the rate range of the riskier herbicide and mix it with a safer herbicide product, such as tri-allate in wheat, for example.

“The weakness in this approach is that most of these ‘mixtures’ will involve applying Group 15 [J or K] herbicides, putting considerable pressure on this single mode of action,” Dr Picton said.

“An alternative is to use a weaker but safer herbicide pre-sowing and partner it with an early post-emergence herbicide.”

The high proportion of standing stubble in many disc systems is disadvantageous when getting pre-emergence herbicides onto the soil.

“Correct application is essential to ensure maximum benefit from pre-emergence chemistry,” Dr Picton said.

“Always use nozzles that produce a high percentage of large droplets to drive through stubble and onto the soil — that is, very coarse or coarser.

“Keep ground speed around 15-18 km/h to allow the boom to stay 50cm above ground level and raising the boom height above 50cm produces more smaller droplets, regardless of the nozzle size.”

By implementing a diverse strategy, many growers who use disc seeders have successfully driven down the seed banks of important weeds, such as annual ryegrass, despite the limited options with registered pre-emergence herbicides.

For more information about mixing and rotating herbicides, visit www.weedsmart.org.au.

University of Adelaide weed management professor Dr Chris Preston says it is difficult to properly implement the WeedSmart Mix and Rotate strategy in a disc seeding system when there are so few pre-emergence herbicide options available.

TECHGROW has always prided itself on providing innovative and best-in-class solutions to the everyday needs of farmers and business owners across Yorke Peninsula and the state's Mid North.

This desire to truly understand the job at hand has never been more beneficial than with the Spitwater range of products, where small variations in the operator's requirements can mean one product might be much better suited than another.

"This is the beauty of Spitwater — the diverse product range means there is a perfect unit for every job," a Techgrow spokesperson said.

"Across the pressure cleaner range there are single and 3-phase electric, petrol and diesel units of varying capacities, which all fit along the spectrum of light, medium or heavy-duty cycles.

"Light duty units are perfect for occasional use while medium duty caters for semi-frequent use by operators familiar with the product.

"Heavy duty units are best suited to frequent use (multiple hours per day) and, importantly, when the machine is being operated by various people.

"This is due to the in-built safety features which protect the pressure cleaner from undue damage caused by being operated incorrectly.

"Getting the right duty cycle is crucial to ensuring your pressure cleaning unit stands the test of time, and provides the desired cleaning result day in, day out."

Another great aspect of the Spitwater range is the number of innovative options and attachments available, designed for specific jobs across all industries including agriculture, manufacturing, construction, mining and general commercial cleaning.

"From foamer kits to cover your farm machinery, trucks or vehicles in a thick layer of chemical agent prior to pressure cleaning, to units designed specifically for plumbers to clear blocked drains, there is a Spitwater solution for all industries," the spokesperson said.

"With all units backed up by stocked parts and accessories, we also provide service for all models in house or on site."

To discuss your cleaning or heating requirements, be sure to contact your local Spitwater sales and service dealer, Techgrow.

Farm Business Updates help grain-growing businesses

Advertising Promotion

THE Grains Research and Development Corporation is holding Farm Business Updates in Port Lincoln, Maitland and Clare next month.

Guest speakers will discuss topics identified by local growers as important to supporting their farm business management.

Keynote speaker Reanna Browne of Work Futures will share mindset strategies and skills you can consider for identifying and leveraging future opportunities to benefit your business, whilst acting with clarity and making resilient decisions in the present.

"Still with an eye on the future, on-farm emissions are one of the issues raised across the GRDC southern region of interest to growers," a GRDC spokesperson said.

"We've invited Sarah Barrett and Jana Dixon of Pinion Advisory to break down why you need to know about on-farm emissions, what's happening in the industry and what the capacity is for change within our farming systems.

"As part of a farm management focus towards making good decisions, Rick Llewellyn, CSIRO, will speak about setting the parameters of your analysis and weighing relative upside/downside risk for informed decisions targeting profitable outcomes."

Agrista's John Francis will demonstrate the financial models which can be used to stress test big or small farm investment decisions and Rob Dawes is an industry procurement expert who will highlight important factors when it comes to negotiating supply and managing relationships with suppliers in the current environment.

"We couldn't miss talking about labour as it is consistently flagged as one of the key productivity issues for agriculture," the spokesperson said.

"When it's hard to find good help, Carmen Quade, Agrifocused, will present on practical tactics that growers can apply to manage business growth and increasing workloads and avoid being overwhelmed."

The Maitland session will be held at the Central Yorke Cougars Football Club, 9.30am to 3.15pm, on Wednesday, July 5.

For further information and to register for the events head to www.grdc.com.au/events, or phone 03 5441 6176 or email admin@orm.com.au.

Registration is $30 per person.

UPDATE... Carmen Quade from Agrifocused is one of several guest speakers who will present at the GRDC Farm Business Update.

Grain groups join forces for mental health awareness

PEAK grain grower groups Grain Producers Australia and GrainGrowers have joined forces to strengthen mental health awareness and suicide prevention in rural communities.

GrainGrowers has committed to supporting GPA's Farmers Mates Mental Health initiative by co-hosting events and promoting shared messages and engagement opportunities.

National Ambassador for the initiative is Australian cricketing legend Brad Hogg.

GPA chairperson and WA grain producer Barry Large said the support demonstrated genuine leadership and commitment.

GrainGrowers chairperson Rhys Turton said his organisation was proud to back the strong partnership with GPA, Nufarm, Rural Aid and Lifeline.

"GrainGrowers understands how important mental health is to our members and the broader community, and we all need to play our part in supporting better outcomes," he said.

"Our farm safety project is not just about helping with the visible aspects of safety, but also extends to mental health. The partnership with GPA highlights our commitment to make a real difference.

"We're looking forward to hosting Hoggy at community events, to provide more opportunity to share his important messages about mental health, and his personal journey and experiences."

GPA's Take-a-Break tour, with guest Brad Hogg, will be at the Yorke Peninsula Field Days in September.

COX AGENTS FOR 33 YEARS

Your YP Rural Market Update

After a subdued 2022 spring rural property season when little was for sale or lease, 2023 brought an abundance of opportunities. Up to 13,000 acres of arable land from Artherton to Foul Bay was advertised publicly at any one time, with just over 5000 acres of this for lease — by far the most arable land on offer simultaneously in the area in recent memory. Certain areas are believed or perceived to be more marginal than others with some steadying in what was an aggressive trajectory of land values taking place in these areas. However, properties offered for sale or lease generally achieved strong outcomes and many resulted in record prices for the area, almost certainly driven by the record-breaking 2022-23 harvest.

As predicted in the 2022 Nutrien Harcourts Minlaton Rural Market Update, there have been fewer buyers in the market, suspected to be due to interest rate rises but, overall, the continued supply/demand imbalance led to good results throughout the mid to lower YP, even with so many opportunities.

Real estate is a supply/demand-driven market with several factors contributing to demand, including interest rates, grain prices, input prices and weather.

Over the past 12 months, for the first time in 14 years, interest rates have continued to rise, which many thought would halt the rapidly rising rural property market.

Now, we're possibly getting close to the end of interest rate rises and strong recent sales results indicate an almost-certainly continued higher demand than supply, suggesting the property market remains in a strong position into spring 2023 as primary producers continue to look to expand.

Nutrien Harcourts Minlaton prides itself on being the leading rural real estate team on Yorke Peninsula. Although land sale and leasing values vary greatly in different areas, we strongly believe utilising the undoubted strength of the open market — coupled with Nutrien Harcourts Minlaton's professional, informative and honest team to sell or lease your valuable asset — is the surest way to maximise your return and minimise the stress involved in the selling/leasing process.

Troy is always available to speak with you, in confidence, about the best course of action for you and your family going forward, whether that be selling, leasing or continuing farming whilst developing a future exit strategy. With many factors requiring serious consideration, you can never be too prepared.

Unlike previous years, autumn 2023 was busier than spring 2022, with a mixture of auction and expressions of interest campaigns yielding great results.

Private sales generally achieved considerably below recent, comparable, sales in the area. Without creating competitive tension by taking a property to the open market, you will never know whether you have obtained the best possible outcome for your property.

With only a small increase in a sale or lease price, associated agent and advertising fees are easily recouped, even rewarded, and the potential of your asset is truly maximised.

Whilst no one can guarantee the market will continue to grow into the future, we can guarantee Nutrien Harcourts Minlaton will strive to achieve the best possible outcomes for our clients, whether they are selling or leasing.

Chronic pain in farmers explored

UNIVERSITY of South Australia experts are exploring what chronic pain means to Australian farmers.

The researchers are currently seeking farmers with experience of chronic pain to participate in a study.

Rural health expert, UniSA Associate Professor Kate Gunn said the study would address a serious gap in pain management among farmers.

and due to the unrelenting nature of farm work, farmers often return to work without accessing best-practice treatments, and without being aware of what this means for their long-term health and wellbeing.

"We also know farmers face multiple barriers to accessing mainstream healthcare services, including health professionals' lack of understanding lifestyles."

Chronic pain is a common and complex condition characterised by persistent pain experienced on most days of the week and affects almost one in five Australians.

"Despite its seriousness, only a small proportion of the population receive evidence-based information and advice about how to manage this condition," renowned neuroscientist and pain expert Professor Lorimer Moseley AO said.

"The effects of chronic pain are significant.

"It can reduce productivity, lead to increased BMI, and substantially increase the risk of numerous other conditions such as stroke, cancer, depression, multiple sclerosis, and rheumatoid arthritis.

"Rural communities are already struggling with health services.

"By working with farmers, we are hoping to develop realistic, appropriate and end-user-informed ways to improve the care and management of chronic pain in rural communities."

For more information, contact Assoc Prof Kate Gunn at kate.gunn@unisa.edu.au or PhD student Indika Koralegedera at indika.koralegedera@mymail.unisa.edu.au.

"Agriculture is a great industry to work in, but one of the down sides is the physical injuries which can result, which can have long term consequences on farmers' ability to work, and their wellbeing."

– Kate Gunn, UniSA Associate Professor

"Agriculture is a great industry to work in, but one of the down sides is the physical injuries which can result, which can have long-term consequences on farmers' ability to work, and their wellbeing," Assoc Prof Gunn said.

"Musculoskeletal disorders are very common in this group of their way of life.

"This new study is all about giving farmers a voice so we can gain insight into how they perceive chronic pain, how it impacts upon their work and life and, importantly, how they would like to be assisted to manage it, in a way that fits with their preferences and

DEFENCE PROOF & EXPERIMENTAL ESTABLISHMENT PORT WAKEFIELD: LIVE FIRING RANGE WARNING NOTICE

Test and evaluation activities involving static firings and/or firings of naval and artillery weapons are conducted at the Proof and Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield throughout the year. The Proof and Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield is a vital Defence test and evaluation capability that has supported Defence since 1929.

These firings may require specific tidal or weather conditions, and are critical for the safety of current and new Defence capabilities. Members of the public may notice noise, vibration, flashes and/or smoke during the testing. There is no risk to the public outside of the gazetted Defence Practice Areas.

For reasons of public safety, there is a permanent exclusion zone covering land, sea and air around the Port Wakefield Establishment. Specific details on the Port Wakefield Prohibited Area can be obtained from Commonwealth of Australia Gazette No GN 26, 4 July 1990, and is shown on the diagram below. Trespassing in this Area is strictly prohibited and very dangerous due to the presence of unexploded bombs. Any person found within the Prohibited Area or on Defence land will be subject to prosecution.

Specific test and evaluation activities may also require restricting public access to the Port Wakefield Defence Practice Areas over specific periods with these areas articulated in the Commonwealth of Australia Gazette No. GN 40, 7 October 1992, and also identified on the diagram below. This may affect access to the Gulf of St Vincent at Port Wakefield and Port Parham.

If any member of the public has inquiries in relation to these activities, please contact Proof & Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield – Range Control on (08) 8867 0270 between 8.00am and 4.30pm weekdays or the Proof & Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield – Security Office on (08) 8867 0299 outside these hours.

Strange find on the beach

By Roger Norris-Green

THE strangest thing happened to me while walking along the beach this morning.

I tripped on an object protruding from the sand.

Bending down, I picked up an ancient mobile phone.

It was black — at least it had been black once, now it was covered in rust.

I handed it to my fishing friend, Reg, who'd been walking with me along the beach.

"Made about 2025," Reg figured. "Does it work?" I asked him.

"You're joking," Reg said.

He brushed the specks of sand off the phone and pressed a few buttons.

It was as dead as the piece of driftwood in the shallows.

"The owner must have been right here fishing that night it all happened," Reg suggested.

"He ditched it."

"Well, it wasn't me," I said,

"I was home on my computer."

"So was I — playing games on the 'net," Reg said.

"T'was 17 years ago," I recalled.

"I was chatting on Facebook when the screen went blank."

"I was watching YouTube and there was suddenly — nothing," Reg remembered.

"It was the night the internet crashed worldwide," I mused.

"We never got it back"

"Some say good riddance," Reg said.

"At least we all began talking again," I said.

THE Ashes. They're on and I'm loving it. Elite sport on free-to-air television from 7.30pm weekdays. How good is that?

Whether you're drawn in by the simplicity of thoughts which occupy Englishman Ollie Robinson's mind, the continued redemption of Usman Khawaja, the "Bazball" phenomenon or Ash Gardner taking 12 wickets in the women's test, there's something for everyone.

To enhance that experience this year, I stumbled across the Cricket, Et Cetera podcast, hosted by veteran The Australian cricket journalists and authors Gideon Haigh and Peter Lalor.

Between them, the duo has more than half a century of experience covering the sport and honestly, I'm a little jealous.

They get paid to go to places like India, England and New Zealand to sit and write about cricket.

The beauty of their podcast is they draw on all that experience gained travelling the world and their knowledge of the game to have a light-hearted chat about the most recent day's play or the news of the week.

Because they've been working alongside each other for so long, they also come across as best mates which, to me, is always the number one drawcard for any entertainment duo.

Their most recent episode didn't have so much to do with cricket, rather taking listeners to the Crossness Pumping Station to divulge the inner workings of the former London-based sewerage station. Random indeed.

Of course, given their experience, the analysis come day one of a test match is usually pretty good too.

With all the drama of an Ashes series, having a couple of like-minded individuals break it down for you as you sit at work weary eyed from staying up too late watching the day's play overnight, is a big win. Four runs.

(P.S. My prediction: Australia to win the men's series 3-1.)

#Throwback

This day in history

- JUNE 27, 1898: Canadian-American adventurer Joshua Slocum arrived in Newport, Rhode Island, completing the first solo circumnavigation of the globe.
- JUNE 27, 1959: Leonard Bernstein, Stephen Sondheim and Jerome Robbins' musical West Side Story closed at Winter Garden Theater, NYC, after 734 performances and two Tony Award wins.
- JUNE 27, 1994: Aerosmith became the first major band to let fans download a full new track free from the internet.

What's been

Trending

ASHES WIN: Australia claimed the first points of the Women's Ashes against England, winning the only test match of the series by 89 runs. Ash Gardner took a record-breaking 12/165 despite having ligament damage in her spinning finger. The sides play three T20 and three 50 over matches to complete the series.

SHAKE IT OFF: Pre-sale tickets to Taylor Swift's Australian leg of her Eras tour went on sale yesterday (Monday, June 26). Some keen fans waited for hours to secure VIP packages, which were selling for up to $1500.

Our constant has gone. A true gentleman. An absolute "legend". We will miss your amazing smile. You made everyone who met you feel like they were the most important person in the world by just being you. Love always, Joe, Charmaine, Jagga and Siann.

I am so grateful for all you have given me Dad. You have taught me to be strong, you have taught me never to give up and give everything 110% and, most of all, you have taught me to love unconditionally. Thank you for being the best Dad to Grant and myself but even more the adoring Papa to Jack and Charlotte. Love forever, Adele, Grant, Charlotte and Jack.

We will always remember your smiling face, happiness and joy for life in everything you did. You loved your friends but your love for family was like nothing else. Forever in our hearts. Scoot, Tim and Oscar.

Papa, you were a true inspiration to us all. You have left an irreplaceable void in our lives, but your memory will forever be in our hearts. We will always cherish your infectious smile and warm embrace. You will be missed and loved forever. Love from Kane, Ilka and Issy.

HOT FISHING TIPS

with Greg James www.gregjamesfishing.com.au

Welcome to the column with all the hot tips for fishing around Yorke Peninsula; contact Greg by email at greg@gregjamesfishing.com.au.

Recipe, salmon/tuna carpaccio with wasabi sauce: Ingredients – 4 pieces raw/uncooked tuna or salmon, white wine vinegar, yoghurt, cream, wasabi paste, soy sauce, cilantro, cucumber, mayo, seasoning. Preparation – Whisk together wasabi, vinegar, soy sauce, yoghurt, and cream in a small bowl. Cut each piece of flattened fish into smaller pieces and fan out on plates or on a platter. Using a pastry brush, brush each piece of fish with the wasabi sauce. Then place a spoonful of a basic cucumber salad (chopped cucumber with mayo and seasoning) on each plate, garnish with shiso (Korean basil), cilantro or chervil and serve.

Wallaroo: What a week and a half of wintry weather it has been, with strong to gale-force winds and some reasonably decent rain. Tommy ruff (Australian herring) came from the jetty for the few hardy souls who tried their luck. King George whiting should be in the cork weed and boiler grounds after the blow.

Port Hughes/Moonta Bay: Boaties will be happy winds are predicted to drop early in the week. Try West Light and Tipara Reef for whiting, garfish and squid. The jetties should have some hungry tommies and squid if the water is clear.

Point Turton: KG whiting will be in Hardwicke Bay on the drift after these storms, plus gar and squid from the Port Rickaby and Point Souttar grounds. The jetty has salmon trout and tommy ruff.

Stenhouse Bay/Marion Bay: Squid and big tommies are off Stenhouse Bay; gar and mullet are in the discoloured water near Marion Bay jetty. Mullet and salmon trout are at the Dust Hole beach, while local boat crews are planning for flathead, small tuna and red nannygai.

Edithburgh: Big tommies and a couple of salmon trout were reported from the jetty late last week. Boat crews should find KG whiting off the southern end of Tapley Shoals and in the broken grounds just south of Stansbury.

Ardrossan/Black Point: Legal mullet were reported from the jetty over the weekend. KG whiting and squid will be here and south to Black Point, while mullet are in the shallows at Tiddy Widdy Beach.

Tight lines and see you next week!

Sarah Klau defends spot as a Diamond

Jess Liddy
JOURNALIST

Sarah Klau has reached Diamond status yet again.

Originally from Yorketown, Klau has been selected to travel to South Africa with the Origin Australian Diamonds Netball World Cup team next month.

A two-time NSW Swifts premierships defender and 2022 Commonwealth Games gold medallist, Klau played with the Diamonds in the Constellation Cup and England Series last year.

She got her first taste of international competition when she trained with the Diamonds prior to the 2018 Gold Coast Commonwealth Games; she also trained with the team for the 2018 International Test Series, making her Diamonds debut in the 2019 World Cup.

Klau said it was always an honour to wear the Australian dress.

"It's special to be selected and I will never take that for granted," she said.

"I love every journey I take with the Diamonds, and I am grateful to the Swifts for giving me an environment to perform in and gain international selection."

Klau said she couldn't wait to go on another journey with a special group of athletes.

"We won gold at the Commonwealth Games and just missing out on the World Cup gold four years ago is a real driver for us because we want to set that right," she said.

"We played in South Africa last year and I loved it, and getting the opportunity to travel around the globe with netball is a privilege."

"It is also really cool to compete alongside players you face every week in Super Netball."
