Ship's wild return

Rachel Hagan
JOURNALIST

DESPITE some wild weather, about 80 tourists were tendered from the expedition ship Coral Adventurer, moored in Stenhouse Bay, across to Dhillba-Guuranda Innes National Park on the weekend.

This was the first of three ships from Coral Expeditions that will stop off the coast of the park throughout November.

Coral Expeditions chief officer Jeff Gillies said this was the second time the company had included Yorke Peninsula on its itinerary, because it was a lovely place to conduct excursions for passengers.

"Expedition leaders will look to show the shipwrecks and talk about the history of the coastline," Mr Gillies said.

"We will also be on the lookout for wildlife in the national park such as emus and tammar wallabies along with marine species like dolphins, seals and whales."

As for the future, Mr Gillies said the company's sailing schedule visits the region roughly four times a year.

Yorke Peninsula Council mayor Darren Braund said he was thrilled to have the passengers stop by and take the opportunity to explore Dhillba-Guuranda Innes National Park.

"This stop on Coral Expeditions' itinerary is a testament to the dedication of Yorke Peninsula Tourism, whose efforts have brought cruise ships back to our shores," Mayor Braund said.

"It is a privilege to share the natural beauty and warm hospitality of Yorke Peninsula, and we look forward to welcoming more visitors in the future."

YP regional tourism manager Jess Greatwich said the return of the cruise ship was a step in the right direction.

"Dhillba-Guuranda Innes National Park, we often talk about it being one of the jewels in the crown for the Yorke Peninsula," Ms Greatwich said.

"It really highlights the Marna Banggara project as well, which is the only one of its kind in the country."

Marna Banggara is an ambitious project that aims to restore southern YP's spectacular landscape by returning locally extinct species and reinvigorating the ecological processes that ensure the bushland's health.

Ms Greatwich said she hoped the cruise gave greater exposure for what the YP had to offer, but there were many other hidden gems in our region to discover.

She said the obvious choice was Wallaroo with its high-quality port and diverse area to provide passengers with a range of experiences.

"Port Vincent is also recognised as a place where offshore mooring with guests being brought in by a tender vessel is possible," she said.

"For smaller expedition vessels, that's a fantastic opportunity in the future as well."

Community spirit

THE Prostate Cancer Foundation of Australia was the beneficiary of two events held in the lead-up to and over the long weekend in October.

On behalf of the Yorke Peninsula Prostate Cancer Support Group, we'd like to send out a huge thanks to Minlaton locals, visiting tourists and the wider community, for the support we received at our annual barbecue and raffle fundraiser held in Minlaton on October 4.

Big thanks also go to Minlaton Foodland for donating supplies for the barbecue.

The following day at the Stansbury markets, busker Rob Tonkin donated his earnings to our group with the Stansbury Progress Association chipping in with a further donation.

Combined proceeds from these events was almost $2000.

Because of these fundraising efforts, we can increase awareness of prostate cancer in the community, provide information and support and fund life-saving prostate cancer research.

Farmers in crisis

SOUTH Australian farmers are facing a mental health crisis that cannot be ignored.

This issue isn't just about long hours in the paddock; it's about the isolation, relentless pressures, and the lack of accessible mental health support for those who keep our economy thriving.

Farmer suicide rates are double those of other workers, yet farmers are far less likely to seek help. Why? Because of a deep-seated stigma and the independent spirit that runs through rural life.

Our farmers are not just enduring "one bad season", as some out-of-touch remarks suggest. They are dealing with rising costs — fuel, feed, insurance unique to farming — which make every drought or failed crop a potential disaster.

The public's misconceptions are far removed from the reality of farming life, and our policymakers need to understand the severity of these struggles.

Recent stressors, including a live sheep export ban and severe frost in the vineyards, further compound the daily challenges faced by our rural communities.

Efforts by groups like Beyond Blue, R U OK?, and ifarmwell to support our farmers are vital, but this is not enough.

We need government policies that genuinely address the unique needs of our farmers.

They aren't asking for special treatment, just a fair go.

I will be advocating for our State Parliament to take this issue seriously and hope to see an inquiry begun soon.

Farmers are the backbone of our economy. If we truly value them, we must act now to support their mental wellbeing.

For some, tomorrow may be too late.

Bute, not Wallaroo

IN LAST week's edition, Bute Bowling Club member Robert Scott was incorrectly identified as playing for Wallaroo.

The article, National success for YP bowlers, highlighted his recent national gold medal win with South Australia at the Bowls Australia Senior Sides Championships in Queensland.

Fellow Yorke Peninsula bowlers Daryl Steinwedel and Don Bennett from Moonta were also part of the gold-medal-winning side.

The YP Country Times apologises for this error.

Sallymans' 125th anniversary

WE HAVE heard time and time again people tell their children, "Never walk past The Salvos without giving a donation, because they helped us (or your grandparents) during the war."

It is a sentiment that has been around for generations and still exists today, reflecting a long legacy that The Salvation Army has had during devastating times of war and conflict, where they have provided a safe space of rest and support.

This year marks the 125th anniversary of The Salvation Army's Red Shield Defence Services supporting those during these difficult times.

And, on behalf of The Salvos, it has been an honour to have served defence members, shoulder to shoulder, during times of war over the past 125 years.

We cast our minds back to the second Boer War in November 1899, when Salvation Army founder William Booth said, "Investigate what can be done for our soldiers in the field of battle."

Since then, The Salvos have been looking to find ways to support Australia's servicemen and women wherever they find themselves.

Indeed, there hasn't been a major conflict or peace-keeping effort since the Boer War where The Salvos haven't been there to bring support and hope.

From the two World Wars to conflicts in Malaya, Korea, Vietnam, Cambodia, Somalia, East Timor, the Middle East, and more, The Salvos have been there.

During major conflicts, the RSDS, affectionately known as the Sallyman or Sallyma'an, have been on the ground with soldiers to provide a warm drink or refreshments, a bite to eat, and most importantly a place to have a chat in a safe space.

The Salvos are proud of the strong bond we have created with our servicemen and women across the nation, and around the world.

In these times of devastating violence, hardship and injustice, The Salvos look to bring a glimmer of hope and support to those who really need it.

We continue this important work to this day.

In Darwin, Townsville, Brisbane, Singleton, Holsworthy, Canberra and Adelaide, we serve those who serve and will continue to do so into the future.

It is a privilege to do so.

Major Brett Gallagher
Chief Commissioner of The Salvation Army's
Red Shield Defence Services

OUR VIEW

Cost of living — a constant challenge

AS A 21-year-old, when I want to tune into the "real world", the current cost-of-living crisis is usually front of people's minds — and, to be honest, it's discouraging.

Never has it been more expensive to buy or rent a house in Australia.

My weekly shopping bill just for one person is consistently north of $150.

The price of fuel, although cheaper on average than last year, is regularly reaching record highs.

Then there's my university HECS debt. After three years at uni, it was around $40,000, and now interest is only pushing it higher.

If you aren't in a high-paying job, you must forfeit some of life's essentials.

Conversely, while most of us are cutting back, pokies players on Yorke Peninsula lost more than $22 million throughout the 2023-24 financial year — about 10 per cent increase on the year before.

South Australian farmers are also facing a year of tough conditions, bracing for one of the lowest-yielding seasons on record.

And I can hear sceptics thinking as they read this, "just another young person complaining" but it's not just me.

According to realestate.com, 59 per cent of young Australians aged 18 to 24 feel it's unlikely they'll ever afford a home.

Ignoring these concerns won't change the reality of how challenging this cost-of-living crisis has become.

To alleviate some of these financial stresses, the Yorke Peninsula Country Times has teamed up with Drakes Supermarkets to give away $2500 worth of groceries to readers.

In this and the following five editions, YPCT will give away one $50 and two $100 vouchers to spend at the Ardrossan, Moonta or Wallaroo Drakes Supermarkets.

'Country kids can do anything' says Sara

Sarah Herrmann
JOURNALIST

TWO former Port Broughton residents are set to host a prestigious national radio show.

The first is award-winning journalist Sally Sara, who will replace Patricia Karvelas as the host of ABC's Radio National Breakfast next year.

She will be joined by producer Joe Sullivan, also formerly of Port Broughton, who will work on the show from behind the scenes.

Despite their mutual hometown, Ms Sara said she and Mr Sullivan only met through the ABC.

"We sometimes send messages backwards and forwards about how Broughton-Mundoora is going in the footy," Ms Sara said.

Ms Sara grew up in Port Broughton, where her parents owned a local shop, and attended Kadina Memorial High School until year 10.

At age 8 she was the first girl to play for Port Broughton Football Club, and she has continued to break boundaries.

Ms Sara was the first woman to hold the roles of Africa correspondent and South Asia correspondent at the ABC.

"It's important to keep encouraging girls to follow the path that they've got their heart set on, not to be put off by those barriers or being the first," Ms Sara told the YP Country Times.

"And we see among the foreign correspondents with the ABC that a significant number of them are either country kids and/or regional journos.

"So, I think that country upbringing is pretty good for resilience and risk taking and knowing how to talk to people and being very curious."

Ms Sara said country kids could do anything, and she hoped her career inspired young people growing up on Yorke Peninsula to pursue their aspirations.

"I'm often looking at the YP Country Times, seeing kids that are doing amazing things in all sorts of areas, and how proud I feel to see them chasing their dreams and taking on the risk of disappointment and failure and all of that as well."

In her new role, Ms Sara said she would aim to bring regional stories to her audience.

"While I've worked as a foreign correspondent, a fair slice of my career has also been working as a rural and regional journalist and working for Landline as well," she said.

"It's really important that we connect and reconnect with those communities to make sure that we are covering the stories that they're interested in."

Ms Sara will present RN Breakfast from 5.30am to 9am each weekday, from January 20.

MP sentencing postponed

Joanna Tucker
JOURNALIST

NARUNGGA MP Fraser Ellis has successfully had his sentencing postponed as he awaits the outcome of his Supreme Court appeal.

Mr Ellis was found guilty of four counts of deception in July, related to claims made under the Country Members Accommodation Allowance between April 2018 and June 2020.

Although initially charged with 23 counts of deception, he was acquitted of 19.

Following the verdict, Mr Ellis appealed the convictions, while the Director of Public Prosecutions lodged a separate appeal challenging the acquittals.

Mr Ellis appeared before Magistrate Simon Smart in the Adelaide Magistrates Court, where sentencing submissions were due to be heard, last Thursday, October 31.

However, Magistrate Smart adjourned the matter to May 21, allowing time for the Supreme Court appeals to conclude.

Both appeals are scheduled to be heard on April 14.

This delay will leave the final outcome of Mr Ellis's case pending until both the defence and prosecution appeals are resolved.

Outside the Adelaide Magistrates Court last week, Mr Ellis described the sentencing delay as a "sensible decision" that would prevent any premature outcomes.

"It'll be nice to have Christmas in peace and with family," he said.

"I look forward to coming back next year, having my appeal heard, and hopefully succeeding."

"The appeal process will take its course, and I am confident we will put a good argument forward," he said.

Funding for coastal councils

SOUTH Australia's 34 coastal councils are being invited to submit local projects focused on coastal hazard adaptation for a share of $1.3 million in funding.

This funding, part of the Coastal Hazard Adaptation Grants, supports initiatives under the SA Climate Ready Coasts program, which aims to accelerate planning for coastal hazards and improve coastal management practices across the state.

The Local Government Association of South Australia has opened an expressions of interest round, providing councils with an opportunity to outline their initial project ideas.

This approach encourages councils to share early-stage planning, which could then be developed further with the support of the grant.

Projects funded through this initiative are expected to strengthen local councils' ability to address challenges such as sea level rise, coastal erosion, and storm surges.

Slippery little sucker makes Halloween extra scary

Rachel Hagan
JOURNALIST

THE Clarke family, of Tickera, faced their scariest Halloween yet, thanks to a brown snake which bit 6-year-old Kai hours before he was meant to go trick or treating.

Kai had been looking forward to finishing school and putting on his Darth Vader costume to join his siblings in trick or treating last Thursday, October 31.

However, when it was realised he had been bitten by a snake, he was rushed to Wallaroo Hospital where he spent Halloween with some very caring nurses who filled up his treats bag with lollies and turned some old hospital sheets into a ghost costume.

"I got bitten by a poisonous snake, and I didn't feel anything," Kai said.

"Then I was in art (class) and it started itching."

Kai's mother Jacinta Clarke said the school noticed the two marks and thankfully worked out it was a snake bite.

The bite seemed unfortunate and lucky at the same time because it appeared the snake's venom was partially stopped by Kai's shoe.

Kai is back at school and feeling much better, but he is not out of the woods yet and is still requiring medical attention for the incident.

"Because Kai's got a hole in his heart, his blood is still quite thick, so we've got to go to Adelaide to monitor his heart," Ms Clarke said.

Hopefully his prize as the winner of the YP Country Times Halloween costume competition (a basket of treats) will make the trip to Adelaide a little more fun.

HOSPITAL HALLOWEEN... Nurses at the Wallaroo Hospital made sure Kai Clarke did not miss out on all the fun by making him the perfect stand-in trick or treating costume for his unexpected hospital visit.

More public housing for YP

Joanna Tucker
JOURNALIST

THERE are 10 public housing properties under construction across the Copper Coast.

The homes are being built as part of the State Government's $232.7 million Public Housing Improvement Program.

Overall, 65 new public homes have been recently completed across the state, and 91 new homes are under construction, with a further 16 being contracted and set to start in the coming weeks.

All 10 Copper Coast homes are being built by Constructwell, a boutique design and building company based in Adelaide, and will comply with the Livable Housing Australia Silver Standard.

These homes comprise three two-bedroom homes in Moonta, three two-bedroom homes in Wallaroo and four two-bedroom homes in Kadina, and all will be completed by August 2025.

A spokesperson for the SA Housing Trust said adhering to the Silver Standard meant the new homes would ensure future flexibility and ease of adaptability.

The seven core Silver Standard design elements include components such as a safe, continuous and step-free path of travel from the street and parking area to a dwelling entrance that is level, and a toilet on the ground level that provides easy access.

They also include factors such as reinforced walls around the toilet, shower and bath to support the safe installation of grab-rails later, and that stairways are designed to reduce the likelihood of injury.

Travel show heads to YP

ADVENTURE All Stars Legends 3, a socially conscious television travel show, will be heading to Yorke Peninsula from November 10 to 15 to film its cast of 12 members while they experience the best of YP.

Each Legends episode brings together cast members at different locations, where the audience sees them having a "trip of a lifetime".

Their activities on YP will include surfing, kayaking, snorkelling, an ocean safari, wildlife encounters, e-biking and sailing.

Prior to filming, each of the Legends 3 cast members has raised funds for their nominated charity — and their reward is a starring role in these television events.

All net proceeds from YP's episode, Legends 3, will be donated to charities Brain Cancer Research, headspace, MindBlank, RizeUp, Strike Out Suicide, Suicide Prevention Australia and Transplant Australia.

This travel show format allows viewers the opportunity to experience destinations through the eyes of an engaging television cast.

Executive producer of Adventure All Stars, Troy Gray, said they have created television history by raising millions of dollars to support a record number of charities.

"Unlike other television shows, none of our cast receive an appearance fee and all net proceeds are gifted to charity," he said.

Inquiry on impact of alcohol, drugs

THE House of Representatives Standing Committee on Health, Aged Care and Sport has held a series of public hearings as part of its inquiry into the health impacts of alcohol and other drugs in Australia.

Referred by Minister for Health and Aged Care, the Honourable Mark Butler MP, the inquiry aims to investigate key issues affecting Australians' health and the healthcare system.

The hearings brought together a diverse array of experts, including representatives from peak bodies in alcohol and drug treatment, researchers, clinicians and other service providers.

Committee chair Dr Mike Freeland MP said the inquiry had attracted substantial public interest, with numerous written submissions outlining significant challenges within the sector.

"The committee has received a large number of submissions that highlight pressing issues such as the stigma surrounding substance abuse, which prevents early intervention, the correlation between substance use and domestic violence, and the need for better service integration," Dr Freeland said.

The inquiry's findings will aim to inform recommendations to strengthen the coordination between the health sector and other relevant sectors.

The committee's objective is to develop innovative, equitable policy solutions to tackle the health impacts of alcohol and other drugs more effectively.

Submissions would continue to be accepted until Tuesday, December 31, to ensure individuals and organisations could continue to contribute to the conversation on improving Australia's approach to alcohol and other drug-related health issues, Dr Freeland said.

Register now accessible to public

LAWS enabling South Australians to access certain information held on the child sex offenders register have passed State Parliament.

SAPOL maintains a database of registrable offenders, which includes child sex offenders, as well as those offenders convicted of certain other serious offences against children.

Under the new laws, the public will be able to seek information about serious child sex offenders living in their area.

It will also enable parents to check whether individuals who have unsupervised access to their children are registrable offenders, and what offences led to their inclusion on the register.

The disclosure scheme will also enable the Commissioner of Police to publish any or all personal details, including a photograph of the registrable offender if their whereabouts is unknown and they have failed to comply with reporting or provided misleading information.

They will also be able to publish photographs of dangerous and high-risk offenders living in the same suburb or town as someone who applies for information about an offender who has unsupervised contact with a child in response to an application from the child's parent or guardian.

The disclosure scheme will be implemented as part of the Digital Police Station initiative, funded in the 2024-25 State Budget.

eSafety move to protect young

AUSTRALIAN youth using Apple products will now have the ability to report unwanted nude images directly to Apple.

The roll-out will begin by targeting young people, but Australian adults will also be able to opt-in to the feature.

This comes after eSafety Commissioner Julie Inman Grant first highlighted the safety measure as missing from Apple's platform in a December 2022 report.

Ms Grant said this step was important because users could be reported and banned for offences, such as sexual extortion and grooming.

"It can only take one report to ensure an offender is banned, and significant ongoing and future harm to multiple children prevented," Ms Grant said.

"Where appropriate, these user reports can also be referred to law enforcement, providing them with vital information to apprehend the offenders perpetrating these crimes."

"While we welcome this new feature, we continue to call for Apple to broaden its approach, including by introducing measures that help further protect children and all users from the full range of online harms, including terrorist content, technology-facilitated abuse and re-traumatisation through the hosting and sharing of child sexual exploitation material."

"Other services without these key safety features must follow suit."

New laws on artificial intelligence

NEW laws aimed at outlawing the use of artificial intelligence to create violent and sexually explicit deepfake images, audio or videos were introduced to State Parliament last week.

Under the proposed laws, using AI to generate wholly simulated humiliating, degrading or invasive images, audio or videos purporting to be of real people, would be outlawed and offenders could face up to four years in prison, or fines of up to $20,000.

Authorities estimate as much as 90 to 95 per cent of deepfakes are non-consensual porn, and 99 per cent of victims in deepfake porn are women.

The eSafety Commissioner has stated explicit deepfakes have increased on the internet as much as 550 per cent year on year since 2019.

The government is also considering the broader issue of deepfakes beyond this, such as misuse in scams, blackmail, political misinformation and fraud.

AWARD... CFS Region 2 Operations Planning Officer Chadd Schwarz congratulates YP Group Officer David Bussenschutt.

Life membership for CFS volunteer

SOUTH Australian Country Fire Service life membership has recently been bestowed on Northern Yorke Peninsula Group Officer David "Bussy" Bussenschutt.

Region 2 Operations Planning Officer Chadd Schwarz, representing the Region Commander, thanked Bussy for his dedicated and distinguished voluntary service to the CFS and his community.

The award was presented in front of the captains and other representatives of the group's seven brigades.

Bussy joined the CFS nearly 45 years ago and has since held the positions of captain in the Cunliffe brigade, lieutenant in the Kadina brigade, inaugural group training officer and, for the past 20 years, has been the group officer for the NYP Group.

Bussy was the chair of the region 2 volunteer management committee for four years through the Covid-19 period and represented region 2 on the Chief Officers' Advisory Committee for two years and is involved in various working groups across the state.

On reading the citation, Deputy Group Officer David Gray said that Bussy was a strong leader and, with his wealth of experience, personal guidance and initiatives, had brought the group to a high level of proficiency and operational readiness.

This had enabled the group to respond effectively to all fire, rescue and hazmat incidents in its area, as well as across the state and interstate too, Deputy Group Officer Gray said.

Bussy is a nationally accredited Level 2 incident controller and, in this capacity, has been involved in numerous major incidents across SA, including the Sampson Flat, Nantawarra, Pinery, Cuddlee Creek and Yorketown fires.

Upgrades just in time for summer

Joanna Tucker
JOURNALIST

UPGRADES to the Moonta Bay barbecue shelter and the old VACSWIM building are now complete, just in time for the warmer weather.

Upgrades include an additional double barbecue and park bench seat arrangement for families, beachgoers and the wider community to enjoy, as well as new concrete flooring.

The old VACSWIM building has also had a makeover, with new eaves, roof frame and roof, ceiling, door and door frame, and a fresh paint inside and out — but leaving the painted murals on the external walls.

This included the removal of asbestos eaves and ceiling.

The completed work on both structures cost $120,000, encompassing the removal of the old shelter, along with new concrete flooring and footings.

The level of the shelter's floor has been dropped to match existing paths, and spoon drains have been utilised to help with access to the new shelter, incorporating a grated sump for stormwater catchment to replace the old side entry pit.

A new garden bed is also in place.

Moonta Progress Association president Kym Roberts said it was a nice, new area, ready for the summer holidays.

"When you think back to what it used to be, you would probably never (realise) what used to be here," Mr Roberts said.

Copper Coast Council's infrastructure services director Tim Neumann said he was excited to see the two structures get plenty of use as summer, and the beach season, ramped up.

"The old shelter was structurally unsound and subsequently becoming subject to regular unplanned maintenance works," Mr Neumann said.

"The structure had different floor heights to the surrounding paths and kerbing, so council decided it was timely to act, with works commencing in July.

"An update to the electrical cabinet was also required — this was to allow for the installation of new lighting, a new electric double barbecue, and a charging point for mobility scooters."

Mr Neumann said the old First Aid/VACSWIM room held significant historical value for the local community as it had been used for many purposes over its lifetime.

"We believe it was even a fish and chip shop at one point."

UPGRADES... Moonta Progress Association president Kym Roberts sits in the upgraded Moonta Bay barbecue shelter with Lesley Bowden and Treasurer Trevor Bowden.

Investment into RFDS

THE State Government has invested more than half a billion dollars in a historic new agreement with the Royal Flying Doctor Service SA/NT.

This investment will significantly boost aircraft services and staff, enabling faster patient transfers.

The 10-year contract with the RFDS is worth $509.4 million and will boost operational capacity at Adelaide Airport, increasing RFDS operations to four aircraft during the day and three overnight.

The available fleet will also feature, for the first time, a dedicated emergency response aircraft.

Stillbirths inquiry in SA

THE extent and impact of stillbirth in South Australia will be the focus of a significant new inquiry, which is aimed at reducing loss and better supporting women and their families.

Member for Newland Olivia Savvas has successfully moved a motion to establish a parliamentary inquiry to examine the prevalence, causes and effects of stillbirth and how to enhance supports.

More than seven in 1000 births in SA are stillbirths, leaving families asking why.

The parliamentary inquiry will assist already-existing work done by medical experts from the Women's and Children's Hospital, as well as community support grounds.

FEE-FREE TAFE will become an enduring feature of the national vocational education and training system, funding 100,000 places a year from 2027.

Since its start in 2023, Fee-Free TAFE has had more than 500,000 enrolments in priority-area courses, including care, technology, construction, and early childhood education, according to the Federal Government.

THE current Grants SA Digital Inclusion Round will provide eligible organisations with funding of up to $20,000 for projects that address barriers to digital inclusion.

Funding focus areas include organisations seeking to acquire equipment for community or public use, improve accessibility to existing platforms, or deliver skills training.

Year 12 exams begin

SOUTH Australia's official year 12 exams have begun, with more than 12,500 students working towards their SA Certificate of Education.

General Mathematics and Mathematical Methods exams kicked off the main examination period yesterday (Monday, November 4), which will run until Friday, November 15 and consist of 31 exams.

Language exams began last month, bringing the total of exams to 71, Education Minister Blair Boyer said.

"I have high expectations and want our students to do well, but appreciate that exams can be a stressful time," he said.

"It's important to remember that working hard and trying your best is the only thing we can ask of our young people during these final few weeks of year 12.

"As they get ready to embark on their next chapter — whatever that might be — I wish all our students every success for their future."

SACE Board chief executive Michaela Bensley congratulated students on their hard work.

"The SACE team has worked closely with schools throughout the year to ensure a successful and positive examination experience," she said.

"We look forward to recognising and celebrating their efforts."

Students will receive their SACE results (including Australian Tertiary Admission Rankings) on December 16, and the first round of university offers will be made on January 10.

Bike business on second award lap

WINNERS... Copper Trails Bike Hire's Colin Minion, Anne Minion, Sara Marks, Brenton Hickman, Naomi McFarlane and Oliver McFarlane.

MOONTA'S Copper Trails Bike Hire has claimed its second consecutive victory at the South Australian Tourism Awards.

At the 2024 awards ceremony on Friday, November 1, the business once again took out the Tourism Retail, Hire and Services category, a repeat of its success in 2023.

Owners Anne and Colin Minion said they started their business three years ago with the goal of sharing the Copper Coast's beauty through biking and self-guided tours that immerse travellers in the region's history and scenery.

"From our self-guided tour route that takes visitors through hidden gems like the Moonta Mines and the Secret Garden to our family-friendly bike rentals, we aim to make every journey special," they said.

"This award is a remarkable milestone for our business and a celebration of the Copper Coast community's spirit, which inspires our work every day."

Mr and Mrs Minion said the achievement would not have been possible without their dedicated team comprising Sara Marks, Brenton Hickman, Naomi McFarlane and Oliver McFarlane.

"Each team member brings a unique skill that has helped us grow and thrive, from Sara's local knowledge, connection and excellent customer service to Brenton's patience and expert bike maintenance, not forgetting Glenn and Bruce, volunteers from the Moonta Men's Shed, who restored bikes for the Salvos project," they said.

"Together, they embody the values that Copper Trails Bike Hire holds dear."

Mr and Mrs Minion also extended their heartfelt gratitude to the local community for their unwavering support.

"We are proud to represent the Copper Coast and Yorke Peninsula and will continue working to make our region a destination that travellers from around Australia and the world can experience and enjoy," they said.

Port Vincent's Brindabella Sailing was also a finalist at the awards.

Winners of the 2024 SAT Awards will represent the state at the Australian Tourism Awards, to be presented in Adelaide in March, Tourism Minister Zoe Bettison said.

"Congratulations to all the dedicated and innovative businesses celebrated at the South Australian Tourism Awards," Ms Bettison said.

"All tourism operators in South Australia work incredibly hard to deliver exceptional tourism products making our state a must-visit destination for all types of travellers from all over the world."

"In a testament to our industry's commitment to delivering tourism for good, almost all the award winners are Quality & Sustainable Tourism Accredited, which we know is what potential visitors are looking for when deciding on where to spend their time and money."

HEALING WITH FIRE... Nharangga cultural burns practitioner Peter Turner demonstrates how fire should be used.

Culture returning health to Country

Rachel Hagan
JOURNALIST

AFTER about a 200-year hiatus, the Narungga Nation cultural burning practices have returned to Guuranda (Yorke Peninsula) to help bring back balance to a landscape traditionally shaped by fire.

Throughout the year, a series of workshops have brought the burning practice back to Country at Dhillba Guuranda-Innes National Park, Ardrossan grasslands and Minlagawi nature reserve.

This year's biggest burn covered 0.7 hectares.

The fires helped reduce invasive species and boosted native plants, bringing to life dormant seeds in the soil.

Nharangga cultural burns practitioner Peter Turner said every First Nation had a fire practitioner, and their practice was only stopped because of the restrictions that colonisation enforced on Aboriginal people.

"They removed the people off the land, and they stopped the practice of fire," Mr Turner said.

"And now we've got that much fuel load out there in this Country."

The project is supported by the Australian Government's Preparing Australian Communities grant, and is a part of the Marna Banggara project, which aims to restore Guuranda's landscape.

First Nations people developed the science of cultural burning over tens of thousands of years, which ingrained fire management deeply into the hundreds of different cultures across this country.

Mr Turner said an important part of cultural burning was using the right type of fire for the right type of Country.

"Our plants have evolved with fire, to accept the fire and work with it," he said.

"The animals will remember, Country will remember, the plants will remember fire because it all evolved with fire."

The fire trickles through the landscape and leaves a mosaic pattern, which reduces the fuel load, but allows the habitat to remain intact.

The grant-funded burns have now concluded; however, Yorke Peninsula Council intends to continue the burns as a part of operational landscape management.

Footage captured during the workshops has been turned into a short film with participants from Narungga Nation Aboriginal Corporation, Point Pearce Aboriginal Corporation/Indigenous Protected Areas Rangers, Nharangga Aboriginal Progress Association, Nharangga Aboriginal Cultural Tours, Northern and Yorke Landscape Board, Firesticks, and Narungga community members contributing.

The film can be viewed at: <https://yorke.sa.gov.au/environment/cultural-burns/>

Tackling gambling harm

Sarah Herrmann
JOURNALIST

THE South Australian Government has introduced the Take A Break initiative to help prevent gambling harm, launching a 30-day trial as part of Gambling Harm Action Week (October 27 to November 2).

This trial allows people to scan QR codes in pubs and clubs, directing them to a form where they can self-exclude from gambling easily and discreetly.

Minister for Human Services, Nat Cook, said Take A Break was designed for those who may feel hesitant to discuss their gambling issues but recognised a need for support.

"Stigma and shame often prevent people from seeking help," Ms Cook said.

"This initiative provides a discreet way for South Australians to pause gambling, enabling time to rebuild relationships or engage in positive activities."

Uniting Country SA's Vicki Jacobs welcomed the initiative, expressing hope that it would expand to most clubs and pubs across SA to aid more people facing gambling harm.

She also advocated for tighter regulations on sports betting, noting that younger men (aged 18-25) were particularly vulnerable to gambling-related harm. "The prevalence of gambling ads, especially in sports, is concerning," Ms Jacobs said.

To coincide with Melbourne

Cup Day on November 5, Ms Jacobs emphasised the importance of responsible gambling practices, community support, and compassionate language, noting that 2024's Gambling Harm Action Week theme, Let's Change the Conversation, encourages respectful dialogue around gambling.

Reflecting this shift, the government has rebranded the Office for Problem Gambling to Gambling Harm Support SA.

Ms Jacobs also highlighted the broader impact of gambling on families and communities, stressing that acknowledging these wider consequences could motivate people to seek help not only for themselves but also for their loved ones.

Yorke Peninsula's losses

POKIE players on Yorke Peninsula lost more than $22 million during the 2023-24 financial year, according to State Government statistics.

People in the Barunga West and Copper Coast council areas combined lost $15.4 million, and those in the Yorke Peninsula Council area lost $6.7 million.

Both statistics are up almost 10 per cent from the previous financial year.

Around 10,000 South Australians engage in high-risk gambling and have experienced significant adverse consequences from it, according to a 2023 State Government report.

"For every person involved in high-risk gambling, at least six other people may also be affected," the report read.

"This means the number of South Australians affected by someone's high-risk gambling could fill Adelaide Oval."

"As a company we pride ourselves on supporting our local community, so to be involved in a competition where we can give something back to our customers is exciting to us," Mr Jones said.

New and used clothes for a gold coin

Rachel Hagan
JOURNALIST

THE cost-of-living-crisis is hitting families hard, but there is an opportunity to pick up a bargain and make some extra cash this November at the Yorke Peninsula Garage Sale Trail.

YP's ultimate second-hand shopping event will be held over two big weekends, November 9-10 and 16-17.

Yorke Peninsula Community Children's Centre will be taking part in the trail to raise some extra funds to help pay for the centre's upkeep.

Preschool director Lisa Vermeeren said everyone was welcome to stop by to find a bargain, and even get their face painted while they were at it.

"We are doing a pre-loved sale with donated clothes from our families that we will be selling for $1 each," Ms Vermeeren said.

"We are selling them nice and cheap, and some of them are brand new clothes that children haven't worn yet."

The sale trail was created by the growing movement of reuse and recycling, with the average seller making $457 from their sales.

Yorke Peninsula Council mayor Darren Braund said the trail would stop more waste going to landfill and help find new homes for over 4000 items.

"This event is a win for both your wallet and the planet," Mayor Braund said.

"It's a fantastic opportunity to connect with others while knowing every dollar you spend goes right back into our community."

Mayor Braund said he encouraged the community to get involved, declutter, earn some extra cash and support sustainability efforts.

"This is a fantastic opportunity for residents to clear out unwanted items, earn a little extra, and support waste reduction all at once," he said.

"The Garage Sale Trail makes it easy, with free registration, helpful tips and promotional resources for anyone interested in hosting a sale."

Garage sale holders can participate on one day or extend their sale across both weekends.

Giving to those in need this Christmas

Sarah Herrmann
JOURNALIST

A LOCAL charity drive is asking Yorke Peninsula residents to fulfil their wish-list to support vulnerable people at Christmastime.

Share The Dignity's It's In The Bag fundraiser is calling for donations of bags filled with essential items and everyday luxuries, for adults, teenagers, or mothers and babies doing it tough.

Northern and Yorke Peninsula coordinator Sandra Johnstone said she would ensure the bags were distributed to locals via Vinnies Kadina, Anglicare Wallaroo, and Uniting Country SA Kadina and Port Pirie.

"Their clients are so grateful, and the feedback they get is amazing, because all the products are brand new, the bags are like new, and so a lot of care goes into what's given," Ms Johnstone said.

"And there's a lot of people out there doing it really tough now more than ever, and they actually do live in their cars.

"I would say some of the people who donate have potentially been in a domestic violence situation themselves, or have had a family member or someone close to their heart (affected), so they are very aware of having to flee with nothing."

"In homeless shelters, they'll pop a bag on a lady's bed for Christmas and then they wake up to it, or when they arrive at the shelter, there's a bag packed with treasures for them."

"We ask if people can put little notes of encouragement in there to say 'you're being thought of today and you're special.'"

One of the collection points for donations is Podiatry Central, located in Moonta, Kadina and Ardrossan, which has had a hand in gathering almost 700 "bags of love" over its six years of involvement.

Podiatry Central director Sarah Carter said she was proud and humbled to be a part of the cause, including checking the bags before delivery.

"Last year we had a fantastic day at Sandy's house with our children and their friends helping to sort and pack bags," Ms Carter said.

"It is great to get the children involved and get them aware of issues such as domestic violence, financial struggles and homelessness."

"We urge anyone in the community in a position to help to grab a bag and fill it with the required items or to consider a cash donation in lieu of a bag."

GIVING... Share the Dignity Northern and Yorke Peninsula coordinator Sandra Johnstone and Katie Crawford from Podiatry Central, Moonta, are encouraging people to get involved in the It's In The Bag initiative.

How to donate

Art to remember

LOCAL artist Travis Hogan has presented an artwork commemorating Remembrance Day to the Kadina RSL sub-branch, ahead of this year's Remembrance Day next Monday, November 11.

The work depicts a commemorative red poppy surrounded by circles, which represent bomb craters, and is now hanging in the sub-branch premises.

Travis signs his work with his skin name, Japangarti, reflecting his cultural family relationship.

He has a personal connection with the sub-branch, as his grandfather, Terry McCumiskey, is vice-president.

Travis is beginning his artistic career, and Mr McCumiskey said he hoped this path would provide Travis with supplementary income as his work gained recognition.

The Kadina sub-branch will hold a Remembrance Day commemoration ceremony at 10.35am on November 11 at the Arch of Remembrance in Victoria Square.

For information about the sub-branch and membership inquiries, contact president Les Maynard on 0429 967 261.

An anthem for Yorke Peninsula

Rachel Hagan
JOURNALIST

YORKE Peninsula is about to get its very own regional anthem — made for the community, by the community.

A Day at the 'Burgh, on Saturday, November 16, will be host to a range of musicians and craftspeople from around YP, but this year that local talent will extend all the way to the crowd.

The annual Edithburgh event kicks off at 9.30am and goes throughout the day, culminating with a cabaret at the Institute in the evening (see separate story this issue for information).

Country Arts SA and Yorke Peninsula Council cultural facilitator Molly Flanagan said her team of musicians was excited to get creative with the local community and write an anthem for YP.

"There is a song to come out of every group of people who get together," Ms Flanagan said.

"There's a bit of fun with the unknown because we don't know exactly what this song will sound like."

To help manage and create the new song, Ms Flanagan has brought in local musicians, Liam Smith and Sarah Johnson, who participated in the highly successful Lullaby Project last year.

"This time we're looking to take the project further into the community and use it with different aspects of the community and different parts of the population," she said.

"They won't be writing a lullaby necessarily — it might be more like a Yorke anthem."

Ms Flanagan encourages everyone to get involved, even if they are not musically inclined, because a song needs more than just instruments and singers to be created.

"I think that Yorke has just so many creative people, but what can happen is they end up not even being aware of each other or the ways their skills are really valuable and inspiring to the local community," she said.

Ms Flanagan said it was important to bring these opportunities into regional and rural communities because it not only upskilled local people, but allowed their skills to be spread further into the community.

Before the Lullaby Project began, none of the Lullaby project musicians — Caleb Raymond, Meggie Moon, Liam Smith or Sarah Johnson — knew each other existed, despite living only a few towns away from each other.

"Now they work together and perform at weddings and venues, so I think it has connected artists and found ways for them to bring those skills into the community, and keep them here," she said.

"Sarah, Caleb and Darren (Braund) are the band Sea and Salt, and are going to be performing at Day at the 'Burgh."

"Projects like this benefit local musicians because it not only connects them together, it also gives them more viability to actually work in the country."

Those who want to participate in the Yorke anthem do not need to bring anything with them, but Ms Flanagan said it could be helpful to come with some ideas around what they love about YP.

"No musical experience necessary, we always encourage singing or you can just hum along," she said.

SEA AND SALT... Darren Braund, Sarah Johnson and Caleb Raymond will return for this year's Day at the 'Burgh.

Edithburgh's big day in the spotlight

Rachel Hagan
JOURNALIST

FOR the past seven years Edithburgh has been entertaining residents and tourists with the iconic A Day at the 'Burgh festival, but organisers say 2024 will be the best yet.

On Saturday, November 16, Edithburgh will be transformed into a creative hub with musicians, artists, markets lining the streets and providing entertainment for people of all ages.

A Day at the 'Burgh chair Garry Weekley said this year the team focused on the music.

The organisers brought in Edithburgh Markets coordinators to help manage the huge job and make the day the best it could be.

"We've got some really good local artists here, so this is just another platform to promote them, and also to get the young kids involved in music and art," Mr Weekley said.

Inspiring young people to be creative is a big part of Mr Weekley's vision for the festival, as well as the southern Yorke Peninsula community in general.

"It really started when the Location Cafe was built, the owner was a musician and he used to let kids up on the stage," he said.

"A lot of kids used to just come and jam and I think that's where John (Weekley) got the idea for A Day at the 'Burgh.

"It's really starting to create its own energy, which is really great and the community benefits from it too."

Market coordinator and Royal Flying Doctor Service support group president Joan Bannon said the stalls would have a special emphasis on locally hand-made items.

"We've got spinning demonstrations from a group of spinners who come and do spinning, weaving and felting," Ms Bannon said.

"We've also got food stalls — it looks like there will be tacos, dumplings, lasagna and a gin bar."

The markets will have all the usual excitement, but Ms Bannon said the most important thing to her would be the Devonshire tea, which is raising money for the RFDS.

"It is a really important charity, most people here, particularly older people, use it at one time or another," she said.

"And people do not realise how many times it (the RFDS plane) actually lands here in Yorktown."

New travel options on YP

Advertising promotion

ROSEWARNE'S Kadina is excited to announce a game-changing partnership with Hertz, making it the first car rental agency on Yorke Peninsula.

This innovative collaboration is set to change how both locals and visitors travel on YP.

Rosewarne's Kadina Director/Dealer Principal Tom Rosewarne said the local area had not had a car rental agency before.

"We saw an opportunity where we could help service the community, travellers and businesses alike," Tom said.

Whether you're a local resident left high and dry without a car, or a visitor exploring the stunning coastal lands, Rosewarne's has got you covered.

Another feature this partnership offers the community is reassurance you will never be without a vehicle after an accident, as most insurance companies cover the cost of a rental if needed, an important factor for people living regionally.

By partnering with Hertz, Rosewarne's is ensuring transport is accessible for everyone across YP and surrounds.

Tom also said customers could also do one-way rentals, creating a flexible and convenient travel experience for people heading to the airport for their work or travel needs.

"You can do one-way rentals, so you can rent it from Kadina and leave it in Adelaide and vice versa," Tom said.

Rosewarne's currently has a fleet of four cars, which ranges from small to large vehicle sizes.

CAR RENTALS... Tom Rosewarne and Mileah Power from Rosewarne's Kadina are excited to partner with car rental company Hertz.

They have been partnering with Hertz as the only rental car agent on YP for over a month now, and it has already become an extremely popular and important service.

Hertz car rental services are available in 220 car hire locations all over Australia, with more than 8100 locations globally in more than 147 countries.

For 90 years, car rentals have been the number one commitment for Hertz, making it a first choice for customers among rental car companies, for all their car hire needs.

With a range of reliable, well-maintained vehicles, YP residents are spoiled for choice.

To book your rental vehicle, call Hertz on 133 039 or head to www.hertz.com.au.

WORLD TEACHER'S DAY... Former Kadina Memorial High School teacher Geoff Ellis and former student Roger Spry, both in their 80s, have stayed in contact for decades. They couldn't find any photos of them both together, as is often the case with the oldest and best of friends.

A lifelong mentorship

Sarah Herrmann
JOURNALIST

NOT many people could say they've managed to maintain a friendship for more than 60 years, but Geoff Ellis and Roger Spry can.

Mr Ellis began his teaching career at Kadina Memorial High School in the 1950s, where Mr Spry was a student just a few years his junior.

While the former only lived in Kadina for seven years and the latter lived in Kadina up until last year, they have kept the mentorship that began at school going well into their 80s.

Mr Ellis, 89, said one of the things he and Mr Spry bonded over was sport — bowls in their later years, and football in their earlier ones.

"He didn't know in those days at football whether to call me Geoff or Mr Ellis," he said.

"He still talks about that."

Mr Spry, 81, said, as well as "the kinship among people who play football together", he and Mr Ellis also shared an interest in woodwork.

Mr Ellis taught tech studies during his time at KMHS and Mr Spry went on to become a builder.

"As our business grew, he became very interested in it, and he'd ring me up and say, 'I'm coming to Kadina, what jobs have you got on?'" Mr Spry said.

"We'd get in the car and go around the Kadina, Wallaroo, Moonta area and show him what houses we'd done.

"He was genuinely interested in what I'd been doing, and could ask all the right questions too.

"He's an evergreen."

Mr Spry said Mr Ellis would regularly visit Kadina for school reunions and reminisce with his past students.

And now that they both live in Adelaide, they catch up even more regularly.

"Even a fortnight ago he was at our house, and that's the second or third time in past 12 months that he's been here," Mr Spry said.

"He's always welcome in our house, and we're always welcome in his."

World Teacher's Day

Wakefield council calls for community consultation

STORMWATER PLANS... Stormwater upgrades have started at the end of Bruce Drive in Balaklava.

Wilson McShane
JOURNALIST

WAKEFIELD Regional Council is seeking community consultation to improve its bridges and stormwater management.

The improvements will be part of the WRC Infrastructure Asset Management Plan to progressively renew assets in poor condition.

Balaklava, Blyth, Snowtown, Port Wakefield, Hamley Bridge and Brinkworth were all identified as towns with assets requiring investigation, design and construction, a WRC spokesperson said.

"The draft plan builds on the work undertaken since the last plan, to continue to develop the stormwater system to meet service levels and to renew assets in poor condition," they said.

There are plans to implement levees at Port Wakefield, Balaklava and Bowmans, for protection against flooding from the Wakefield River.

WRC also plans to improve stormwater drainage in Balaklava, where flooding is exacerbated during "minor storm" events.

Mayor Rodney Reid said, while council was conscious of its budget, community consultation would help it to prioritise works to focus on.

"Council hopes to receive feedback on components of the plan that might impact our community," Mr Reid said.

"We want to ensure we continue to deliver the community's vision for Wakefield and the maintenance of our assets on behalf of our community.

"These plans provide guidance for council on the future maintenance, renewal and upgrade requirements and the funding required.

"We want to ensure properties are protected and our assets are safe for our communities, which is why several of the future stormwater projects proposed relate to reducing the risk of flooding.

"Some of council's bridges are ageing and are not able to be accessed by heavy vehicles and wide farm equipment. "The challenge is whether to renew these bridges or provide alternative routes."

WRC has oversight of 11 vehicular and pedestrian bridges, 22,538 rural and township drains, one foot-bridge and more than 1800 nodes (side entry pits, junction boxes, headwalls and vertical walls).

Mr Reid said, while WRC spent on average $237,848 per year on rural and township stormwater renewal, where possible it would combine projects to reduce costs.

"We (aim to) align stormwater works with other projects, such as road, kerb and water table renewal.

"This provides cost efficiencies and reduces the likelihood of having to go back and dig up roads or footpaths to install stormwater infrastructure in the future.

"Actual spend on stormwater assets per year will depend on the scope and scale of the projects to be completed each year."

Community consultation closes November 19.

Lost at sea without volunteers

Rachel Hagan
JOURNALIST

OUR marine rescue volunteers have once again shown how important they are to our community after another successful Search and Rescue event at Edithburgh over the weekend.

This year it was Edithburgh's turn to host the annual Yorke Peninsula search and rescue exercise, when crews from Edithburgh, Copper Coast, Port Victoria, Point Turton, Port Vincent and Kangaroo Island came together to train for an emergency rescue situation.

Volunteer Marine Rescue manager Darryl Wright said it was a great turnout for a Saturday morning.

He thanked the volunteers who gave up their time to protect their community.

For this year's exercise, crews spent about three hours at sea and were tasked to find a 40 kilogram human-shaped target which had been deployed by South Australia Police.

"We run it like it is a real emergency, and they really don't know what's going to happen," Mr Wright said.

"We continually feed information into the scenario, so it mirrors what would happen in a real-life situation."

Once the target was found, crews were advised by communications the missing "person" was still alive, and was now suffering from medical conditions.

The crews then needed to use their training to keep the rescued person alive and safely bring them back to shore.

"We generally don't have to throw too many curveballs because it happens naturally at sea, but I'm sure there'll be some occurrences that will arise that will keep them on their toes," Mr Wright said.

The exercise comes after three people tragically lost their lives in a fishing boat accident near Port Lincoln in March.

"One of the debrief comments from that search was the importance of this exercise that we're conducting today — that we do all around the state," he said.

"It brings people together and then they're used to operating alongside of each other.

"Even though they're from different groups, the operation ran really smoothly.

"It's not only teamwork within the boat, but across the boats when they're on the water, and also extending through to communications who play a vital role."

Despite a sad outcome, Mr Wright said the Port Lincoln incident showed how important it was to run multi-agency exercises to practise the high level of communication needed in a surface search.

"We would be lost as a state without the marine rescue volunteers," Mr Wright said.

"The only occupational resources for maritime search and rescue are located in Adelaide and therefore the entire state's coastline and inland waterway along the Murray rely heavily on volunteers to respond to an emergency."

WORKING TOGETHER... Crews from the South Australian Sea Rescue Squadron's Edithburgh and Copper Coast flotillas, the Royal Volunteer Coastal Patrol from Port Victoria Flotilla and Point Turton Division, the Australian Volunteer Coast Guard from Port Vincent and Kangaroo Island flotillas, and SAPOL officers, training to make sure everyone is ready for an emergency on our waters.

ROUGH SEAS... The Australian Volunteer Coast Guard Kangaroo Island Flotilla personnel reported they had a bumpy journey across from KI on Saturday morning but made it to Edithburgh in the nick of time. Tony Bell, Ian Boxer, Paul Prince, Carmel Batson and Peter Harvey.

The Station's open day at Wallaroo

WALLAROO community mental health centre, The Station's open day on October 22 coincided with Mental Health Month.

The Station is in the town's old police station, at 4 John Terrace, and is open 10am to 3pm on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

New members are welcome; a $10 annual fee gives access to arts and crafts, library and a computer, help with basic computer skills, free internet connection, a community garden, haircuts, relaxation massage, osteo alignment, chair yoga, crochet and knitting, counsellors and a music room – or just drop in for a coffee and chat.

The Station hires the Wallaroo Lions Club rooms on the last Sunday of each month to hold an open mic jam session, with people welcome to come along and join in for the cost of a gold coin donation.

It is a great way for new bands to try out or just come down and listen to some great music.

You can find out more on the Facebook page, The Station Jam Sessions.

The Station Squidders meet every Wednesday on the Wallaroo jetty from 9.30am to noon, using the time to promote mental health awareness

Whether you're new to fishing and want to borrow a rod, or you're an experienced angler keen to share some tips, everyone is welcome to join in the fresh air, relax and connect with others.

You can find more information on our Facebook page, The Reel Station Squidders.

The Station was pleased to welcome Tom Venning, the Liberal candidate for Grey, to the open day.

Mr Venning engaged with members and listened to their experiences as part of his visit to the Copper Coast.

It was inspiring to see a young person involved in local politics at that level, and we hope he'll support The Station's work for years to come.

The Station is committed to creating a safe, welcoming space for people living with mental health challenges and their carers.

Our goal is to enhance lives through information, education, and recreational activities.

We prioritise fostering autonomy, self-worth, and confidence among members, helping them build resilience, purpose and community connections.

Through activities and awareness initiatives, The Station works to destigmatise mental health conditions, reminding everyone that mental health is an essential part of overall health.

We invite community members to get involved, offering our members valuable skills, confidence and a strong sense of belonging.

Volunteers are always welcome, and we're currently working towards reopening our kitchen to offer affordable lunches and food education.

FOOD ON THE MOVE

Food vans accelerate across the country

THE popularity of mobile food and beverage vans continues to gain traction, especially on Yorke Peninsula.

Food trucks have gained widespread popularity, with almost two-thirds of the population eating out at least once every month. Australia's food industry has grown exponentially in recent years.

It's now estimated there are more than 5000 food trucks across Australia, and the industry continues to grow despite the Covid-19 lockdowns which forced many businesses to close.

Due to a change in consumer food preferences, there's a massive demand for high-quality food at affordable prices, and this is a need food trucks have been able to address quite effectively.

Also, the fact they allow entrepreneurs to enter the food industry with an initial investment that is much lower than opening a traditional cafe or restaurant means you can expect to see more and more food trucks in Australian cities and urban centres.

"The distinctive flavours from slow fire cooking are becoming an increasingly popular and unique choice for weddings, corporate and private backyard events," Mat said.

"There is something irresistible about the gentle, succulent, smoky flavours of lamb, chicken, beef, pork, seafood, paella and vegetables dished up straight from the fire.

"The rustic nature of the fire inspires curiosity, drawing people in and creating a unique ambience for your event.

Taste the Yorke on Wheels hit the streets in October 2021.

"We saw the potential to create a mini Taste the Yorke," Jo said.

"The van was rundown, but with vision and commitment from Prominitz Engineering and my twin brother, we started work on bringing 'Jilly' back to life!

"Our success is built on Taste The Yorke's local customers and we have been able to offer this locally and to surrounding areas.

"I used to do salt and pepper prawns out of a marquee at events, so moving into a food van was a natural choice which we made about five years ago," Caroline said.

"I am incredibly passionate about local produce, we use local salt and local seafood, and it always proves to be popular.

"I think the first time we did prawns, we did it at an Easter fair in Corny Point and we sold out so quickly."

MBC Foods does catering all over Yorke Peninsula, creating all different styles of food, as well as street-style foods at events, fairs and shows, and operates as a food vendor at local businesses.

"We love to cover events across the area, we love locals supporting locals," Caroline said.

New owner, same name, same team!

Celebrating Richard Gunning

AFTER more than 50 years working in the Gunnings family business, including 34 years as dealer principal, Richard Gunning has handed over the keys.

Gunnings Automotive Group is multi-franchise; Peninsula Toyota became the largest part of the business 24 years ago and has never looked back.

New dealer principal Sam McInnes said Mr Gunning had done a tremendous job building the business to what it was today.

"He's earned numerous accolades from each of the franchises over the years," Mr McInnes said.

He paid tribute to the business's staff retention. Collectively, the sales team alone has a combined 78 years of experience.

"Richard has been running a family-owned business which has been a part of the local community for over 95 years.

"He's built a great team and great foundation, which helped solidify our decision to buy the business.

"During the transition period Richard has made time to catch up in person many times to ensure the changeover goes as smoothly as possible.

"He is giving me the tools I need to build the business further and further."

Mr McInnes said Richard was always looking to further improve the efficiency and quality of servicing and, since May, had increased the number of service technicians, which laid a great foundation for the business to build upon.

"So, in many respects, right up until handover, he's actually been investing in the facilities to set us up for success.

"He's done that and now my job is to make sure we can keep it fuelled, creating an even better platform for customer experience."

Mr McInnes said, although he had plans to further improve the business, on a day-to-day level there wouldn't be great changes due to the strong foundation Mr Gunning had built over the years.

FAREWELL... New Gunnings Automotive Group dealer principal Sam McInnes shakes hands with former dealer principal Richard Gunning; with them is ongoing general manager Richard Bussenschutt.

Peninsula Toyota

Peninsula Toyota welcomes new dealer principal

GUNNINGS Automotive Group, including Peninsula Toyota, has changed its dealer principal for the first time in 34 years, welcoming Sam McInnes to the local Toyota family and the rest of the group.

After working at Toyota in the corporate space for more than 10 years, Mr McInnes brings a wealth of experience with him.

Mr McInnes, originally from Adelaide, said, through his employment at Toyota, he had worked in Adelaide, Melbourne and Japan but was drawn back to South Australia because of his love for the state.

"This opportunity has now presented itself and what's really exciting is I can have a really big challenge, but stay in South Australia, a place that we are so passionate about in general," Mr McInnes said.

"Although I had an exciting corporate gig with Toyota in Melbourne, I took an opportunity with them to move back to South Australia which has ultimately led me to this next chapter in my life.

"It is exciting for my family and I to move to Yorke Peninsula, such a beautiful part of the state.

"Where your family and friends are, that's where you want to live; I am looking forward to becoming involved in the local community and making new friends."

Mr McInnes said he recognised the importance of developing strong relationships with customers and the wider community.

"Our point of difference needs to be customer service," he said.

WELCOME SAM... New dealer principal Sam McInnes with wife Claire and their children Jerry and Sofie.

"If somebody comes in here, whether they're driving a brand we support or any other brand, we want to treat them like family and welcome them in like you would a guest to your home.

"And so, we'll be focusing on that as a matter of importance, and that will hopefully mean people will shop local and stay local because they'll appreciate that connection."

Mr McInnes acknowledged the terrific work former dealer principal Richard Gunning did while in charge and said he intended to continue to grow and improve the business.

"Whilst honouring the terrific work Richard's done to get this place to where it is, we also need to acknowledge the team.

"The people you deal with on an everyday basis will be the same, like Buzzy (general manager Richard Bussenschutt) for example has been here 30 years, together with sales managers Craig Jones (26 years) and Ray Faulkner (22). We really value that kind of ongoing experience.

"At the end of the day there will be the same great team members who remain committed to quality and integrity with even more emphasis on community engagement."

PENINSULA TOYOTA – DRIVING INTO THE FUTURE

New owner, same name, same team!

Embracing change at Peninsula Toyota

PENINSULA Toyota, as part of the Gunnings Automotive Group, will undergo exciting new changes and build on what is already a successful business says new dealer principal Sam McInnes.

Mr McInnes, who has a wealth of experience at Toyota, said he planned to engage the local community.

He said Peninsula Toyota would launch a six-week marketing campaign focusing on community engagement and conclude with an Open Day on Friday, December 13 (watch this space for more details).

He said he had arranged to have ex-Adelaide Crows player Ned McHenry come onboard as an ambassador.

"We're privileged to deal with Ned because he's a ripper bloke first of all, but also he's naturally passionate about the peninsula," Mr McInnes said.

"In fact, when I rang him about it, he was in Marion Bay fishing, so I think the guy is organically passionate about Yorke Peninsula.

"We'll instigate more initiatives like that, connecting with the community and welcoming them in."

Mr McInnes said he would also draw on the connections he had built within Toyota to benefit the dealership.

"Fortunately, I have a few contacts at Toyota and together with Buzzy (general manager Richard Bussenschutt) we've ensured the newest releases such as the Toyota Tundra and updated LandCruiser Prado will arrive at the dealership during November.

"I'd like them to be front and centre so anyone going past knows Peninsula Toyota has the newest releases right here, giving the customer the option to touch and feel and even test drive them.

"I want the community to feel like Peninsula Toyota and Gunnings Automotive Group are unique.

"The Copper Coast and Yorke Peninsula are amazing, and we encourage you to continue to shop locally – we have all your automotive needs covered right here!"

PENINSULA TOYOTA – DRIVING INTO THE FUTURE

New owner, same name, same team!

New models to help drive improvements at Peninsula Toyota

PENINSULA Toyota will be one of the first dealerships in Australia to have access to the new Toyota Tundra and LandCruiser Prado models, which launch this month.

New dealer principal Sam McInnes said he had leaned on his inhouse connections at Toyota to provide Peninsula Toyota with access to these vehicles, ensuring they will arrive during November.

"Recently, a few of us from here attended the new Prado launch, and that car is unbelievable to drive and the capability off-road is unbelievable," Mr McInnes said.

"That is the sort of thing I would like the community here to experience, because that's what makes you go 'oh, I really want this car', seeing it online doesn't do it justice."

Toyota Australia vice president Sean Hanley affirmed Mr McInnes's assessment of the Prado.

"Australian buyers have always appreciated the rugged off-road performance of the LandCruiser Prado, which has proved to be the perfect overlanding platform for customers who want to travel all over the country without breaking the bank," Mr Hanley said.

"The new Altitude grade enhances the performance of the LandCruiser Prado, allowing customers to venture further off road than ever before.

"Meanwhile, introducing V-Active technology brings welcome on-road improvements, with smoother powertrain operation that may also help reduce fuel bills."

The new Prado model at Peninsula Toyota will also be joined by the Tundra.

Mr Hanley said the Tundra, which took six years of development, had 4.5 tonne braked towing capacity and was powered by a 3.5 litre twin-turbo V6.

"The Tundra has been completely re-engineered by Toyota engineers working in close collaboration with Walkinshaw and uses many parts and components from other Toyota vehicles such as the LandCruiser 300 Series to ensure the very highest quality standards."

ALL NEW PRADO... The new LandCruiser Prado has impressive off-road abilities.

SACWA Ardrossan to celebrate 75 years of Christmas tradition

SOUTH Australian Country Women's Association Ardrossan branch is marking 75 years of festive celebrations this December with a community Christmas event at the Ardrossan Hotel.

This special gathering, open to the public, will feature live music by the Sound Waves guitar duo, performing popular hits from the 1960s to the '90s along with classic Christmas carols.

The event will be held on Tuesday, December 17, beginning at 11.30am for a 12pm start.

Members of the public are encouraged to make their own bookings directly with the hotel; invited guests will be included in the branch's booking.

The branch's music in the Town Square community concert on Friday, October 25, featuring Ivor Carter, was a huge success.

There was a trading table, and visitors from Ballarat, Melbourne and communities across Yorke Peninsula were welcomed.

Handmade gifts are being prepared for members living at Ardrossan Seaview aged care home home.

The SACWA will also present a hand-embroidered tablecloth to the family of Derek Birkin. It was crafted decades ago — in the branch's early years — by his late grandmother.

At the SACWA Ardrossan branch's Monday, February 17, meeting, Wendy Godfrey from Maitland Lions Club will explain a computer donations program.

All are welcome, with a $5 donation requested; the meeting will be in the SACWA clubroom in the Ardrossan Small Hall, starting at 12.30pm.

The Ardrossan branch extends its heartfelt thanks to all supporters and wishes everyone a joyful Christmas and New Year.

Cornish association supports Moonta Scouts' Jamboree Trip

YORKE Peninsula branch of the Cornish Association of South Australia held its final meeting of the year on October 28.

Guest speaker was Adam Watson, Scoutmaster for the Moonta Scout Troop, who shared updates on the troop's activities and plans for the upcoming Jamboree in Queensland.

Scheduled for January in Maryborough, the Jamboree will bring together about 10,000 Scouts and 2000 leaders from around Australia for 10 days of adventure and skill-building.

Moonta will join a rural South Australian contingent of 36 attendees, with six Scouts from the local troop making the trip.

Fundraising has been a major focus for the group, and they were thrilled when branch president Liz Coole presented an unexpected $500 donation towards their Jamboree expenses while giving the vote of thanks.

The branch has also confirmed its sponsorship of the May Queen and Princess at next year's Kernewek Lowender, along with a donation to Moonta Area School for its end-of-year awards.

Afternoon tea rounded off the meeting; members will enjoy a Christmas lunch on November 25.

Iconic squid inked on museum wall

SPLAT... Museum chair Michael Cuthbert and mural artist Julie Chesire with the giant squid adorning a wall of the Wallaroo Heritage and Nautical Museum. Inset: The museum's George the Giant Squid, measuring 10 metres long, the inspiration for the artwork.

Sarah Herrmann
JOURNALIST

WALLAROO museum's resident giant squid has been immortalised in an almost life-size mural.

Inspiration for the painting, George the Giant Squid, measures 10 metres long and is preserved in the museum's maritime section.

"He's been an attraction for years but he's getting a little bit worse for wear these days; he wasn't stored in the correct stuff first up," museum chair

Michael Cuthbert said.

"We wanted to extend the maritime section as well so we discussed murals.

"And we wanted it to be family friendly so kids could stand in front of it and have their photo taken."

But when local artist Julie Chesire went searching online for reference photos, she found giant squid were far from cute and cuddly.

"They were really creepy, scary-looking creatures," she said.

"I think the thing is where it was photographed is where it usually lives and that's very deep in the ocean, so it's very dark and gloomy, so I put more light into it.

"I wanted it to be anatomically correct but I didn't want it to frighten all the little kids who walk in here.

"I tried to make it a happy giant squid."

Mr Cuthbert said the museum was also currently undergoing upgrades and encouraged everyone to come and see the updated spaces.

And if you're interested in volunteering for the museum, call 8823 3015.

Then local GP Dr Rebecca Morgan spoke about op shops and cut the ribbon and cake, which was well received.

Attendance was wonderful and everyone enjoyed the morning.

The shop was open until noon and sales and comments were very positive.

Kadina prepares for Christmas pageant

GEARING up for another Christmas celebration, organisers are finalising preparations for Kadina's annual pageant and carols evening.

This year's festivities will be held on Monday, December 16, a slightly earlier date than usual.

Christmas in Kadina chair Neil Sawley shared his excitement for the event, which he said would attract more than 1000 attendees if the weather was favourable.

"It brings the community together, and the best part is seeing the kids' smiles," Mr Sawley said.

Heralding the arrival of Father Christmas, the pageant will kick off at 6.15pm, beginning on Graves Street and winding through Hallett and Taylor Streets before returning to Victoria Square.

The event promises familiar traditions, including food stalls, carol singing, and a visit from Father Christmas, all contributing to a festive community atmosphere, Mr Sawley said.

"It's always wonderful to see the community come together for this."

For more information, or to enter a float, email christmasinkadina@gmail.com or follow Christmas in Kadina on Facebook.

CHEER... Christmas in Kadina committee chairperson Neil Sawley is eager to see the local community get into the Christmas spirit during the annual pageant and carols on Monday, December 16.

NEW BUILD... Principal Peter Ayoub, business manager Rob Tucker and students Hudson and Mia are excited to see the construction process for Harvest Christian College's new library begin.

Harvest Christian ready to get reading

HARVEST Christian College, Kadina, students can look forward to a new library in the next school year.

The upgraded space will include open-plan collection displays, TV booths, collaborative learning areas, study spaces, a quiet room and upgraded technology for library staff.

"The redevelopment aims to enhance the library's role as a central space for knowledge, reflection, and community," principal Peter Ayoub said.

"Modernising our facilities ensures our students can access the latest resources and technologies while fostering spaces that encourage individual growth and collaborative learning."

"This project seeks to create a library space that is not only a centre for academic learning, but also a place for spiritual reflection and growth."

Mr Ayoub said many local trades were involved in the project, scheduled for completion in April.

Klynton Kitto — a sporting and farming icon

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

BORN at Clinton Centre in 1936, Richard Klynton Kitto became an icon in the Yorke Peninsula sporting community and an innovative farmer.

He and Joy, his wife, had been married for 65 years at the time of his passing on August 21, 2024.

Klynton followed in his father Percy Kitto and grandfather Robert Kent Kitto Junior's footsteps as well-regarded professional sprinters.

He attended Prince Alfred College, where he excelled in sports and academics. He played first XVIII football, competing successfully at the intercollegiate level, and opened the bowling in first XI cricket, forming a formidable partnership with Brian "Bunger" Hurn from the Barossa.

Together, they led PAC to win the SA Cricket Association B grade district competition premiership, with the opening bowlers taking over 100 wickets that season.

Klynton was also the athletics team captain, competing at the national championships in Brisbane in 1958, and served as the PAC Boarding House captain.

He participated in 24 Stawell Gift races; one of his greatest disappointments was finishing third in the 1965 120 metre sprint final.

In a memorable race at the Kadina trots, he competed in a novelty race against a cyclist (Malcolm Hicks) and a horse, placing second and beating the horse, which was owned by Alan Wearne, of Moonta.

For over 40 years, Klynton coached runners in Arthurton, Maitland, Moonta and Wallaroo and was closely involved with the Northern Yorke Peninsula Little Athletics Club.

His football career included a premiership as a teenager with Arthurton in 1955, playing a key role in the Yorke Valley Football League premiership win over Point Pearce.

He signed with Norwood without prior training and played a post-season game under Jack Oatey at Norwood Oval where, at centre half-forward, he faced Port Adelaide's Roger Clift.

At 21, Kitto declined an offer from VFL club Essendon to work as a meat buyer in Melbourne. He won the Yorke Valley Mail Medal in 1958 and returned to SANFL football in 1961 with Port Adelaide, playing four league games under Alan Killigrew.

After retiring from playing, Klynton umpired in the Yorke Valley association for 22 seasons.

He also enjoyed a long cricket career with the Weetulla, Arthurton and Price clubs.

Notably, he played two matches for South Australia Country against the West Indies in Berri during the 1960-61 tour, when he hit a Garfield Sobers ball out of the ground, and bowled against South Africa in Whyalla in 1963.

He was part of the Yorke Peninsula team that won the 1963 Harry Meyer Cup (SACA Country Championships), and is believed to be the only person in the cup's nearly 100-year history to take 10 wickets (36 runs, 19.1 overs) in an innings.

Going on to play in the SA Country

team against SACA at Adelaide Oval, he bowled unchanged for 15 eight-ball overs and took five wickets for 61 runs.

His first 10-wicket haul was for Arthurton against Urania in 1958, conceding 17 runs in 6.2 overs (including a maiden).

Klynton later took up bowls, serving as president of the Arthurton Bowling Club and winning singles and pairs championships.

Outside of sport, he managed a 2000-acre farm, Wattle Park, with his family. The farm primarily grew wheat and barley and for a time included 300 head of Shorthorn cattle.

The family property, originally 5000 acres, was purchased in 1925 by his father Percy and uncle Robert.

Known for his expertise in Poll Dorset sheep, Klynton's stud won a prestigious Melbourne Show championship.

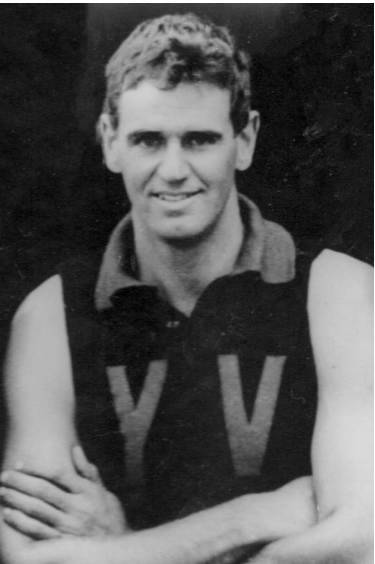

The Kitto farm was among the very first in Australia to acquire an International axial flow header, bought sight unseen.

Klynton also served on the SA Meat and Livestock Board in Adelaide. Klynton Kitto led a long, rich life filled with passion, family, and dedication. His legacy remains deeply rooted in the Yorke Peninsula community.

Klynton and Joy's children are Peter (a professional running champion), Sue, John, Anne and Linda (an elite premier league field hockey player), and they have given their parents nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

SPECIAL... Klynton Kitto with Barry Jarman, Moonta great Doug Davis and Les Flavell.

FOOTBALL... Klynton Kitto wearing an association football guernsey.

HISTORY... Klynton Kitto, in 2023, with the ball he took an outstanding 10/36 from 19.1 overs at a SACA Country Championships. This is believed to be the only time in the carnival's 100-year history a bowler has secured all 10 wickets of an innings.

CY School celebrates SAASTA champions

WINNERS... Central Yorke School students and SAASTA Connect Power Cup captain and vice-captain Duwan (right) and Rovina are ecstatic with the school team's big victory.

Wilson McShane
JOURNALIST

Central Yorke's South Australian Aboriginal Secondary Training Academy Connect team overcame more than 28 schools to win South Australia's Aboriginal Power Cup, at Alberton Oval, last month.

The CY Academy earned the cup by excelling both on and off the field with academic success, as well as achieving on-field victory against Para Hills High School in the grand final.

CY School, Maitland, teacher Charlotte Nixon said students had to complete "tasks" centred around Indigenous culture before competing in the football.

"It is good because it's not just focused on the footy," Nixon said.

"It's like a combination... there's a lot of things behind the footy.

"They work on their tasks and do other types of cultural activities; it's a sort of thing by itself.

"There are tasks about Aboriginal language, astrology, NAIDOC stuff [and] art.

"Altogether there were more girls than boys, but a few girls weren't that keen on playing so we had some goal umpiring and some scoring and that sort of thing."

This is CYA's second SAASTA Connect victory in three years and its second SAASTA Power Cup victory this year following CYA's senior girls' win earlier this year.

Nixon explained the CYA side was made up of a combination of years 7-9 Indigenous students from Yorketown, Minlaton, Kadina and Moonta who travelled from their respective schools to Maitland one day a week to participate in the SAASTA Connect program.

CYA captain Duwan said having the range of students from across Yorke Peninsula made the team strong and SAASTA enjoyable.

"I was proud of my teammates for accomplishing something this big... this is the main school for SAASTA," Duwan said.

“I was proud of my teammates for accomplishing something this big... this is the main school for SAASTA.”
– Duwan, student

He attributed the academy's recent success to the support students received.

"Maybe we went alright (because of) the amount of people and strong support from the teachers and classmates.

"So yeah, it was pretty exciting."

CYA vice-captain Rovina, who booted her share of goals in the matches and designed CYA's guernsey submission, confirmed the significance of the win.

"Footy is pretty big, my whole family plays footy," Rovina said.

"It was pretty fun and I liked it because none of the boys would tackle me."

Both Rovina and Duwan said they would look to add to the school's silverware and win again in next year's senior school SAASTA.

AFL Women

At Geelong, Kuwana (Adelaide Crows) secured a top-four spot and a double chance after a four-point win over Geelong in a thriller to start the final minor round of season 9.

Trailing by 14 points at halftime, Kuwana defeated the home side 4.8 (32) to 4.4 (28) in front of a vocal crowd of 2233.

All-Australian Chelsea Biddell (Port Vincent) had another big game in defence, finishing with 20 touches, which included 16 kicks, many of them long and penetrating (355 metres gained).

She also took an equal game-high nine marks and played 100 per cent game time.

One of the dominant clubs in AFLW's first decade, the Adelaide Crows now play in the first qualifying final against the ladder-leading North Melbourne Tasmanian Kangaroos at Ikon Park, Carlton North, this Friday evening, November 8.

Sheffield Shield

Playing Victoria in the Sheffield Shield, Thomas Kelly (Bute connections) returned for his eighth first-class appearance.

He produced a handy cameo of 30 batting at number six, facing 67 balls and dispatching four boundaries in a team total of 307, on Friday afternoon.

In the second innings, Kelly made 21 (59 balls) and was involved in an important 72-run seventh wicket partnership with Ben Manenti, before South Australia declared at 8/270.

SACA Men's 1st Grade

Partnering national short-form quick Spencer Johnson, James Reuther (Coobowie) played his role in West Torrens' exciting 26 runs round 2 victory at Henley Memorial Oval in a Saturday-Sunday match, November 2-3.

Western Eagles batted first and grafted their way to 204 on Saturday (Reuther dismissed for six).

The match was evenly poised at lunch on day 2 with the Browns on 6/158.

Johnson took five wickets and Reuther was a good foil as his opening partner, with 1/40 from 13 overs including two maidens.

Corey Kelly (Bute connections) captained Sturt to a seven-wicket victory against Glenelg at the Bay.

He opened the bowling, finishing with 2/26 from 13 overs, including five maidens, as the Seahorses were bundled out for 145.

The Blues chased this total down during the afternoon session of the second day.

SACA Women 2nd Grade

West Torrens had an emphatic nine-wicket win over Sturt at Henley High School on Sunday.

Eagles bowled Sturt out for 59 runs with skipper and leg spinner Mackenzie McCauley (Maitland) wrapping up the tail.

She collected 3/10 from 4.5 overs, including a maiden.

SACA U13 Boys' Ray Sutton Shield

Captain Eli Lawson (Moonta) added his name to an impressive West Torrens rollcall in round 2 on October 26.

Playing Tea Tree Gully at Pedare College, Eagles chased down Bulls' imposing 241. Allrounder Lawson produced a brilliant 98, facing just 81 deliveries and dispatching 13 boundaries and a pair of sixes.

The team got home off the final ball of the game, winning by two runs, eight wickets down.

Lawson is now sixth on the list of West Torrens' highest scorers in the Ray Sutton competition, which has been going (under various names) for more than 40 years.

Pace bowler, bottom ager Lucas Finn (Wallaroo), has opened the Eagles' attack in all matches so far.

Finn took a wicket (1/13) and a run out in the round 1 win over Southern District, and took 1/24 along with a quickfire 33 (21 balls) in the lower middle order against Glenelg.

In this match on November 2, Glenelg 8/189 defeated West Torrens 167.

Wicketkeeper Albert Cock (Bute) also played in round 1.

SACA U15.5 Boys

The Eagles went down to Glenelg by four wickets at Harris Oval.

Spinner Angus Petherick (Kadina) was the pick of the Eagles' bowlers with 2/19 from his eight overs, including a couple of maidens.

Cash Meyers (Ardrossan) opened the bowling and finished with 1/26 from his six overs.

BOWLING... Coobowie's James Reuther has a beautiful seam position as he bowls for West Torrens.

SWEEPING... Thomas Kelly gets low to play a sweep shot.

CUTTING... Thomas Kelly plays a square cut in South Australia's Sheffield Shield match against Victoria.

KICKING... Shineah Goody (Edithburgh) prepares to kick inside 50 as she looks for a teammate.

Goody finals bound

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

Port Adelaide and Shineah Goody (Edithburgh) have secured an AFLW home final.

Finishing the regular season with a dramatic one-point win over Greater Western Sydney — the Power's sixth victory in a row — it had been already assured a finals berth.

However, Sunday's win propelled it to fifth, securing a finals berth for the first time since it entered the AFLW competition three years ago.

Yartapuulti (the Power) players wore their First Nations jumpers against GWS.

Goody played a big role in the win, with a dominant second half off the wing.

She exploded in the third quarter and finished with 13 disposals (seven kicks and six handballs), along with a game-high five marks, eight tackles and a clearance.

"We weren't winning the KPI in the first half against GWS, and we needed to lift in that department," Goody said.

"It took a bit to get into the match but I was happier with my second half.

"[The] group of girls are pretty close, and it showed when Gemma (Houghton) kicked that match-winning goal.

"We had 4000 people at the game, their support certainly helped us get over the line.

"We're hoping for another big crowd this Sunday in the final against Richmond.

"We knew the results had to go our way, but it's exciting to be playing our first final on home soil."

Goody should be a favourite for the 2024 AFLW season 9 rookie of the year, having played all 11 minor round games, averaging 12.9 possessions and 244.4 metres gained a game, and as a strong component who gives the side run and carry.

Port Adelaide will host the second elimination final at Alberton Oval this Sunday afternoon, November 10.

CELEBRATING... Edithburgh's Shineah Goody is ecstatic with Port Adelaide's victory.

Dorrell delighted with major award

Wilson McShane
JOURNALIST

Jen Dorrell, formerly of Wallaroo, has earned statewide basketball respect after she was announced as the NBL1 Referee Coach of the Year at the Basketball South Australia Officials Awards Night on October 12.

Dorrell, who moved to Adelaide when she was 21, played basketball for both Kadina and Wallaroo before discovering her passion for refereeing.

"I used to get really grumpy with the referees, so I went into the course to understand why I was getting frustrated, and it definitely changed the way that I looked at the game," Dorrell said.

She now works at Country Basketball SA and is the NBL1 referees' coach, where she assesses games and gives feedback to referees every week.

"I really love seeing other people succeed so if I can help them succeed, then for me I guess that's a benefit.

"You won't have a game if you don't have referees, so it's really important that we educate younger and more experienced referees so we can show the game respect and integrity, because at the end of the day that's how the sport will get better."

Dorrell explained she still "helps out" as a referee in the Yorke Valley Basketball Association.

When her name was called at the awards night, she felt both proud and humbled, knowing her hard work had been recognised, she said.

"In my referee coaching, this is definitely the highest accomplishment I've had, so yes, I'm incredibly proud," she said.

"It's definitely harder for those of us from the country; there's so much hard work involved... but I live and breathe it.

"It was nice to be acknowledged, I guess, for all the hours that go into it."

Though honoured by the recognition, Dorrell said her goal was to coach referees in the WNBL or NBL, she said.

UMP'S CALL... Jen Dorrell, formerly of Wallaroo, has been named the NBL1 Referee Coach of the Year.

Local boxers go big time

Imogen McDonnell, formerly of Minlaton, and Nadine Parsons, of Curramulka, are proving that hard work and dedication can take you to the big stages.

Both are preparing to finish an already big year in boxing with the Australian National Championships in Canberra later this month.

McDonnell, now living over the border, will represent Victoria, and Parsons, still stateside, will represent SA; they are also in different weight categories.

McDonnell has had an exceptional year with her first international debut, securing two wins from two fights.

She regularly travels from regional Victoria to Melbourne for state and individual trainings, while also accepting fights and sparring against Parsons here in SA too.

Both have travelled extensively this year to gain as much exposure and experience as possible in preparation for the National Championships.

Parsons secured another title in Sydney earlier this year while both travelled to Brisbane for the famous Golden Gloves tournament.

Parsons most recently competed at an event in Perth.

Each have had 10 fights this year — three of those against each other.

McDonnell said, while women's boxing was evolving rapidly, securing elite opponents could be difficult at times.

"I have been extremely grateful to Nadine and her team for agreeing to come up in weight, and match me on more than one occasion this year," she said.

When asked if it felt strange to fight her friend, McDonnell said doing so pushed them both to new levels.

"I think our ability to flip the switch from close friends to competitors is unique and speaks to the respect we have for this sport, our teams and most of all each other," she said.

Parsons said she was proud of both of them for pushing boundaries to succeed in the sport.

"It's really quite fascinating that two girls from a small country town, where there was no boxing or even a gym at that time, have both fallen into the most challenging sport and dedicated their lives to it," she said.

"It's really a credit to us."

Both Parsons and McDonnell will fight on consecutive days at the week-long National Championships in Canberra, where it is imperative to win to stay in the event.

A gold medal at the conclusion of the tournament would grant the winner a ticket to Australian team selection, they said.

"I truly believe the bouts, training sessions and friendship we share have helped us both rise as athletes, and I cannot wait to see all our hard work pay off at nationals this year," McDonnell said.

"These will be our toughest fights of the year but we've put in the work and we are ready!" Parsons said.

McDonnell and Parsons said they credited their boxing success to their home gyms, their teams and sparring partners.

Both boxers said that, without this support, combined with that of the wider community, their home towns, their respective partners and coaches Donald Jones and Friday Nwaiwu, their boxing wouldn't be at the level it is.

Georgie Horjus already a hero

■ From page 64

Horjus moved from Parndana to Immanuel College in year 11 to make her charge at a professional netball career.

"It was always my favourite sport," Horjus said.

"I played heaps of sports growing up and then made the under 15s state team and that's when I (began having) to travel to Adelaide lots for my netball.

"It got pretty serious coming up every weekend, so that's when I realised I wanted to pursue it and try and go as far as I could."

Horjus's grandfather lived in Ardrossan (now in Moonta) and her mum grew up in Bute.

She was part of the Thunderbirds' premiership wins in 2023 and 2024, and was voted by her peers as the club's Players' Player for 2024, as well as the Pink Army Members' Player.

"This is my fifth season, so it has gone really quickly," Horjus said.

"We didn't win many games at the start so we've come a long way to win two premierships.

"I feel like I've got five years of experience but I'm new still. I debuted in the hub during Covid and we only had a team of 10, but because of Covid we had 12 and so I got a game.

"It's just a bit surreal and pretty cool to get those cheers. I think it helps being from a country town, I have so many supporters who come over and so I think half the crowd are there sometimes so it's pretty cool, but it doesn't feel real most of the time."

Before making her Diamonds debut last month, Horjus made her first senior Australian appearance in 2023 in the Fast5 competition where she played as a goal attack; she also plays at wing attack for Thunderbirds.

She said, while she was grateful for the success she has had, she was still ambitious to achieve more.

"Winning another flag would be nice and I just think getting more experience and game time with the Diamonds is what I want to achieve next.

"I'm a pretty laid-back person so I feel like I don't put too much pressure on myself, I just try to make sure I'm having fun all the time.

"Being with new teammates you've never played with before I feel like you learn heaps, so I think it's about always being open and wanting to learn."

Horjus is studying to be a teacher and plans to complete her degree in the next few years.

SHOOTING... Georgie Horjus (Bute and Ardrossan connections) shoots for goal at a Diamonds training.

Quality tennis prevails in tough conditions

“Ace McFault”
REPORT BY

Round 4 of the SYP Juniors kicked off on the weekend (November 2) at Yorketown, where the weather initially provided great conditions for the young players to enjoy their matches.

However, as the morning progressed, the wind picked up, making it more challenging for the later matches.

In the singles competition, siblings Mia and Rylan Goodes faced off, with Mia reminding her brother she’s still the boss.

Pearl Pedler celebrated a significant milestone by securing her first singles win against Ayla Goodes, while Georgina Hickman triumphed in a thrilling match against Max Hamilton.

There were also some exciting matchups in the senior competition.

Minlaton faced a tough situation, missing nearly half their squad due to a birthday party and the Christmas pageant; it’s quite a change to see the Walsh family absent from Saturday tennis!

The weather was challenging (35 degree heat and a strong northerly wind), and it certainly wasn’t a day for cream cakes and cob dips.

Instead, Lilly Premrl’s fruit platter took centre stage, providing a refreshing treat for everyone.

The Zooper Doopers were also a big hit, perfectly complementing the warm weather and keeping players cool and energised throughout the day!

Ron Edwards (Minlaton White) and Lyndall Short (Curramulka) pushed through to engage in an epic tiebreaker, with Edwards ultimately coming out on top.

With several players absent, Hamish Coombe (Minlaton Maroon) seized the opportunity to step into the number one position, achieving an impressive three wins for the day.

This performance is sure to present the Minlaton selectors with some tough decisions as they move forward in the season.

Warooka and Curramulka generously provided two extra players to Minlaton to keep the matches going; unfortunately, however, they couldn’t clinch a win.

Both Minlaton teams walked away with points but, more importantly, everyone enjoyed a good hit and a relaxing afternoon.

The mix of generations at Saturday tennis creates a fantastic atmosphere, with families bonding over the sport.

It’s great to see family names like the Goodes, Bennett, Coombe, Walsh, Brown, Hickman and Hamilton continuing the Saturday afternoon legacy.

After four rounds, Minlaton Maroon, Minlaton White and Yorketown are filling the top half of the ladder.

This week’s match will be interesting between Yorketown and Minlaton White. Both have their strengths, and player availability will make a big difference who takes the win.

Meeting expectations

“MM”
REPORT BY

This week will be the Pink Round for bowlers across the state, so bring along your buck to bowl for this excellent cause, and wear a pink hat if you’ve got one.

Saturday competition

In division I open, most games went the way they were expected to go, with a standout win to Phil Miller’s team (Kadina) by 31 shots.

Div II Sandercock also went as expected, with one possible exception where Artherton won a thriller against Wallaroo by a single shot.

The highlights of the round also came in this game, with T Hudson from Wallaroo and B Schmidt from Artherton each providing a 27-shot win for their respective sides.

In Div II Brown, again, the results were somewhat predictable, with a standout performance by Sheryl Millard with a 28-shot win for the winning Paskeville side.

The revamped Div III featured the first round of the reduced two-teams-a-side competition.

With the new format, it was a bit hard to judge form, but the standout game must have been between Moonta and Wallaroo, which was decided by two shots in Moonta’s favour.

Southern Yorke Peninsula...

Halloween bowling

“Unbiased”
REPORT BY

There was plenty of hocus pocus happening last week, mainly with the weather!
Still, the witches, gremlins and monsters kept their business to Thursday night.
This coming week, the Southern Yorke Peninsula Bowling Association embraces the Buck a Bowler concept, recognising the Pink Round initiative instigated by Bute's Kate Brokate.
Dig deep, fellow bowlers, and remember those affected by breast (and other) cancer diagnoses.

The knockout finals for Bowls SA state mixed pairs continued at Moonta Bowling Club on Sunday, November 3.
Yorke town's Steve and Sandra Redding defeated Edithburgh pair Allan and Brenda Ford, and Curramulka duo Robert Tilbrook and Cindy Thompson.
The Reddings, along with Moonta's Daryl and Gayle Steinwedel, will advance to the finals, to be played in Adelaide in March.

Congratulations to all teams.
Wednesday competition
Edithburgh hosted round 3.
Yorke town Red defeated Port Vincent Gold but the Mariners' Robert Storm and his rink clinched a one-shot win over Rodney Franke.

Port Vincent Black returned the favour by defeating Yorke town Blue, one rink ending in a 23-shots-all draw.
Warooka claimed a decisive two-rink victory against Edithburgh Green, as did Curramulka against Edithburgh Gold and Stansbury against Ardrossan White.
Ardrossan Blue reached the big "five-0" to defeat Minlaton, who did manage a rink win in the process.

Thursday competition

It was a spooky day on All Hallows Eve, with every club clawing for points, resulting in frighteningly close games!
Division I round 4 featured a draw between premierships board leaders Warooka and Port Vincent; the eight points awarded to each side means they remain as leaders at this early stage.
Curramulka battled in the morning with Yorke town, the visitors gaining a three-rink victory; Port Victoria was pipped by Minlaton an even game; and Edithburgh lost to Stansbury by 17 shots, the largest margin for the day.
No hometown winners last week!
In division II, Edithburgh Green continued its winning streak, this time against home rival Edithburgh Gold.
Stansbury defeated Warooka and Port Vincent forfeited to Minlaton.

Results 31-10-24

Stansbury 28 (4) d Warooka 10 (0). B Sando 28 d W Koennecke 10.

Saturday competition

The wind was howling on this filthy hot day, but players turned up and there was no home side advantage for div I.
Warooka claimed its first win for the season, over Port Vincent, Yorke town defeated Curramulka, and Port Victoria lost to Minlaton.
An extraordinary result for Edithburgh, which won three rinks against Stansbury, but a 22-shot win by skipper Andrew Smith and his team awarded Stansbury the overall points for the day.
After just four rounds, Stansbury has a decisive lead over the rest of the field, but there is plenty of time for changes on the premierships board.
In div II, Edithburgh Gold missed the trying conditions this week, no doubt enjoying being indoors and all it had to offer.

All but one club took advantage of the hometown favour (if there was one to be had!)

Ardrossan Thursday: Results 31-10-24

— Travelling to Wallaroo and playing on the carpet did not go well for Ardrossan division II ladies, losing 36-74. Lyn Rollbusch, Carol Bulpitt, Adrian Etchels and David Hooks were the standout team. Having a good battle against their opponents for most of the game, Ardrossan snuck ahead to have a five-shot win, 19-14. A great effort, as this is the first year Lyn has played skipper and Carol's first year playing. The stars did not align for the two remaining teams who were beaten convincingly. Div I had a bye. CS

Ardrossan Saturday: Results 2-11-24

— Division I lost to Port Broughton, 73-102. Best rink G Cook, F Stern, B Westley and M Shaw (sk) had a flying start, which was important in a close game, to secure a narrow 20-19 win. After a sound beginning, P McCarthy's team struggled to contain its opponent, but did land four shots to finish 16-23 down. J Simmons's rink chased its opponent all day to reach 21-32. Returning skipper L Rich's team was competitive until its opponent broke away mid-game and, despite a determined challenge on the home run, fell short 16-28. Div II went down to Paskeville, 71-114. Best rink F Paroczy, T Spiteri, D Jones and S Adams (sk) soared to an early lead which was sufficient to withstand a strong opponent comeback, holding on for a convincing 25-18 victory. In a similar way, P Cook's team produced a significant early buffer to protect a valuable lead against a determined opponent for a 25-19 success. Problems for C Rudiger's rink arose in the ninth end when it witnessed its opponent's powerful run of wins, eventually going down 11-39. F Stennett's team haplessly pursued its opponent in a 10-38 loss. Div III lost to Paskeville, 32-56. Best performance was by J Anderson, P Robertson, C Matthews and C Voysey (sk), who forced a close encounter, only faltering in the final ends for a 19-27 defeat. D Anderson's team was unable to recover from a devastating start, but did take a couple of significant winning ends in its 13-29 loss. LBB

Port Vincent: Results 30-10-24

— Once again mixed results for our teams in the men's midweek competition. Gold travelled to Edithburgh to take on the strong Yorketown Red. With one rink up, the combination of Newton Lines, John Gaylard and Robert Storm played well for a 19-18 win. Unfortunately, we were not quite good enough and went down 32-41 overall. Black also played at Edithburgh, against Yorketown Blue. In a close game, we snuck home with a 40-36 result. The rink of Jon Skuse, John Hallas and Greg Parsons won a tight game 17-13 to see us get over the line. Results 31-10-24 — Division I women played at home against Warooka and were looking to keep their undefeated season going. With two rinks up and two down, the two sides could not be split with the match finishing in a 65-65 draw. The rink of John Hallas, Janet Gibson, Janine Humphrys and Vanessa Germein continued its good form with a 20-14 win. The rink skippered by Lyn White also won a close game 26-13. A great start to the season! Unfortunately, div II had to forfeit to Minlaton. Results 2-11-24 — Div I had the perfect opportunity to get some form back when it played Warooka at home. However, two rinks up and two down was not good enough and we went down in a close match 78-82. The rink of John Hallas, John Curnow, Chris Coleman and Rob Marner had a good win 29-12 to keep us in the game. The rink skippered by Peter Green also had a good win 28-17. It's been a slow start to the season for div I, although there is plenty of time to catch up to the rest of the field. In div II, Gold played Yorketown Blue at Yorketown and was unable to bring any points back, losing 56-78. The rink of Julie Darling, Trevor Thomas, Don Barrand and Paul Stubberfield had a close game but went down 18-22. Black played Port Victoria at home and needed a win to keep in touch with the leaders. With all rinks performing well, we pulled ahead to finish with a 61-45 win. The rink of Wayne Hickman, Linda Chambers, Janine Humphrys and Bryan Tuttle did well for a 26-16 win and Greg Hall's rink also had a good win 20-14. RB

Port Victoria Par 3 golf course opening

After a long consultation, planning and redevelopment process, the redesigned Port Victoria Par 3 golf course was opened on Friday, November 1.

Weekly competitions during summer will be held on Fridays at 4.30pm, unless the forecast temperature is 38 degrees or more.

There is a jackpot available for a hole-in-one on any of the nine holes during a competition round; 50 per cent of the jackpot can be paid out in any competition and the current value of the jackpot is nearly $1000.

Our first competition was an Ambrose and winners were G and J Smith and P Schulz.

Runners-up were M Gersch, M Crkovnik and Tim Bertalli.

It was great to see young Hamish Bray come out for his first round, after having attended our junior golf clinics.

The Par 3 concept was the idea of former captain Ron Fairchild and, after initial construction, has been in use over the past two years.

This test phase has given members the opportunity to play it and suggest changes as the club committed to improve the layout and replace the temporary putting surfaces.

The finalised course now incorporates the six putting surfaces closest to the clubhouse and three new ones, giving a picturesque circuit taking in some of the beautiful coastline.

A big thank you to all the members involved in the redevelopment and Ron, who will run the summer competition.

The Par 3 course is open all year round for $5 a game and there are free loan clubs and balls available. It is about 900 metres long and takes about an hour to play. Visitors are always welcome.

We remind people the only official Facebook page for our club that has correct and truthful information is Port Victoria Golf Club Inc.

Kiosk series continues at Port Vincent

Conditions were much kinder for race 2 of the Port Vincent Kiosk series, with the wind at 10-15 knots on Sunday, November 3.

The Trailer Sailer fleet and Mosquitos sailed course 1 that included the easterly and northerly marks, with the Lasers sailing a course that included the south easterly and north westerly marks.

The skippers of Grinch and Nautical Nut kept top deck officials on their toes, with Nautical Nut crossing the finish line four seconds in front of Grinch.

Once the afternoon of racing was complete and sailors and crews had joined the top deck crew back in the clubhouse, Commodore Alan Rushbrook acknowledged the passing of life member David Lindsay (Joe) Butler, who was a much-loved member of Port Vincent Sailing Club for many years.

A toast of his favourite tippie was drunk by all in his honour.

NYP Little Athletics

Northern Yorke Peninsula Little Athletics Centre welcomed some special guests to Kadina on Friday, November 1.

Little Athletics Australia Ambassador Jordi McMillan and Little Athletics South Australia's Daniel Pauli officially presented the centre with the official Regional Centre of the Year 2023-24 season banner and our trophy.

This award highlighted the great effort put into our centre from everyone at all levels.

McMillan and Pauli immersed themselves into the club's meet, assisting and cheering on the athletes, as well as helping committee members and parents.

McMillan's insights were truly valuable; she is an Australian 100m and 200m sprinter.

She represented Australia for the first time in the U20 European Tour team in June 2023 and has had a tremendous season placing fourth in the U20 100m at the Australian Championships, smashing five personal bests in a row and achieving the World Juniors qualifying standard.

It was a wonderful and welcome experience having guests at the centre to assist and see us all in action.

YP's first orienteering championships

Leila Henderson
REPORT BY

The inaugural Southern Yorke Peninsula Interschools Orienteering Championships took place at Yorketown Area School on Friday, November 1.

This was followed by the Yorke Peninsula Community Orienteering Sprint Carnival, held at Minlaton District School, on Sunday, November 3.

During Sunday's community event award presentations, it was announced that a new club, the Yorke Peninsula Orienteering Club, would be formed early next year.

The founding committee is Lisa Martin, Beth Purdy-Dart and Amanda Johnson.

At the schools' event, there were 78 students keen to show their map-reading and navigation skills.

Many of the students had taken part in a pilot Learn to Orienteer program offered free of charge to the local community by the state peak body, Orienteering SA.

Coaching was held in community parks and schools around Yorke Peninsula, including Yorketown Area, Warooka Primary, St Columba's Memorial, Minlaton District, Curramulka Primary, Stansbury Primary and Maitland Lutheran Schools.

Event director, Orienteering SA schools coaching officer, Zita Sankauskas, thanked all the teachers and students who helped make the event a success.

"Over the course of 11 weeks, the Learn To Orienteer program attracted 151 people of all ages from across the peninsula to come and try the sport, which is essentially about learning to navigate as fast as you can through a pre-set course, while reading a map," Ms Sankauskas said.

"It is like solving a puzzle while on the move, and that means exercising your brain and body."

The Learn to Orienteer program was made possible by a grant from Orienteering Australia, and the schools orienteering program was aided by an Australian Government Sporting Schools grant, which enables participating schools to be mapped by specialist cartographers.

"Thank you once again to Warooka Primary School principal Beth Purdy-Dart who has gone over and above to help all attendees enjoy the experience," Mrs Sankauskas said.

"Thank you also to the entire team of volunteers from Orienteering SA who spent many hours on the road to share their love and enthusiasm for our sport."

The YP Community Orienteering Sprint Carnival drew 49 competitors and many more spectators.

Results from both events and category winners will appear in next week's edition.

A little Ray of giving: 10 years strong

Joanna Tucker
JOURNALIST

THIS Christmas, Ray White will continue its annual a little Ray of giving initiative, a charity program providing gifts for disadvantaged families across Yorke Peninsula.

As it celebrates a decade of giving, the Ray White YP team is calling on the community to embrace the season and support local families in need during this challenging time of year.

Working alongside UnitingCare, the gift drive is a way to help put smiles on the faces of families who need some extra cheer, Ray White's Melissa Bussenschutt said.

"Those who wish to donate a gift can do so at any of our five offices located in Kadina, Moonta, Ardrossan, Yorketown and Minlaton," Ms Bussenschutt said.

"Our special giving trees are located inside each office, and we are collecting gifts now."

Last year, more than 700 gifts were collected, which helped 241 YP families in need.

Ms Bussenschutt said, each year, this number grows as people experience the pressures of living during the holiday season.

"Just a small gift can make the biggest difference to families who are struggling at this expensive time of year," Ms Bussenschutt said.

Uniting Care Copper Coast's Judith Barker said 2024 had continued to bring challenges to families with cost-of-living pressures rising, which added extra pressure around Christmastime.

"We are ready to help alleviate the stress of gift buying at Christmas for families," Ms Barker said.

"If we can help brighten the festive season by supplying a thoughtful gift to put under their tree to let them know that people really do care — hence the words on the gift sticker stuck to each gift 'from people who care' — I know we have done a small part in helping families and that makes me happy."

Ms Barker said the Kadina Uniting Church's hall turns into Santa's workshop when volunteers help wrap gifts, ensuring the process runs smoothly every year.

"We are grateful for any contribution, no matter how big or small," she said.

Ms Barker said she appreciated what the Ray White team has done year after year for YP families, and was excited to work alongside them again.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT... Ray White Yorke Peninsula, along with Uniting Care, are again encouraging people to drop off a gift for those in need in the lead up to Christmas. Those able to donate will be greeted by the friendly volunteer team, including Judith Barker, Melissa and David Bussenschutt, and Brenda Cross.

Rare beauty in the heart of Moonta

WHEN you think about what a home in the heart of Moonta might be like, you think of a property like this one, according to Jade Greenslade from Blights Real Estate.

Being set on two titles gives ample space (about 759 square metres) to enjoy, Jade says.

“Recently renovated, the home has been given the attention it deserves, revitalised from when it was built in 1925,” she says.

“With four large bedrooms (the main bedroom has an ensuite), eat-in kitchen with updated stainless-steel appliances, separate lounge with double french doors leading outside, and three toilets, it’s definitely a home for a large family, or for those who enjoy hosting plenty of get-togethers.

“Maybe you don’t need that fourth bedroom; you could perhaps create a second living area

SheepMasters prove popular

SOUTH Australia's second ever SheepMaster ram sale was held at Orrie Cowie Genetics, Warooka, last Wednesday, October 30.

SheepMaster sheep shed their skin, negating the need for shearing, crutching or tailing.

Forty-seven of the 48 rams on sale were sold at an average price of about $2100, with the top ram going for $7500.

While the average and top prices were slightly down on last year ($2945 and $16,000, respectively), owner John Dalla said this was expected due to the dry season.

"It (the sale result) kind of exceeded what I thought it was going to be just because of the way a lot of sales have been this year," Mr Dalla said.

"Top price is back a little bit but I didn't expect it to be better with the year.

"With people looking like they're going to have a smaller harvest they spend less on their rams."

Daniel Parsons, from RL & SJ Parsons & Son, Edillilie, returned for the second consecutive year to buy the top-priced ram, while the Duncans from Wentworth, New South Wales, joined the sale for the first time and were the top volume buyer, snatching up 10 rams.

Mr Dalla said the Duncans had done plenty research before deciding to buy from Orrie Cowie.

"It's their first try into shedding sheep, they did a lot of research into all the different breeds and settled on SheepMaster as probably the pick breed of all the shedders."

Mr Dalla said he was trying to create healthy sheep and, because of this, he was excited for future sales.

"We want a very structurally sound sheep with a perfectly clean shedding skin and then we want plenty of growth and muscle and weight in those sheep, while keeping your lambing percentage at a high rate.

"The rams we put up for sale this year were a big improvement on last year.

"The gains we made in 12 months are huge, I'm pretty excited about next year's drop — they should be a very good drop of rams.

"I think they're a pretty exciting breed of sheep."

Mr Dalla said he appreciated those who supported the sale and looked forward to next year's ram sale.

2024-25 Harvest Hottest 100

GRAIN Producers SA has released its long-awaited Harvest 100 Playlist, just in time to pump up the volume for primary producers during the 2024-25 harvest.

This year's number one song went to Creedence Clearwater Revival's Have You Ever Seen the Rain?

GPSA chief executive Brad Perry said this year's playlist celebrated the spirit of hard work and resilience, and reflected the lack of rain grain producers had to deal with.

"Music has always been a big part of harvest time for growers," Mr Perry said.

"Whether they're in the header, the ute, or delivering to a silo site, the right track can lift the mood, keep growers focused, and even help them push through the toughest days.

"Our Harvest 100 initiative plays a role in supporting the mental health and wellbeing of South Australia's grain producers and is about acknowledging the important role music plays in the day-to-day life of grain producers during harvest.

"It's something we can all relate to, no matter where we are or what we're doing.

"There's something for everyone, whether you're looking for something upbeat, nostalgic, or even a bit of fun to lift the energy when the going gets tough."

Long hours in the paddock or late-night hauls will now have the perfect backing track to get the job done.

To see the full Harvest 100 playlist visit www.harvest100.com.au or www.grainproducerssa.com.au.

The playlist can also be found on Grain Producers SA's Spotify account.

A blast of the blues

LOCAL blues lovers were treated to an afternoon of footstompin', toetappin' blues on Sunday, when musician Brett Littlefair played his stunning range of cigarbox guitars at the Prince Edward Hotel, Wallaroo.

Accompanied only by drummer and long-time mate, Jimmy James, the pair filled the pub's beer garden with the sound of raging blues using just two instruments, interspersing Littlefair's own songs with beloved blues numbers that got the crowd up on the dance floor.

Littlefair says he is inspired by RL Burnside, John Lee Hooker, Justin Johnson, Seasick Steve, Rolling Stones, Jimi Hendrix, Hound Dog Taylor and Elmore James.

These influences shone through in his raucous style and the covers he played, including Roll Your Moneymaker, Let's Work Together and Poor Black Mattie, ending the gig with a rousing rendition of the Hendrix masterpiece, Voodoo Chile.

Among the original songs Littlefair in Sunday's set was Where've You Been, which was used on the 7 Network travel show, South Aussie with Cosi, and featured on his first album, Red Devil Lye.

Littlefair's subsequent albums, Footstompin' and Toetappin' charted in the Australian Blues and Roots Airplay Charts and stayed there for 18 months, reaching as high as number 4. He has also won two Adelaide Roots and Blues Association awards for Blues Album of The Year, making him the first artist to go back-to-back in 2022 and 2023. Littlefair's iconic, cigar box style guitars, including one featuring a hubcap, are an attraction and are built by hand by CK Instruments of Port Lincoln, using found objects.

They draw on the DIY musical ethos that goes back to the 1800s in America, when readymade instruments were too expensive for the average person, so they made their own, using whatever materials came to hand.

Littlefair will join a celebration of that tradition when he heads to the United States to showcase his style at the Cigarbox Guitar Festival in Bradenton, Floria, on December 8, then he will tour the Deep South heartland of blues in Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida.

He says after the tour, he's keen to come back to the Copper Coast in March or April, so here's hoping we can hold him to that.

#Throwback This day in history

November 5, 1605: Celebrated with fireworks, Guy Fawkes Day marks the anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot, when Roman Catholics tried to blow up the English Parliament, the king, and his family.

November 5, 1935: Parker Brothers started marketing the board game, Monopoly. It was initially called The Landlords Game, but its name and some rules were changed through many revisions.

November 5, 1940: Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected to an unprecedented third term as president of the United States, defeating Republican candidate Wendell Willkie.

I know it sounds mean but when I'm mad at my wife and want to lash out, I open a bottle of some condiment when there's already one open.

HOT FISHING TIPS

with Greg James www.gregjamesfishing.com.au

Welcome to the column with all the hot tips for fishing around Yorke Peninsula; contact Greg by email at greg@gregjamesfishing.com.au.

Port Broughton: Try the jetty for tommy ruff (Australian Herring) and squid at night. Boat crews launching in the early morning calm weather are reporting King George whiting well offshore towards Plank Shoal, as well as snook, blueys and garfish.

Wallaroo: The weather was decent (until the strong winds cracked in on the weekend) as boat crews ran down to Bird Reef for tommyes, gar, squid and salmon trout. KG whiting are at the Boiler grounds and well out from the Magazine. The jetty has blue crabs and the odd squid.

Port Hughes/Moonta Bay: Both jetties have a few squid and garfish on the incoming tides. Anglers fishing by boat are reporting blue crabs and KG whiting well south of Tipara Reef.

Point Turton: Slack tides last week made for slow fishing for both boat and jetty fishers. There are scattered reports of garfish and whiting from Corny Point and The Pines, with the jetty quiet.

Marion Bay/Stenhouse Bay: Stenhouse Bay jetty has tommyes in the late afternoons, with the Marion Bay jetty holding gar and squid. Boat crews are running out for nannygai, kingfish and trevalley well offshore. Shore-based fishers from Yorke Point and The Dairy are casting into some stiff breezes searching for mullet, mullovey and salmon trout.

Edithburgh/Stansbury: Edithburgh, Troubridge Island channel marker, Klein Point and the Orontes Bank all had KG whiting during the week, the deep water drops in particular. Marion Reef through to Rocky Gully has snook and leather jackets, while shore-based fishers caught mullet and salmon trout from Sheoak and Goldsmith beaches. Both jetties have a mix of tommyes, squid and salmon trout.

Black Point/Ardrossan: Boat crews caught gar, blue crabs, squid and a few tommyes from Black Point, Long Spit and well out from Billy Goat Flat last week. Rakers are also chasing blueys from Pine Point all the way to Ardrossan, Rogues Point and Price beaches, while the Ardrossan jetty is worth a try for overnight soapie mullovey and blueys.

Tight lines and see you next week!

HORJUS A HERO

Wilson McShane
JOURNALIST

At 22 years of age, Georgie Horjus has become a fan favourite on the netball court.

Since making her Super Netball League debut with Adelaide Thunderbirds in 2020, every time her face pops up on the big screen it is met with an excited applause, followed by murmurs of "How good is this girl?!"

Well, she is good.

In fact, a fortnight ago, the hardworking pocket rocket, who is 173 centimetres tall, became just the 193rd player to don the Australian Diamonds dress against New Zealand in the Constellation Cup.
