PUSH FOR ROAD FIX

WITH thousands of kilometres of roads needing constant maintenance and upgrading, the Yorke Peninsula is in dire need of some more funding from governments at all levels.

This week the YP Country Times is launching a new campaign to lobby federal, state and local governments, as well as industry groups, to work together to fund our roads properly.

The campaign kicks off with a double-page spread outlining the positions of a host of key players in the debate including:

A group which has banded together to lobby for YP farmers and truck drivers

- The Grattan Institute's Marion Terrill on why the federal government is not doing enough to fund our roads
- The state opposition calling on the Malinauskas government to do more to fund regional roads
- Narungga MP Fraser Ellis speaking out for more local road funding

Housing woes

IN THE early 1950s, looming population growth surely signalled housing needs for post-war families and immigrants, most of whom went on to live much longer than their forebears.

Generations of population growth and such longevity naturally followed.

Many ageing, yet still in-demand, SA Housing Trust dwellings dating back to the 1950s still stand today in suburbs and regional towns with abundant rural land on the outskirts where subdivision for housing should not be as difficult as it seems to be.

Why is this so, when compulsory acquisition of property to make way for Adelaide expressways has become so commonplace?

I believe, in addition to inflation and interest rates, opportunistic real estate manipulations have seriously contributed to many property price increases and, in particular, unrealistic rental rates.

Yorke Peninsula itself has, according to the last census, a great many vacant coastal properties that await perhaps only occasional family occupation.

That is the right of the owners, but it hardly seems fair when, as your editorial (YPCT, May 9) so correctly states, for those in desperate need, there is "no end to our housing crisis".

It has all become a sad case of "the haves" and the "have-nots", the latter of whom may only stand a chance in future markets by landing a significant family inheritance.

OUR VIEW

YP has the drive to succeed

LET'S talk about roads.

Ok, so that topic may not sound as appealing as, say, beaches - but roads just happen to be the lifeblood of Yorke Peninsula's economy.

They are the veins and arteries that pump the products we grow and make throughout the heart of the region.

They help bring in the tourist dollars and connect communities throughout the district.

Whether it's trucks hauling grain to be exported across the world, or Rex Minerals' plan to cart copper and gold by road to Port Adelaide in coming years, roads are king of transportation on YP.

But our councils say they are labouring under the burden of maintaining thousands of kilometres of the roads they are responsible for.

Despite surveys showing many ratepayers don't actually know the difference between council and state-funded roads, this does not change the fact that some funding for thousands of kilometres of roads many unsealed — comes directly out of their rates.

Yorke Peninsula and Barunga West Councils are both working on plans to make users pay more for the upkeep of our roads — with two of those draft plans currently open for consultation.

It seems Yorke Peninsula farmers may be the ones who are going to be asked to contribute more money, but this issue is one that impacts all levels of government and many industries, and the cost burden should be equally shared around.

With a state budget looming, now is the time to make some noise and start talking more about how we are going to fund our roads

Wilson McShane JOURNALIST

SNOWTOWN residents say recent speculation about changing the town's name has been blown out of proportion and the name is here to stay for the foreseeable future.

Some influential Snowtown residents at one stage discussed changing the name in an effort to move on from the stigma which has dogged the town since the infamous "bodies in the barrels" murders were discovered about 25 years ago.

But Snowtown Progress Association chair Derryn Stringer said the suggestion of adopting a different name than Snowtown which then-Governor William Jervois called after his Yorke Peninsula cousins in 1878 —was just one of many ideas floated to help increase the population and improve the town's services.

Mr Stringer said last week his initial comments about Snowtown considering changing its name had been blown out of proportion.

"I've got a 25-year plan for Snowtown about where I want it to be, where I think it can be," he said.

"(Changing the name) was just one of my concepts.

"It doesn't mean it's going anywhere. "It just means I put forward the concept of opening a discussion," Mr Stringer said.

The concept has met with opposition from current and former residents spoken to by the Yorke Peninsula Country Times who want to keep the current name.

Farmer Brayden Keech, who has lived at Snowtown his whole life, said the proposal was surprising.

'To be honest, I'm not sure where it's all come from, because it is the first

"Unfortunately, changing the name isn't going to change the stigma that surrounds what happened in 1999."

- Brayden Keech, farmer

I, or anyone I know, has heard about the name change," Mr Keech said.

"I'm not sure changing the name is going to help anything. "Unfortunately, changing the name isn't going to change the stigma that surrounds what happened in 1999," he said.

Former Blyth-Snowtown Football

Club B grade premiership coach Nigel Harris agreed.

"I wouldn't change the name. "I think it is just media creating a story," Mr Harris said.

Narungga MP Fraser Ellis said it was disappointing the town's history had been brought up again.

"I do think it's tremendously unfortunate that the Adelaide media have tried to focus on the name change," Mr Ellis said.

"There are some wonderful things going on in Snowtown."

The Mid North town has recently received a $50,000 state government grant for upgrades to its caravan and RV park.

This comes after it recently resurfaced its tennis courts and renovated its football clubrooms.

"There's some really good things going on, so it's exciting for the future of the town," Mr Ellis said.

Covid spike

THERE were close to 1500 new cases of Covid-19 reported in South Australia last week.

This was a sharp increase on the week before, when fewer than 1000 were recorded.

No new Covid deaths, however, were reported last week by the state Health Department.

The total number of recorded Covid cases in the state is approaching a million, which includes 1760 deaths.

Cash windfall

A SAVING of $3 million has been revealed during the latest review of Copper Coast Council's budget.

The original 2023-24 budget predicted a small deficit, but CCC chief executive Dylan Strong told the most recent council meeting increases in fees and charges, as well as better returns than expected on investments, were two of the factors which helped net the council extra income.

Some of the cash is expected to go back into general revenue to be redirected to community projects.

Heritage push

BARUNGA West is one of a host of councils to receive state government heritage grants.

The government is providing up to $600,000 to councils in an effort to better protect the state's heritage and streetscapes.

Grants of up to $75,000 have been offered to eight councils across the state.

The work underway by councils, including BWC, is hoped to strengthen protections for more than 90 local heritage places, more than 400 buildings and about 15 historical areas.

Sheep exports

A COALITION government would retain live-sheep exports if elected, federal Nationals leader David Littleproud says.

The federal government last week announced a live-sheep-export-shutdown timeframe, with Agriculture Minister Murray Watt aiming to transform the industry by May 2028.

"Industry has never had the science explained to them why they are closing the industry down," Mr Littleproud said.

POLICE seized a large cache of ammunition, including an "inert explosive", from an SYP property last week.

The Bomb Operations Unit searched a Yorketown home on Thursday, May 9.

Police said more than 4000 rounds of ammunition, a semiautomatic rifle, a crossbow and an "inert explosive" were found, as well as a small amount of marijuana.

A 50-year-old man is facing a range of charges including possession of an unlicensed gun, a prohibited item, and insecure ammunition

He was also issued an on-thespot cannabis fine.

The man will be summonsed to appear in court at a later date.

Rubbish fire

The CFS had to put out a rubbish fire in East Moonta last week.

A caller saw a large plume of black smoke coming from a house on Warmington Road on Friday, May 10.

Firefighters soon discovered burning tyres were causing the black smoke.

It took two hours for emergency services to clear the scene. Mine man revealed

The 23-year-old man who was stuck down a mineshaft in Moonta Mines last week has been named as Adelaide-based Alex Clark.

The tourist was visiting Yorke Peninsula when he and his partner Jasmine decided to take his two dogs, Roxy and Bonnie, out for a walk.

The dogs were roaming free but, when called, only one returned.

When Mr Clark realised Bonnie had ventured into the mineshaft, he attempted to rescue her but got stuck himself.

After four hours, both were rescued by emergency crews.

Mr Clark was taken to hospital as a precaution.

Regional legal scheme boost

The Legal Services Commission is introducing a new rostered regional duty solicitor scheme.

The scheme aims to address service delivery gaps in the regions, where private legal practitioners are available and capable of taking on legal aid work.

The new scheme allows for a rostered solicitor to act for the client and then claim payment from legal aid for the work undertaken.

Under the previous scheme, clients eligible for legal aid would have their matter adjourned and wait for a legal aid application to be processed.

The LSC said the scheme was already having an impact in the regions where it had been rolled out. Kadina and Maitland are two regional centres on the new roster.

Narungga bush food a hit at Tasting Australia

Sarah Herrmann JOURNALIST

A NARUNGGA chef has wowed city diners with a four-course feast showcasing bush foods from Yorke Peninsula, as part of Tasting Australia.

Louisa Wilson, who grew up in Moonta, has carried her culture with her to French restaurant A Prayer for the Wild at Heart in Adelaide, where the event was held on Saturday, May 4.

The 24 year old says she designed the menu to highlight ingredients local to the peninsula — including samphire, saltbush and native oregano - sourced from Newchurch Family Farm in Port Victoria.

"I wanted to showcase the native ingredients because in most places I've worked I've been the only Aboriginal (person) that works there, so I feel like I go into a lot of places talking and teaching about my culture," she says.

"In the industry we'd talk about native herbs but no one would really know what to do with them or know much about it.

"I always had an interest in it, and the Elders in my family made sure it was something that I kept going in my career."

Ms Wilson says food was a cornerstone of her upbringing - she helped her grandmother and aunties in the kitchen from as young as 6.

"It's pretty funny because I was pretty terrible when I was younger, I couldn't (even) make a salad, so they all laugh now that I'm a chef," she savs.

"Our favourite things to cook at home would've been stuffed butterfish, or watching Nan cook it, or barbecues.

"It was what would bring the family together."

The menu

Starter: Smoked kangaroo on wattleseed cracker with bush tomato chutney Appetiser: Seared flathead with pickled samphire and anise myrtle beurre blanc Main: Lamb backstrap with mountain pepper jus and kumara and warrigal greens gratin

Dessert: Davidson plum tarte tartin with strawberry gum ice cream

Ms Wilson decided to become a chef at 19, following in the footsteps of three of her older brothers, and within her first year of training was running kitchens on weekends.

Now fully qualified, she was supported by the restaurant to take on her first Tasting Australia event, which sold out.

Ms Wilson's aunt Tania Wanganeen, of Moonta, was among many with a Yorke Peninsula connection who attended, including former AFL player Gavin Wanganeen.

"I just know the hard work she's put into it and we are so super proud of her," Ms Wanganeen says.

She says she was glad she could not see Ms Wilson in the kitchen because she knew she would get emotional.

"Just watching her, the way she worked with the customers, and she's got this beautiful smile that brightens any room.

"Bush food is not an easy thing to work with but she balanced everything beautifully and the flavour bases were absolutely amazing.

"For me to be there to witness the beginning of her very, very bright future was an absolute privilege."

BIG HIT... Narungga chef Louisa Wilson has showcased Yorke Peninsula bush foods at her first Tasting Australia event.

DINNER SERVED... The main course was lamb backstrap with mountain pepper jus and kumara and warrigal greens gratin.

Not just a thing of the past

Rachel Hagan JOURNALIST

THE Southern Yorke Peninsula Agricultural Society has put more than $50,000 of grant money to good use by repairing parts of the main pavilion at the Minlaton Showgrounds complex.

The group recently obtained three grants — from a state government heritage fund, a PIRSA Thriving Regions grant and the Foundation For Rural and Regional Renewal's Strengthening Rural Communities Program which have been used to fix severe salt damp and drainage issues that were destroying the main pavilion.

Society assistant secretary Kali Germein said the building had unfortunately not been maintained across the years and there was a real risk of losing the heritage-listed site for good. "It was kind of getting close to that,"

Ms Germein said. "It wasn't going to be safe for human use, it was sort of like you could put an arm through a wall.

"I think that there were some talks of knocking the ticket office down because it was unsafe."

All up the restoration project is expected to cost close to $1 million.

This $50,000 may only seem like a drop in the ocean, but Ms Germein said it was crucial in making sure the building stayed salvageable.

She said she thought there would be a lot of regret and backlash from the community if the heritage-listed site did fall into disrepair. "It would be such a shame because there are families who have just thrown money at it to fix the building because they obviously care," she said. "It has a lovely history, it was originally built by farmers. "I think the government gave them £10 or something to put the wall up.

"These stones we're pulling out now because of salt damp, they were local stone to the area.

"I think it's nice in a sentimental way that farmers are getting back together to fix it."

The buildings on the southeastern side have already been brought back to life, with the Yorke Peninsula Blacksmiths And Lost Skills Association moving in.

"That's been a really good thing to bring awareness because they're in there every Saturday walking through it," she said.

"It was basically unused and it was where we stored old horse jumps and things like that."

With the drainage and salt damp taken care of, almost half of stage one of the restoration has been completed.

Next up will be the upstairs grandstand area and, eventually, work to create modern plumbing and a new kitchen.

Ms Germein said people her age needed to step up because it was an ageing volunteer group and they needed help to get the job done.

"I want to inspire other people to take note of it because it's such an easy thing to forget about and lose," she said.

Driving long distance gets riskier with age.

Boost for country doctors

UP TO 60 extra GPs and rural generalist doctors are expected to soon be training in regional South Australian communities after the state and federal governments announced the extension of a joint trial scheme.

The Single Employer Model aims to attract and retain more doctors in regional and rural SA, with government representatives saying there was the potential to quadruple the state's existing number of country doctors.

The model will be extended to the Yorke and Northern Local Health Networks, as well as four other regional and rural networks.

Australian Medical Association vice-president Associate Professor Peter Subramaniam said the model had already been successfully introduced in the Riverland region and he was pleased it was being extended.

"Traditionally, general practice suffers in comparison with other specialties because GP trainees don't receive the same pay, study and maternity leave, and other entitlements, as other trainees," Prof Subramaniam said.

"As a result, we have had decreasing numbers of medical students and trainees considering general practice, especially in regional areas.

"Now, by offering structured and well-supported training pathways, the single employer model makes rural and regional practice more attractive."

Narungga MP Fraser Ellis said he desperately hoped the vision to bring in 60 more GPs and rural generalists would be achieved.

"Anything and everything must be tried to address arguably the most serious problem facing regional South Australia, so I commend all involved," Mr Ellis said.

"At the core of this issue is the fact that training local doctors is the surest way they'll stay local once they're qualified, and this model no doubt will be attractive for graduates."

Mr Ellis said, however, he would be questioning state Health Minister Chris Picton on what the trial expansion would include.

"Questions I have of the Single Employer Model trial expansion include; what are we going to do about increasing the number of people who choose to become a GP, let alone a regional GP?

(And) how will these new training places be apportioned across the state?"

Four new shops in the mix

YPCT REPORTERS

THE vacant block across the road from Aldi in the heart of Kadina is under contract, with plans in motion for two fast-food restaurants and two retail shops to fill the space.

But nobody in the know has yet been drawn on what the mystery shops might be.

Copper Coast Council has discussed the sale in a private meeting and real estate agent Ray White Yorke Peninsula is bound by commercial confidence.

"I think it's a great outcome and hopefully... it keeps the ball moving..."

- Roslyn Talbot, mayor

Fast food chain KFC and camping shop BCF were contacted last week by the Yorke Peninsula Country Times following speculation they might be involved, but neither would shed any more light on the situation.

Private company Development Holdings has submitted plans with state planning body Plan SA for the "construction of two shops (restaurants) and two bulky goods outlets (shop) with associated advertising signage, site works, car parking and landscaping" at 32, 34 and 35 Frances Terrace, which includes most of the stretch between Station Road and the roundabout near Woolworths.

Elsewhere in the development application the shops are described as "large retail outlets" and "quick service restaurants" - more commonly known as fast-food restaurants.

CCC chief executive Dylan Strong recommended that a report about the sale and development from the last council meeting remain in confidence until June next year.

The block at 32 Frances Terrace was discussed publicly at the most recent council meeting in regards to whether overflow parking from the shops, if they were to be built, could include land leased by Woolworths.

The report stated the number of carparks needed for the proposed development could not be contained to the site, with land leased by Woolworths the likely best option.

During holiday season and long weekends, car parking in the area was in high demand, the report stated.

"It is therefore crucial that the provision of additional carparks to cater for any new development in the locality is properly addressed," it read.

During the meeting, mayor Roslyn Talbot said it had been a complicated process to reach this point in negotiations, while councillor Peter Sims said the carparking issue was ongoing.

"I think it's a great outcome and hopefully ... it keeps the ball moving because there seemed to be a little hurdle there for quite a while," he said.

The council invited expressions of interest for the development of the vacant block in 2022.

The Copper Coast Highway was diverted in 2018 to help create more retail spaces on Frances Terrace, with Aldi now occupying one of those.

What would you like to see built on the vacant lot on Frances Terrace opposite Aldi?

"My husband would like a KFC, I would prefer a Red Rooster then Sunday roast is sorted. But I think we need a childcare centre because my granddaughter has been trying to get her child into care and she has not been able to. She's had his name down for almost two years."

Sharon Winther

"I would like to see a drive-through coffee shop and one where you can sit and just watch traffic go by while having a nice coffee and talking to your friends. It's on the main drag, so everyone can go there and meet friends, and just watch the world go by." - Len Sweet

"I think a park would be really nice over there in between everything. We've only got one park over there, so a bit of nature sort of park would be really good." - Miranda Campbell

"The proposal was KFC and I'd like to see that go ahead actually. We need one of them up around here on the top of the peninsula." - Kelvin Stewart

"I don't mind, we're normally in and out of Kadina." - Richard Edwards

Road users urged to get snap happy

REGIONAL South Australians are being encouraged to photograph and report substandard roads to the state opposition, as part of its campaign to drive better funding and maintenance.

Opposition regional SA spokesperson Nicola Centofanti said regions were the backbone of the state's economy and producers had to rely on well-maintained transport routes.

said Premier Peter She Malinauskas's decision to drop the Regional Roads portfolio, following the Cabinet resignation of Stuart MP Geoff Brock, could mean regional roads would slip even further down the government's priority list.

"The issues that matter to regional South Australians shouldn't be sidelined," Dr Centofanti said.

"Our state's road maintenance backlog is already about $2 billion, and the more Labor continues to neglect our regional road network, the more it will cost South Australians in the long run to upgrade it to an acceptable standard."

Opposition regional roads spokesman Adrian Pederick said safe, wellmaintained roads should be viewed as a necessity, not a luxury.

"The state of disrepair I've witnessed in our regions would never be tolerated in the city," Mr Pederick said.

"Even before Geoff Brock's resignation, Labor showed how little they care about the condition of our regional roads."

Mr Pederick said people could text photos of regional roads in poor condition, plus their names and the road's location, to 0416 823 055 or submit them to reportyour roadsa.com.au.

Michelle Daw JOURNALIST

THE efficiency and sustainability of high productivity, heavy vehicles should be taken into account when responding to the challenges of maintaining roads.

That's one of the main points made in a developing submission representing a dozen farming and transport businesses in response to the Heavy Vehicle Access Strategy proposed by Yorke Peninsula Council.

The strategy is aimed at managing risks associated with heavyvehicle access to the council's road network, and identifying practical measures to address road safety issues, with public submissions on the strategy open until Friday, May

Proposed measures for heavier vehicles include: banning trucks longer than 19 metres from driving at night (except for B-doubles operating under gazette at general mass limits); speed reductions to 30 kilometres an hour, and use of rotating amber hazard beacons on high-risk roads; daylight-driving-only permits; and no permits for driving on high-risk roads in wet weather.

Submission group spokeswoman Melissa Kenny said larger vehicle combinations had lower emissions and fuel usage and reduced impact overall on road surfaces, for the same volume of product movement as other vehicles.

"Council should support the use of high productivity heavy vehicles to enable operators to realise gains in productivity, financial capacity and economic contribution whilst boasting positive environmental outcomes," Ms Kenny said.

The group was also concerned that the strategy was "fundamentally flawed", as it was based on a review that did not reference traffic data.

"The road rating system's criteria of traffic use, yet no data was provided and the consultants did not consider such data in their report," Ms Kenny said.

"Thus, the severity of the issues identified may be inaccurately escalated."

Ms Kenny said a maximum speed limit of 60km/h instead of 30km/h on identified roads was fair, reasonable and in line with the current permit system.

"We oppose council's proposal to have certain (not all) heavy vehicle combinations display amber flashing beacons as we believe this creates confusion amongst motorists," she said.

"These safety precautions should be reserved for oversize loads, agricultural machinery and workers on roadsides."

The group is also opposed to wet-weather restrictions for highproductivity heavy vehicles.

"With no restrictions on other combinations moving during wet weather and no clarification on what constitutes 'wet weather' conditions, this clause seems unreasonable and unable to be enforced by council, as it may rain in one place and not a short distance away.

"How can the council monitor such an unpredictable and unknown element?"

Ms Kenny said high-productivity heavy vehicles should not be prevented from operating at night because drivers had to comply with standardised lighting requirements and stringent fatigue management.

"Most would agree that a heavily illuminated heavy vehicle is much more obvious at night, so we are unsure why the council is suggesting there is a significantly increased risk," she said.

Ms Kenny said the group also questioned how YPC could manage a user-pays system, as it would need to be implemented for all road users, including tourists.

"We would like to see the funds is designed to include the element from already-applied primary producer rate rises directed to road maintenance/upgrades, commencing with the most critical issues identified within the report," she said.

Ms Kenny said the group wanted to work constructively with the council to address road safety and funding challenges.

The group has developed a twopage form to help people make a submission, such as farmers who are busy at seeding time.

'Frustration' for Yorke Peninsula drivers

TOURISTS are often "shocked" by the state of Yorke Peninsula's roads - and there is a lack of urgency by all levels government to tackle much needed repairs. That's Narungga MP Fraser Ellis's outlook on the region's road funding and safety issues.

He said the need for maintenance and upgrades was one of the biggest topics of feedback from constituents and visitors to the region.

"Governments at all levels need to ensure they are prioritising road funding in their budgets," Mr Ellis said.

There is frustration from many that roads which are too narrow and undulating must be driven on more slowly to compensate this lack of maintenance, instead of there being a sense of urgency to do required shoulder works and surface upgrades.

"The divide between metro and country needs being met by (state and federal) governments appears to be widening, and just because the backlog of maintenance is huge, this should not mean the task is insurmountable.

"More funding must be prioritised toward road repair, including more grants to councils.

"Our region must receive its fair share of roads funding to keep up with the ongoing maintenance required."

Mr Ellis said he was pleased the Copper Coast Highway entrance road into Wallaroo from Kadina and related upgrades to the freight route would finally be upgraded, after advocating for it since 2019.

Works to improve Magazine and Sharples Roads, and Hughes Street, were set to start this month, as the first phase of a $9 million investment by Copper Coast Council.

Works are expected to be completed by mid-July, weather permitting.

Mr Ellis said he had received many calls in response Yorke Peninsula Council's proposed changes to heavyvehicle use on its road network to address road-safety concerns.

He said constituents who had contacted him were concerned that the measures would be a burden on farming and the transport industry.

"I have a great deal of sympathy for councils such as YPC and Barunga West Council, which have really significant unsealed road networks and limited ratepayers to fund required works," he said.

"But I don't think that excuses any unnecessary restrictions on productivity.

"The difficulties council have in maintaining a significant unsealed road network needs to be balanced against the ability of farmers to get product to port and inputs to their farms."

Grant erosion on regional routes

AN EXTRA $1 billion each year is needed to stop the nation's local roads sliding into more dangerous disrepair.

That's the major finding of a report by the Grattan Institute, Potholes and Pitfalls, which has uncovered a gradual erosion of federal funding over the past decade.

Lead author Marion Terrill said that a $1b injection would mean an extra 25 per cent on top of what councils are currently spending on road maintenance.

A billion dollars is only about 10 per cent of what the federal government spent on roads last year, she said.

"Taxpayers would get better bang for their buck if the federal government spent an extra $1b on improving our local roads rather than on building new megaprojects in the major cities," Ms Terrill said.

"It's no secret that Australian roads are in a state of disrepair, but it's a lesser-known fact that three quarters of our roads are managed by local councils."

The report recommends that Financial Assistance Grants be boosted by $600 million, the Roads to Recovery program be increased and made ongoing and that both funds be indexed to costs and population.

It also urges the creation of a $200m per year fund to assess and upgrade local roads identified as priority freight routes, in exchange for the council providing permit access to compliant heavy vehicles.

Ms Terrill said road funding should also be better targeted, with cleaner lines of accountability from the funding source to the end point of better, safer roads.

"What's needed to put the road network on a better path is more funding better targeted at where it is needed most, and reforms to ensure that councils have the tools and time to fix the potholes and give their communities the roads they need," she said.

The report recommends the federal government stops favouring densely populated states with its funding arrangements, and cut back the share of funding for major-city councils that are already self-sufficient.

It found in 2021, remote councils in South Australia received less than $500 per head of population for Financial Assistance Grants from the federal government, compared with more than $1500 per head for remote councils in Queensland and New South Wales.

"Many councils are struggling to look after our roads, because they don't have the revenue, the capacity, or the expertise," Ms Terrill said.

NEWS |

Dry start

PARTS of Yorke Peninsula and the Mid North have recorded the lowest ever rainfall for the first four months of the year.

And April was also the eighth driest in South Australia since modern weather records began more than a century ago, according to the Bureau of Meteorology.

The BOM is predicting a drierthan-average May, but there is a 50 per cent chance of above average rainfall in June.

Doctor help

MORE needs to be done to help country GPs make ends meet, Rural Doctors Association of Australia president Dr RT Lewandowski says. Dr Lewandowski issued the call in the lead-up to this week's federal budget (Tuesday, May 14).

"Between the rising cost of living, which is biting many low income rural and remote Australians, and significant practice cost increases, many rural general practices now need long-term support to ensure they can continue to provide crucial care for their communities into the future," he said.

Mural comp

TOWNS and regions with water towers, water tanks and silos can go in the running to win a a mural to be painted there.

The Australian Street Art Awards and Telecommunications companies Telstra and Starlink are running the competition to create a new silo or water tower mural for free.

Applications are now open for community organisations and councils to enter, with the closing date Sunday, May 26.

Push for native plants

Joanna Tucker JOURNALIST

THERE would be more native plants in Yorke Peninsula gardens if people knew more about them, horticulture experts say.

The Northern and Yorke Landscape Board is hoping to fix this with two free workshops this month.

Landscape officers Fabienne Dee and Nick Nicholls will be at the sessions in Port Broughton on Friday, May 17, and Ardrossan on Sunday, May 26.

The workshops will teach different landscaping styles, which species to grow, plant maintenance tips and information about weeds.

Landscape officer Nick Nicholls says the NYLB is trying to get people excited about South Australia's native plants.

"So many people come to Yorke Peninsula for its natural beauty, and its natural beauty is in its plants that live in our landscapes," Mr Nicholls says.

"Now is the best time to plant because you still have the warm days." Mr Nicholls says some YP gardens are dominated by a plant called Yucca, which is native to North America.

"It's easy to grow, but they get big and some people dump them into shrubs and they just take off," he says.

"Garden plants aren't just in your garden, they end up on roadsides and it's really expensive to get rid of some of these things."

The NYLB will also be hosting a swap session focusing on invasive gazania weed, on the June long weekend.

"People can register to pull out gazanias that are in their garden, take a photo of it, and swap it for some native plants," Mr Nicholls says.

"If people just rip out all of their gazanias at once and don't plant anything, it will create an erosion risk.

"We really encourage people to do it slowly and plant once they have done it."

Mr Nicholls says the gazania swap is planned for the long weekend so shack owners are able to attend.

Each workshop has a maximum of 25 participants, but the NYLB is willing to hold future community-led workshops in spring.

REGIONAL LIVING... Tessa Colliver would not be able to drive herself to monthly appointments without her specially modified car.

Team Arthurton on way to $50k

Rachel Hagan

ARTHURTON is a little town with a big spirit.

This year, townspeople are taking part in their fifth May 50k fundraising event — and the biggest team yet is getting behind the challenge.

This enormous group effort, which is pushing to break the $50,000 mark across five years, is all for resident Tessa Colliver, who has lived with multiple sclerosis for the past 30 years.

Ms Colliver says she is overwhelmed by the support her town has shown this year because MS can be an isolating disorder.

"When I am at my lowest, I will never ask for help," Ms Colliver says.

"Even now after all these years I find it really hard to actually ask.

"I don't think people who haven't dealt with chronic health issues or mental health issues realise when you are at your lowest is the hardest time to pick up the phone."

MS affects every person differently — for Ms Colliver, the disorder is currently impacting her legs, which has made her even more determined to complete the May 50k.

The fundraiser challenges participants to move 50 to 150 kilometres in the month of May to raise money for MS research.

"Raising money for research, and hopefully a cure, is such a huge thing for me because that's my biggest fear now that I've turned 46," she says.

"I've already lived with MS for 30 years, what is my life gonna look like in another 10 years?

"Will I still be able to walk, or even drive with my hand controls?"

Ms Colliver says she still remembers the day her symptoms appeared and her life changed forever.

"The first ever symptoms I had were in year 11 at Maitland Area School (now Central Yorke School)," she says. "It was winter and we did this history assignment over the road in the cemetery and I was having trouble holding my pen.

"I just assumed it was because it was so cold, and when I got back to the classroom and warmed up, it would be OK."

But Ms Colliver had to spend the next few months without the use of her hands while she waited for an appointment with a neurologist.

Since her diagnosis, her life has revolved around travelling far and wide for specialist appointments.

There are a lot of added extra costs for people living with MS, but regional people are hit with even bigger costs due to large travel expenses, which sometimes include overnight accommodation.

Ms Colliver can still drive her modified car, but this could change at any moment if her condition deteriorates or if her doctor decides to rule out her licence.

This loss of independence would be a massive blow to Ms Colliver, as her only housemate is her dog Boss, who she joked would not be much help with driving.

"I rely on my family, and my mum is great, but she's in her 70s now and my brother and sister in-law are busy with their business with the (Sunny Hill) Distillery and they have three kids," she says.

"When I was having issues last year, my brother drove me to Adelaide twice in three days and my mum would come down and help me if I couldn't drive.

"But we still haven't had those conversations about what happens if that becomes permanent.

"I guess I don't want to until we need to."

Ms Colliver says MS treatment has come a long way in the past 30 years, but more research is needed to find a cure.

Accessible sports day in Kadina

Journalist

FRESH abilities are poised to be unleashed in Kadina this week.

A national program by Disability Sports Australia is bringing Abilities Unleashed to town on Wednesday, May 15.

The initiative focuses on promoting activities for people with disabilities, including a day of basketball, soccer and pickleball, at the Copper Coast Sport and Leisure Centre from 10am.

Abilities Unleashed national program manager Kristy Rohrer says it's a come-and-try day for people with disabilities.

"It's all about providing a platform for participants with disabilities to try different sports in a really fun, safe and inclusive environment," Ms Rohrer says.

"A lot of people with a disability feel like they can't play sport, or they're going to embarrass themselves, or let the team down.

"So days like this really provide the platform for them to come along and have success."

The sports can be adapted so everyone can participate, and the adult and kids' sessions will run concurrently.

Ms Rohrer says the sessions offer physical and mental benefits, confidence building, socialisation and a chance to meet new friends.

"I think being in an environment with peers makes a lot of difference."

Ms Rohrer says the Abilities Unleashed team team puts in extra effort to visit regional areas.

"We find those days are awesome as the enthusiasm is next level," she says.

Ms Rohrer encourages NDIS organisations and allied-health professionals to come along and promote services, join in, and volunteer.

"We deliver these events across the country, and if there's not an event near you, we can try and get one," she says.

Parents waiting for care call

Jess Liddy JOURNALIST

MINLATON Family Care is all set to open its doors to the community in term 2.

Although an official date will not be released until at least tomorrow (Wednesday, May 15), a licence inspection at the property, the parties behind the new childcare centre were last week hopeful the start-date plan can be met.

Construction delays have caused the opening date to be pushed back, with Yorke Peninsula Council representatives and operator Yorke Peninsula Learning and Care saying the project had encountered unforeseen factors beyond the control of either party.

YPLC community services manager James Wagner said the delays had unfortunately impacted families, affecting some people's employment, care needs, and other plans.

"However, the resilience and understanding shown by our country families have been heartwarming," Mr Wagner said.

"They recognise we, as an organisation, face these challenges with them, yet we share a common goal of delivering high-quality education and care for each and every child."

Mr Wagner said, as the provider, they were committed to supporting families during the delays.

"We strive for transparency by regularly updating our Facebook page and keeping in regular contact with our enrolled individual families," he said.

"While the delays have understandably caused frustration and disappointment, both the organisation and the families remain optimistic about the future."

Yorke Peninsula Learning and Care has already finalised initial staffing arrangements in anticipation of the originally scheduled opening.

"We have been actively training our team to ensure they are fully prepared to provide quality education and care upon opening," Mr Wagner said.

"Supporting our workforce without an active income during this period has been a significant financial burden which underscores our dedication to the community and our commitment to delivering topnotch services."

Shining a light on children's theatre

JOURNALIST

AN INTERACTIVE light-filled storytelling adventure has been entertaining students across Yorke Peninsula.

Performers Evyenia Stefanidis and Edgell Junior Edgell have been touring across the region with Patch Theatre, a professional group aimed primarily at 4 to 8-year-old children.

The last time Patch Theatre visited YP was a decade ago.

"We are going to 23 different schools, all regional and remote schools," Ms Stefanidis says.

"On the Yorke Peninsula we are going up to grade six — usually we perform to ages 4-8 but we have extended it a little bit because people have been excited and want to see what it's all about."

The pair performed the show Spark: Glow and Tell at Kadina Memorial School on Wednesday, May 8, which involved sharing personal stories via UV light on the canvas of a custom-built tent put up in classrooms. "Edgell and I tell personal stories from our lives," Ms Stefanidis says.

"I talk about my sister and he talks about his cousin.

"It empowers kids to feel like they can storytell anywhere."

The interactive show allows students to tell the story alongside the performers.

"It's really cool seeing how different age groups respond," she says.

"Sometimes kindy kids will be really silent or really chatty and ask questions.

"We talk about our shows not being shush zones - if they're talking, they're talking about the show.

"It's fun to see the kids babble and ask questions about the science."

At the end of each show, the pair hand out UV torches so students can continue to play once the performance has ended. "It's a pretty unique and immersive experience," Ms Stefanidis says. "Combining science and storytelling is a really unique thing."

Ask the midwife

Joanna Tucker

REGIONAL hospitals and health professionals work overtime providing a vital service to our communities, and midwives are no exception.

Being available to new mothers 24/7 is just one aspect of her job description, but Wallaroo midwife Sarah Clifford says she is blessed and privileged to be involved in such a special time in parents' lives.

"When people look to you for advice and support, it's a real privilege to be able to provide that," Ms Clifford says.

"We are a listening ear, a trusted person who a mum can talk to at a really impressionable time in their life when they're either welcoming a baby or growing their family.

"Midwives offer education not just around pregnancy, but around healthy lifestyle choices, baby growth and development and breastfeeding education."

Ms Clifford says she still receives updates via text messages from parents she has helped, even when their children are 2 or 3 years old. "Obviously, our job is not all roses either... there are some really hard segments of our work," Ms Clifford says.

"You find strength and you are there for someone during the hardest time of their life, and you provide support, so that's pretty special."

Ms Clifford says midwives have extra training in mental-health support and have resources readily available for parents to link them with the appropriate service.

"A lot of people are impacted by mental health, and pregnancy is a pivotal time with all the hormonal changes and just the changes in your life.

"Having a baby, it's a huge big change."

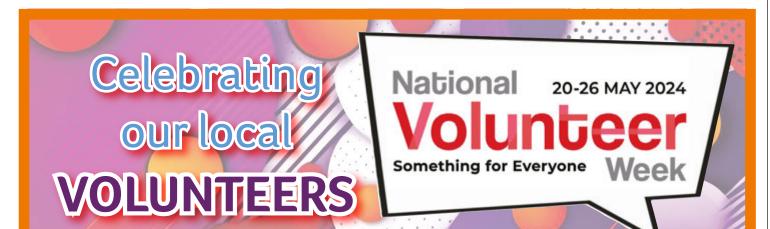

Yorke and Northern Local Health Network midwives celebrated International Day of the Midwife last week.

Assistant midwife Vaine Guy says sustainability is an important focus this year.

"We are looking at reducing our environmental impact, ensuring a brighter future for our families," Ms Guy says.

Help write the next chapter of history

Rachel Hagan

DESPITE Minlaton's 150-year anniversary being almost two years away, the 150th Celebration Committee is already well underway with some fun and spooky ideas for the big weekend.

The committee is asking all past and present residents to donate $150 for 150 years to go towards keeping Minlaton's heritage alive, but also to throw a three-day party that will go down in the history books for the next 150 years.

Rebecca Brown says she joined the committee because she wanted to demonstrate the importance of preserving the past, and to encourage the next generation to connect with the community.

"There's a lot of ideas for the weekend, but I had a vision in my head of having a twilight cemetery tour," Ms Brown says.

If the group can get the numbers, Ms Brown says she would like to involve the local school and have students do mini presentations on some of the locals resting in the cemetery.

tery. "There was a newspaper article about a 6-year-old boy who was killed in the 1920s," Ms Brown says. "His gravesite would be out there.

"I just thought if a 12-yearold kid stood there and read that out to people as they came around, that would be really cool."

There are a lot of fun and quirky ideas for the anniversary, but the group has some more serious, permanent proposals, such as a walking tour that will give background on the town's most popular locations.

Committee member Karmel Cook says the Main Street buildings have been home to many different businesses across the years and she does not want these stories lost to time, including Minlaton's most famous pilot Harry Butler.

"After Harry Butler had his crash, he opened up a garage in that blue building, which eventually became a chocolate shop that has just closed," Ms Cook says.

"I think he had it designed like a hangar with the round opening, and I'm not sure if they had a plane hanging from the ceiling there, but it was a general garage as well.

"I think the plaques are going to be great for getting people to walk around to see the history." The group is also concerned about a dusty median strip on Fourth Street and West Terrace, which Ms Cook says is a main intersection where many tourists drive past.

Their plan is to get Yorke Peninsula Council on board to help turn the empty piece of land into something special that will honour Minlaton's history, but also add to the environment.

The 150th anniversary is a big number, but the celebrations committee plans to go even further back in time and celebrate traditional owners.

Nharangga Aboriginal Cultural Tours will be a part of the event, with plans to share the Nation's history and culture at Minlagawi Gum Flat Reserve, where walking tours with a bush food lunch are currently held.

Ms Cook says it is important to make sure it is acknowledged Indigenous people were here first and to include their culture in Minlaton's celebrations too.

To make all this possible the group needs more community help.

For details contact secretary Kristen Wilson on 0428 885 341 or minlaton150@gmail .com.

MISSION... Rebecca Brown and Karmel Cook are ready to see this large strip of dust transformed into something meaningful before Minlaton's 150th celebration.

A trip back to bygone days

A MYSTERY tour took Kadina gardeners southwards, to Ardrossan, Minlaton and nearby areas recently.

After an early start, a busload of Kadina Cottage Garden Club members and friends enjoyed Nigel Westbrook's humour, and several lucky travellers won vouchers to spend at the tour's first stop, Adrian Stott's AJ Ferns at Ardrossan.

Illness forced Adrian into early retirement but his passion for growing ferns became his focus and, ultimately, a new business venture.

A delicious morning tea was served, and Adrian's shade houses — packed to the brim with hundreds of ferns and cacti — were inspected.

Jan Stott's garden was delightful, with beds brimming with colour and interest.

Back on the road with a bus full of plants, some bus bingo was played on the way south to the next destination, Yorke Peninsula Blacksmiths & Lost Skills at the Minlaton Showgrounds.

Demonstrations of lace making, basket weaving, knife and rope making, whip cracking, black smithing and forging were provided.

These volunteers are commended for keeping bygone skills alive to be admired in the modern day.

Many mementos were purchased and five lucky people won vouchers towards their good-

Afternoon tea was relished in the beautiful garden before the travellers boarded the bus for home after a wonderful day.

A celebration of people, Country and culture

NARUNGGA people shared their rich traditions with the wider community at the recent Nharangga Cultural Day.

A gathering of 300 people celebrated the Nharangga dhura (Narungga people), Nharangga banggara (Narungga Country) and culture at Minlagawi Gum Flat Reserve, Minlaton, on Sunday, May 5. Bree Warrior, Maddi Warrior and Shanaid Sansbury gave a Welcome to Country to open the day.

"The crowd was jubilant when Uncle Peter Turner, Clem Newchurch and Pauly Dixon Jnr created fire using fire sticks to enable the Smoking Ceremony," Yorke Peninsula Council environment officer Letitia Dahl-helm says.

"The entire crowd lined up to walk through the cleansing smoke whilst enjoying glorious Wild Dog songs performed by Sonya Rankine in Narungga language.

"A panel session led by Sonya Rankine to hear the Narungga voices of Auntie Lesley Wanganeen, Uncle Eddie Newchurch, Kylie O'Loughlin, Clem Newchurch, Jemika Wanganeen and Uncle Dookie O'Loughlin was a crowd highlight.

"Participants enjoyed delicious food featuring traditional ingredients and wattle seed tea from Nharangga Aboriginal Cultural Tours, Newchurch Family Farm, Auntie Daphne Rickett and Rick Slager."

Narungga community members and artists Nikki Ashby, Tamiya and Skylah Sansbury, Bianca Newchurch, Mandi Faerie, Jay Milera, Craig Warrior and Harley Hall offered activities from face painting and art to dance and boomerang throwing.

"Participants also printed their hands in ochre on kangaroo fur with Sarah Jane Hall, and joined a guided walk with Uncle Peter Turner," Mrs Dahl-helm says.

"Artists proudly sharing their art included Michael Wanganeen Jnr, Gladys Wanganeen, Jay Milera and Sarah Jane Hall, with quite a few special pieces purchased at the artist market.

"The Nharangga Cultural Day was a huge success, and all supporters look forward to offering it again next year."

The event was hosted by the Nharangga Aboriginal Progress Association and Yorke Peninsula Council, endorsed by Narungga Nation Aboriginal Corporation, and supported with funding from the Northern and Yorke Landscape Board, Country Arts SA and Red Cross.

The Nharangga Cultural Day planning group included Uncle Michael Wanganeen, Auntie Lesley Wanganeen, Jemika Wanganeen, Shane Warrior, Peter Turner, Sonya Rankine, Cathy Glazbrook and Letitia Dahl-helm.

Lymphoedema and its effects

YP PROSTATE Cancer Support Group members learned more about a common cancer treatment side effect at a recent meeting.

Guest speakers, Jymphoedema practitioners Andrea and Jeremy Pluck from Remedial Therapies SA told the 20 or so listeners at the Monday, April 8, gathering that the lymphatic system drains excess fluid and waste products from tissues.

If it is impaired, lymphatic fluid can build up, causing lymphoedema, a chronic, often painful condition characterised by swelling anywhere in the body, most commonly in the arms or legs. Other symptoms are a feeling of heaviness and restricted range of motion.

Risk factors include cancer treatment involving surgery or radiation, infections, immobility, hip and knee replacement surgery, cellulitis, obesity and a family history of the condition.

Diagnosis may include a physical examination, medical history review and measurements with a lymphscanner.

Treatment options range from compression garments and manual drainage to surgery.

Andrea got the group involved in collarbone and armpit self-massage and abdominal breathing techniques.

After the presentation, Andrea and Jeremy used a lymphscanner on several attendees.

After question time, Bev Battams presented Andrea and Jeremy with a thank you gift.

For information about attending a group meeting, contact Robert Kidd (0438 532 404) or Tony Hughes (0448 400 031). R. Kidd

Ardrossan diary dates

ARDROSSAN branch of the SACWA will celebrate its 78th birthday in August.

Guest speaker at the anniversary meeting — to be held in the Ardrossan Small Hall — will be Minlaton Family Centre director Tanya Geister.

Young mums and children are welcome to call in to meet Tanya at the meeting.

Members of the other SACWA Spencer Group branches are also invited to come along.

Afternoon tea will be served, along with takeaway tea and coffee; cost is $5.

The anniversary meeting is at 1.30pm on Wednesday, August 7.

Another date to put in your diary is Friday, October 25, when one-man band Ivan will play in the town square between 10am and 12.30pm. This is a free event, open to all community members.

Again, young mums and children will be warmly welcomed, and there's plenty of room for children to run around and play.

Women of all ages are welcome to attend Ardrossan SACWA meetings, which are held at 1.30pm on the second Wednesday of every month; the Small Hall doors open 11.30am, so bring your own lunch or have it before you come. Jose Patrick

Hearts beat for Wallaroo Hospital

HEARTBEAT Copper Triangle branch members have a lot to smile about.

The branch's latest Mother's Day raffle was well supported by generous community members, helping the group's perennial aim of fundraising for vital equipment at the Wallaroo Hospital.

All of the prizes were gifted or handmade, which helped maximise the amount raised, branch chair Neil Windsor says.

"I am so humbled by the local support for our group and the wonderful comments we receive," he says.

"We seem to keep on achieving great outcomes which benefit the whole community and we feel good about what we do.

"With a recent $2000 donation from the NYP Quilters Group, we are well and truly on our way towards more equipment that should ultimately save more lives in our local area."

Prize winners were E Barber, T Mitchell and M Thompson.

Grassroots grants open

NORTHERN and Yorke Landscape Board is offering up to $250,000 as part of its 2024-25 Grassroots Grants program.

Community members with practical ideas to help improve the health of the region's landscapes through on-ground work and education can apply for up to $10,000 in funding.

NYLB is also offering new multi-year project funding of up to $30,000 over three years, capped at $10,000 per year.

NYLB general manager Tony Fox said the program empowers volunteers, community groups, schools, First Nations people, agriculture organisations and councils to make a positive difference to the local environment.

"This annual funding program is about backing our region's landholders and community groups to deliver landscape management projects they're passionate about," he says.

"This could be caring for our coastal ecosystems, reducing the threat of pest animals and plants, improving the health of native bushland or embracing technology to improve soil health."

Tickera Community and Recreation Association vice-chair Mick Spencer decided to do something about infestations of weeds in his town, and was a grant recipient in 2022.

"The funding has enabled us to remove three big patches of cacti from around the township," Mr Spencer says.

"In an area we know as Golf Course Gully, there was probably about 20 different variety of cacti that I suspect someone planted 30 or 40 years ago and they have become garden escapees. 'There was a major infestation at the entrance point to the town and, once we got rid of them, everyone said they didn't realise it looked so bad and it was much better without them.

'We now have a nicer welcome to our little town instead of people driving past an entrance of weeds."

The association, with NYLB and Barunga West Council, is now working on another cacti infestation just north of Tickera, as well as targeting boxthorn, olives, peppercorn trees and Aleppo pines

Applications for Grassroots Grants are open until Monday, June 3.

Morning tea to thank volunteers

A SPECIAL event will recognise volunteers from across the Yorke Peninsula Council area.

Council will hold a free morning tea during National Volunteers Week, hosted by the mayor, Darren Braund.

Venue is the Minlaton Town Hall, with a 10.30am start on Tuesday, May 21.

"Each year, council hosts a morning tea to recognise people for their dedication and hard work," Mr Braund says.

"It also provides a relaxed environment and a networking opportunity for volunteers."

A feature of the annual event is the mayor interviewing some of the region's prolific volunteers.

This time around it will be Maree Anderson from the SYP RFDS Support Group and David Newbold, Minlaton District Community and Sports Centre, in the spotlight.

"On behalf of our council and the community I want to acknowledge and thank every volunteer for their dedication to the region," Mr Braund says. "Without volunteers our communities just wouldn't function the way they do. "National Volunteer Week is a fantastic opportunity to show our amazing volunteers how much they are appreciated.

"Council supports volunteering efforts in a variety of ways including annual allocations to progress associations, sponsorships and donations (subject to applications), event approvals, community grants and more."

Registrations for the morning tea are required; email rsvp@yorke.sa.gov.au or call 8832 0000.

Families in business matter

FAMILY-OWNED businesses play a vital role in the global economy, an undisputed and internationally recognised fact.

This is even more so in regional and rural areas where consumers rely on knowing and trusting a brand and business – not just for the product, but for the people. A family business also transmits its values to the company: ethics, commitment and loyalty, among others.

Sometimes, the family name also serves as the brand, drawing a direct line between family and corporate values. Family businesses focus on resilience more than performance which can lead to outperforming bigger companies in times of hardship.

Local communities wouldn't be what they are without our families in business.

Benbows continue to service the community

BENBOWS of Minlaton has recently undergone a restructure.

"Due to the loss of our wife, mother and guiding light, June Benbow on April 30, 2023, the business has made some changes," daughter Deirdre Cotton said.

"We continue to service four Education Department contracts out of Minlaton District School.

"We currently service Central Yorke School and other schools as far away as Balaklava on occasions.

"Our charter service has also kept us very busy, with schools being brought over from the metropolitan area and Barossa Valley to make the most of our beautiful coastlines and aquatics activities."

Don Benbow is now Managing Director, with Kym Pike — Transport and Logistics — taking on one of our school runs, as well as a large amount of the charter work.

"I now take care of the administrative side of things," Deirdre said.

As a family-run business, Benbows consider their drivers to be part of the family as well. "We are extremely grateful to have had their support through what has been a very difficult time for us as a family and as a company," Deirdre said.

"We would also like to express our appreciation for the support of our local community over the past year, and we look forward to continuing to keep families safe on the road by offering an alternative way to get you to and from social events."

20-year milestone

KADINA Newsagency has been family owned and operated for 20 years.

Owners Chris and Sharon Hill said, when they first purchased the newsagency, it was a very traditional one, with magazines, cards, papers, books and stationery, and a newspaper round.

"Now, like many newsagencies around Australia, we have evolved into something totally different, adding many more offerings for customers and businesses," they said.

"We also shifted into a new shop 13 years ago, doubling our size and allowing us to expand into giftware, homeware, kids' and baby gifts, jewellery and handbags, arts and crafts, educational items and so much

"Another big change, only made a few years ago, was to cease delivering The Advertiser and Yorke Peninsula Country Times after 17 years of 2am starts - it's great to get a full night's sleep!'

Chris and Sharon have run the business with the help of their two children Alex and Caitlin.

"As the kids have grown, both worked and helped out, especially Caitlin working the shop a lot after finishing school," they said.

"Both our parents have also been a huge support, helping roll out the YPCT most weeks and just general help with shifting and rearranging the shop many times over the 20 years.

"We have had many amazing staff members in this time who have certainly become like family, their dedication to our business has been awesome and for that we are very grateful to all our staff and family.

Chris and Sharon made the decision to purchase the Sweet Tooth more than two years ago.

"We then moved it into our building which has added another offering to our shop for everyone of all ages," they said.

"A huge thank you must also go to our beautiful customers for all their support and friendship over the many years; you coming into our family business means the world to us - we love to see everyone for a chat and it's what keeps the business open by shopping local."

MILESTONE... The friendly staff at Kadina Newsagency — including Sandra Appleton, owner Sharon Hill, Cindy Elsworthy, Katie Richardson and Joanna Jones - are celebrating 20 years in business. Absent: Sharon Adams, owner Chris Hill.

Your one-stop shop

HUSBAND and wife duo, Mat and Nat Whitbread started NYP Car Fix on July 1, 2002.

The business began with Mat doing the mechanical repairs and Nat handling the office duties. As their family grew, their three children also became involved, helping in the workshop after school.

"Our two sons are still valuable staff members in the business today," Mat and Nat said.

"One is a qualified mechanic, who also helps out in the office when needed, and our youngest son has commenced a schoolbased apprenticeship this year.

"We also have two other mechanics as part of our team, one who is a relative and the other is a close friend of the family."

NYP Car Fix has evolved into a one-stop shop for all your automotive needs.

"From mechanical repairs and logbook servicing to wheel alignments, tyres, batteries, Pedders Suspension including GVM upgrades, and automotive key cutting and coding - we can do it all," they said.

"We'd like to thank our customers who have trusted and supported us through our 22 years in business.

"As our family business has grown, we've been able to give back to our community by sponsoring and donating to local sporting clubs and charities, helping provide jobs and opportunities for local people."

FAMILY-FRIENDLY... The Royal Exchange Hotel, Kadina, owners Janine and Dion Pomery pride themselves on running a family-friendly business.

Family-friendly, family-run hotel

A FAMILY-FRIENDLY focus is what drives The Royal Exchange Hotel, Kadina.

Owners Dion and Janine Pomery pride themselves on being a family-owned, familyfriendly and community-minded venue.

"We took over the hotel in December 2016," Dion said. "Previously we had owned a deli on Taylor Street, many would remember the Central Deli, and later on Eagle Boys.

"All five of our children have been included in the running of, or have worked in one or all of, our businesses at some stage." The Royal Exchange Hotel offers a family-friendly space that includes a children's play area, pool table, and pet-friendly alfresco, along with a very spacious saloon and dining area, which overlook the beautiful Victoria Square.

"As one of the few familyowned hotels left on Yorke Peninsula, we take pride in providing country style prices and service to all of our customers," Dion said.

"We employ more than 20 wonderful staff members and source all our produce locally. "We had our challenges in the beginning, having a fire in the kitchen less than a year after we took over, roadworks that never seemed to end and then of course the pandemic.

"Despite these hiccups we came through the other side, and we are very proud of ourselves, our family, our staff and our wonderful patrons who all contribute to the success of the hotel."

The Royal Exchange Hotel, Kadina, is located at 7 Digby Street, opposite Victoria Square. To make a booking, or for any other enquires, contact 8821 1084.

Serving for 30 years

MICHAEL and Sue Liebelt have been part of the local community for 30 years.

Mike moved to Kadina in 1991 as an employee of the then Mosel Browne Surveyors, as a young Survey Graduate. With some funding from his fiancee Sue, he bought into the company in mid-1993 with then partner Max Jauczius.

Sue joined the business in 1994 after she and Michael married; by that time, Michael and Sue were both Licensed Surveyors.

Thirty years on, Mike and Sue have raised a family in the Copper Coast, been heavily involved in sporting and service clubs, and enjoy being part of the local nmunity.

"In 1992, Mosel Browne had three employees, were hand drafting plans and surveys were being completed by electronic distance measuring," Mike and Sue said.

"Today, the company uses robotic theodolites, GPS, drones and other technologies — the days of hand drafting are long gone.

"Some of the first projects we were involved with were the marina at Wallaroo and the new subdivision at Kadina East.

"These projects have offered opportunities for the Copper Coast, as well as for the many locals who've trained with Mosels and have been integral in making them happen.

"It is wonderful to see the marina and Kadina East development are still ongoing, and Mosel continues to work with the next generation of the same developers."

Sue and Mike would love to take this opportunity to thank their many loyal clients from Yorke Peninsula and surrounding areas, for supporting Mosels over so many years.

"Also, a sincere thank you to our past and present wonderful staff members who have been and continue to be part of the journey, we wouldn't be in the position to provide this service locally without them," they said.

The Carpet Court family

THE Carpet Court family has knowledge and expertise.

Susan Daniel, her sister Bronwyn Dayman and Susan's daughter, Candice Daniel are business partners in Carpet Court; along with Grant Donald, they purchased Kadina Carpet Court in 2015.

Susan had worked in Carpet Court businesses since 2001 and Bronwyn had worked with curtains and blinds for more than 30 years before this, stemming from their mother's business, Kadina Fabric Centre. Bronwyn worked in this family business during the 1990s.

Window furnishings are a substantial part of the business, utilising Bronwyn's expertise. The team has a tremendous amount of experience and knowledge between them and continue to expand this, by embracing new products and trends.

Candice has a business accounting background and had worked in the building industry since moving to Perth in 2011. She adds to this area of expertise for the team.

The business commenced with two full-time and two part-time staff. They opened a second Carpet Court Store in Port Pirie in 2018, employing three staff and servicing the city of Port Pirie and surrounds, west to Whyalla and north to Roxby Downs.

In 2022, the business expanded to embrace the Clare Valley and Mid North, opening a store in Clare. Susan has relocated to Clare and employs another two staff.

At the Carpet Court National conference in Darwin during May 2023, Carpet Court head office personnel approached Candice and asked if the team would consider opening a store in Perth, as there was vacant territory in the Osborne Park area.

Candice then spent several months working between the three South Australian stores whilst seeking a suitable site in Perth.

In November 2023, the newest store was opened in Osborne Park, Perth. Candice is the manager and her daughter, Susan's granddaughter, Charlotte is a retail trainee and sales assistant.

"There are now three generations of this family working in the Carpet Court business," Susan, Bronwyn and Candice said.

"The business now employs 10 people and engages the services of seven professional floor finishers, installing what we sell across a large part of South Australia.

'We are very appreciative and proud of the Carpet Court team."

and Anthony Hart of Hart Bros Warooka.

Hart Bros 60-year celebration in 2025

HART Bros began in 1965 when John "Jock" and his younger brother George commenced carting gypsum for Waratah Gypsum at Stenhouse Bay.

This was entrepreneurial on Jock's part, as he identified early on the change from rail to trucks for carting gypsum to the plant a trend which has only continued across the wider industry.

Since those early days, many Hart family members have been part of the business, including Jock's sons Gary and Wayne, and Gary's four children and grandchildren.

Gary is director, his son

Anthony is operations manager, whilst his daughter Angela works in administration and grandson Byron works in the field.

The business has also employed many other locals from right across lower Yorke Peninsula, expanding from two staff to now having 13.

What started as gypsum carting has expanded significantly, as Hart Bros offers a wide range of services on Yorke Peninsula and throughout regional South Australia.

These include: Bulk cartage

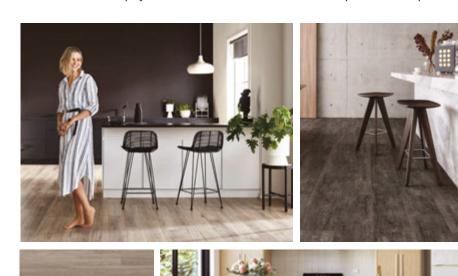

Earthmoving

 Construction and domestic water cartage

- Sand and metal supplies at Hart Bros' Warooka and
- Minlaton retail depots Rubbish removal
- Site toilets

"We appreciate all our customers, suppliers and the local community for their business and support throughout our 59 years of business and we can't wait to celebrate our 60-year milestone in 2025," Gary said.

"A huge thank you to all current employees for their hard work and dedication to our family business.'

LITTLE ATHLETICS... Just some of the NYP Little Athletics team won the national award, back: Jade Dyer, Laura Wapper, Brampton Williams, Seth Lee, Benji Rowan, Tyson Wapper, Kristy Walcott, McKenzie Oliver, Wayne Williams; front: Imogen Whale, Ember Whale, Ellese Lee, president Adonica Lee, Evie Oliver.

The Northern Yorke Peninsula Little Athletics Centre has earned national recognition, awarded as the best centre in Australia.

The win was announced at the Little Athletics Australia Hall of Fame Ceremony in Adelaide late last month.

NYPLA president, Adonica Lee said the award is a testament to the sacrifices of the club's volunteers.

"We all get in and give everything a go and we say yes to all the opportunities," "I'm really proud, because all of us in the committee are new, and still learning and working through what it means to work in Little Athletics.

"I think the fact that we're all here, keen to give it a go, help the kids and learn from our mistakes, to keep on getting better and stronger, is probably what I'm most proud of."

The 2023-24 Little Athletics season was Ms Lee's first as president.

She explained the committee bolstered their club through a combination of events aimed at developing their athletes. "We talked with SALA (South ing us, as well as members of the public, to come and participate.

"We also brought back country champs, which COVID had seen the end of a little bit," Ms Lee said.

To win the award, NYPLA was marked on a series of criteria including diversity and inclusion, innovation, community, governance and national ranking.

Ms Lee said she believed the club scored high on this criteria because of the club members' ability to work together.

"There was a section for collaboration

NYPLA is based in Kadina and trains more than 60 athletes, aged between 5 and 13, on Friday afternoons between October and April.

However, Ms Lee said there is a decrease in participation between the ages of 13 and 14.

"Generally, we do see a drop off around the 13 or 14 age group.

"I think it is all sports, and I think what we compete with too is when our juniors go from Monday night basketball to Friday night basketball, they have to make a choice of what they're going to do," she said. "We've got a great group of Tiny Tots (Little Athletics junior program) and it's huge.

"So, if those numbers can continue to be as high as they are, we should see them carry through the ages," she said.

Ms Lee said she hoped NYPLA's next season, beginning in term 4, will be another success.

"I would love to see the extra activities that we've added on (academy day and country champs) continue.

"Country towns can sometimes make it a bit tricky to put a spotlight on other sports, so I'd love to shine through and show we're here and have actually done pretty well," Ms Lee said. NYPLA will celebrate its 40th season in 2024-25.

Australia Little Athletics) about some academy (training and coaching) days. "We brought one of them here to the Yorkes and invited other clubs surround-and teamwork, and I think with smaller communities and country towns, we're all here for each other and we're all here for the children," she said. Ms Lee said most athletes at the club also participate in other sports but is confident participation for kids aged 13-16 will grow.

Goldy's magic 250th

Peter Argent REPORT BY

Matthew Goldsworthy reached his milestone 250th SANFL League game with Woodville-West Torrens against South Adelaide on Saturday.

A loyal servant of the WWT Football Club over the past decade and a half, Goldsworthy debuted as a 16year-old against Sturt at Unley Oval.

Coincidently, his 50th, 100th, 200th and this milestone match have all been against the Panthers.

"Goldy is a heart-and-soul-of-thefooty-club type operator," WWT coach and workmate Sam Jacobs said.

"He has been a big part of why the (club) has had so much success in his time (here).

"Whether it's on-field performance or in his numerous off-field roles, he always puts the club first.

"His playing record speaks for itself, but to become just the second Eagles player to reach 250 games is a very special achievement."

Goldsworthy has played in two WWT League premierships, the first under Michael Godden in 2011, and the other under Jade Sheedy in 2020.

He missed the Eagles' 2021 grand final triumph with a hamstring injury.

"My longest-serving coach was Michael Godden, who was in the role from when I was 18 to 28," Goldsworthy said.

"He helped shape me as a player and a person.

"He spoke at mine and Joey's (captain Joseph Sinor) induction to the Stairway of Champions at the Eagles earlier this year."

Michael Godden is also high in his praise of his 2011 premiership utility.

"Goldy could play multiple roles, on a wing, across half-forward, as a small back or small forward," Godden said.

"An intelligent footballer, he had and still has catlike movement, that ability to spin, twist and get out of trouble, even when he was blindsided.

"He was what I call a one-sentence player — you asked for a task, he understood and executed.

"His skill execution was at the top end as well, along with being an excellent decision maker.

"As a footballer, he was true to himself, always preparing to be the best version of what he could be.

"He was a hard trainer and a runner; a super talented kid, who disappointingly didn't get a chance at the next level, but has carved out a wonderful career as a SANFL footballer." Goldsworthy played a combination of games for SA at junior and senior levels.

He comes from a sporting dynasty, originally hailing from Curramulka.

His grandfather Kevin played in the Curramulka flags during the club's ultra-successful era of the 1950s, while his late uncle Neil played SANFL League with Sturt in the early 1970s.

After playing state SAPSASA football, Matthews' dad Stephen travelled from Curramulka by bus every weekend to play underage football with the Woodville Football Club.

He was the 1982 best and fairest in the SANFL under 19s competition.

Matt's younger brother Troy is a CMS Crows A grade premiership player

Goldsworthy said he relied on the support of the people around him to complete his dual roles at the Eagles, as football manager and player, as well as to spend time with his family, wife Taylor and son Oscar.

Redden clocks up 150 games

REPORT BY

Enticed back into league football for 2024, in a third comeback, Jarrad Redden played his landmark 150th SANFL League game in Woodville West-Torrens Eagles' round 6 win over South Adelaide on Saturday, May 11.

Redden debuted at league level for the Eagles in round 16 of the 2008 season — the same "On top of being a great person, he has achieved so much as a player — three-time premiership player, AFL experience and arguably the best ruckman across the SANFL in his playing time," Jacobs said. Redden was a lynchpin in both the 2020 and 2021 pre-ruck contests. Port Adelaide took Redden with pick 54 in the 2008 AFL draft and he played 16 games across four seasons, 2012 to

A grade squad signals changing of the guard

Wilson McShane

Yorke Peninsula Football League is looking to secure its fifth inter-association victory next month.

Despite several changes when compared with last year's YPFL A grade team, the recently announced 2024 squad will still be one of the teams to beat, coach Luke Pridham said.

The side will head to Clare to contest the Nutrien Cup against teams representing the North Eastern and Adelaide Plains Football Leagues, and Northern Areas Football Association on June 8.

"The midfield and half-back line will be our strength, and then we'll have a pretty young forward line, but I'm confident with the players we've got in there and the coaching staff involved that we can make it happen," Pridham said.

"Quite a few players we had last year have moved on from the league and they'll be replaced with the local talent we've got and a few outsiders who have moved into the league.

"It will be a bit of a new regime and hopefully we can try and get the success that Pitty (Adam Pitt, former association coach) and his crew had, but (the 2024 team) will be a lot younger than years gone by, which I think is a positive for the YPFL, because there is so much young talent in the league at the moment," Pridham said.

Inter-association football was re-introduced to the area in 2007.

Since then, the YPFL has won the cup competition four times and placed second nine times.

YPFL will play APFL first; then, if the team is successful, it will meet NEFL or NAFA in the grand final, depending which of these wins their first round match.

There is also a consolation final for the sides which lose in the first round.

Pridham indicated the NEFL will likely be one of the toughest opponents.

"The NEFL seem to have similar players every year, which will probably be our main hurdle this year, to overcome 20 blokes playing together for the first time," Pridham said.

YPFL president Brad Haylock said players can expect a big crowd, signalling the competitions generally attract more than 1000 spectators.

Haylock said the competition is always a spectacle.

"(For) us to win would be nice, but as long as we get a good standard of footy I think that's the main thing," Haylock said.

The YPFL will hold trainings on May 29 and June 6, from which the squad, currently more than 40 people, will be cut to 25.

year he was named in South Australia's under 18s program. Redden is one of just a handful of players across the Eagles' (both West Torrens, and Woodville-West Torrens) 120year history to reach the milestone.

"I'm not sure I have seen a more loved teammate among their peers," senior coach Sam Jacobs said.

"The very simple way to sum 'Reddo' up as a player and person is he makes others better by being in his company.

"When he announced he was returning, the whole squad and club got a lift, which pays homage to the influence he has.

n South 2015.

"I was only 20 when we won our first flag at the Eagles, and the next one came a decade later," Redden said.

"That 2020 title and my first AFL game in 2012 were definite highlights.

"I had become a senior member of the team and we'd been through plenty of ups and downs across that era."

At 205cm and 100 kilograms, Redden is a real presence on the football field.

In his only game back on the Yorke Peninsula this year, he won the ANZAC Medal for Southern Eagles in their clash with CMS.

Six decades of golf

Toni Gregory is in her 60th con-secutive season of playing on the Maitland Golf Club course She is also the club's longest-playing member. To celebrate the milestone,

Toni's daughters Letitia Hayward and Ketrice Hann, and grandson Frazer Hayward, played with her in the club's Tuesday competition on May 7.

Afterwards, she shared a lun-cheon with her old golfing friends. Toni started playing golf as a 19 year old in 1965.

Since then, she has accumulated hundreds of trophies including 13 club championships, and three YP Champion of Champions and Silver Salvers on the same day.

Other accolades include qualifying top and winning eight events in the five-day country open in Adelaide in 1992.

Toni was invited to play alongside an American professional golfer in the 2016 ProAm at Grange in 2016.

She has also played at St Andrew's in Scotland and broke 100.

Her lowest handicap across her career is eight and she is hoping to still be playing A grade golf in her 80s.

HOLE-IN-ONE... Maitland golfer Sally Davey aced hole no. 5 on the Bute course in a pennants match last week.

Stroke of a lifetime

Maitland golfer Sally Davey has scored a holein-one at the Bute course's par 3, hole no. 5. She achieved the feat on Thursday, May 9, during the Bute versus Maitland pennant match. Sally and Raelene Taylor were playing their match when Sally used her 6 iron from the tee box and sailed a shot over the mound and into the flagstick.

"I watched the ball run down the stick and was amazed as it fell into the hole," Sally says.

Raelene's vision was shielded by the mound but, after she ran up to gain a better position, she knew it was a hole-in-one as the ball was nowhere to be seen on the black.

The 10 competitors shared a celebratory drink after the match. Well done, Sally!

LP

Bute scraped in with a 3-2 win.

CHEERS... Celebrating Sally Davey's hole-in-one are Bute and Maitland golfers Raelene Taylor, Alex Wakefield, Sally, Lesley Piggott, Maxine Maddison, Kellie Davidson, Jess Davies, Kirsty Paterson, Julieanne Vandepeer and Toni Gregory.

YP pair a part of SANFL history

Five decades ago, Football Park in West Lakes hosted its first SANFL League game. Over the next 40 years, Footy Park was the SANFL's home.

On that momentous day - Saturday, May 4, 1974 — Central District Bulldogs defeated North Adelaide Roosters by 30 points, 21.13 (139) to 16.13 (109).

Among the 20 North Adelaide Football Club players were Bronte Mumford, from the Minlaton Football Club, and Peter Schulz, Port Victoria.

It was Schulz's 19th of 35 games at North Adelaide.

Mumford wore the number 35 jumper, in his 30th league game; he went on to play 107 games for North.

NAFC hosted a luncheon to celebrate the anniversary on Friday, March 29, coinciding with the club's opening match for the 2024 season.

Former SANFL chief executive Leigh Whicker shared some wonderful insights at the lunch.

"The relationship between the cricket association (SACA) and the SANFL, well there was no relationship quite frankly," Whicker said.

'The conditions the league played under at Adelaide Oval, those financial conditions were just unacceptable.

"It was decided by the league directors, that there should be an independent home of footy

"We made the bold decision to appoint a small subcommittee including Max Basheer, Don Brebner and Ray Kutcher as the project director.

'They finally selected the swamplands at West Lakes?

South Australia is on track to eclipse a football participation record, due to increased junior numbers.

Yorke Peninsula also has experienced improved participation as Auskick returned for 2024.

Kadina, Moonta and Wallaroo were among the local clubs which began Auskick last week.

South Australian National Football League figures revealed SA is likely to better last year's participation record of 63,892 players across junior and senior football.

SANFL game development coordinator Will Schultz said it was pivotal regional clubs make a lasting first impression to entice and sustain upcoming players.

"I think it is really important that clubs do have strong Auskick programs, because it is the first taste for kids in football and if it isn't a great experience, they may not come back," Mr Schultz said.

"Once we get kids into the footy system, we want to make it a positive experience so we don't lose them.

"I think it is really important that clubs do have strong Auskick programs, because it is the first taste for kids in football."

In 2023, South Australia had the highest number of Auskick participants per capita.

The AFL has set a target of 600,000 participants nationally by the end of 2024 across junior and senior ranks.

There are 70,000 participants are set to come from SA.

Mr Schultz said the SANFL was confident this will happen as the state is currently nine per cent ahead of registrations than the sustained, as grassroots sport help individuals and local communities thrive.

"Now more than ever, technology and online distractions are keeping kids inside and away from socialising," Mr Schultz said.

"We've got data that kids are more sedentary now more than ever, and community sport, particularly with the juniors, is a great way to hold back a lot of that.

"Getting active, getting out, meeting other people, playing with your friends, all that sort of stuff while being connected in the community, is probably at an alltime high of importance."

Kadina Football Club junior secretary Ian Monger said it was better than last year," Mr Monger said.

"I love seeing the kids develop. It really is basic footy and it makes you laugh most of the time.

"Most of them have had some taste of footy through their older siblings or mum and dad so (it's good to see) them develop."

Mr Monger said Kadina was running a 10-week program, aimed at attracting kids to football and skill development.

"We've got kids where it's their first experience of footy, so we focus on kicking and catching, handballing," he said.

"It's the real basics."

CMS, Paskeville and Ardrossan start Auskick later this month.

Hasting and Herbert in SA U18s

Peter Argent REPORT BY

SA Under 18 squad

Jett Hasting (CY Cougars) and Kade Herbert (Bute) are both in the state U18 squad, scheduled to play four national championship matches.

SA played the GWS/Swans Academy at Thebarton Oval on Sunday; SA won 10.11 (71) to 9.7 (61). Both YP exports played strong roles in the win. Herbert is part of the team's fiveperson leadership group.

"It's a massive honour to be included in this year's leadership group, with such a talented squad," Herbert said.

"I've always prided myself on my leadership and my ability to encourage and support others - it's naturally always been a part of who I am as a footballer.

"To be a member of such a strong leadership group is really important to me as our goal is to lead the boys in the national championships."

The SA U18s, will play the SANFL U20s in their annual fixture at Thebarton Oval this Saturday, May 18.

SA will then play the first of its four national championships matches, starting with the Allies at Thebarton Oval on Sunday, May 26.

SA's only away match is against Victoria Country on Sunday, June 9, before hosting Western Australia at Alberton Oval on Sunday, June 16, and Victoria Metro at Thebarton Oval on Sunday, June 30.

Super Netball League

Lucy Austin (Bute connections) and the Adelaide Thunderbirds had a big win on the road against the Melbourne Mavericks on Saturday, getting home 59 to 37.

Playing at goal shooter, Austin sank 12 goals from 14 attempts, including one from two at super-shot two-goal range. She was also credited with a goal assist, but conceded four turnovers.

NSW Swifts lost to the Melbourne Vixens by two goals, 59 to 61, in Sydney.

SANFL Reserves

The Eagles reserves collected a strong win, kicking 13.14 (92) to South's 7.3 (45).

Jack Wheare (Ardrossan) was a great target up forward with a haul of 5.2, while Jordan Tilbrook (Edithburgh) was an excellent foil, with three majors from just five kicks.

Will Neumann (Kadina) was productive around the ball with 19 possessions, to go with four marks, four tackles and a clearance.

SANFL Under 18

Woodville-West Torrens kicked the only two goals of its match against Sturt but fell short by four points, 8.10 (58) to 9.8 (62).

Griffyn Hansen (Kadina) was named the Eagles' second best player.

"The only YP player in the U18s this week was Griff (Hansen) again," Eagles under 18s coach Shane Reardon said

"He had 20 possessions and 13 marks to complement his 19 hit-outs.

"Again he had to ruck all day by himself with very little rest off the ground, with two taller opponents against him all day."

SANFL Under 16

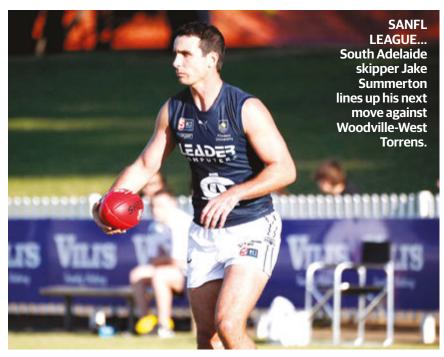

In the early game at the same venue Hunter Wellgreen (Wallaroo) was Eagles' best, despite a large loss to Sturt, 3.8 (26) to 15.12 (102)

Wellgreen had 17 touches, took seven marks and won four clearances. Cohen Mummery (Wallaroo) won seven possessions and laid five tackles. Central District U16s had a thrilling four-point win against South Adelaide in a tight finish, 10.5 (65) to 9.7 (61). Charlie Moss, the youngest brother of Stansbury sporting star James, kicked his second, and the match winner, 19 minutes in the final quarter.

first break.

However, despite this lead, you could feel a Demon win was by no means certain.

Highlights for the quarter were Nash snapping a goal for Bute, and R Maitland's continuous efforts through the middle to drive Moonta into its forward 50.

The Demons wasted opportunities in front of goals during the third quarter, kicking two goals and seven points. Nonetheless, they maintained a 20-point lead at the final break.

Billy Harris featured in the last quarter for Bute, setting up a Dylan Evans goal, as well as kicking a great running goal himself from a Nash handball.

The Roosters were never out of the game, and showed real fight back, outscoring the Demons by five goals to two in the last quarter; the momentum was certainly going their way.

Hodby received a free kick on the 50 metre line for Bute and kicked truly to score a major just as the final siren blew — he had kicked the first and last goals of the game.

The last score reduced Moonta to a two-point win.

Other players worthy of mention were Sam Taylor and Callum George for Bute, and Harry Williams, Braden Aldridge and Alex Elsworthy for Moonta.

Everyone was treated to a great game of football, with both sides giving their all and keeping skill errors to a minimum.

In this unusual, unpredictable YPFL season, this match showed Bute is a viable contender in the 2024 premiership chase, and that Moonta is still a force to be reckoned with.

The Demons have Wallaroo away next week, and will be aiming for back-to-back wins. Bute hosts Central Yorke Cougars.

Topsy-turvy results

Eric "Tippy" Tipwood REPORT BY

The tough tipping year just keeps on going for Tippy - I have resigned myself to a rough season.

Each Saturday's results bring a deflating blow for my tipping ego, but the topsy-turvy results make for a great season.

Ardrossan clung onto its final's aspirations with a narrow victory over Pasky. The Magpies had the chance to win and will be frustrated with their inaccurate goal kicking.

Crows have always been able to put up a big score and they returned to the winners' circle with a resounding victory over Wallaroo.

Moonta secured a win over the Roosters by a slim margin. Bute, despite falling short, will gain confidence from pushing the Demons right to the end on Moonta's home deck

Cougars and Eagles continued their inconsistent seasons.

Cougars emerged victorious by five goals, maintaining their momentum with a win over an Eagles team that has found good form of late.

Kadina enjoyed a bye but remains perched atop the ladder. The ladder is congested with four teams boasting three wins and three others with two.

The round 6 match-ups appear somewhat more predictable on paper, but undoubtedly there will be a few more curveballs ahead.

Round 6 tips

Bute v Central Yorke Cougars This is unquestionably the match of the round. Bute's early season form has been strong and a win this weekend will mean it will have a strong hold on the top three. Which Cougars team will show up? Their form has been consistently inconsistent this year. At the final siren... Bute by two goals.

Wallaroo v Moonta

After a disappointing previous round, Wallaroo will want to respond against a Moonta side still looking for its best form. The Demons have too much midfield depth and will give their forwards a lot of opportunities to kick a winning score.

At the final siren... Moonta by six goals.

Ardrossan v CMS Crows

The Crows might have the best forward line in the competition with three players in the top 10 goal kickers. Ardrossan has quality in each line, but I'm not sure they have the depth. They should have a bit of confidence to cause an upset at home after a good win.

At the final siren... Crows by five goals.

Kadina v Paskeville

Pasky's underwhelming start to the season leaves it hungry for an upset win. Kadina will be looking to maintain is strong form but has already lost a winnable game this season. Are the Bloods gettable?

At the final siren... Kadina by four goals.

Cougars stage season comeback

CY Cougars scribe REPORT BY

In perfect weather, Central Yorke Cougars kicked towards the northern end of the Maitland Oval, aided by a slight breeze, in the first quarter of their match against Southern Eagles.

Cougars started brightly with an early goal to Ciaran Hollingworth-Hughes. Thrusting forward again, William Baker marked strongly and goaled, giving Central Yorke an early twogoal lead.

As the quarter progressed, the Eagles steadied through a Matthew Barlow goal.

While Cougars controlled much of the play, their inaccuracy kept the Eagles in the game.

Cougar Zac Bates used his silky skills to transition the ball, allowing Luke Trenorden to kick a late goal.

Eagles trailed by 15 points at quarter time.

Eagle Jamie Wegener and Cougar L Trenorden continued their competitive tussle in ruck into the second quarter.

Jackson Hooper was tough for the Eagles in the midfield, along with Allen brothers Matthew and Nathan, who were solid.

Jack Heinrich-Smith goaled for the visitors, followed by a Barlow goal, putting the Eagles back to within a goal in a scrappy but entertaining contest.

George Bond snapped a great goal off the pack to put the Eagles in front. Henry Trenorden answered quickly for the Cougars, but a series of misses kept the Eagles in the game.

H Trenorden, who was having a dominant period, took a great mark then goaled for Cougars, and they enjoyed a 20-point lead at halftime.

After the main break, Central Yorke players Kaleb Gerschwitz and Henry Hollams repelled the Eagles' forward entries. Baker kicked a long goal extending the Cougars' lead to 30 points.

Trenorden took a tremendous pack-breaking mark and goaled from the square, and Ethan Dortmundt-Sansbury booted another. A late goal to Southern Eagle Luke Hoare gave the Eagles supporters a glimmer of hope that a big fourth term could provide a comeback win.

The last quarter was even with two goals apiece. H Trenorden goaled early, but the Eagles answered through Wegener, who had been valiant all day. M Allen continued his fine game and was arguably the Eagles' best.

In the Eagles' last line of defence, Bernard Taheny kept the Cougars' forwards honest, despite the constant barrage of scoring opportunities the Cougar onballers provided.

Dogs muzzled as Crows fly

CMS Crows scribe REPORT BY

CMS Crows welcomed Wallaroo Bulldogs to Stansbury. Wallaroo had the advantage of a two-goal breeze in the first quarter and Jayden Steer soon kicked the opening goal for the visitors.

In quick reply, Matthew Murnane kicked the Crows' first goal, soccering the ball past the posts.

Despite Wallaroo's Chase Martin presenting himself, the Crows' disallowed him space. This was exacerbated by Wallaroo playing a possession game out of its back lines, allowing CMS to set up defensively.

Warwick, George Litster and Tom Babidge cleaned up Wallaroo's forward entries, linking up with the hardworking and creative Mavrik Harper-Zerna; Jake Cook, Kai Newbold, Fraser Agnew and James Redden also enjoyed their share of the football. With Glazbrook roaming forward of centre as he pleased, the game was pretty much over by halftime, when Crows were ahead by 46 points. The Crows' burgeoning depth across the ground enabled their stars to shine. CMS won the first clearance and Glazbrook goaled within 30 seconds. Wallaroo's best, Jacob Tidswell replied immediately, but the deficit was unrepairable; the Dogs also continued to squander their wind advantage by loading up their backlines.

Jonte Hunter-Price competed well all over the oval for Wallaroo but was let down by the over-possessed footy coming out the Wallaroo backline.

Tom Schott gave more opportunities to his Crows teammates Glazbrook and Adam Jolly through his impressive turnover work.

While Wallaroo played one player behind the ball in the second quarter, it was in vain as the Crows had several shots on goal, including a monster goal from Jolly, from beyond 50.

For Crows, Josh Hoyle, Bodi

Tidswell goaled for Wallaroo from the midfield immediately on the resumption of play after threequarter time. He nearly conjured up a second in as many minutes but was unfortunately impacted by an injury, which finished his game. Roos jump Magpies

Pasky scribe REPORT BY

Ardrossan arrived to a perfect day at Paskeville, where both sides looked for their second win of the season

Ardrossan's Steven Wellington kicked the first goal and showed he would be a leading target with his height, speed and strong hands.

Samuel Bruce won a two-onone contest on the wing for the Roos, but Pasky secured the reply through a great snap by Jared O'Donohue, who was busy in the midfield and forward line all game.

In the second quarter, both teams took several intercept marks, which limited scoring.

Connor Linhart was particularly impressive for Pasky, putting himself in the right position defensively to repel Roo attacks. His teammate Brock Thompson showed his class, as he had time to deliver the ball forward even when emerging from packs.

The long stalemate continued into the third term, until Linhart slotted a goal from 50 metres and brought Paskeville within three points.

Magpie Nathaniel Lloyd intercepted the ball and passed to O'Donohue, who found Morgan Cocks. He was unable to convert from the tight angle, but Alistair Price soon executed a spinning aerial mark and booted a goal to give the home side its first lead.

Ben Pater kicked the football off the ground between Roo defenders, and found Brad Cocks for another goal, giving the Magpies momentum into the final break

Wellington opened the fourth by snapping truly, and Ardrossan was back within a goal.

Paskeville replied with a goal, via a good pass from Brock Thompson to Linhart. The Magpies followed that with the day's best passage of play, moving the ball quickly through the middle to A Price, who took a contested mark then passed to his cousin Corey Price, but the opportunity was missed, the set shot sailing wide.

Ardrossan took advantage, as Cash Meyers crumbed cleanly and goaled from a tough angle. This two-goal turnaround put the Roos back within seven points.

A downfield free kick gifted Meyers a second goal in as many minutes and it was a one-point game.

Correll Harrison and Hamish Price stepped up for Pasky, with some contested possessions and earnt free kicks. This led to another Pasky miss. Glen Mulders marked from the Kangaroo kick out and put his 38-year-old hammy to the test trying to torpedo a goal from 60m. While this was unsuccessful, Ben Davies soon crumbed and goaled to give the home side ascension.

The Roos again bounced back. Charlie Dowling found Sam Lodge for a goal and it was a twopoint game. Lodge soon had a chance to put his side ahead but missed. Teammate Charlie Kirchner sharked a hit-out, but he too missed. The Roos kept coming; their next entries were intercepted by Correll and then Linhart.

Time was almost up when Harrison Cooney kicked the Roos forward yet again. Ardrossan playing coach Sam Pfeiffer collected the ball in traffic and kicked the match-winning goal in an absolute thriller.

 REPORT BY

NAFA fans enjoyed the season's first night game as Broughton-Mundoora travelled north-east to take on Crystal Brook under lights on Saturday, May 11 The first quarter was a tough contest with good pressure applied across the oval.

While the teams kicked three goals apiece, the Roosters enjoyed a two-point lead at quarter time. In the second quarter, Crystal Brook ained momentum through its superior work rate, piling on six goals to none.

From there the deficit grew for the Eagles, reaching 62 points by the final siren. Crystal Brook's Jackson Richman booted four goals, while great games from the running Will Combe and competitive Joel Millard also helped the Roosters win comfortably.

For the Eagles, Bodhi Sims was a clear best along with Samuel Dyer, who kicked two goals and competed well in the ruck. This week the Eagles (currently fourth on the ladder) will expect a strong response as they host the Jamestown-Peterborough Magpies (sixth) at Port Broughton.

effective, it was unable to score. Play seesawed up and down the court and neither team could keep possession. Paskeville GD Inman worked tirelessly, causing turnovers to give her team the advantage. Paskeville dominated the final minutes to take the win. Final scores: Paskeville 68, Ardrossan 31.

Paskeville looked impressive in their pink socks and bibs to celebrate Pink Round. Ardrossan started with a score from its centre pass through GA Lucy Mattschoss. A turnover at the Paskeville centre pass was rewarded with a goal from GS Zara Wissell.

enabled them to score six goals in the first minute before Paskeville scored their first goal through GA Ruby Thomson. Paskeville found its rhythm, scoring the next four goals, break and took time to settle into their new combinations.

The game was quite messy with both teams making many unforced errors. With several turnovers for both teams there was limited opportunity to score.

There was a good contest between Paskeville GA Indi Gardner and Ardrossan's Mattschoss, with neither player giving up. This was a very lowscoring quarter, Paskeville outscoring Ardrossan by one.

Both teams made changes and Ardrossan settled quickly, turning the ball at Paskeville's centre pass. Ardrossan GA Mattschoss and GS

CMS Crows v Wallaroo

Wallaroo made the journey down to the bottom end to meet the Crows in great weather. Wallaroo won the toss and took the first centre pass, but it was Crows GA Tazmyn Biddell who scored first.

The ball moved up and down the court multiple times before Wallaroo GS Georgia Schulze evened up the scores. Wallaroo C Macayla Marner and WD Mia Whittaker had multiple deflections on the circle edge and WA Talia Nadich was strong on centre passes until she left the court after a fall.

Crows WA Tyla Cook was fast paced on the centre passes but was penalised and the ball advanced.

The height of Crows defender Georgina Farrow was hard to match on the rebounds but, with a strong defence force - Adele Biancardi and Demi Jenner — at the other end, the ball soon returned. After a low-scoring first quarter, scores were CMS Crows 6 to Wallaroo 5.

Crows started with pace and clean ball handling, so the ball entered the circle quickly.

GD Melissa McSkimming took a strong rebound early and GS Bronwyn Farrow rewarded her effort helping with a three-goal streak to the Crows.

Wallaroo GK Jenner was light on her feet, deflecting balls entering the circle and the mid-court was ready to transition the ball to the other end where Marner and Nadich fed the shooters low passes to avoid the height of the Crows defenders. Halftime: CMS Crows 17, Wallaroo 12.

Wallaroo had the pass to start the third but that ended in a Crows sideline throw in. It transitioned the ball nicely then, under the pressure from the Wallaroo defenders, were penalised with a held ball.

Crows mid-court upped their defence and Wallaroo couldn't keep to penetrate the goal third. Crows, being well drilled, ran away in the last minutes of the game. Final scores: CMS Crows 36, Wallaroo 27.

Moonta v Bute

Bute had the first centre pass but, with pressure from Moonta GD Renee Butler, the ball was intercepted in the goal circle and flew down the other end of the court for GA Charlotte Keleher to secure the first goal.

It was an even quarter, but Bute kept the pressure and won it by one. Bute came out strongly, getting the first goal in the second. Moonta GK Teesha Angus kept the pressure every time the ball was in Bute's goal circle. Both Moonta goalies held strong against Bute's fierce defence and created a narrow lead for Moonta at the end of the quarter. Halftime: Moonta 18, Bute 17.

Moonta came out strongly, turning Bute's centre pass into its own score. Both teams were defensively strong throughout the court; Moonta GK Angus was a great match-up against Bute GS Marissa Hewett. Moonta held onto its lead.

Going into the fourth quarter, Moonta took the first centre pass, Bute was constant on attacking the ball which helped it gain the lead early in the fourth quarter.

There was strong fight from both Moonta and Bute within the goal circle and down the court.

It was goal for goal in the last minutes, but Bute had already secured the lead early in the quarter. Final scores: Bute 40, Moonta 37.

CY Cougars v Southern Eagles

Southern Eagles WA Alicia Miller showcased exceptional passing skills, seamlessly delivering the ball into a holding GS Emily Haydon.

At the opposite end, Cougars' Laura Trenorden also demonstrated excellent feeding into the circle, setting up scoring opportunities for her team.

Eagles trailed slightly at the end of the first quarter, 11-13,

Cougars tightened their defence, led by Iluka Zilm-Smith and Jada Pedler, making scoring difficult for the Eagles' goalies. Eagles still fought hard, with WD Shanai Hart's interceptions disrupting the Cougars attacking plays and Eagles goalie Sarah Ramsay continued her strong rebounding and consistent shooting.

Zilm-Smith's versatility, moving into GA, added another dimension to the Cougars attack, while Alix Hillebrand's tight defence further frustrated the Eagles attackers. Despite the Eagles' efforts, shots weren't sinking, and the Cougars capitalised on turnovers. Eagles centre Jessie East's pressure around the Cougars' goal circle wasn't enough to turn the tide as the Cougars emerged as a dominant force. Final scores: CY Cougars 75, Southern Eagles 32.

D grade

Paskeville v Ardrossan

Paskeville came out strongly, scoring 11 unanswered goals. Paskeville GD Grace Inman actively caused turnovers, getting her hands to many balls. GS Teagen Evans and GA Lucy Dare combined well, scoring at every opportunity.

eventually Ardrossan scored through GA Vanessa Edson. Paskeville's defensive pressure made it hard for Ardrossan to gain suitable scoring opportunities.

Paskeville transitioned smoothly down the court and continued to extend its lead. Paskeville C Emerson Stark left the court after a head knock.

Both teams made changes and each scored off its centre passes until Ardrossan got a break and scored three in a row. Paskeville replied, also scoring three.

Ardrossan GK Joanne Hewitson and GD Emma Whittaker worked hard to stop Paskeville getting easy feeds into the circle. Solid defensive pressure from both teams resulted in plenty of turnovers and a more even quarter.

Good vision and a long pass from GA Dare to GS Evans, who was free under the ring, resulted in a Paskeville goal. Halftime: Paskeville 35, Ardrossan 15.

An unsettled start by both teams made for scrappy netball. Paskeville gained control and, with good team-

Strong defence by Ardrossan bridging the gap to one.

Ardrossan GD Skylah Sansbury made it hard for Paskeville, taking possession of every loose ball and wayward pass. Good transitioning and accurate passing enabled Ardrossan to extend its lead back out to four. The ball seesawed up and down the court with neither team scoring for several minutes. Ardrossan ended the quarter with a four-goal lead.

Both teams made changes at the possession resulting in back-to-back goals from under the ring. Wallaroo WD Whittaker was still getting touches around the circle and GS Latisha McNicol was strong in the air pulling in some hard lobs and making it count on the scoreboard. CMS Crows 27, Wallaroo 20.

A turnover from the Wallaroo centre pass was converted into a goal by CMS shooter Tasman Biddell and then Ella McCauley found her range for Wallaroo sinking a sweet shot from a distance.

The centre court tussle was still firing, the ball travelling from end to end for long passages of play with no scores.

Wallaroo GD Biancardi kept creating options with the help of Whittaker

Cougars had a seven-goal lead at the long break.

Alanna Barrand, Cougars, found her rhythm in the third quarter, rarely missing a goal. Jo Davey entered the game as GK and made an immediate impact with her interceptions, thwarting several Eagles scoring attempts. The Cougars' smooth transitions, tight defence and WA Tayla Barrand's strong drives added to the Cougars' lead.

work, they increased their lead. Ardrossan GD Whittaker intercepted but her team was unable to score. Paskeville goalies combined well and good feeding from C Annabel Correll set them up to score at every opportunity.

Pressure through the midcourt from Ardrossan C Jemma Mattschoss caused turnovers and accurate shooting from GS Edson kept her team positive.

Ardrossan made changes and Edson, now at GK, took a strong intercept only to see the ball return after being turned over by Paskeville, which then scored seven unanswered goals.

Ardrossan did not give up and, although its defensive pressure was Sansbury worked well together and shot accurately.

GD Asta Secker worked hard, but Paskeville struggled to get consistent movement down the court. Ardrossan made the most of every turnover. They played confidently and continued to move the ball well.

Many changes were made for the last quarter and both teams scored quickly.

The ball went back and forth, but the scores were stalled in favour of Ardrossan at 19 to 12 for most of the quarter. Paskeville was tiring and unable to keep possession.

Ardrossan scored the last three goals of the game and took the win. Final score: Ardrossan 22, Paskeville

Another sunny weekend forecast

"Straight Shooter" REPORT BY

Another clean sweep, despite a few margin blow-outs but other than that I'd say I'm on fire.

Wow, Wallaroo surprised me and in the best way, this team took it right up to the number one side only going down by nine goals. Unbelievable!

Paskeville took the win against Ardrossan by 10, and Moonta was so close to a win against Bute, missing the points by just three goals.

CY Cougars were on fire, extending their margin against Southern Eagles by 43 goals. It has been a dry start to the season, I'm sure all teams are happy to see the sun still shining for this marvellous winter sport. Ardrossan v CMS Crows

If Wallaroo can take it right up to the Crows, I don't see why Ardrossan couldn't as well, especially on their home courts. Crows have enough experience to hold on though.

At the final whistle... CMS Crows by 10 goals.

Bute v CY Cougars

This should be a ripper game between seeds two and four. Bute is four and one, just one win ahead of the Cougars. Cougars could have what it takes to even that up.

At the final whistle ... CY Cougars by five goals.

Wallaroo v Moonta The old Wallaroo v Moonta rivalry never fails to disappoint, so I can imagine we'll have a good game on our hands. Both have had one win and three losses, so they will both be hungry for another win. After Wallaroo's performance against the Crows, I have some extra confidence in its abilities.

At the final whistle... Wallaroo by one goal.

Kadina v Paskeville

Another great match-up for the week, anything could happen. Playing inside as well is always a little different for the away teams and I think it gives Kadina an added edge when they play at home. Because of this I think I'll tip them.

At the final whistle ... Kadina by three goals.

SHOOTING

Maitland Rifle Club: Firstly, a correction to last week's report, I mistakenly suggested that Andrew Dayman was away in Queensland shooting in the South Australian state TR team in the Australian Rifle National Championship. Andrew is home here shooting well at Maitland, while his brother Micheal Dayman is in Townsville shooting very well indeed. Apologies to both. Results 11-5-24 -Eleven members and two visitors gathered on the 300-yard mound in some reasonable shooting weather. Last week we shot the first round of the Pointon trophy from 900 yards, so it was great to see the targets with the naked eye this week. Overall, the scores achieved were a good margin better than those of recent months. Andrew Dayman led the way in TR in the first round, his 47.04 had the edge over Jeff Dayman's 45.01. F Standard B: Chris Tucker's 58.03 shaded Barry's 57.05. F open: Lynton Wakefield's 59.05 kept a plethora of 58s at bay. In the second round, TR Jeff Dayman put down a nice 49.02, while Andrew had double vision and shot another 47.03. F standard B competitor Chris Tucker squeezed the trigger gently while trying to keep up to date with the slightly varying SE breeze, dropping one point only to gain a nice 59.05, and not letting Barry Tucker get close on 53.02. Things heated up somewhat in F open with a handful of 59s posted it was left to John Shobbrook and Roger Francis to "have a crack". Shobby won through with a magnificent 60.09 while Roger squeezed a 60.05 out of the electronic target. Top offrifle winners: TR Andrew Dayman 94.07, F standard B Chris Tucker 117.08, F open Lynton Wakefield 118.11. Possibles: John Shobbrook 60.09, Roger Francis 60.05. Handicap scores: Chris Tucker FSB 58.03, 59.05, 117.08, 13, 120.08, 3 hdcp pts; Roger Francis FO 58.05, 60.05, 118.10, 7, 120.10, 2 pts; Lynton Wakefield FO 59.05, 59.06, 118.11 4, 120.11, 1 pt. Copper Coast Squash Club Feature match of round 2 was the epic tussle between Grant Lemley (Squids) and Shaun Miller (Crabs), neither giving until the end. Miller had a strong opening, winning the first two games. Lemley hit back with two games of his own, to send the match into a fifth game, which Miller won 11-9.

This match inspired Sam Fisher to a 3-0 win against a tenacious Louise Stains, leaving it to Alex Sze to regain some pride for the Squids in his match-up with Michael Dennis. After a tight and competitive first game, which Sze won 11-9, he completed the match with a 3-0 win for his team.

On the other court, Len Brennan (Sharks), took on Dave Russack (Snappers). This was a much-anticipated match, as we wondered if Russack could push the undefeated Brennan for an upset win. Brennan opened with a strong 11-8 first up game, but Russack hit back with a 12-10 game of his own (in squash, when the game reaches 10-10, play continues until a player is ahead by two points).

This loss sparked Brennan into action and he won the next two games to lead his team toward a first-up win.

Next on court were Luke Kretschmer and Alistair Williams. Although looking comfortable on paper, COPPER COAST SQUASH... Nate Spencer and Chris Sze ready themselves for the tight contest ahead.

CASH INJECTION... The Grains Research and Development Corporation is investing in narrow-leafed lupin.

Going loopy for lupin

A NEW $7 million research project is aiming to enhance the nutritional quality, and improve the economic value, of narrow-leafed lupin.

The project is backed by the Grains Research and Development Corporation, Western Crop Genetics Alliance and national science agency CSIRO, alongside other project partners.

GRDC genetic technologies manager Dr Camilla Hill said Australia contributed 85 per cent of global lupin production, with 70 per cent being exported to regions such as Asia, North Africa and the Middle East.

"Australian sweet lupin, known as narrow-leafed lupin, plays a pivotal role in Australian agriculture as a cost-effective protein source for animal feed," Dr Hill said.

She said lupins had the ability to break cereal disease cycles and provide valuable fixed nitrogen for cropping systems.

With the global population expected to reach close to 10 billion by 2050, and a rising interest in plantbased diets, the Australian lupin industry recognises a significant opportunity in the expanding plant-protein market.

The pulse's high-protein content, low starch, low fat and low glycaemic index position it favourably for plant-based protein production.

But, despite its potential, only four per cent of Australian NLLs are processed for human consumption.

Chickpea market grows a pulse

INDIA has suspended tariffs on Australian chickpeas, a move welcomed by grain producers.

The suspension of tariffs, which were about 66 per cent, provided an excellent opportunity for the state's grain industry.

India's decision to suspend the tariffs until March 31 follows advocacy by Grain Producers South Australia, Grain Producers Australia, Grain Growers Limited and Grains Australia.

The tariffs, originally 2017-18, established in had posed significant challenges to Australian chickpea exports to India, the world's largest consumer of chickpeas.

SA growers and the Indian pulse market will both benefit from the move, GPSA chief executive Brad Perry said.

"GPSA commends the Indian Government for its decision to suspend chickpea tariffs," Mr Perry said.

"This development underscores the importance of continued collaboration and engagement."

SA is a strong contributor to the nation's chickpea production, averaging more than 36,000 tonnes annually for the past five years.

"The tariff suspension will undoubtedly enhance market opportunities," Mr Perry said. Grains Australia Pulse Council chair Peter Wilson said the decision was a positive step towards strengthening trade relations between the two countries.

"The suspension of tariffs presents a great opportunity for Australian producers to expand their presence in the Indian pulse market, ultimately contributing to the industry's competitiveness and profitability," Mr Wilson said.

Meat powder spicing up snacks

CSIRO scientists have been working on new ways to turn beef into powder form for use in a range of food products.

Australia's national science agency is aiming to add value to the beef sector by turning red meat into a nutritious protein boost for snacks drinks, targeting the lucrative and $3.8 billion health-and-wellness market.

Taste tests of the Just Meat protein powder were on offer at Beef 2024 in Rockhampton, Queensland, last week.

The meat powder can appeal to a wide audience interested in products such as protein balls and shakes and energy drinks.

The aim is to help grow Australia's $75 billion red-meat industry by capturing more value from a greater percentage of the carcass

The CSIRO's Dr Aarti Tobin said the powder can be used as is or as an ingredient in a range of products.

"The advantage of a meat-based protein is that it naturally contains all essential amino acids, as well as high iron, zinc and magnesium," Dr Tobin said.

with promising results to take to product trials

"We're looking at new protein products to meet changing consumer preferences."

The CSIRO hopes products such as the will play a role in feeding a growing world population set to reach 9.7 billion by 2050.

Meat & Livestock Australia is an investor and collaborator in the product's development.

MLA science and innovation manager Michael Lee said the product's versatility demonstrated its potential to capitalise on global market demand for red meat.

"Products like this meat protein powder can help cater to this demand by providing a shelfstable, easily transportable and versatile source of protein," Mr Lee said.

"By converting meat into essentially a food ingredient, this also creates another revenue stream for the industry beyond our traditional meat-trading options."

CSIRO will work with commercial partners and investors to help take the protein powder innovation to market.

Industry and investors can become involved in CSIRO's Protein Futures 2024

DEFENCE PROOF & EXPERIMENTAL ESTABLISHMENT PORT WAKEFIELD: LIVE FIRING RANGE WARNING NOTICE

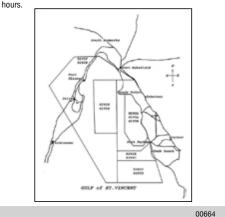

Test and evaluation activities involving static firings and/or firings of naval and artillery weapons are conducted at the Proof and Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield throughout the year. The Proof and Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield is a vital Defence test and evaluation capability that has supported Defence since 1929.

These firings may require specific tidal or weather conditions, and are critical for the safety of current and new Defence capabilities. Members of the public may notice noise, vibration, flashes and/or smoke during the testing. There is no risk to the public outside of the gazetted Defence Practice Areas.

For reasons of public safety, there is a permanent exclusion zone covering land, sea and air around the Port Wakefield Establishment. Specific details on the Port Wakefield Prohibited Area can be obtained from Commonwealth of Australia Gazette No GN 26. 4 July 1990, and is shown on the diagram below. Trespassing in this Area is strictly prohibited and very dangerous due to the presence of unexploded bombs. Any person found within the Prohibited Area or on Defence land will be subject to prosecution.

Specific test and evaluation activities may also require restricting public access to the Port Wakefield Defence Practice Areas over specific periods with these areas articulated in the Commonwealth of Australia Gazette No. GN 40, 7 October 1992, and also identified on the diagram below. This may affect access to the Gulf of St Vincent at Port Wakefield and Port Parham

If any member of the public has inquiries in relation to these activities, please contact Proof & Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield - Range Control on (08) 8867 0270 between 8.00am and 4.30pm weekdays or the Proof & Experimental Establishment Port Wakefield - Security Office on (08) 8867 0299 outside these

Starscopes

ARIES-March 21-April 20

You are in the limelight on the weekend. In friendship, follow instincts much more so than usual. On the other hand, avoid impulse buying this week.

TAURUS—April 21-May 22

There's a dip in self confidence early in the week, then you find yourself meeting old responsibilities with new determination. Thursday, Friday is for teaching, the weekend is for learning.

GEMINI-May 23-June 21

This is the week to boost your partner's sagging confi-dence and be alert to children's changing attitudes. It is an excellent time for presenting ideas and proposals - on the job and on the homefront.

CANCER-June 22-July 22

A loved one seems a little to easy to please you right now, but there's no reason to be suspect. Friends share good news around the weekend. Prepare to deal with friction among relatives.

LEO-July 23-August 22

Lots of helpful people - too many for your taste, show up during the weekend. Your best allies seem to be men and women of another generation. It's easy to misinterpret a loved one's sweetest remarks.

VIRGO-August 23-September 22

Luck is with you much of the week, but it also deserts you on important occasions. Challenge is your present keyword. Your vitality is inspiring and you can achieve a major goal

LIBRA-September 23-October 22

Travel is indicated, but enjoyable and successful trips need more than the usual hours preparation. Family can be less than cooperative until the weekend, then everything is on the up and up.

SCORPIO-October 23-November 21

Your life is a lost and found department, losing confidence, then gaining ground. You can be unsure of yourself but also you can be shrewd and perceptive. A cher-ished romantic wish may turn into reality by the weekend

SAGITTARIUS-November 22-December 22

Romancewise, there are several intriguing challenges facing you now - but by the end of the week you could find that the more you try to simplify life, the more en-tangled the situation may become. Rest is a must.

CAPRICORN—December 23-January 20

Expect to meet two quite different people after the week-end and to learn something from each one. Make caution your byword. Eliminate home hazards and most importantly, guard words carefully.

AQUARIUS—January 21-February 19

Friendship is at up-tempo, but you can't take it for granted now. Attend to the timest of details. Starting on Thursday, look forward to loosening the moneybelt.

BE PISCES—February 20-March 20

Distractions put you behind schedule and you may find that you have to cancel weekend plans. Entertainment is the theme. Look forward to amusing encounters and cultural evenings

From fan fiction to film

CLASSIC romance tropes go as far back as Shakespeare, who brought us the most well-known enemies-to-lovers narratives.

Romance storylines have developed across time, but not much has really changed.

The celebrity/normal person trope is essentially a modernisation of older ones such as forbidden love, different worlds, opposites attracting and many more.

And love, of course, is at the core of all fan fictions. New film The Idea of You, directed by Michael Showalter, is no exception.

Based on a novel of the same name by Robinne Lee, who insists the love interest is definitely not based on Harry Styles, follows a 40-year-old single mum who falls for the 24-year-old lead singer of a world-famous boy band.

So, on top of the romance, we now have an agegap rom com on our hands.

I'm not sure who convinced Anne Hathaway to play the lead role of Soläne, but I am glad they did, because she can never ruin a part.

Soläne meets the young love interest Hayes, played by Nicholas Galitzine, in his caravan after mistaking it for the bathroom.

Before the awkward bathroom scene, we find out that Soläne is a single mum who owns an art gallery. After her ex-husband bails on his daughter for a work

May 14, 1859: Australia's oldest football club, the Melbourne Football Club, was founded.

May 14, 1984: US computer programmer Mark Zuckerberg, who co-founded the social networking site Facebook, was born.

May 14, 1988: US singer and actor Frank Sinatra died at age 82. Sinatra enjoyed a long career, had a public personal life, and was one of the most sought-after performers in entertainment history.

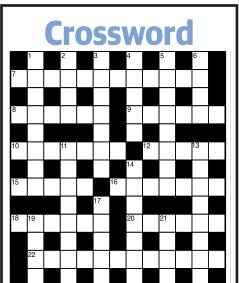

commitment, she's forced to take her teenage daughter to US music festival Coachella.

The ex-husband had bought the tickets for their daughter Izzy to see the band August Moon, which is "so year 7", according to the teen.

Mother and daughter reluctantly go to the festival and, when Soläne mistakes the trailer for the bathroom, the rest is history - except when Hayes and Soläne break up because she is concerned about the age gap, and is bullied by younger girlfriends of the other band members. Her daughter is also being bullied at school about the situation and her exhusband hates the idea of his ex-wife moving on.

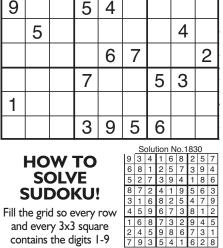

But it's fine because they have a montage and skip to five years later, which makes the age gap okay for evervone.

flathead, while boat crews fished for King George whiting, squid and snook. Jettybased fishers caught tommy ruff (Australian herring) and squid.

Moonta Bay/Port Hughes: Boat crews found KG whiting a better proposition as they fished south of West Light and on to the Cape Elizabeth grounds, with small fish off Rifle Butts and Second Beaches. Squid were also in their catch bags. Jettybased fishing has tommies, squid and mullet along the blue line on the high tides.

Point Turton: Lots of shore-based activity was observed last week as anglers fished from Port Rickaby, Hardwicke Bay and Levens Beach and Magazine Bay for mullet and salmon trout, all with only mixed success. Offshore there are reports the Dust Bowl, Gym and Foul Bay Beaches. Boat crews ran out for a few KG whiting, flathead, squid and snook.

Edithburgh: Boat crews found several schools of undersize KG whiting off Klein Point and Coobowie during the week and had to shift locations to deeper water for bigger fish. Troubridge Light has whiting, morwong and flathead. The jetty was reasonably quiet but there are a few squid about after dark.

Black Point/Ardrossan: Fine weather had boat anglers out from Black Point and Billy Goat Flat trying for whiting, flathead, garfish and squid. Ardrossan crews caught the odd whiting on slow tides and squid in the late afternoons. The jetty has squid and not much else.

Tight lines and see you next week!

A sea of pink washed across Yorke Peninsula football and netball grounds over the weekend

Along with players, umpires and other match officials donned the pink in the annual Pink Round, to raise money and awareness of breast cancer.

Yorke Peninsula Netball Association president Meagan Daniel said proceeds from the day will go to the Breast Cancer Foundation to assist with research and support for people with breast cancer.

Ms Daniel said this year, YP football and netball set a goal of raising $5000.

While the association is still determining how much was raised, Ms Daniel said she was confident it would eclipse last year's fundraising efforts, due to the new systems in place.

"They've set up an online system this year, because a lot of people don't tend to have the dollars with them in their pockets these days, so they have a QR code, which you can scan," Ms Daniel said.

Ms Daniel said the Pink Round initiative was a great way for communities to congregate for a charitable cause.

"Obviously raising awareness is important, because most people know someone or have been touched in some way by breast cancer.

"Sport is a great way to bring people together, so it's a really good avenue for raising awareness because so many people are involved.

"And I think it's just a great way when you've got a lot of people together, to spread the word.

"There can be conversations had by everyone around, where people can share stories and just really raise the awareness of how important a topic like this is."

Moonta players recognised club life member Sally Hackett, who lost her battle with cancer last week, with a brief commemoration which included releasing red and blue ballons, and holding a minute's silence.

Recognising the heartbreak, that cancer created, YPFL president, Brad Haylock said it was imperative the league supported these initiatives.

"We're basically doing two things in one," Mr Haylock said.

"That's why we do it the day before Mother's Day, so we can recognise females in football, and also recognise cancer in general by raising money for (those battling cancer)."

Pink Round was introduced in 2007 and has since raised more than $95,000.

Mr Haylock said there had been a decrease in the number of donations.

"Our main goal is to raise as much money as we can.

"In the early days we raised a lot more money than what we raise now. "If we get anywhere between $3000 to 11 we get anywhere between $3000 to $5000, we've probably had a good day."

Mr Haylock attributed this to clubs doing private fundraising, and there being a reduction in community fundraising events such as club auctions and sponsorships.

The YPFL will celebrate umpires' round and Sir Doug Nicholls round in coming weeks.
