CAROLINE CARLETON... St Mary MacKillop School, Wallaroo, students Eva, Ivy, Addyson, Arden, Alexa, Natalie, Martina, Harley, Liam and Easton, with teacher Laura Kotz, perform Song of Australia at the gravesite of Caroline Carleton (1840-1920). In 1859, Caroline's prize-winning poem was put to a tune by Carl Linger and used as a patriotic song in SA schools and elsewhere. It was one of four options in a 1977 national plebiscite to select a national anthem.

ROBERT BUCK JNR... Dennis Hehir, Mary Hehir, Ella Bailey, Michelle Anderson, Anthony Hehir, Ashton Metcalfe and Taylor Metcalfe honour their ancestor Robert Buck (1819-1895). In 1886, 50 years after colonisation, Robert Buck Jr was listed as one of only five original surviving colonists still living in South Australia.

WILHELMINA MEADOWS... Cherylyn Bellifemini, Ian Appleton, Janice McDonald, Alan Duck, Sharon Ward, Rosemary Appleton and Dennis Appleton at the gravesite of their ancestor Wilhelmina Meadows (1834-1915). When her husband passed away, German-born Wilhelmina carried on their Wallaroo blacksmith shop and weighbridge on her own.

Left: MARY ANN CANNON... Siblings Carol Sutherland, Graham Chilman and Trevor Chilman honour their great-great-grandmother Mary Ann Cannon (1819-1903). Mary Ann had to raise six children while her husband Joseph was away working.

KARL ERNST FRIEDRICH KRUSE... Diedre May, Tamika May, Simon May, Geoffrey Pederson, Adrian May with Maggie, and Bronwyn Pederson beside the grave of their ancestor Carl Ernst Kruse (1876-1925). Carl was left to raise three children under the age of 10 after his wife passed away.

Left: JOHN LIDDY... Jenny and Dennis Liddy beside the grave of Dennis's great-grandfather John Liddy (1879-1934). John worked at the smelters for about 30 years before entering the hotel business.

MARGARET DAVIES... Christine Thompson, Sheryl Topperwien, Gay Gehling, Joy Middleton and Scott Davies honour Margaret Davies (1845-1932), their great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother. Mrs Davies was the last surviving founder of the Welsh church in Wallaroo, and was a member of its choir, which became famous throughout the district.

WILLIAM JOHN WILLIAMS... Neville Williams, Jillian Owen, Ro Williams, Judith Martinez, Sharon Foyle and Mark Foyle beside the grave of their ancestor William John Williams (1881-1940). William had a keen interest in local government and was part of the Wallaroo Town Hall's restoration after it was destroyed by fire in 1917.

Dressing the Graves, Green Plains

NORMAN WALTER PLAISTED... Joylene Plaisted-Kelly, Heather Dejong, Trevor Plaisted and Lynette Harris pay tribute to their grandfather Norman Walter Plaisted (1901-1963). Norman worked in the lime kiln industry and enlisted in the Volunteer Defence Corps.

WILLIAM GEORGE DREWETT... Alison Meier, Brad Meier, Jan Harvey, Malcolm Meier, Coralie Spry, Wesley Harvey, Bev Harvey, Brenton Drewett with Tate, Donna Drewett and Renee Drewett at the graveside of their ancestor William George Drewett (1881-1958). William was a farmer and served as a councillor on the District Council of Kulpara from 1925 to 1932.

EMILY ANNIE PRICE... Kim Roberts, Judith Garland, Renee Hewett, Pam McInerney, Kylie May and Lyn Bensen recognise their grandmother and great-grandmother, Emily Annie Price (1903-1927). Emily's life was tragically cut short during her second pregnancy, when she succumbed to toxemia, leaving behind her husband and infant son.

EILEEN DORAN... Eileen Doran (1894-1908) is honoured by her grand-nieces Anne-Marie Gates and Sharon O'Grady, grand-nephew-in-law Craig Gates and niece-in-law Carmel O'Grady. Eileen died from scarlet fever shortly before her 14th birthday.

MARCUS HERBERT CLIFT PRICE... Grandchildren of Marcus Herbert Clift Price (1898-1984): Bronte Price, Dene Bryan, Susan Timms, Rex Rehn, Jennifer Hewett and Brenda March, and their partners Philip March, Suzanne Price, Pam Bryan and Adrian Hewett. Marcus was a life member of the Paskeville Agricultural Bureau and had a passion for racehorses.

WILLIAM HENRY BAYLISS... Barry Pridham, Margaret Yelland, Reece Pridham, Helen Lapidge, Cynthia Richardson, Julie Trevaskis, Denise Rodda, Patsy Bath, Michael Pridham, Doug Trevaskis, Libby Davis and Pam Grigg honour their grandfather and grandfather-in-law, William Henry Bayliss (1889-1955). William developed paralysis in the 1920s in one leg and was unable to continue farming, but could still manhandle a 44-gallon fuel drum, whether full or empty.

FINERY... Dressing the Graves volunteers Don Bennett and Noelene Chapman welcome visitors to Moonta Cemetery.

OLD STYLE... Steve and Julie Dayman, of Moonta, were among the large crowd at the town's Dressing the Graves ceremony.

ARTHUR FREEMAN... Sue Stanley and Peter Freeman honour their grandfather, Arthur "Ted" Freeman, who utilised his building skills to make many contributions to the Moonta community.

ELIZABETH WILTON... Estelle Vincent, of Lyndoch, and Helen Burnell, of Peterborough, were among family members who paid tribute to their forebear, a local musician and music teacher.

GEORGE HICKS... Descendent Liz Kemp pays tribute to her forebear.

MARSHALL CHILDREN... Sharon McCartney, Jessie Showell, Carolyn McCartney and Elaine Anthony pay tribute to Ernest Marshall and his sister Mary Louisa Marshall, who both died in 1872. Ernest was aged 3 years, 10 months, and Mary was 13 months old. Carolyn is their great-great-niece.

JOHN SYMONS... Descendents of Cornish migrant, real estate agent and former Moonta mayor John Symons gathered to honour him are Brenton Giesecke, Joan Mulconray, Paul Weidenbach, Jill Weidenbach, Mary Daw, Michelle Daw, Kent Brown, Susan Fahy, Bruce Brown.

POIGNANT... Tayler and Tia of the Moonta Area School choir sing near the children's graves in Moonta Cemetery. The students also threw rose petals on the 500 or so unmarked children's graves from the town's early days, when epidemics, poverty and poor living conditions took a heavy toll.

OLIVE HOSKING... Heather Hicks, 88, of Nuriootpa is the last surviving child of Olive and Charles Hosking. With Heather is her great-niece, Melanie Kemenyvary, of Wallaroo.

SIMON ROBERTS... Paying tribute to the Cornish migrant and miner are descendants George Woodfield, Bronwyn Matthews, Judith Quirk and Ashley Roberts. Simon's great-great-great-granddaughter Sienna Quirk works underground at Roxby Downs, harking back to the family's mining tradition.

MATES... Moonta Area School choir singers Josh, Cooper and James with Thomas.

GEORGE HICKS... Goldie, 3, one of the youngest descendants of George Hicks at the Moonta Dressing the Graves.

Lowender Parade and Moonta Stret Fer

PASTY QUEEN... Copper Coast Council mayor Roslyn Talbot won the pasty bake-off for the third consecutive festival, this time working with Grey MP Tom Venning.

DANCERS... Asha Wilson, Indi Gardner and Asta Secker enjoyed performing the Maypole Dance throughout the Kernewek Lowender.

ROYALTY... May Princess Bianca Hammond and May Queen Chloe Fuss give a royal wave to the crowd lining the street for the Lowender Parade.

TASTY PASTY... Rick Osborn, Melbourne, and cousin Roger Osborn, Moonta Bay, about to bite into original Cornish pasties, "The Proper Oggie", from Taste The Yorke, Moonta.

AHOY ME HEARTIES... As well as being first class copper miners, the Cornish were also well known for smuggling in the 18th and 19th centuries, as Tamra Stringer, Fiona Myers and Jenny Clow who dressed as pirates for the Lowender Parade will no doubt agree.

SPECTATORS... Jade Daniel with Lotti Keane, Ollie Daniel, Zac Daniel and Jed Keane were among the hundreds of people who lined George Street to watch the Lowender Parade.

ACCIDENT PRONE... Narungga MP Fraser Ellis was presented with a first aid kit for the pasty bake-off as he has a history of cutting his fingers during the competition!

HANDS ON... Grand Bard from Cornwall Jenefer Lowe gets her hands dirty during the pasty bake-off.

HISTORY... Chloe Wenman, Sohie Cuthbert and Evie Birkett, Wallaroo, take in the history of Moonta Mines, which was founded after copper was sighted at the entrance to a wombat burrow. This Queen Square display is a nod to that moment in history.

INCLEMENT WEATHER... Addison Bowman, teacher Olivia Blackwell, Maggie Daniel and Mara Daralieski from Harvest Christian College, Kadina, stay dry while they wait for the Lowender Parade to start.

Gathering of the Bards

BARDS... Grand Bard of the Gorsedh Kernow, Jenefer Lowe (middle) travelled from Cornwall to lead the Gathering of the Bards at Wallaroo Town Hall and wore the Grand Bard's crown and the Australian plastron (medallion), both made of copper. She is flanked by Bards of Cornwall and Cornish folk musicians, Hilary Coleman and Neil Davey, who also travelled from Cornwall for the festival. At left are Arthur Coates, of Melbourne, and Robynne Sanderson, of Broken Hill, who were installed as bards in Cornwall in 2024 and were welcomed at the Wallaroo ceremony. The event was sponsored by Kernewek Lowender patron Diana Hancock.

KEEPING WARM... Riley, Alexis, Arun and Ruby rugged up for the street party.

FOREBEARS... Sisters Jill Beard and Margaret Tresidder of Toukley, New South Wales have Cornish ancestors who migrated to Burra. The 2025 Kernewek Lowender was the seventh festival Jill has attended and Margaret's first.

MASTER CHEFS... Working the barbie at the Wallaroo Sailing Club Aussie Breakfast are Aaron Jenkins and Trevor Hilliard.

HELPERS... Wallaroo Sailing Club put on a cooked Aussie breakfast on Sunday, the final day of Kernewek Lowender. WSC members Sue Blott, Neville Hank and Margaret Pope helped run the event.

Blessing the Waters

Above: BACKDROP... Don Frazer, of Melbourne, and Shirley Rerdon, of Brisbane, were among the crowd of 80 people. The Wallaroo jetty and foreshore were a perfect backdrop for the event.

Left: LEADERS... Held at the Wallaroo foreshore on Sunday, Blessing the Waters remembered the hardships experienced by earlier generations, many of whom sailed from the other side of the world in the hope of building a new life in Wallaroo, Moonta and Kadina. Salvation Army Copper Coast Corp Officer Mark Foyle led the service, and Claire Scriven Walter led the Sing Australia Choir from Kadina, which sang during the ceremony.

Feast or Famine

INGENUITY... Port Broughton visitors Suzie Cameron, Glynn McKenzie and Angela Ball at the Feast or Famine Dinner held at the Kadina Uniting Church Hall on Wednesday evening. It demonstrated the ingenuity of Cornish migrants who often struggled to feed their families on the meagre incomes paid to miners.

FEAST OR FAMINE... John Trugove and Nancy De Lorenzo, of Dandenong North, who are members of the Cornish Association of Victoria.

TRADITIONAL FARE... Kadina Uniting Church volunteer Kath Loveridge serves up some traditional food of Cornish migrant families – kettle broth for the hard times, and scones with jam and cream and saffron cake for the better times.

BARDS... Neil Thomas, from the Cornish Association of Victoria, with Cornish Association of New South Wales president Joy Dunkerley and secretary Chris Dunkerley. All three are Bards of Cornwall.

Kadina AH&F Wedding Gowns Display

STAGED... Dianne Correll with her 1975 wedding gown. Dianne helped stage Kadina AH&F Society's wedding dress exhibition and was very pleased with the number of people who came to the exhibition.

INSPIRED... Claire Bettess, whose idea it was to hold a wedding dress exhibition, with some of the gowns she contributed to the exhibition.

LOCALS... Faye Russack and Helen Russack, of Kadina, enjoy looking around Kadina AH&F Society's wedding dress exhibition.

HAND-ME-DOWN... Lisa Slabskyj (nee Bailey) with her wedding dress from 2012. Also with this display was her mum, Laurene "Bub" Bailey's wedding gown from 1955 and a photo of Lisa wearing her mum's wedding gown altered for a deb ball in 1988.

ONSHOW... Elaine Zerna shows her dresses on display in the Kadina Showgrounds Exhibition Building.

VINTAGE... Lyn Herde and her 1965 wedding dress.
